Will Interview Mine Workers At Bancroft

Officers of the National Employment Service in Belleville are in Bancroft today interviewing Faraday Mines workers who will be laid off, when the mine closes down on June 30th.

Approximately 300 workers will be effected in the lay-off and employment officers will be discussing job opportunities which may be available.

"The prospects for Bancroft miners for employment are much brighter if they are prepared to move out of the area, but that is a matter for them to decide," Robert Cecil Hiuser, manager of the Belleville employment office.

With the exception of the Bancroft mines lay-off expected next month, the employment picture in the Hastings-Prince Edward has a continued brighter trend, according to Mr. Hiuser.

As of the end of April there were 1,547 persons — 1,346 male and 508 females — looking for jobs.

This compares with a total of 2,004 at the same time last year and is a reduction of approximately 1,307 received here.

The claim load at the Belleville office is down correspondingly with 1,567 receiving benefits as compared to 1,792 last year.

Jack Ireland New Chairman LODA Zone

Former president of the Lake Ontario Development Association a few years back, Jack Ireland of Belleville, has again been given an official post in the organization.

At last night's annual meeting of Zone 3 of the LODA held at Trenton, Mr. Ireland was named zone chairman.

Other officers elected include G. Hawley of Bath, first vice-president, and directors Mrs. Audrey Sexsmith of Bancroft and Mrs. Eleanor Cleary of Bloomfield. Mr. Hawley and Mrs. Sexsmith are both new appointees.

There was a good turnout of zone members at last night's meeting. The zone takes in the counties of Hastings, Prince Edward and Lennox and Addington. LODA general manager Don Kingdon, and his assistant John Lawson, of Peterborough also attended.

A representative of the department of planning and development talking on "Barnstorming" called for new ideas from zone members to bring new industry to the district.

Open Meeting On Planning Will Be Held

A rare chance to see Belleville through the eyes of a widely - travelled expert in cities will take place on Monday, May twelfth, when Michael Hugo-Brunt addresses an open meeting of the CPAC at the Quinte Hotel.

At present an assistant Professor in Town and Regional Planning at the University of Toronto, and the University's Planning Consultant, Mr. Hugo-Brunt was educated at Cape Town University, South Africa, where he took Masters degree in Civic Design at the University of Liverpool in England. From 1960 he was lecturer in Architecture at the University of Hong Kong, and on academic research sponsored by that University he travelled extensively in China, Siam, Malaya, Cambodia, Macao, and Japan. He was awarded the Fulbright Scholarship at Cornell University for the year 1956-57, and was a CMHC Senior Fellow at the University of Toronto in 1960.

During the war, Mr. Hugo-Brunt served in East Africa, Italy, Southern France, Palestine, and Italy. He was a Lieutenant with the Queens Own Cape Highlanders, and South African Tank Corps.

What his opinions of Belleville will undoubtedly be seen, but there should be plenty of time to put up an argument at the Thursday night meeting, as he chose he finds us wanting. Mr. Hugo-Brunt calls his talk 'Some Thoughts On Contemporary Planning Problems' and will illustrate it with slides.

The Community Planning Association is co-operating with the Horticultural Society in this meeting, which will include a Dessert and Coffee with invitations may still be obtained from Mrs. D. Dibben or from the City Recreation Department, though accommodation in the Pinnacle Room is definitely limited. There will be a silver collection.

Fourteen Hear Pastor Charge Vatican Plot

Fourteen people, including the janitor and the fireman on duty, turned out last night to a mass meeting called by Evangelist Harold Martin at BCI auditorium. Mr. Martin, president of "Christian Homes for Children Inc.", and an evangelical Baptist minister called the meeting to expose what he calls the Vatican conspiracy in Quebec. He claims the Separatist plot in Quebec is part of a Roman Catholic move to gain full control of the province.

A Quebec resident, Dr. Martin operates an orphanage, a summer camp and a church in Vaudreuil. He says that his is the only Protestant religious organization in the municipality, and that the Catholic municipal government is persecuting him.

He faces tax bills, he says, amounting to about $6000, even though his operation is legally exempt.

His visit to Belleville, Dr. Martin said, is part of a nation-wide tour during which he will attempt to alert Canadians to what he calls the Catholic menace.

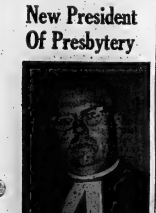
Credit Cards Lead FBI to Body of Boy, 8

HILLSVILLE, Va. (AP)—FBI agents, following a trail from Massachusetts to Georgia through an ex-convict's use of stolen credit cards, have found the body of a missing eight-year-old New Jersey boy — the third such discovery in little more than a month.

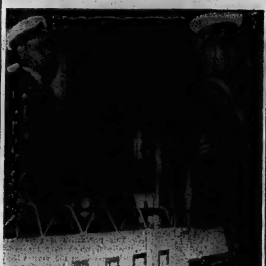
Use of a credit card at a nearby service station led the FBI Wednesday to the location in mountainous terrain of a body they identified as that of David Wolff missing since he left his home April 1 in Willingboro, N.J., to attend a school function.

While medical authorities checked for the cause of the boy's death, police sought to link 11 with Joseph Francis Bryan Jr., 25, of Audubon, N.J., already in custody in Sumter, S.C. on charges of kidnapping two other boys.



Bryan, one of the FBI's 10 most-wanted criminals when he was arrested last Tuesday in ... Orleans, has been charged with kidnapping 10-year-old John David Robison of Mount Pleasant, S.C., and eight-year-old Dennis Burke of Humboldt, Tenn.

FIND BODY



The body of young Robison, who disappeared from his home Feb. 27, was found March 31 in a shallow grave near Hallandale, Fla. The Burke boy had not been harmed when he was found with Bryan at the time of his arrest. Dennis had been missing from his home for four days.

St. Petersburg, Fla., authorities have sought to link Bryan also with the March 22 disappearance there of Lewis (Hackie) Wilson, 7. The child's body was found last Thursday in a Palmetto grove at Venice, Fla., near a spot the FBI has learned Bryan got stuck in the sand.

Local Minister New President Of Presbytery

The Belleville Presbytery of the United Church met at College Hill United Church last Tuesday when the Rev. M. G. McFarlane was elected to succeed the Rev. Maurice McLeod, minister of the United Church of Marmora as chairman of the Belleville Presbytery for 1964-65. Mr. McFarlane will assume his office following the meeting in the Bay of Quinte Conference. Minister of Tabernacle United Church, Mr. McFarlane has served here for the past four years.

Lt. Commander C. D. Holmes is shown presenting a marksmanship award to Blair Johnston at last night's inspection of the Quinte Sea Cadets here.

Awards Made At Inspection Of Sea Cadets

Following the ship's company inspection and march-past a marksmanship trophy was presented to Blair Johnston and Jim Skakeff. The presentation was made by Lt. Commander C. D. Holmes.

Following the march-past cadets were put through a precision drill under the direction of Sub- Lt. L. Meldrum. Members then viewed several displays such as the sheer legs display under the supervision of Donald Adamson, communications display under Lt. R. Davis and a rope work display under the guidance of Sub. Lt. J. Robertson.

It was announced that the cadets would begin their summer marches and that there are ten openings for new cadets.

Other awards presented at Wednesday night's meeting were the new entry cadet award presented to W. Salter, able cadet award presented to J. Poulton, leading cadet award to Tom Bond and petty officer award, 2nd class, presented to Earl Derbyshire. All presentations were made by inspecting officer, Lt. Commander C. D. Holmes.

Fishing Limit Extension Hit By McCutcheon

OTTAWA (CP)—Senator Wallace McCutcheon, former Conservative trade minister says the Liberal government's plan to extend Canada's fishing limit to 12 miles points "a loaded gun" at other fishing nations.

The Toronto Conservative was the only senator to vote against the measure when it received second reading — approval in principle—in the Senate Wednesday.

Senator McCutcheon unsuccessfully sought to refer the bill to the external affairs committee but this amendment was defeated 40 to 31.

Gas Must Not Be Carried in Glass Containers

Belleville's fire chief, George Vance issued a warning this morning to the effect that gasoline for power lawn mowers and outboard motors must not to be purchased or carried in glass jugs or bottles of any description. He said this act was against the law and that service station operators have been forbidden to sell gasoline in such containers to any person.

The reason for this is that if the jug or bottle was dropped and the person was smoking they would be hit with a flash fire as the fumes would ignite when they came in contact with a cigarette or spark.

The Chief said that this procedure is against the law under the Fire Marshals' Act and that if this law were enforced it would be very costly as the act states that gasoline may only be carried in a government approved can. "However," he said, "we are not enforcing this the only thing we are enforcing is that it cannot be carried in a glass container.

No damage was caused by a marsh fire that broke out on the 1st concession of Thurlow shortly after 9:00 p.m. last night. The department was recalled to the scene at 11:12 p.m.

A drop in the water pressure in a sprinkler system located in the Belleville Auto Electric building on Greer Street caused the alarm system there to trigger at 2:20 a.m. this morning.

Trenton firemen were called out twice between noon and ... once to 29 Bay St. where the safety valve had blown off a new hot water heater and one to a grass fire behind the Pyrotenax plant on West St.

Elmer Bonier, chairman for the April Trenton and District Canadian Cancer Society Drive said yesterday that the $4,000 mark had been passed in returns from other canvassers in town, in Frankford and Brighton and some industrial canvassers yet to be heard from.

Meanwhile, the district Salvation Army Red Shield drive has netted more than $3,000 during the first week of the campaign. Objective this year is $5,000 and campaign chairman is E. M. (Ted) Parker.

Davey Tree Workmen Lop Off Stately Trees in Town

TRENTON — Davey Tree workmen yesterday lopped the top limbs from THE TREE on Henry St., and today will cut down the old veteran. Henry St. residents, who Tuesday protested the cutting down of the tree, presumably a sapling, when Trenton became a village, stood by passively, if sadly, watching the limbs hit the ground. Town solicitor Roderick Campbell, having parted his car with its nose to the tree Tuesday night was summoned to back it away from the tree. Motorists and truckers, evidently anticipating a row, drove by the scene of action.

On Dufferin Ave., also denuded of many fine old trees, the last large maple was scheduled to be cut down today from the lawn of Trenton solicitor, Robert Smithrim. Mrs. Smithrim said yesterday the loss of the tree would decrease the value of their property by several thousands. Last year, Mr. Smithrim headed a delegation of Dufferin Ave. residents to council protesting the cutting down of the trees to widen the street. . . . however, council prevailed, and the trees have been removed, one by one.

Gilmour Hill, too, has been denuded. Although the town's intention of widening Dundas St. East at this point was advertised many residents in this area claim the chopping down of the trees took them unawares.

One prominent Trenton dentist was heard in say yesterday, "I've a good notion to move out of town . . . they are ruining the streets with their axes," and another town citizen is reported to have told a town official, "You came to town with an axe in your hand."

Legion President Resigns Post

Cadets Praised By Officers At Inspection

TRENTON — Commander H. G. Cheesman, Royal Canadian Navy Reserve, of Kingston, addressing the Trenton Sea Cadet Corps after the annual inspection of the corps, Tuesday night, told the cadets that they had put on an excellent performance and said the corps was in good shape all around this year. Lt. Gerald Perry is commanding officer of RCSCC "Trent" Sea Cadet Corps this year.

Honored guests at Tuesday night's inspection were Group Captain C. R. Thompson, Commanding Officer at No. 6 Repair Depot; Wing Commander J. G. Maitland, representing Air Commander R. J. Lane, Air Officer Commanding Air Transport Command and Group Captain E. M. Butcher, Commanding Officer at RCAF Station Trenton; Lt. and Mrs. H. W. Curtis and Miss Marjorie Gothard.

Lt. Para presented prizes to Petty Officer Second Class John Rowe and Petty Officer First Class Rick Croto. P.O. Croto accepted the award on behalf of the division, which was judged best in the inspection march past.

Petty Officer First Class Ernest Bent was given an award by Mayor James MacDonald as the best all-round cadet . . . the one who has made the most progress in the corps since last September and Mrs. Vera Milligan, president of the corps' ladies' auxiliary presented an award to Able Cadet Kenneth Warner as the cadet who achieved the highest mark in recent examinations.

Convict Took His Own Life Jury Is Told

KINGSTON (CP) — A coroner's jury was told Wednesday that a young convict who was found hanged by a bedsheet in his Kingston penitentiary cell April 26 feared that he was marked for execution by other prisoners.

Clark, who was serving three years for breaking, entering and theft, was found dead in a segregated cell where he had asked to be placed.

Douglas Chinnery, assistant deputy warden, said Clark asked to be placed in the cell because he felt he was going to be harmed by other prisoners.

He said Clark had been afflicted with drug trafficking before his imprisonment. Persons connected with him were arrested and Clark was suspected of being a stool pigeon.

The prison official told of receiving an anonymous note March 3 which said that John Clark was "being set up to be killed." The note coincided with Clark's request for segregation.

A letter confessing to an alleged murder in the Bracebridge area was found in Clark's cell, the jury was told. But provincial police at Bracebridge said they had no knowledge of any murder being committed in their area.

Right Decision, Wrong Method

The Federal Government has declined to extend beyond June 30 its one-year program of stockpiling uranium...

Reeve Michael J. McAlpine of Bancroft says "We are . . . . . a little bit mad, maybe more than a little bit mad."

We do not blame him for his attitude. It is understandable.

Few misfortunes have been more clearly forecast than that which has now overtaken Bancroft and Elliot Lake. At no time in the years which have intervened since the necessity of eventually closing the uranium mines became evident has any person been able to devise a scheme which would make the continued operation of the mines feasible. But governments, present and past, have shied away from forcing the peoples of these mining communities to face the hard truth. Not so much by what has been said as by what has been left unsaid, they have kept hope alive in these towns. So, when the inevitable becomes a fact, the people are "a little bit mad," they feel they "have been misled."

Alan Lowell, marketing chief of Rio Algom, one of the biggest uranium-mining firms, has the right outlook. The government, he said, would be crazy to go on stockpiling uranium, when it could have no assurance that a market for the ore would be available in the foreseeable future.

The heaviest sufferers will not be the men who were employed in these mines, many of whom will probably be able to get jobs in other mines, producing minerals for which there is a keen demand. The INCO development at Thompson in Manitoba, the new copper and zinc find near Sudbury, the Mattagami field in Quebec, the Labrador iron-mining development—all these and many more new projects will offer chances of employment to the real professionals in the field, the men who moved to Elliot Lake and to Bancroft when the uranium mines were first developed there. Some district residents who turned to mining will find it harder to puff up stakes.

The hardest blow, though, will fall on those who established or expanded businesses in the uranium-mining towns and now find their investment seriously jeopardized. Some of them, by ingenuity and hard work, may be able to avoid heavy loss. Many others will not. These people deserve our sympathy. But they are not entitled to expect the public purse to be opened for their salvation. Our economy system is not just a profit economy, but a profit and loss economy. The opportunity to profit carries with it the risk of loss.

The only legitimate complaint that these people have, and it is a proper and a serious one, is that the government refused to impress upon them, several years ago, that there were no reasonable grounds for hope that the mines could be kept open.

A Savings Plan First

Now that the proposed Canadian Pension Plan seems to be leaning so far in the general direction of the province of Quebec's recently announced scheme, a very important point should not be overlooked. That point, stated simply, is that the Quebec plan is a compulsory savings program first, and a pension plan second.

This sort of scheme may indeed serve the needs of Quebec. But whether a compulsory savings program on a national scale is in the best interests of the Canadian public as a whole is quite another matter.

The report of the Glasco Royal Commission casts grave doubt on the capacity of government in the role of business manager. Thus whether a government would extract the greatest possible use and advantage out of the vast pool of capital that a funded, Quebec-type pension plan would generate is open to some questions.

If the government does not make the best use of these funds, if it does not squeeze the maximum possible yield from their investment, then pension plan contributors, of course, must in the long run inevitably pay more than they need to for their pensions.

Good-nature is more agreeable in conversation than wit, and gives a certain air to the countenance which is more amiable than beauty. —John Addison.

Ottawa Offbeat
Will Cross-Canada French Radio Raise Any Outcries?

By RICHARD JACKSON
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Here are some notes off the Parliamentary reportorial cuff:

FRENCH UNLIMITED:

Probably you didn't notice it, because Federal Cabinet Ministers are making so many speeches that they can't all be covered in a scrutable way, but Secretary of State Lamontagne should, especially in the smaller places . . . but it is in the official Government blueprints that the CBC is going bilingual, coast to coast.

It will cost a little time, and probably cost more than a little money, but that is the plan.

State Secretary Maurice Lamontagne, the Cabinet Minister in charge of the bilingualism and biculturalism crusade, and the man through whom the CBC reports to Parliament, disclosed the plan for an all-Canada French language radio service when he spoke the other night in nearby Hull, Quebec.

Speaking in French, he re-called plans for the controversial conversion this fall of the Toronto CBC radio station, CJBC, to French, went on to say that an Ottawa station would be added to the French network, then said this is from his text—added:

"Station by station this network will be extended from coast to coast."

So far, there have been no questions, corrections or "criticisms" perhaps because few MPs have seen the speech.

UNTO DEBATE

One of several MPs - - and these include a handful of Liberals-is-very-against-bicultural-ism - - who will be certain to raise a howl when he hears of it, is Ralph Cowan, the Independently-minded member for York Humber.

He is the leader of a nobody-knows-how-large bloc of Liberal rebels which has joined spiritual forces with members of all four Opposition parties who contend that the Government already has more than far enough in what they term the impossible appeasement of Quebec's ever-increasing demands.

Ignoring pressure from the Government's House Leader, Ralph Cowan and Lloyd Francis, Liberal MP for Carleton, among others, have let their rebels against Quebec's mounting appeals for what is beginning to amount to discrimination in French across the other provinces, organized counter-moves to chat with neighbors or other friends while awaiting one's turn in the chair. Then the barber covers, and incessantly without missing a clip of the scissors or a stroke of the razor.

Barbers then, as indeed they now, were friendly fellows.

They knew what was going on in the community and were a good source of information. was of a gentle, tolerant and harmless sort.

In these more hectic times customers often just want to relax quietly, unbothered by an excess of gab. Most barbers are discreet chaps. They let the customer set the conversational pace. If he wants to chat, they chat; if he wants silence, they keep their mouths shut.

The other day, we saw the traditional barber shop situation reversed. One unfortunate barber drew a veritable chatterbox for customer. This fellow, in a voice loud enough to be heard down the row of chairs, talked . . . ntinuously. Airing his views on this, that and the other thing. We felt rather sorry for th. barber, who had no chance to say other than "yes," "no," or "maybe."

Now Barbers Often Silent

Windsor Star

What has happened to the traditional barber, who talked your ear off while cutting your hair, off or shaving your whiskers off? It now is possible to find barbers who will improve your appearance without worsening your disposition by idle chatter.

In days not long agone going for a shave or haircut was something of a social occasion. Men gathered together to chat with neighbors or other friends while awaiting one's turn in the chair. Then the barber covers, and incessantly without missing a clip of the scissors or a stroke of the razor.

Barbers then, as indeed they now, were friendly fellows.

They knew what was going on in the community and were a good source of information. was of a gentle, tolerant and harmless sort.

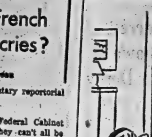
Innocent Man Held 4 Months

Port William Times-Journal

A Fort William man, charged with the possession of stolen property, was declared innocent in the district criminal court this morning.

Under our system of justice, a man is innocent until proven guilty. Yet here we have a citizen, who had no previous involvement with violations of the law, forced to spend four months in jail until such time as the machinery of justice was ready to find him guilty of the charge preferred.



During those four months, he lost his job and his car was repossessed.

This is not a case peculiar to the cities at the lakehead. Complaints of similar unfair incarceration have been heard elsewhere in Canada, and leading advocates of civil rights are concerned in finding a way to prevent further injustice of this nature.

Surely Ontario's attorney-general, for example can devise rules and regulations to protect innocent men who do not have the funds to secure bail and temporary freedom until their case is to be heard.

The Canadian National has been privileged to join with all the citizens of our country, including those who are serving in the armed forces, in the prosecution of the war. It believes that Canadians will be interested in this outline of some of the system's war activities.

Within an hour of the opening of hostilities the Canadian National began what has proved to be the largest and one of the most exacting war jobs in Canada. This job has continued day and night without stop for four and a half years.

From September 10, 1939, to March 31, 1944, the Canadian National carried more than 250 million passengers and 300 million tons of freight. Since the beginning of the war the Canadian National dining car department has served 13,631,387 meals.

The railway not only hauled away the completed munitions of war, but brought in the raw materials to make them. Without this two-way service, Canada's magnificent job of production could not have been accomplished.

Of the 100 million passengers carried, a high percentage consisted of members of the armed forces proceeding to camps for training and to shipboard for embarkation.

Steamships of the company, though reduced in numbers by sinkings through enemy action, have served gallantly in the war as auxiliary armed cruisers, hospital ships and transports.

82% of the personnel in company's service in 1939 have joined the armed forces. In addition, 7,000 campaigns Canadian National men and women have purchased bonds to the amount of $36,924,600.

To Your Good Health
Inoculation Preventive Aimed to Control Smallpox

By JOSEPH C. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: What is the law requiring that citizens be inoculated before they re-enter the country from trips abroad? Many oldsters may have suffered greatly from these "shots."

It doesn't make sense to me that people going to Germany, France, Germany, Austria, Switzerland, etc., must be inoculated. Such countries have the highest standards of hygiene and sanitation. Why not eliminate top countries from this law? — E. H.

This preventive is aimed at smallpox, which over the centuries has been the most widespread of all the deadly plagues.

The U. S. has been almost free of smallpox for a quarter of a century now, but let it be brought into this country and it have become ignorantly complacent. They think it's because they had a vaccination in grade school they are safe. We know better from the ravages of "takes" when we revaccinate older people.

Sanitation has nothing to do with this. The countries you name have had smallpox outbreaks, and recently, and we don't want it here if it can be prevented. This can be done by demanding proof of this accepted vaccination for everybody entering this country.

Having a vaccination may be a nuisance, may make a sore spot for a time, but people don't suffer greatly from it.

Dear Dr. Molner: What is the difference between a heart attack and heart failure? — Mrs. R. J.

In brief, a heart attack is sudden damage to the coronary vessels cause circulation to its muscle is interrupted. The attack may also be a sudden disorder of rhythm — excessively fast rate. Heart failure means that the organ has been damaged in any of several ways, and is not able to meet the full demands made upon it. The heart may, with proper care, keep on serving you for a long time, however. For fuller explanation, I think you would be interested in my booklet, "How To Take Care Of Your Heart." To receive it, send 25 cents in coin and an unstamped, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Molner in care of the Chicago Sun-Times Syndicate, P. O. Box 128, Dundee, Ill.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am a teacher in a school with a specialized ventilating system. We are not supposed to open windows.

Every day I become very much headached that by lunch I can hardly teach. The air does not seem very fresh, and I wonder if the oxygen supply is sufficient. Would a temperature drop to 68 be the ideal setting of 72 or 73 be better? — A. W. C.

The ventilation system may not be working fast enough to change the air adequately, and the heat may be causing the unusual amount of oxygen.

Changing the temperature wouldn't alter this condition. I suggest you mention suits most people. But it would be wise to have a ventilation engineer check the oxygen level in your classroom. I'm sure the students have been breathing stale air. The school system must have some consultant firm available to service such a building. Refer this to the principal or the maintenance man.

Dear Dr. Molner: If a patient in a mental institution sends some clothes home, telling you the state is giving out such items, and there should be a couple of pieces with individual names, what should the person who receives them do? Should I send them to the institution or forget about it? — A. C.

State mental institutions do not have money to spend on anything except caring for patients. They don't have resources to give clothes to patients to send home to relatives. Return the garments, or at the very least, notify the institution and ask if the clothes were sent officially or whether this is a quirk of the patient.

Are you bothered with ringing in the ears? If so, write to Dr. Molner for the booklet, "Ear Noises: Their Causes and Cures," enclosing with your request 15 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed unstamped envelope.

Strictly Personal
People Have An Appetite For Grief

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Purely Personal Prejudices: In the characteristic of human beings that the word "wholesome" is almost always used in the active sense, and rarely in the passive. We gradgingly accept the need to "put up with" others, while avoiding the unpleasant when we did not have to, save to put up with us, that we "are tolerated" as well.

We live in a world of a paper economy, and it takes a child to penetrate to the reality: when I told my 8-year-old boy that in the Depression almost all the people lost their money, he asked, "What they did that in a fight?" — and I had no rational explanation.

Having to endure the lamentations of a melancholy old woman recently (to whom, in fact, nothing really unpleasant had ever happened), I thought of Emerson's remark: "There are people who have an appetite for grief pleasure is not strong enough and they crave pain."

It is a common fallacy to believe that freely acknowledging our faults somehow makes them less unpleasant or injurious but acknowledges that does not lead to change is simply a way of flattering our ego and making us feel superior to those blind to their faults, without proposing upon us the obligation to act upon our knowledge.

Ancient Athens proved that Diogenes struck the father when he struck the son — but what kind of father did Diogenes have that taught him to strike?

The most worthwhile things can be taught, but not "measured," for yet the essence of victory in a spiritual contest (whether boxing, or love, or cards) undoubtedly is the proper sense of timing. Which is a reason why the most central quality, innate in some and a life-long mystery to others.

Why is success, of any sort, so admired by the multitude? Because, in the last analysis, and in judgment, success is the only absolute criterion they can apply, since it involves no thought, no examination, no discrimination. "You can't argue with success" is the inarticulate credo of those who wouldn't know how to.

One reason for duplicity in marital affairs was neatly pinned by Elizabeth Bibesco, when she observed: "The woman whose behavior indicates that she will make a good wife is told the truth asks to be deceived."

An intellectual is someone who would be proud of his "good sense" in avoiding a visit to a World's Fair, but is secretly and sadly unaware of his bad taste in boasting about it.

that linear tariff reductions may not provide an adequate balance of advantage."

This means that rather than offering exceptions to a 50-per-cent cut on Sept. 10, Canada will put up a package of offers —perhaps across - the - board cuts of tariffs on some groups of imports, or specific trimming on certain products.

In any event, its offer—as of then — will be based on certain assumptions that it will gain concessions in export markets. For example, if the Europeans do not offer to cut their agricultural tariffs — a vital point both for Canada and the U.S.—then Canada subsequently will reduce its own offers.

The Canadian package will be kept secret—only the final result of the bargaining will be made public. Only then will the Canadian manufacturers concerned learn how they have fared in domestic and export markets.

15 GRATIFIED

Trade Minister Sharp told reporters after Wednesday's close of formal talks that he was gratified that Canada's position was clearly recognized.

The position of countries with economies such as Canada's was noted in the ministerial round here a year ago. But this time Canada was named.

Listed separately in the category—but specifying the reliance on agricultural and other primary products for export earnings—were Australia, New Zealand and South Africa. It was not clear whether they, too, will be required to table their initial offers on Sept. 10.

Sharp said he expressed disappointment in the ministerial sessions Wednesday over the lack of progress during the agricultural issue. He said he told the meeting:

"For Canada, it is just as important to achieve an expansion of trade in agricultural products—for example wheat, of which we are a principal supplier—as it is for other countries to reduce barriers and improve their access to markets for industrial goods."

He said he hopes the remaining issues will be settled quickly because a delay could mean a loss of momentum in the negotiations.

Belleville Livestock

Trade was fairly steady on most classes of livestock on offer Tuesday. Heifers were steady and good cows sold steadily. Bulls were steady. Veal calves were lower. Fat hogs were firm, weaned pigs and shoats sold lower. Good springers sold readily on a fair demand. There is a strong demand for choice lambs.

Following are quotations:

Good heifers 18 to 20; medians 17 to 18; common 15 to 17.

Good cows 16 to 17; heifery cows as high as 18; mediums 14 to 16; common and cutters 11 to 14.

Good heavy bologna bulls 18½ to 19; mediums 17 to 18; commons 15 to 16.

Good stock calves 22 to 24. Choice veal 30 to 33; good 27 to 30; mediums 24 to 26; common 20 to 24; boners 15 to 19

Grade A hogs 18 to 19¼ on live weight basis.

Light sows 15 to 16; heavy sows 13 to 14.

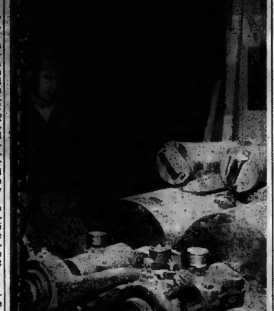
Shoats 22 to 25; weaned pigs $10 to $14 each.

Good springers $210 to $250 each.

Small type heifers $180 to $200 each.

Good work horses $75 to $150 each. Meat horses 7 to 8.

Cock Fighting Costly for Number of Men



BRANTFORD (CP) — Fines totalling almost $1,000 were assessed Wednesday against 18 men convicted of encouraging the baiting of cocks at a cock fight.

Each was fined $50 and $5 costs or 15 days in jail.

They were among 37 men from numerous Ontario and New York State points arrested April 25 as found-ins after a police raiding party closed in on the farm of Gordon Donald McMillan.

Police seized cock - fighting equipment and 31 game cocks, three of which were dead. The others later destroyed by court order.

Last week McMillan was fined $500 after he pleaded guilty to maintaining a cock pit on his farm. Sixteen found-ins were convicted the same day and fined $35 each or 15 days in jail.

FEEDING STEPS for a pre-fabricated stairway into a sanding machine, Bob Peake of Bob Peake Wood Products, works on his own shop. A single order may include stairways for a dozen houses or more, but each house must be measured individually, Peake says.

Industrial Circuit

By ANDY TURNBULL

BOB PEAKE WOOD PRODUCTS

Perhaps the only Belleville manufacturing industry directly dependent on local construction, Bob Peake Wood Products is working at full capacity now that the fall capacity of the firm is hard pressed to keep up with orders. Bob Peake's machine is moulded counter tops and he would normally have about 200 tenfoot sections in stock at this time of year. He has about twenty now.

The counter tops are made of wood-composition board with a wood moulding along the front, all covered with moulded formica or arborite. Bob Peake makes them in ten-foot lengths for stock and measures and cuts individual counter tops to fit individual homes. Most of the newer subdivisions use them and many of the new apartments. Reason for the shortage now is a construction boom in Belleville and re-modelling of about 175 houses in Midland Park, near Trenton. Midland Park alone is taking about 200 feet of counter tops a month.

The firm is the only one between Toronto and Montreal. Peake says producing moulded counter tops here is a great deal with electric heating equipment, forms the formica top. A milling machine makes the moulding for the front, and a pneumatic press puts the wood-board, and ed formica together. Production is about one ten-foot section per hour. Some of the counters are sold in Trenton and Kingston, but most production is for Belleville. This is not interested, he says, in out-of-town sales.

Other products at Bob Peake's shop are tied directly to the building trades. The firm makes stairs for several local builders, doors and formica-faced kitchen cupboards and drawers. All the work is custom, Peake insists, even though a single order may cover stairs, doors, cupboards and counter tops for a dozen different houses. All houses are different, he says, and each must be measured individually. He usually makes his own measurements.

Peake was working with The Tatham Co. until 1957, when he decided to go out on his own. He had most of the machinery required for a commercial milling shop, and he wanted to be his own boss. He took over an old barn on Sidney St., and went to work.

The commercial millwork for big buildings was a good business, but capital requirements —made it a tight squeeze. Peake soon discovered that prefabricating wood components for housing projects is a more practical business for the small operator.

By 1959, he needed, and built, an extension to the original barn and in 1960 he built a lumber storage shed. Last fall he completed a drying kiln, one of very few in the area.

The idea for the counter tops came from a U.S. trade magazine, and Peake guessed the trend. He sent away for plans, built the equipment he needed, and went into production.

The counter tops are selling well now, in the immediate area, and Peake is willing to settle for the market he has. Too many woodworking firms, he points out, do well as long as they stay small, but collapse when they begin to expand. With three employees besides himself, and his wife to keep the books, he figures his shop is just about the right size.

McFARLANE-GENDRON

A new line of pool tables will be coming from McFarlane-Gendron in July, aimed at U.S. and Canadian markets. Most noticeable feature of the new tables is that a woodgrained vinyl surface is bonded to the hardwood, rather than stain. The vinyl surface looks better and is longer wearing than the stain. Another feature of the new tables is the rims, which will be surfaced with bonded formica. Local firms may be given sub-contracts for the formica-surfaced rims. Until July, the plant is producing wooden nursery furniture.

DONTAR - CANADA CREOSOTING

Canada Creosoting's Trenton plant is about one-quarter finished now on an order for one-and-a-half million feet of guard rail for the Department of Highways. A lot of the rails will be used on the 12-mile section of Highway 401, in Toronto.

INDUSTRIAL ACCIDENT PREVENTION ASSOCIATION

Belleville Trenton section of the I.A.P.A. is holding its annual meeting, May 12, at the Quinte Hotel in Trenton. The meeting will be after a dinner at 6:30 p.m., but a tour of Number Six Repair Depot is planned for the afternoon. The tour starts off from CNR social centre at 1.00 p.m. and goes through all the steps of the depot.

Speaker at the meeting will be Ko A. Hopkins, of the Aluminum Co. of Canada Ltd., at Kingston. He will be speaking on "The Acme of Safety."

The Association's nominating committee will present a slate of officers, during the meeting, for the section for the coming year.

GUARD RAILS for the Department of Highways come out of the retort after treatment by Canada Creosoting Ltd., in Trenton. The firm is producing about one-and-a-half million feet of the treated wood products for the department this year.

Mr. K. to Get Plush Welcome From Nasser

CAIRO (AP) — Premier Khrushchev will get the plushiest welcome on his forthcoming state visit to Egypt that President Gamal Abdel Nasser ever extended to a foreign visitor.

The hope is that Khrushchev's gratitude will amount to roughly $130,000,000 in new assistance.

Egypt has received more Soviet aid than any other neutralist state. It consequently is hardly any accident that Khrushchev selected Egypt as the first country on the African continent to visit. The timing is equally no accident—the occasion is the first big step completed in the Aswan dam, Russia's showpiece aid project.

On May 15 the ancient Nile will start flowing into the new mile - long bypass channel blasted out of solid rock.

Nasser and Khrushchev, who is due to reach Alexandria by ship Saturday, will be on hand to set off ceremonial dynamite charges. A few days later they will take an open limousine across the rockfill foundation of the actual dam, already almost spanning the great river.

Khrushchev will get the full tourist treatment, with extras.

Nasser is getting ready next year to embark on a new five-year plan and he already is strapped for cash. He needs $1,000,000,000 in outside help an hopes the Russians will start the ball rolling with a big offer while Khrushchev is here.

tify at hearings such as the royal commission "if it is in the public interest."

Mr. Cardin replied that the defence department "had looked at that particular regulation."

"We have made up our mind and I think this is the best thing that could be done under the circumstances," he said.

The Commons also gave first reading to a bill amending the Estate Tax Act after debating its main points during the resolution stage.

Howard Graffitey (PC—Brome-Missisquoi) and H. W. Herridge (NDP — Kootenay West) raised problems faced by individuals who had to sell their businesses in order to pay estate taxes.

E. J. Benson, parliamentary secretary to finance Minister Gordon, said the finance department had few concrete examples of this.

REALIZES PROBLEM

But it realizes the problem created by families having to pay death duties when ready cash is not available. Officials are seeking ways to soften the blow, he said.

Mr. Benson said he favored consultation with the provinces —which receive 75-per-cent of the money—to work out an instalment system of payment.

Marcel Lambert (PC—Edmonton West) said the contribution made by a wife towards building up her husband's estate also should be taken into account.

Mr. Benson replied that the government does recognize this but feels it would be unfair to take action without first consulting the provinces.

Guy Marcoux (SC—Quebec-Montmorency) said the act is "a mass of incomprehensible measures and jargon." Families had to hire experts to settle an estate.

MUST BE WAY

P. B. Rynard (PC—Simcoe East) said there must be some way in which the act can be written so it can be understood by the ordinary person. His profession — medical — had often been accused of using complicated jargon, but it was nothing compared with the Estate Tax Act.

Both Fr. Rynard and John Addison (Le-York North) urged that a standard act be established to cover all provinces. Mr Rynard said more and more people are moving from one province to another and the present variety of acts adds additional complications.

Mr. Benson said the present law has been lauded for its simplicity in comparison with its predecessor.

The amendments under consideration increase to 75 per cent from 50 the share of death duties that go to the provinces. It also increases to $2,500 from $1 500 the amount of certain property—including joint bank accounts—that can be paid out of an estate without the consent of the revenue department.

Amendments to the customs tariff also were debated during the resolution stage and then given second and third readings.

W. A. of Church Installs Incoming Officers

On Wednesday morning the Women's Auxiliary of the Anglican Church of Canada, Diocese of Ontario, attended an early service of Holy Communion at St. Thomas' Church.

Coffee and toast were served afterwards at the Parish Hall.

The morning session opened with prayer by Miss Winifred Burns. The pianist for the services was Mrs. J. A. Dunlop from St. Margaret's-on-the-Hill.

A discussion of the allocation of funds occupied most of the morning session with the following noted on: Extra-Cent-a-Day fund to the Diocese of Keewatin; White Dog for pews; Diocese of Ou'Appelle; sailcoach rectory, to replace furnace and church furnishings.

Life members' fees to the General Purpose Fund and Camp Hyanto.

Life members' offerings to be divided between the Diocese of Saskatoon and the Diocese of Yukon.

Thankofering to Nairobi Bursaries: Diocese of Brandon; Shoal River Indian Reserve; Diocese of Moosonee; Waswanipi Mission.

Educational funds to General Purpose and Camp Hyanto.

REPORTS GIVEN

Mrs. W. J. Sutcliffe of Kingston, recording secretary, reported that the total membership was 4,079 in the Diocese which included, Seniors, Girls, Juniors, Little Helpers and Links.

Corresponding secretary Mrs. G. A. Platt in her report said that over 100 letters of business, thanks, greetings, congratulations and condolences had been sent out.

Treasurer Mrs. Findlater reported that the 1963 pledge was overpaid, which was a cause for rejoicing, and an inspiration for greater accomplishments next year. Receipts amounted to $17,608.02 for the year and payments to $17,622.89 — an excess of $14.87 of payments over receipts. Cash in bank, $1,34.64; Government bond $1,925, a total of $3,-940.64.

The annual report of Dorcas department presented by Mrs. R. H. Godder, showed that a real Christian concern had been shown by the workers. Many gifts, supplies and requests were looked after, and a year of activity was reported.

Mrs. J. E. Uttley gave the Social Service report from 48 branches of the Diocese. The purpose of this department is "to let Christ's constraining love work out in our own lives as love and concern for others and their well being," and this was exemplified in a long list of services given wherever there was need.

Mrs. Jack Wood, educational secretary, said that 28 branches had bought study books and ten branches used missionary capsules.

Reports were brought to the meetings by Mrs. J. E. Harrison, Grenville Deanery; Mrs. J. Day, Frontenac Deanery; Mrs. F. S. Neilson, Lennox and Addington Deanery; Mrs. A. E. Pepper, Leeds Deanery; Mrs. G. Noble, Hastings Deanery; Mrs. C. Rutter, Prince Edward Deanery.

Excellent reports were given at both the morning and afternoon sessions by Mrs. T. H. Parker, Living Message editor; Extra-Cent-a-Day secretary-treasurer, Mrs. J. V. Monaghan; Junior Auxiliary secretary-treasurer, Mrs. G. Cherry, and Pakistan embroideries, Mrs. A. O'Keefe.

AFTERNOON SESSION

The afternoon session with Mrs. W. F. H. Mitchell presiding was opened with prayer by Mrs. H. C. Secker. It was decided to give the offering to the designated funds. It was explained that when appeals come out other Diocesan annual meetings vote on the same appeals and sometimes some funds are neglected, so the Dominion treasurer, knowing where the need is greatest, can spend the funds where they are needed.

Noon day prayers and meditation presented by Mrs. Platt and were conducted by Rev. R. H. Fleming of Christ Church.

Mrs. C. Furze reporting for Mrs. V. J. MacPherson on the Girls' Auxiliary Links stated that 39 girls were in the making list. These are girls of 11 years and up who live in remote areas of the Diocese. Mrs. Furzen has been appointed Dominion Link secretary.

Reports were given from the Little Helpers by Mrs. A. C. McClinton; Life Members by Miss Margaret Curry; Living Message by Mrs. W. A. Butler; Girls' Auxiliary by Miss Margaret Poole.

Mrs. E. Rahmer of Athens brought a resolution of thanks to all who had contributed to the success of the annual meeting. St. George's Cathedral, Kingston issued an invitation for the annual meeting next year.

CAROL ANN MUNCASTER WILLIAM (BILL) ANDREWS

Young Artists Will Perform At R.M.T. Vocal Recital

A vocal recital, arranged by the Belleville Branch of Registered Music Teachers, will be presented at Albert College, Monday, May 11. The co-operation of Mr. T. Franklin, Principal, and of the faculty of Albert College in helping the local branch arrange this recital is much appreciated by all members.

Two promising young artists will contribute their talents to provide a rich and rewarding evening's entertainment for music lovers in the Belleville area.

William (Bill) Andrews, baritone and pianist, was born at Bonarlaw and is a graduate of Marmora High School. From an early age he was a piano student in the studio of Mrs. Kathleen Rennie. A bursary from the Royal Conservatory of Music of Toronto stimulated his musical interest and gave him a summer session of piano with Pierre Souvairan, and of organ with Dr. Charles Peaker. He returned to Belleville for a year during which time he worked as a junior clerk in the now Imperial Bank of Commerce. Sixteen piano students and his own musical studies with Mrs. Rennie and the late Egerton Boyce occupied after office hours. At the conclusion of the academic year in Belleville, Mr. Andrews returned to Toronto where he completed the "Requirements for the A.R.C.T. piano diploma in the studio of Gordon Hallett. He began studies with John McKnight; and at the present time he is working with Dr. Ernesto Vinci. Mr. Andrews will take the A.R.C.T. diploma examination in voice at the end of May in Toronto.

Carol Ann Muncaster, mezzo-soprano, was born in Ottawa but spent her childhood in Sudbury where she received her academic and early musical training. She began vocal studies at the age of twelve and after a summer session at Banff School of Fine Arts she is working in Dr. Vinci's studio, Royal Conservatory of Music, Toronto. During the past season she has sung in two Gilbert and Sullivan opera productions under Parsons and Poole, and Lloyd Bradshaw. This summer Miss Muncaster will tour the British Isles with Lloyd Bradshaw's St George's Choir.

Miss M. McCurdy, soprano, pianist and vocal coach, is the accompaniment for these brilliant young artists when they perform next Monday evening. Miss McCurdy was born in Fredericton, New Brunswick, where she studied with a Leipzig trained teacher. She graduated from Halifax Ladies' College with a Licentiate Diploma in both piano and voice. After a varied career in concert work she is, at present, one of Dr. Vinci's official accompanists and vocal coaches at the Royal Conservatory of Music of Toronto.

All music lovers in Belleville are invited to attend this recital; youthful and Canadian talent deserves recognition and support. There will be a silver collection to help meet expenses.

Victorian Order of Nurses Hold Annual Spring Tea

In the traditional blue and white colors of the Victorian Order of Nurses, the Sunday School auditorium of Bridge Street United Church assumed with a gala appearance yesterday afternoon for their annual spring tea.

The event was charmingly convened by Mrs. R. A. Smith, assisted by co-convener Miss Olive Rose.

Warmly greeting the guests on such a beautiful spring day of the VON Board of Directors were Mrs. J. Nelles, president and Miss Dorothy Connor head nurse of the VON.

The hostesses in the tea room which was appropriately decorated with blue and white blooms in keeping with the color decor were: Mrs. John Lennox, Mrs. Doug Burr, Mrs. W. Fox and Mrs. R. O. Stewart. Here, the twin tea tables were graced with artistic arrangements of white and blue tinted mums on white linen cloths and flanked with royal blue candles in tri-branch silver candelabras. Silver tea services and pretty adorned serviettes added to the attractive settings.

POURING TEA

Pouring tea throughout the day were: Mrs. F. - Folwell, Mrs. A. E. Miles, Miss D. Smith, Mrs. A. Scott, Mrs. T. K. Franklin, Mrs. Ray Grant, MIrs. H. M. Davis, and Mrs. C. B. Morgan. Tasty refreshments were served and replenished by other members of the organization as well as tending to many necessary kitchen duties.

The sextette guest tables placed at pleasing intervals throughout the hall were covered with either a white or deep blue cloth, each centred with an eye-catching arrangement of forsythia sprays and apple blossom. Literature of the VON was displayed at two corners of each and dealt with the many services of this fine organization which covers Belleville, a three-mile radius of the city, and Point Anne and these services include care in medical, surgical, chronically ill and to the aged as well as care or instruction in the prenatal, postnatal and newborn.

SALES TABLES

Three sales tables with conveners coming from every church denomination in the city were located in the addition, each decorated with blue and yellow streamers and centred with bouquets of forsythia. A candy table in charge of St. Michael's C.W.I. and convened by Mrs. T. R. Rashotte had a generous supply of maple cream, chocolate fudge and other sweets. The white elephant table in charge of the Sons of Jacob Ladies' Auxiliary and convened by Mrs. I. Shulman offered numerous fancy and lactous items. The homebaking with a bountiful supply of delicacies donated by the various churches was convened by Mrs. T. M. Smith representing St. Thomas' Anglican Church.

A nursery for the little tots, while the mothers enjoyed a refreshing cup of tea was provided with Miss M. Townsend in charge.

Church Groups

FOXBORO Y.P.U.

The regular meeting of the Foxboro Circuit Young People's Union took the form of a surprise party at the new home of Mr. and Mrs. Rasburn Reed, members who were recently married.

After welcoming the guests, Rasburn led the group in sing-song.

President Ray Stephens conducted the routine business. An executive meeting was called for Tuesday night to finalize plans for the pie social and variety night to be held at Foxboro in May. Each member present was given tickets to sell in advance, but admission may also be paid at the door. Other details of program, practice sessions and advertising were discussed.

Proceeds from the Stirling dance were announced and it was felt the evening had been quite successful.

A Bible had been purchased and dedicated to the memory of the late Roscoe Robeson.

Murney Bradshaw was elected captain of the Y.P.U. softball team and Jim Johnson his assistant. Plans for the coming softball season will be completed at the next meeting, to be held at Halloway United Church, May 19.

Mr. Lee Grills has consented to speak to the Young People. This will be the last regular meeting of the season and a good attendance is anticipated.

Ann Landers

Serious Injustice Can Only Be Righted by Confession

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I am writing about a serious injustice. Our 16-year-old daughter is the guilty party.

Monica did not eat a bite of her supper tonight. She was nervous and uncommunicative. I went to her room as she was preparing for bed and I asked what was wrong. She broke down and tearfully confessed that she had started an ugly rumor about a girl in her class.

ANN LANDERS

The girl had been absent from school for two weeks. When she returned, Monica spread the word that the girl had had an abortion. The girl had actually gone west for her aunt's funeral. When the rumor got back to the girl she became so upset she had to leave school during lunch hour.

Monica did not know why she started the ugly story. She would give anything to square matters. Will you please tell me what should be done? — CRISIS.

DEAR CRISIS — Your daughter should go to the girl and to her parents, admit that she started the rumor and beg their forgiveness. Monica should then go to each of the people to whom she told the story, and confess that she lied. Make it clear there is no other way for her to "square matters."

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I am a boy 22. When I joined the Navy right out of high school I left a lovely, understanding girl. Ellie was a good-looking, shapely chick and she looked great in a bathing suit. She promised to wait for me and she kept her word.

I got home last week — and there she was — all 200 pounds of her. Ellie had hinted in her letters that she had gained a little weight — but "over-eating because of loneliness" was the way she put it. My mother kept writing that Ellie was getting awfully fat but mom always exaggerates so I didn't pay much attention to it.

Now I feel guilty because Ellie is herself out of shape on account of me. I like her a lot, Ann — I may even love her — but fat women are repulsive to me. Would I be a dirty dog if I told her to get back in shape and call me up when she's a size 12 again? — COLOR ME COOL.

DEAR COOL — If you drop this girl flat she may go to 300.

Level with Ellie. Tell her precisely how you feel about fat females. Suggest that she see her doctor and get back in shape — or else. If she fails to respond to your ultimatum, you can be sure that Ellie is a compulsive eater — destined to be broad where a broad shouldn't be broad. No man should marry a woman who is "repulsive to him."

DEAR ANN LANDERS — Please say a word in behalf of the "Forgotten Woman" — the stenographer who is too old for hiring and too young for social security. Is the gas pipe the only answer. .

I am 36, fairly attractive, neat and have had 12 years of experience as a typist, file clerk and general Girl Friday. I quit work two years ago because I thought I wanted to stay home and be a housewife.

Well, I am fed up with bridge, the girls and the garden club. I want to go back to work but it seems no jobs are available for a woman my age.

There are movements afoot to hire the handicapped and retired folks who are in the golden years. What about a word to employees to give the "thirty-sixers" a break? — TULSA TILLIE.

DEAR TILLIE — I don't believe your age is against you. Many employers prefer a 36'er to a 21'er because they want maturity and experience.

Ask the personnel director of a placement agency for an honest evaluation. There's a reason you can't get employment and it has nothing to do with your age.

Three Tested Economical Quick Breads

by Mary Moore

Eleanor tasted some good date and nut loaves and banana bread made by her neighbor friend. She recommended them as highly to me that I asked her to get the recipes. Her friend was willing but does not want her name mentioned here so I will call her M. H.

All are economical and very easy, but extra good.

1¼ cups well packed, chopped, stoned dates, 1 teaspoon soda, 1 cup boiling water, 1 cup chopped nuts, ½ cup white sugar, ½ cup brown sugar, 1 tablespoon butter, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1¼ cups sifted flour.

Sprinkle soda over dates, nuts, sugars, butter and salt. Pour over boiling water, stir well and let cool. Add sifted flour and blend. Line a small loaf pan with buttered wax paper. Turn in batter, smooth top and bake at 300 deg. Fahr. for 1 hour. Turn out on rack, peel off paper and let cool.

1 cup chopped stoned dates, ¾ cup boiling water, ½ teaspoon baking soda, 2 tablespoons soft butter, 2-3 cup white sugar, 1 egg, 1½ cups sifted flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, ¾ cup walnuts, chopped.

Soak the chopped dates in mixing bowl with the soda, in the boiling water. Let cool. Add butter, sugar, egg. Beat. Sift together flour, baking powder and salt and stir in. Stir in nuts. Line a small loaf pan with buttered wax paper, turn in batter. Bake at 325 deg. Fahr. for 1 hour. Turn out on rack, peel off paper, and let cool.

M.H.'S BANANA BREAD:

2 mashed ripe, medium bananas, ½ cup butter, 1 cup white sugar, 2 eggs, 2 cups sifted flour, 1 teaspoon baking soda, ¼ teaspoon salt, ½ cup chopped walnuts.

Cream butter, sugar and eggs well. Mash ripe bananas and beat in. Sift together flour, soda and salt and beat in. Stir in nuts. Line a standard loaf pan with buttered wax paper, turn in batter. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for about 1 hour, or until when tested at centre with fingertip, there is no depression left. Turn out on rack, peel off paper and let cool.

Eleanor recommends the No. 1 loaf highly, and adds that all are at their best when 24 hours old.

'Lines on Life'

By Dr. Stuart E. Rosenberg

A man's world, say the women, but only naive men believe them.

The supremacy of women, in our society, in case you have not yet noticed, can be proved not only from the statistics of real estate ownership or bank deposits. All one has to do is pick through the pages of any popular magazine and note to whom the advertisers are speaking. To the women, not the men — the women, who are the real decision-and-taste makers in North America! Even, or especially, when the sellers hope to attract male buyers of their products, their advertisements are addressed to their wives.

Educators and clergy testify that women, in effect, run the schools and the churches. Newspaper editors, movie-makers, and TV producers, may even let you in on their trade secret: the women's taste determines their success.

FEMININE POWER

And house-builders will surely agree to the power of the feminine voice. Sold one observer: "Traditionally, women had ruled the home, but only in America did they design it, build it, furnish it, direct its activities, and fix its standards."

Now, lest it be misunderstood, let it be plainly recorded that we are all for women's full emergence of the female of the human species as an equal partner in marriage and the family, and as a constructive participant in the building of modern society, is surely a welcome result of the democratic way of life.

WAGGING TAI L

One caution, however, must be sounded: in order for women to be equal, do they have to be made "men equal"? Or to put the matter bluntly: What's happened to the vanishing American male?

His wife reads the books he gladly pays for. She counsels the children he hardly has time for. The mother decides, for although the father may vote, he rarely goes to the family polls. When, rarely, he does, the election results were long before decided. The male of the household has been disenfranchised because he has abdicated his rights. He's hardly the head of the family; he's more like a tail wagging.

Man's economic functions, in our society, seem to have disqualified him from performing any other major role. His face is turned tightly toward his office, his job, his career, his business. Somebody had to move into his empty place at home, to grab the reins left dangling, by the disappearing American male. Fortunately, the women were still around.

MAN'S WORLD

Perhaps it will once again be what women say it is — a "man's world." But only if men go home again — to the real world, where human decisions, not only economic or social ones are made.

Yes, home again, if men are to come back to the world they seemed to have lost.

WORN ANYTIME

MONTREAL (CP)—More and more Canadians are wearing dark glasses these days, says an official of a U.S. glasses manufacturing company. The sunglasses craze hit the U.S. last year and indications are that Canadians both men and women—are taking to wearing them "at all hours of the day and all times of the year."

Bowlers End Season With Dinner, Dance

The Oddfellow and Rebekah mixed bowling league ended the year with an annual banquet and dance held in the I.O.O.F. hall, Front Street. The banquet was catered to by the C.P. and T. committee, a branch of the ladies'.

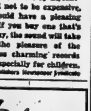
The president of the league, Mr. Carl Boyle was chairman for the evening. He presented the executive for the year with corsages for their help.

After the banquet the trophies were presented. Mr. Boyle called on the executive: Mr. Lloyd Wilson, vice-president; Mrs. Irene McMartin, secretary; Mrs. Gladys Bonsor, treasurer, to present these.

The ladies' high average was awarded to Gladys Bonsor, 187; ladies' high triple, Mary Jordon 716; ladies' high single, Millie Plumber 283; men's high average, Mr. H. R. (Bud) McMain 211; men's high triple, Mr. Ken Robinson 756; men's high single, Duane Reid 333.

Carl Boyle presented the "Most Improved Bowler Award" with the "Oddfellow and Rebekah" trophy for which the captain of the team Mr. Ken Robinson thanked the league on behalf of his team who were Elsie Sopha, Ron Bonsor, Pearl Wilson, Ernie Nelson, Irene McMartin.

Mr. Boyle called on the two Noble Grands of the order Mrs. Clara Ironside of Rebekah No. 81, Lyle Maier of I.O.O.F. 81 who called on the new executive for 64-65: president, Mr. Lloyd Wilson; vice-president, Norris Easton; secretary, Gloss White; treasurer, Eileen Allin. Mr. Wilson spoke briefly on the next year's bowling.



The door prize was won by Mr. Gordon Gregory.

Dancing was enjoyed to the music of Norris Cunningham's orchestra. Spot dances were won by Mr. and Mrs. Norman Wessells, Mr. and Mrs. Art Jordon, Mr. and Mrs. Rick Lamplan, Mrs. Ruth Eastman and Mr. Duane Reid, Mrs. Irene McMartin, Mr. Garnet Latchford, Mrs. Audentia Boyle and Mr. Jim Sopha.

JOB IS FASCINATING

VANCOUVER (CP) — Dorothy McCormick, who finds her job as credit manager a fine, which did a $2,500,000 business last year fascinating, has been elected to the executive of the Vancouver Canadian Credit Institute.

Speaking Personally

By Gladys Ward

MAYDAY

Older women will remember with a sense of relief the ordeal of spring housecleaning. This was a time when strong men quaked and took to the hills if they were forewarned. But women with their infinite wiles would spring the bad news with some innocuous remark like, "It's such a nice day, I think it would be a good time to housclean the parlor."

Too late to protest the man of the house was put to work carrying out all the furniture. Then with a pronged metal affair carpet tacks (now there is a word that has been lost with the years) had to be pried out all around the carpet. The carpet was lugged outdoors and hung on the clothline, and the young fry were given wire carpet beaters to administer a good beating. They whacked away at it, (this was the fun part) raising clouds of dust, and leaving an imprint of the beater with each stroke.

Meantime in the parlor the floor was sprinkled with something called Dustbane, a sort of oiled sawdust colored green, that was supposed to lay the dust. This was swept up, and a thick layer of newspapers was put on the bare floor, preparatory to bringing in the carpet. This of course was before the days of underpads, broadloom or wall to wall carpeting. It was wall to wall all right but it was anchored with tacks. The newspapers under the rug were supposed to discourage moths — this was also before the days of DDT.

Lace curtains were taken down and washed by hand, then put on stretchers to dry. Curtain stretchers were wooden frames usually stored up in the attic because they took up quite a bit of space when they were set up. All along the sides of the frame were needle spikes on which the edges of the curtain were impaled. These were a trap for unwary fingers and many a vicious jab those needles took if a person was careless. I don't recall what happened to the overdrapes, but I don't think much was was made of dry cleaning in those days. They were probably hung out on the clothesline on a windy day to blow the dust out of them.

The most tedious job was cleaning the study where walls, books had to be taken outdoors, each book slapped shut several times, dusted and returned to clean shelves.

Few people owned vacuum cleaners, so upholstered furniture was given a good brushing, which stirred up the dust but didn't remove much of it, as it all settled back into comfort.

Thinking about it, I was moved to put into able indifference as soon as the flurry passed, a little verse the thoughts of the women of yesterday's generations:

But finally at close of day
When I this cleanliness survey
I have a hope, I must confess
That I am close to godliness.

Sunday School teacher who was telling the story of creation:

Who did God make to live with Adam?
Small girl raises her hand.
Teacher: Yes?
Small girl: Little Joe.
To the uninitiated: See Bonanza on TV.

CROWNING GLORY?

By now, most women admit that teased, built-up hair styles are as chintzy as seamed hose. The big problem is finding a new becoming substitute. Because towering high - topped styles were achieved through teasing and tons of hair spray, a neat appearance resulted. Now it is apparent that the new uncased shorter styles are harder to control. The average woman admits to feeling almost undressed without the bouffant look above the shoulders.

The solution is a "first-aid" appointment at a reputable hair styling salon. Because teasing was an integral part of the old look, it has left many heads with tresses that are wispy and limp (Did anyone ever have the courage to watch how much hair was lost when teasing was brushed out of a bouffant hair style?) There are treatments and reconditioners which, in a matter of a few short weeks, can work miracles. But the hair should not be teased during the course of treatments — in fact, it should not be teased at all!

For fine baby hair that goes limp without some sort of help, a new permanent wave is recommended. It has been specially designed to give "volume" to the hair. The curling rods are larger. They should be placed so that the hair seems to spring at right angles from the scalp. If arranged successfully, this will give the hair the same appearance it had after it was teased, but with none of the unpleasant results.

NEW HAIR SPRAYS

There are many new hair sprays on the market, all of them using protein as a builder. When these are used along with the heavier protein wave - set lotion, the hair cannot help but appear to be thicker and heavier than it really is.

Hairdressers tell me that women over the age of 30 have trouble using rollers because they were not part of their teenage beauty routine. I had a not really thought of this, but they must be correct. In my day, we were all concerned with pin curls. These same hair stylists tell me that women over 30 put up significant resistance when it comes to the latest, small untensed look. One advanced the theory that the woman who has lost her youthful silkiness is concerned about the general proportions of her silhouette. The small-headed look is not in keeping with a thickened waistline, but those same women can look dated if they retain a hair style which is out of fashion. He advises them to look for modifications of the new look.

Word form Italy has it that bangs are still in, specially for the 65 set. The latest hairdo start at the crown of the head and come right down to the eyebrows with the rest of the hair varying from shoulder length right up to the tips of the ear lobes.

I hope we are not going to carry the look of the "30's" to its bitter end — shoulder length bobs and masses of hair bunched into tight curls!

Question: I want to give my husband a party for his 50th birthday. Relatives and close friends naturally will know it's his birthday, but I also plan to invite some business friends with whom he's quite close outside the home. Should I tell them the party is for his birthday? If I do, will they feel they have to bring gifts? Those close to us probably will. The party is supposed to be a surprise. Should I tell his business friends what the occasion is, as well? — Mrs. V. L., Columbus, Ohio

Answer: If the party is supposed to be kept secret, then you'll have to let your husband's business friends know all the details, so they won't let it slip out. Since so many of the guests will know the party is for his birthday and will bring gifts, it's only fair to let the others know the reason for the party, too. They may bring a gift or not, as they choose, but, under the circumstances, it's more polite by at least offer them the choice.

Question: I was supposed to have a committee meeting at my home for a benefit my club is giving, but, as luck would have it, the painters have decided they can re-do our home during that period. Since I've been waiting months for them to get around to doing the job, I can't postpone it, and it's impossible to postpone the meeting since I have to be drawn up in many details. Some of the committee has volunteered to help for this meeting, as well as for any others that may occur. Would it be correct for me to accept her offer? If it were possible, I'd invite the members and any floral GIVEN COPY necessary! A tea September. Events and any floral Question: I've just received an announcement of the birth of a second son to friends in another city. I'd like to send a gift, but I have no idea what is needed. I'm sure the mother has clothes and equipment left over from the first child, who is now 18 months old. Most likely she also has received a number of presents for the new baby from family and friends. Since I want to send something I'm sure will be useful, I wish I'd write her and ask concerning them on sure new arrival and asking her ers to suggest a suitable gift. Do you think that would be proper? — Mrs. C. L., Newark, N. J.

Answer: No, it would put the recipient in a position where she would be reluctant to be specific. A blanket, a little bath-towels or set of towels or a always come in handy. Usually are the sort of items prove useful and not last long.

Melrose W. I. Lists Officers

The annual meeting of Melrose W.I. was held in Melrose Hall on Thursday evening with Mrs. S. Demill and Mrs. R. Badgley as hostesses with 30 members in attendance.

Mrs. M. Lazier, president, welcomed everyone and thanked them for their loyal support during her term of office. During the business period it was announced that Achievement Day on May 23 for the Girls' Club would be on the project "Sleeping Garments". English gave the auditors' report and commended the secretary on the accurate and neat condition of the book.

The conveners of standing committees gave interesting accounts of the work their groups had accomplished during the year. Mrs. R. McMechan, curator reported on the new Tweedsmuir history which is being compiled and distributed. A questionnaire sheet is to be filled out by everyone, to help in the accuracy of the records.

At this stage Mrs. A. English took over the slate of officers and Mrs. K. McMechan took charge of the election and installation of same which are as follows: past president, Mrs. M. Blathenwick, Mrs. C. Hagerman and Mrs. J. McFarlane.

Everyone enjoyed community singing with Mrs. J. McLaren as song leader and Mrs. C. Bates at the piano, after which Mrs. E. Pascoe gave a humorous reading. Mrs. Bates played several short piano selections as a salute to spring which were enjoyed by all. Mrs. H. McMechan conducted a sewing contest which was won by Mrs. C. Wesner. A surprise number on the program which created much merriment was cleverly enacted by four of the ladies, Mesdames R. Cook, D. Derrill, H. McMechan and J. McFarlane, who were introduced as the "Melrose Lady Bugs".

Mrs. M. Lazier voiced thanks for hospitality, program and lunch.

Some Helpful Hints for Those Harassed Homemakers

Please send me a copy of Thankful's practical schedule, if there is any way I can learn to be a better housekeeper, I would be very grateful.

DORIS CLARK

I am glad there are people like you who care enough about people to do something about it. I was very unhappy and confused when I was young, but what bothers me most is that nobody tried to correct me. I wonder if nobody noticed?

That has been straightened out by a good man I was lucky enough to marry. But I'm still a discorganized housekeeper. — THANKFUL TOO.

DEAR THANKFUL TOO — There are others in the same boat, so here it is for those who want it to clip, paste up, and read often:

TIPS FOR HARASSED HOMEMAKERS

1. Start by making beds — tidy bedrooms (not necessary to dust every day).
2. Gather up all soiled laundry) Soiled clothes and dishes) encourage depressions and
3. Do dishes after each meal.) cloudy periods.
4. Let children help with dinner; get out potatoes, bring salt and pepper, put pan in sink, etc. — Food tastes better when we can say "We helped".
5. Make bake day a fun day — slice up an apple or two and pass them around to the children. Some day just for fun, play you're a French chef — accent et al.
6. If a little ironing each day, not six basketfuls on one — start with harder things — flats are done in no time.
7. Sew on buttons — sew-up seams, etc., as soon as possible after you discover tear, etc. Cuts down on mending time.
8. Once in a while (not every day) TV dinners or pre-prepared meals from your freezer help make a day a little easier.
9. Remember you have several children ,so once in a while you're entitled to feel "pooped," but don't get in the habit.
10. If you don't wash every day, but maybe just twice'a week (as I can now sometimes do, thank goodness) catch a quick nap or give yourself a manicure. You'll feel better and the day will be brighter.
11. Let the children dress themselves — tidy their own rooms, do dusting. Then when you do their hair, take a few minutes and do your own.
12. Be enthusiastic about any new dishes you prepare — not apologetic. Who knows? They just might like them!

DEAR DORIS — We have just started a lady's club and they have elected me president! I've no idea what a president does besides opening meetings. — JUST A DUB.

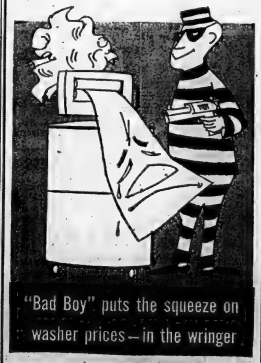
DEAR JUST — The president presides at all meetings of the club and of its executive; co-signs approved cheques; signs the minutes. Is ultimately responsible, with her executive, for the conduct of affairs and the accomplishments of her organization during her term as president.



I'm sending you the name of a dandy little book on conducting meetings.

Confidantial to "TROUBLED, P.Q." — I am sorry, but at 14 you should not be going out with a boy who is 18 years old, even though you are deeply fond of him right now. Your mother's ridicule is forcing you to go too strongly to his defence. Relax about this, and you'll begin to see how little you really tuss is with each other.

(Note to teen-age girls: If you are puzzled about a vocation, and would like Doris' series of 12 leaflets on popular careers for girls, write to her them, enclosing $1.00 and a large stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Local Artists To Hold Exhibition

Mr. and Mrs. Allan Cameron, R.R. 1, Carrying Place, are combining their artistic talents in presenting an exhibition of their paintings, at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church hall on Wednesday evening, May 13th.

Together they will show about 35 pictures, mostly oil paintings, with some water colors, some textured paintings and some line-type.

Mr. Cameron enjoys doing portrait paintings, but has done many of still life, particularly of flower arrangements which are given importance with colour. His "Pink City" has clear contours and his landscapes of "Jack's Lake" and "Ingills Falls" are strongly defined.

Mrs. Cameron likes painting flowers and has a polished artistry with the brush, using strong, well-defined colors.

Their two daughters, Donna, age 12, and Mary Cameron Redner, will each exhibit three paintings at the show.

Mrs. Cameron has had four paintings accepted at Etherington Hall in Kingston. Mr. Cameron had a portrait hung at the Royal Canadian Academy in 1946. James Lukacs, who had an art showing in Belleville recently has taken three of Allan Cameron's and two of Donna Cameron's pictures on tour. Mr. Lukacs has a studio in Montreal.

The exhibition is being sponsored by the Friendship Group of the Women's Guild of St. Andrew's. Refreshments will be served and the proceeds will go to church work. There will be a door prize of a painting valued at $35.

Southeast Asian Situation Finds Thant and de Gaulle Healing Their Former Rift

By WILLIAM N. OATIS
UNITED NATIONS (AP)—UN Secretary-General U Thant and President Charles de Gaulle of France seem to be having what the one would call a reconciliation and the other a rapprochement.

So it appears from the warm words Thant exchanged with French officials on a four-day visit to Paris last week.

The words haven't always been so warm. For years France has been standoffish toward the United Nations while in the minority here on such questions as independence for Algeria, France's base in Bizerte, Tunisia, and UN intervention in The Congo.

France refused financial support to the UN force in The Congo. French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville boycotted the General Assembly, The French delegation, while attending, remained silent during debate.

France's relations with the world organization came to a boil on April 11, 1961 when de Gaulle announced that France would not contribute men or money to future undertakings of the "disunited nations." He called the UN "this and scandalous" and its officers had "the aim to intervene in all kinds of matters."

The Big Hammarskjold was still Secretary - General then, but Thant also managed to offend the French after he succeeded Hammarskjold in November 1961.

Thant blandly commented last September that "French foreign policy is based on the conviction that there is no danger of the Soviet Union launching a nuclear attack on Western Europe." He said France felt the North Atlantic Treaty Organization might not be needed and, if NATO was needed, U.S. participation might not be.

In Paris, French sources replied that Thant had no business commenting on a member government's policy.

But when de Gaulle learned Thant was coming to Paris for a co-ordination meeting with executives of UN-affiliated agencies, he invited him to lunch. De Gaulle's prestige operation kept them from meeting, but they exchanged warm notes.

Thant lunched with Premier George Pompidou and dined with Foreign Minister Couve de Murville. In a toast, Couve de Murville credited Thant with "a sense of reality" and said France "is gratified at the cooperation that has been established between you and us."

Thant replied that French policy was based on humanity and realism.

Two days later, Thant told French diplomatic correspondents that he wasn't worried about France's Congo bill because France was showing confidence in the United Nations.

On troubled Southeast Asia, Thant sounded like de Gaulle himself, explaining that a military solution had failed and political means were needed.

When Thant was Burma's UN ambassador, he advocated a neutralized Viet Nam. Now de Gaulle is proposing the same idea.

50 P. C. Brides Pregnant Before Coming to Altar

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — A moral breakdown among many young people has resulted in 50 per cent of today's brides being pregnant when they come to the church altar, a Chatham clergyman told delegates to the Anglican diocese of Huron synod Tuesday.

Rev. R. M. Jones, rector of Christ Church, said strong church leadership is necessary to counter this trend among young people," he said, and urged Anglicans to find where they failed young people, and to rectify the situation.

Dr. D. J. Broadwell, a lay delegate from Windsor, told the synod his experience as a general practitioner convinced him the figures used by Canon Jones were "not too far wrong."

Methodist Bishops Differ In Interpreting Church Law

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A northern and a southern U.S. bishop held differing interpretations today on a new Methodist church law saying persons of any race are eligible to worship or hold membership in any Methodist church.

The southerner, Bishop John Owen Smith of Atlanta, Ga., said the key word is "eligible." He said that doesn't mean persons of any race must necessarily be admitted to any Methodist church.

The northerner, Bishop James K. Mathews of Boston, said Methodist churches are under a "compulsion of faith" to abide by the intent of the law and thus are obligated to open their doors to everyone.

LAW APPROVED

The church's general conference, holding its quadrennial meeting, adopted the new law without debate Tuesday night. Approval came on a show of hands. The law reads:

The Methodist Church is the part of the church universal. Therefore, all persons, without regard to race, color, natural origin, or economic condition, shall be eligible to attend its worship services, to participate in its programs, and to be admitted to its membership anywhere . . .

Bishop Smith was asked to give his interpretation of it. He said:

"All people are eligible. Eligible means they are free to apply and should be admitted. I don't know if that makes it binding on them to be let in."

If a person would be kept out of a church, the bishop added, it would not be a matter of prejudice but a matter of custom, particularly in the South.

Bishop Matthews, speaking generally of the rule, said, "It is entirely in accordance with Christian faith and therefore it seems a compulsion of faith for churches to abide by it."

Traffic Control On Canal Bridge Is Discussed

CAMPBELLFORD — The regular meeting of Campbellford municipal council was held on Monday evening, May 4th. All members present.

Council was addressed by Mr. Eason of Federal Department of Transport in regard to traffic control on the bridge. Up to the present time when the bridge must be opened for marine traffic, the control has been by lowered bar at one side, and lowered cement block at the other side of the opening.

Mr. Eason thought the traffic control inadequate and suggested a plan whereby Federal authorities would install at the main intersection a blank-out sign, stating bridge open, this would eliminate the bottleneck of traffic and also prevent a heavy load on bridge at one time.

Mr. Eason stated the Federal government was prepared to meet the cost of signs if the Campbellford P.U.C. would provide h.t.v. Pedestrian traffic would be operated manually.

Councillor Grills suggested gate be maintained for a year and Mr. Stephen of Provincial Department of Transport said a good publicity campaign be carried out in order to make the public familiar with change. Some uncertainty was expressed by council as to adequate safety and wished to consider further. If eventually approved it would be installed in September.

GIVEN COPY OF BY-LAW

Mr. S. Hopping approached Council concerning dogs running at large. Clerk E. M. Ibey gave Mr. Hopping a copy of by-law concerning the matter, and stated it required all dogs be prevented from running from April 15 to Sept. 15 in each year and tags must be purchased by June 30th. At the present time only about 75 tags have been bought. The clerk was instructed to notify the public by a published letter and give final notice for compliance with the by-law.

Newmarket Council asked Council to endorse a resolution asking that school facilities be used for longer periods of time. This was approved.

On a request from New Toronto asking that consideration be given to the fact that some provision be made for patients cut off from Ontario Hospital benefits and returned home to, in some cases cause family hardship. No action was taken.

Another resolution from New Toronto asked that consideration be given to abolish education tax against property only, as now, and levy against all earnings, no action was taken.

The Ontario Water Resources have begun the preliminary survey work in regard to sewers but stated the matter still requires some clarification. The cost of survey is limited to $2,500.

REPAIRS APPROVED

Reeve George Free asked approval of repairs in the town truck costing a total of $646. On motion of Reeve Free and Councillor Sharp this was approved.

Councillor Sharp reported a gate had been placed at the town dump, open hours 7 a.m. to 9 p.m. Garbage collector James Parcell agreed to keep dump in proper condition.

Councillor Terrance reported on the arena project. It was decided to make the arena a centennial project and apply to the Municipal Affairs for grants, such application to be made by August 1st.

Seymour council will also be approached and asked to participate in the project.

Councillor Grills stated a fibreglass boat had been ordered for the fire department.

Tenders are to be called to supply summer uniforms for the police department.

The matter of difficulty concerning the eastern boundary of the town still remains unsolved and further investigation will be made. It was suggested that the Surveyor General be consulted.

Reeve Free reported for the E.M.O. meeting held recently at Norwood council had a plan by which a pumper may be procured by government assistance if an emergency situation is in effect. This is a grant of $8,100 on the purchase price but will not be allowed on old vehicles. This grant will be in effect from April 1, 1964, to March 31, 1965. Clerk E. M. Ibey stated that as Campbellford Municipal council has a fire department reserve of $12,000 he recommended that council take advantage of the grant as the town would be faced with a replacement in the foreseeable future. A number of auxiliary men would have to be trained in fire fighting.

RETURNED TO TOWN

A small parcel of land, .22 of an acre, has been rented for the past 25 years to be used as a park. The rental lease expires July 1st, 1964. The owner of the property, Mac-Lean Donald, has offered the property to the town for $3,000. The matter was left to the park committee.

One by-law received three readings, to hire British Consultant Engineers for a survey, the other by-law received two readings, namely to construct local improvement on Saskatoon Ave. South, before being given third reading the by-law must have approval from Municipal Affairs. If approved the project will be financed by ten year debentures paid for on installment plan.

The pay sheet presented by Deputy Reeve Locke was approved and passed.

WANT TAX RELIEF

NATAL, B.C. (CP) — The Natal and District Chamber of Commerce in southeast B.C. is backing other district chambers in efforts to obtain relief from the provincial five - per - cent sales tax. The chambers say residents travel a few miles into Alberta to make their purchases because there is no sales tax in that province.

Many Projects Outlined at Kinsmen Meet

There are now 27 members in the club. This year for the first time the club is responsible for sending some retarded children to summer camp. This worthwhile project will be continued if the plan is successful and there are children to whom the service is beneficial.

As the softball diamond is, of necessity, being moved from the high school grounds the Kinsmen Club have offered their services to establish a diamond on the Campbellford Fair Grounds subject to approval by the Fair directors and if given exclusive use of the booths during the ball season. The club expects the project will cost in the neighborhood of $4,000.

Wheel chairs are available free of charge, another new one is being purchased, also a hospital bed is on hand and is loaned on request free of charge.

71 days—second longest in Ontario's history.

The second session of Ontario's 27th Parliament began Jan. 15 and was expected to be short and quiet, since it followed by 5½ months an election in which the Conservative government of Premier Roberts was given an overwhelming majority of 77 seats compared to 21 for the combined opposition.

NUMBER REDUCED

The death during the session of Maurice Belanger (L—Windsor-Sandwich) reduced this to 23 Liberals and seven New Democrats.

The government at first had hopes of ending the session by Easter, but, among other things, the introduction of Bill 99—Ontario's so-called "police state" legislation—on March 19 killed any chance of this.

The last of the various departments' estimated expenditures for 1964-65 was completed Wednesday night with the approval of the estimates of the department of lands and forests.

The house then began to deal with the first of a number of resolutions put on the order paper for debate, mostly by opposition members.

Lands and Forests Minister Roberts was accused of playing "dirty politics" and of reviving political patronage in his department.

SAYS HAS EXAMPLES

Robert Gibson (L—Kenora) told the legislature he could cite numerous examples whereby the department's efficiency and morale were being sacrificed to gain political ends.

He said later outside the legislature that permits to sell hunting and fishing licences and to cut specific types of timber in his area were granted largely to Progressive Conservatives.

"I resent seeing the vast resources of government utilized so as to enrich a few political friends," he said. "I hate to see ordinary citizens denied privileges extended to a favored few."

Mr. Roberts later called the Liberal member's charges a lot of nonsense, but added "the devil you know is better than the devil you don't know."

Mr. Gibson said the former minister of lands and forests, J. V. Spooner, now municipal affairs minister, seemed to be putting an end to political patronage, but it was a different story under the present minister.

shots in self-defence when it came under fire at Pilleri village from a Greek-Cypriot post on the southern slopes of the Kyrenia range.

Maj. Patrick Tremblay, commander of C Company of Canada's Royal 22nd Regiment, stationed in the Kyrenia pass, told reporters he asked permission to return the fire with heavy machine guns if there was any more firing into his outfit's camp alongside the main road.

Tremblay said the UN withdrew patrols Wednesday from the Turkish-Cypriot villages of Kazaphani and Tembios on the range's northern slopes after the Turkish-Cypriots refused an ultimatum to remove new fortifications they had erected within 100 yards of the C Company camp.

But subsequently the Canadian battalion commander, Lt.-Col. Andrew Woodcock, told reporters his troops were ordered back into the UN posts in Kazaphani and Tembios. He declined to give the reasons.

SEES NO NEED

TORONTO (CP)—The former speaker of the Ontario legislature said Wednesday he could see no need for an ombudsman, an official to settle differences between the people and their governments in the province. William Murdoch, Progressive Conservative member for Essex South from 1943 until his defeat last September, was interviewed during the unveiling of his portrait in the Speaker's office. He was Speaker from January, 1960.

Monetary Fund Will Likely Make Sweeping Innovations

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Within the next few years the International Monetary Fund likely will undertake some sweeping innovations to offset complaints of Britain and other countries built-in fund rigidities tend to restrict the flow of world credit, hampering the growth of national economies.

Just what changes may finally be accepted is a matter of conjecture at this stage, though it is understood some of the fund's proposals will be disclosed at the annual meeting of finance ministers and central bank governors at Tokyo next September.

However, Pierre Paul Schweitzer, the fund's managing director, who often in the past opposed suggestions for establishment of a new world deposit bank and other elaborate financial machinery, now appears to have come around to the view that some changes are necessary.

What he suggests seems to indicate he would like the changes to be handled within the fund's present structure.

HUGE ASSETS HELD

Established under the Bretton Woods Agreement as an instrument for stabilizing national currencies, the 103-country fund now has resources of about $15,600,000,000, including about $3,000,000,000 in gold.

It also can fall back on a $6,000,000,000 borrowing authority sponsored by 10 industrial countries including Canada, if at any time it finds its free-line of resources insufficient to cope with a major exchange crisis.

Schweitzer has often maintained that the fund is not sufficient to meet the present and foreseeable needs of member countries for international finances required to underwrite expanding world trade.

But the fund and the 21-country Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development, of which Canada also is a member, agreed, to undertake separate studies on the whole liquidity issue to decide what may be necessary in a world where the present population of 3,000,000,000 may double in just 35 years.

Schweitzer suggests the fund possibly may accept deposits of surplus currencies from member countries, which would seem to come close to what Britain originally envisaged but which, for political purposes, is unlikely to be widely accepted by other industrial countries.

HIGHER QUOTAS WANTED

He suggested also in a New York speech last Tuesday the fund may require higher quotas from member countries, a suggestion which appears to be more in line with practical reality. The last quota increase, of 50 per cent, was in 1959. While it appears that the fund's consultants have some new figure in mind, this did not appear in the speech.

However, it is understood another increase, within a range of up to 30 per cent, is being discussed. This would bring the fund's front - line resources to about $23,000,000,000.

Of the last quota increase, 25 per cent had to be in gold. With a tightening world demand for gold—and the U.S. difficulty of preventing drainage of its present declining stockpile — it is evident that any further quota increase may not be accompanied by 25 per cent in gold.

However, if this demand does transpire, it is likely the fund's directors would agree that a portion of that gold quota be reinvested in the bonds of the contributing country, so that in effect the national gold stockpile would not be seriously affected.

eliminated and tag days have been cut to four with one of these on the way out.

ENTERING NEW ERA

"We are entering a new era of thinking in regard to both financing and planning for social welfare —" Mr. Beaumont said. "We are moving rapidly to new concepts and new methods of financing and of working together in the community.

He said we must learn new interpretations of welfare and think of welfare in its broadest sense. This includes health, recreation and welfare.

"The day is here when we must set aside many of our local and individual agency concepts to think in terms of the entire community. We must learn to plan co-operatively and work together with common purpose for the good of all," he said.

Mr. Beaumont said he did not come to Belleville to say what should be done here, but rather to outline what had been done at Brantford and in Brant county.

ALL MUST BE PARTNERS

To be successful a welfare council must include everyone in the community — lodges, labor, management, organized groups, social agencies and individuals — all must become partners in the enterprise.

In Brantford the welfare council operates the community chest, the fund raising organization for nine different agencies, and co-ordinates welfare services.

The Brantford community chest became a success only when its member agencies ceased to look upon it as a "pool" to be fished for the money that could be gotten out of it, or as a pressure group to get as much money as possible from the public.

Instead of operating along these lines a bold program of education and pride — to educate citizens to give, rather than pressure them to give — was inaugurated.

In developing this sense of pride the community chest board told citizens everything, even confessed some of their mistakes. Progressive agencies immediately gave their full support.

NO ATTEMPT AT FORCE

A "Fair Share" method of giving to the community chest was encouraged which together with a sense of community responsibility had resulted in the budgets of participating agencies being more than doubled in a ten - year period.

There had been no attempt to force all social agencies to join the community chest but a charitable appeals review board screened all appeals and as much as possible prevented over - lapping.

Conservation of manpower in conducting of campaigns was thoroughly gone into and the active co-operation of citizens from all walks of life was encouraged.

Mr. Beaumont said a good community chest could mean a good deal to a community, particularly if it was operated by a community welfare council in the interest of good community planning. It should never be a tough, dehydrated necessary fund raising organization, but it must be part of the community with good public relations, with a sense of humanity, close to the people and with a desire to be of service.

LOOKING TO FUTURE

But aside from directing the money raising activities of the community chest, and co-ordinating services a community welfare council could also do much for the betterment of a community.

At Brantford a men's hostel had been established to take care of transients, provision was made for the needs of senior citizens and much has been done to assist in the integration of New Canadians.

The Brantford welfare council is also looking into the future and in 1961 the two years of effort presented a master plan to the citizens charting the course for the next five years.

In conclusion Mr. Beaumont said the secret success of a welfare council was teamwork at co-operation, coupled with a spirit of sharing.

"Teamwork, community spirit, goodwill, and faith in the community can work wonders," he said.

HAVE REVIEW BOARD

Also speaking at the meeting were Peter Preston, member of the Brantford community welfare council, and William C. Smith, director of field services for the Ontario Department of Public Welfare.

Mr. Preston outlined the function of the charitable appeals review board of the Brantford welfare council.

He said the board asked for financial statements from all agencies and recommended whether or not approval should be given.

Withholding of approval did not mean the agency could not launch its own appeal but lacking council approval there was little likelihood of the campaign's success.

Mr. Smith outlined recent trends in the public welfare field noting that a more flexible program of public assistance was coming into being, the program being geared more to need than to eligibility requirements.

QUESTION PERIOD

Also more counselling and guidance was being given for families requiring assistance in solving its financial problems.

Looking into the future he said that some sort of a "total service" to the community in the welfare and counselling fields was needed.

He felt that under the present system of public and private welfare there was too much duplication of service which at the same time dealt only with narrow fields of welfare work.

A brief question and answer period followed.

One question asked was whether the increased public welfare would lend to eventually eliminate private welfare services. In reply Mr. Beaumont said he felt there was little danger of this as private welfare services were actually increasing.

ALD. WILLIAMS PRESIDE

Ald. Frank Anderson asked what liaison was necessary between public and private welfare agencies so as to prevent over-lapping of assistance.

Alderman Donald Williams acted as chairman of the dinner meeting, expressing his appreciation to social agency representatives and others for attending. Bruce Kerr, Belleville C.A.S., introduced Mr. Beaumont. While D. Aikens, city welfare administrator, introduced Mr. Smith.

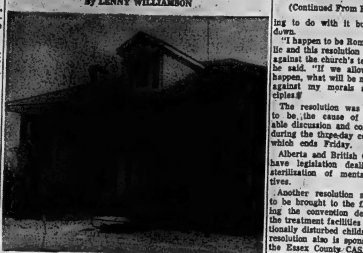
Mayor Ellis also expressed his appreciation to agency representatives attending the meeting.

"The fact that you are here indicates you are interested in welfare in this city," he said.

Later he expressed his own and thanks to the speakers and to members of the social welfare investigation committee.

San Quentin Prison Parolee Under Probe

FREDERICKSBURG, Va. (AP)—A U.S. - wide alert has been issued for a San Quentin prison parolee wanted for questioning in the slayings of two Fredericksburg policemen and a New Jersey service station attendant.



The FBI advised law officers not to attempt an arrest of Lewis Henry Wells without help as the ex-convict is believed to be heavily armed and may have one or more companions with him.

Wells, who lists his age as either 35 or 61 and goes by various aliases, is sought in the Monday slaying of 30-year-old John S. Kermonvaky of North Brunswick, N.J., and the predawn murders the following day of Fredericksburg Police Sgt. R. G. Wright, 31, and Patrolman William Frank Mines, 27.

Fredericksburg Police Chief F. W. Coble said an FBI ballistics report confirmed that the same foreign - made automatic fired the shots that killed all three victims.

CHISHOLM - ZWICK HOUSE
Opposite Albert College

The grey stone house at 183 Dundas St. West was for 31 years the home of Philip Zwick, whose farm included Zwick's Island. Although the island was named for Zwick, it was not he, but John Chisholm who originally owned the property and built the first house on the site.

John Chisholm was a cousin of Alexander Chisholm, the Scot who built the Lorne McDougall house. He arrived in the Bay of Quinte as a Loyalist refugee in 1796 and claimed the island surrounding the house as compensation for his services in the American Revolution. John Chisholm, like his cousin Alexander, was a prominent citizen and an officer during the War of 1812, but he could not have been as successful as a farmer or a businessman, for his creditors took over his farm and sold it in 1817 to Philip Zwick.

Most early settlers along the Front built their homes heads high on the limestone ridge above the Bay. Not so John Chisholm, who nestled his house half-way down the hill. The kitchen and living room overlooked the water, while upstairs the back door opened on the footpath which became the Dundas Road. Chisholm must have decided that his house would be snugger during the winter with his back dug into the hill to the north, and its front warmed by the sun at the south.

Years ago the house was gutted by fire, leaving nothing but the fireplace, bake-oven, brick kitchen floor, and some of the stone walls. A stone cottage of roughly the same shape, built around the remaining masonry of the 1820's had the remnants until Mr. E. J. Buckley began remodelling in 1959. He discovered parts of the original basement rooms — a kitchen at the east end and sitting room at the west.

Chisholm used stone walls and a brick floor in his hills house where logs would have rotted. The brick could have come from the kiln operated five miles west in Sydney Township by Capt. Meyers, the founder of Belleville, who built the first brick house in Upper Canada in 1795. The fireplace, like that of the McDougall house, is larger than those built by American settlers.

Philip Zwick was a Loyalist from New York State. During his early years in Upper Canada he trapped extensively and bartered the furs for the essential hides for supplies from the local store. The money he earned as an officer during the war of 1812 must have paid for the farm he took in 1817. Perhaps he chose the Chisholm property because the marsh in front provided excellent opportunities for trapping.

According to some early historians, Zwick's Island was reserved for the Mississauga Indians and not part of the adjoining farm. Since their house commanded such a splendid view of the island, the Zwick family must have taken possession, and later map-makers bent the law and the survey lines to oblige.

There have been no members of the Zwick family living in the house since 1838. The present owners, Mr. E. J. Buckley and his brother, are carefully restoring the house to watch over Zwick's Island for many years to come.

ing to do with it but vote it down.

"I happen to be Roman Catholic and this resolution is strictly against the church's teachings," he said. "If we allow this to happen, what will be next? It is against my morals and principles."

The resolution was expected to be the cause of considerable discussion and controversy during the three-day conference which ends Friday.

Alberta and British Columbia have legislation dealing with sterilization of mental defectives.

Another resolution scheduled to be brought to the floor during the convention deals with the treatment facilities for emotionally disturbed children. This resolution also is sponsored by the Essex County CAS.

URGE GOVERNMENT AID

The resolution urges the Ontario government to plan for more treatment, and residential facilities for emotionally disturbed children and give more direct financial assistance to institutes treating severely disturbed children.

Another Essex County resolution calls for an amendment to the Criminal Code to make it legal to provide information and materials for birth control.

The resolutions will be put to a vote Friday.

Mr. Cecile promised more financial aid for the care of neglected children.

CITES LACK

Dr. Bernard Hoddinott told delegates a lack of foster homes for children ready to leave mental hospitals has created a deplorable waste of hospital beds, money and time.

The chief psychologist at the Ontario Hospital in Thistletown, near Toronto, said during a panel session that children requiring only out-patient services remain in hospitals for months because there is no place to send them.

Ontario's mental hospital system suffers from a lack of basic, systematic research, he said. Some hospitals are so isolated they are unable to get staff.

S. J. Bailey, of the federal Indian affairs department, said Canadian Indians, the country's fastest - growing ethnic group, become the fastest-growing problem.

It's up to the Canadian people to see they don't, he said. This means encouraging them to raise their own standards of living.

REJECTED BID

Not Possible to Establish With Certitude Shots Were Aimed at U. N. Patrol

NICOSIA (CP) — An elderly Greek - Cypriot, well - known to Canadian soldiers, was wounded in the elbow by a bullet as he rode his bicycle through the Nicosia suburb of Trakhonas Wednesday.

The victim, thrown heavily to the ground by the shot was helped by Lieut. Christophe Conliffe of Ottawa who placed him in a jeep and transported him to safe area.

Maj. Bob Theriault of Quebec, commander of B Company of the Royal 22nd Regiment, estimated that during the morning about 15 shots were fired. Greek - Cypriots threatened to use machine-guns against Turkish - Cypriot positions, but Maj. Theriault dissuaded them.

There was more shooting—an estimated total of 300 shots—in the Kyrenia Pass area. Six shots, apparently from Greek-Cypriot positions, were directed towards a British patrol posted under Canadian command in the village of Khirki, situated on the southern flank of the Kyrenia Mountains and west of the Kyrenia Pass, 12 miles north of here.

A Canadian spokesman said later: "It is not possible to establish with certitude that the shots were aimed at this UN patrol." There had been several shooting exchanges in the area and some shots struck near the British soldiers.

SHOOT BACK

The British patrol took shelter after the shots brushed near their positions and fired five shots back.

A Canadian spokesman interpreted the shooting of the Greek-Cypriot cyclist and in the Kyrenia Pass area as a possible show of protest against the death Tuesday night of a Turkish-Cypriot who was shot 10 days ago at Trakhonas.

Meanwhile, at the camp of Maj. Patrick Tremblay, commander of the Royal 22nd's C Company, two bullets hit the ground where the company parks its vehicles.

A spokesman said the incident was not the first of its nature and he expects more.

"But it is noteworthy they shot at the parking lot when no one was there," the spokesman said. Greek - Cypriots threatened to use machine-guns against Turkish Cypriot positions, but Maj. Theriault dissuaded them.

The spokesman described the incidents as "gestures of ineffectual provocation to which it is difficult to attach the least significance."

French Members Don't Have Same Opportunities as English Members of Force

OTTAWA (CP)—The question of members of the armed forces identified before the royal commission on bilingualism and biculturalism has touched a raw nerve in the defence department.

Departmental officials have long conceded that the French-speaking member of the armed forces doesn't have the same opportunities as the English-speaking serviceman for advancement.

The reason is that English is the working language of the defence department and the armed forces. A serviceman must be able to speak not only passable but good English to get ahead in the armed forces.

A solution to this problem appears no closer than it ever has been.

But the defence department doesn't want the situation made any more difficult by members of the armed forces airing grievances publicly in this regard before the commission.

THEY JOIN FORCES

The Defence Research Board produced a study a number of years ago showing that, proportionately, as many French-speaking Canadians join the forces as English-speaking Canadians. But few of the French-speaking members stay around long. Most of them leave after the first three-year hitch.

None of the services has ever had a French-speaking chief of staff. No French-speaking Canadian has ever reached the top ranks in the Navy or RCAF.

Even in the army, where there are quite a number of senior French-speaking officers, there is no question but that the working language is English.

The three - battalion Royal 22nd Regiment operates entirely in French, but when it communicates, as it must do in the field, with other regiments it does so in English. There is no unit in the navy or air force which uses French.

One attempt to overcome this situation was the founding of Le College Militaire Royal at St. Jean, Que., where instruction is bilingual.

Some thought now is being given to creation of another French-speaking unit in the army, possibly a tank reconnaissance regiment or anti-tank battalion.

New Developments Indicate Communist Split Irrevocable

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

New developments in the Moscow-Peking dispute make virtually inescapable the conclusion that communism is finally and irrevocably split into two main camps.

Premier Khrushchev is under pressure to call an international Communist conference in June or July in a last effort to avert the division. But it is likely such a meeting would only confirm that the split is a fact.

Infuriated, Khrushchev's Soviet party has delivered two new Sunday punches at the Red Chinese, both on the same theme: Red China is trying to break out of isolation and throw its weight around in capitalist countries. It turned heavy propaganda artillery on Chinese pretensions to leadership of a new world bloc.

The Soviet party fired a barrage on this subject in the March issue of its theoretical journal, Kommunist. It renewed the attack in the journal's latest issue, out this week.

Kommunist accused the Chinese last month of trying to set up an "intermediate zone", which, by implication, would regard the Soviet Union and the United States with equal hostility. This "intermediate zone," with an eventually big Chinese market as a lure, would include Japanese, French, West German, Italian and perhaps even British capitalists. It would gradually establish a bloc with Asian nations, interposed between the United States and the Soviet Union.

ACCUSED CHINESE

This week Kommunist accused the Chinese of playing up to capitalists in Western Europe and Japan and dealing with governments which are members of western alliances.

The Russians, too, seem to conclude that Peking has passed the point of no return in the dispute. Moscow accuses Peking of putting together its own program for world revolution in a "25 - point platform" counterposed against the Soviet plan for global victory.

This "frankly anti-Soviet" Chinese program, says Kommunist, exploits national prejudices, sets race against race and East against West, regardless of Communist or capitalist rule.

Now, says Moscow, Peking's policies demoralize world Communist unity, China even supplies money and printing presses for a propaganda war on the Kremlin.

There are other serious accusations: That Chinese agents try to co-ordinate their party's activities with those of Soviet-bloc parties; that Peking tries to persuade some red-ruled countries to curtail economic relations with the Moscow bloc.

Father Given 30 Days for Beating Child

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—A suburban Riverside father of three young children Wednesday was sentenced to 30 days in jail when he pleaded guilty to a charge of assault causing bodily harm resulting from a beating he gave his four-year-old son on March 20.

"Maltreating a child in this fashion is shocking beyond belief," Magistrate Fred E. Jasperson told Roy Stanley Balkwell, 26, in passing sentence.

Court was told Balkwell had administered a strap to his son, Roy, Jr., and left him bruised and bleeding in his bed.

Greatly Improved Moisture Conditions Seen on Prairies

OTTAWA (CP)—Rain on the Prairies in the last week has greatly improved moisture conditions and supplies are adequate now in all areas to make the spring grain crop, the bureau of statistics reported Wednesday.

The rain has curbed serious soil drifting in parts of Saskatchewan and Alberta. Field work has been slow so far but is expected to be general in most places by this weekend.

Little growth has occurred so far in pasture and hay lands or from seeding.

The report is the first in a series of six reports concerning all Canada and incorporates the first of 11 special reports on the Prairie provinces.

Elsewhere in Canada, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick report good progress on the land in many areas due to dry and warm weather. Some potatoes and grain are already sown. Growth has been slow. In Prince Edward Island farm work has been limited and all three Maritime provinces need rain.

In Quebec work is under way in the Montreal and Quebec City areas. Winter injury was limited to fall-sown crops and milk production is normal. If favorable weather continues, good progress is expected in sowing cereal crops and the season may be several days ahead of normal.

Ontario has received adequate moisture generally from recent rains and too much in some parts. Winter - killing of fall wheat is said to be about five per cent. Abuo 18,000 acres of sugarbeets were planted by May 1 but rain delayed operations after that ate. Tobacco seeding is progressing but cold weather in the first three weeks of April delayed pasture growth.

In British Columbia plant growth is about 10 days behind schedule because of cool weather following a mild winter.

Bison Gives Birth to Twins

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP)—A bison has given birth to twins at Bellevue Park Zoo in what soo authorities described a "rare occurrence." The calves, each weighing between 65 and 70 pounds, were born Tuesday night. Birth of even one of the species is considered a rarity.

Gamekeepers said the 2,000-pound mother was in an edgy mood Tuesday and refused to allow anyone to enter the pen at feeding time. The mother and her mate were brought here from Lamont, Alta., in April, 1962

Separatist Terrorist Ring Said Shattered by Arrest Of Electrician's Helper

MONTREAL (CP) — Robert Gendron, 25-year-old electrician's helper was taken to St. Jerome north of Montreal Wednesday for questioning in connection with a bank holdup.

Police said following Gendron's arrest that L'Armee de Liberation du Quebec—a separatist underground movement—had been shattered.

Hudon's arrest Tuesday climaxed a series of police raids in Montreal, St. Hyacinthe, Que. - and Victoriaville, Que., which led to the arrest of 12 persons, all believed tied with the terrorist organization.

He was taken to St. Jerome to be confronted by witnesses to a $5,000 robbery committed at a branch of La Banque Provinciale du Canada in Mont Rolland, Que., early last month.

Earlier he was questioned about the arms found in a garage in north-end Rosemount.

IS SECOND RECOVERY

It was the second recent arms recovery. Earlier weapons stolen from an armory at Shawinigan, Que., were found and four young men arrested. They have been charged in connection with the Mont Rolland bank robbery.

Jean LaSalle, 22, and Claude Perron, 19, are awaiting trial on the charges. They were also committed o trial Wednesday in connection with a $2,940 bank robbery in Rozemere, near Montreal.

A decision in the case of the third—20-year-old Jean Gagnon —was reserved. The fourth suspect is a juvenile, also awaiting trial.

Hudon, who gave up meekly after police surrounded a parked truck he was climbing into, is a brother of Gabriel Hudon, serving time now after being convicted as a member of an earlier terrorist group, Le Front Liberation Quebecois.

Montreal Police Director J. A. Robert said the newer group was comparatively easier to break up.

"The first time, in the case of the FLQ, we were working in the dark."

But in the case of the ALQ, he said, "we knew who we were dealing with. These people, you know, were young and because of their inexperience they showed a good deal of amateurishness. They were just that much easier to uncover."

Bishop Mildly Rebuked for View on Unity

WINDSOR (CP) —Rt. Rev. G. N. Luxton, bishop of the Anglican diocese of Huron, was mildly rebuked Wednesday at the conclusion of the three-day diocesan synod for suggesting church unity is a generation away.

A committee selected to study the bishop's opening-day statement Monday reported back to the 450 delegates that Anglicans should be thinking and talking "of union in our time and not in the time of our children."

Bishop Luxton said Monday he himself did not expect to see church unity but he expressed the hope that children of future generations would see the church's sin become a reality.

The synod committee also suggested that churchmen become more aware of public relations organizations in the diocese so lines of communication between administrative offices and the parishes could be tightened.

It proposed that, in co-ordination with a proposal by Bishop Luxton, an adult education program be established with emphasis placed in the church-wide movement towards inter - denominational unity.

APPROVE APPEAL

In other business during the final session of the conference held at the University of Windsor delegates approved an appeal by the Huron Church Camp Committee for $3,900.

Bishop Luxton said 49 diocesan clergy were more than $40,000 in debt for automobile payments, and delegates suggested three possible solutions to the problem be studied.

The proposals were: Increased car allowances to clergy; a $75,000 loan plan which would allow clergy the money they require for their cars; or a system under which clergy might lease their cars by the month.

Delegates decided that free copies of the Huron Church News and the Canadian Churchman will be mailed to every envelope-holding family in the diocese of Huron beginning this September.

Rick Moffatt, Best Cadet, Wins Lt.-Col. Duffy Trophy

The total strength of Moira Secondary School's Cadet Corps is not exactly a 74-man unit. There are a couple of girls in there too.

Adding a neatly feminine touch to the school's Cadet Corps are Vicki Courneya and Brenda Lucas.

Both are cadet corporals, both play the glockenspiel, both are in the school band.

And yesterday they went on parade under critical eyes as the corps held its fourth annual inspection.

Lessons were suspended for the day at Moira when 67 cadets (including both girls) of the corps went on parade on the campus at 3 p.m.

Most personal—and proudest —moment of the afternoon went to 14-year-old Rick Moffatt, winner of the Duffy trophy as best cadet in the ranks.

The presentation cups were made by inspecting officer, Lt.-Col. Joseph Black, of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment. Accompanying the colonel were Lt. J. W. Owen, area headquarters, Kingston; G. Wishart, Bay of Quinte District High School Board chairman; W. J. Musgrove, Moira principal; Lt.-Cdr. H. G. Birkenshaw, Cadet Corps chief instructor.

Others awards were: First aid, W. Brant, Dwane Horton, Paul Loder, Arthur Forte, R. Moffatt, Jim Smith, Mac Ward; Dominion of Canada Rifle Association competition, early Sword (239 of possible 300), D. Brant (297), R. Minion (279), W. Brant (277); 2nd class, T. Weese, R. Scott, Mac Ward, D. Jensen.

Master cadets—Capt. Keith Sero; Lt. Richard Thornton; Sgt. Rick Minion, Sgt. Sandy Scott, RSM Larry Shoebridge, and Lt. Bill Shorey.

Five Dismissed Returning to Regular Shift

BRAMPTON, Ont. (CP)—Five of 72 men who took part in a wildcat strike at the American Motors Canada Limited plant Tuesday were dismissed when they returned to their regular shifts Wednesday morning.

The strike was called off earlier in the day.

The rest of the striking group, members of Local 1285 of the United Automobile Workers of America (CLC), were not scheduled to return to work until this morning, and there was no indication whether they would be kept on staff.

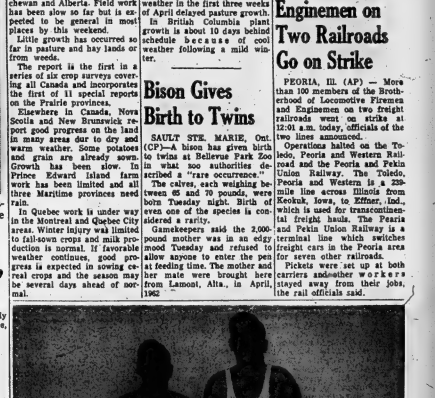
The 72 men walked off the job Tuesday night to protest the firing of five other men last Friday for allegedly drinking alcoholic beverages on company property.

The strike, classified as illegal by the union, saw more than 1,100 workers respect the picket lines.

The Ontario Labor Relations Act empowers a company to dismiss workers who take part in an illegal walkout.

Local president Jim Peters said the five men who were fired Friday will take their complaints to the union grievance committee.

REBUILDING SKOPJE



By the end of 1963, about $90,000,000 had been invested in the reconstruction of Skopje, Yugoslavia, destroyed by an earthquake in 1963.

Enginemen on Two Railroads Go on Strike

PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — More than 100 members of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen on two freight railroads went on strike at 12:01 a.m. today, officials of the two lines announced.

Operations halted on the Toledo, Peoria and Western Railroad and the Peoria and Pekin Union Railway. The Toledo, Peoria and Western is a 239-mile line across Illinois from Keokuk, Iowa, to Effner, Ind., which is used for transcontinental freight hauls. The Peoria and Pekin Union Railway is a terminal line which switches freight cars in the Peoria area for seven other railroads.

Pickets were set up at both carriers and other workers stayed away from their jobs, the rail officials said.

Letter to Council Does Not Approve Composite School for Deseronto

DESERONTO — The Town Council has decided to publish a letter from Dr. Randall of the Department of Education upholding the Council's plan to join the Napanee District School area.

In a letter placed before Council Dr. Randall indicated that "the Department would not approve of a composite school" being built in Deseronto.

He further stated that it would "cost less to join than to buy" thereby, in essence, giving departmental approval to the Town's plan to have Deseronto's area attached to Napanee.

Speaking on the letter, Reeve Alford expressed his opinion that the information given had been available to the 1963 Board was available to the present Board in 1963, and was also published in the newspapers of April, 1963.

In making this comment he stated that "it was time that we did the best we can with what we have here."

In a later interview Chairman John Neal of the Deseronto School Board stated that Reeve Alford's facts were inaccurate.

"As a Board," he stated, "we have no record of such information having come to us from the Department of Education in Toronto, nor do we have, even now, a copy of the present letter."

Mr. Neal made no further comment concerning its content.

In an unusual action Councillor Howard moved that the letter be published at the expense of the Town in the papers. When asked by the Mayor "how many" the Councillor replied, "as many as you like."

The motion was seconded by Councillor Sharpe and carried unanimously.

Further correspondence with the Council concerned complaints from Mrs. Perrett of Second Street and Mrs. Gerneau of College Street, both of whom questioned the Town's failure to properly fill ditches adjacent to their properties.

Both correspondents spoke of the unpleasant odor and the unhealthy nature of the ditches. Council agreed to investigate.

A resolution from the Town of Newmarket requesting the town's support was resolved "to extend the time of use of local schools in the year" was voted down.

"The resolution is ambiguous," said the reeve. "And since the local high school is closed and the public school not suitable for public use it does not apply to us."

Council's problems in getting out the taxation bills came up again in the reports from the various committees.

Reeve Alford, as Chairman of Finance, indicated that the illness of the auditor had contributed to the lateness of the tax bills being prepared and that it would be two to three weeks before they would be in the mail.

Mr. Alford told council that an explanatory sheet covering the budget would be sent out with the 1964 accounts.

The question of store closing hours passed into motion and the reading of a new by-law setting hours governing "all stores dealing in groceries and meats," was made.

Under the new by-law such establishments will be required to close at six o'clock daily, excepting Friday, when the hour is extended to 9 p.m. Wednesday closing hour will be at noon.

Coming into force on May 15, the by-law imposes a $300 penalty on store owners who are found in default. Failure to meet the fine could result in six months jail term.

In conversation later with one merchant it was argued that the new hours failed to take into consideration that at least one store depended upon late hours to maintain trade.

Since the store indicated was not situated in the general shopping area of the town and did not generally affect the merchants in that area the new hours, in effect, constituted discrimination.

It was also pointed out that the town had effectively legislated against the sale of groceries and meats on Wednesday afternoon, a time when stores are open in other areas.

In addition, it was felt that a loss of revenue would be experienced as a result of visiting water traffic being unable to purchase supplies.

Under new business council agreed on the motion of Councillor Sharpe to arrange a meeting with the Water Resources Commission and the town engineer "to see what can be done about the condition of the water."

The only other item of business considered concerned the provision of a pit at the town dump to receive waste products from the town.

It was indicated by Councillor Percy Brooks that such a place had been provided but would have to be properly fenced off. It was felt, also, that a gravel approach road across the dump would be necessary.

Discussion about the pit resulted the continuing problem of cartage for such waste. Under the present system the town engineer and Clifford Acker accommodation to the residents, although the cost is borne by the resident himself.

Councillor Sharpe stated that "the present man isn't doing the job." It was suggested that the failure of some to meet payment was the cause for this and that the monies should come with the order.

The Councillor said that the "man won't go out until he has a dozen orders. If he has one or two he lets them go until others make their request. Therefore the people complain."

"I know people who have waited three months for this service," added the Councillor.

It was moved by the Council that the town call for tenders for the job.

School Board Hears Various Business Items

DESERONTO — Monday night's session of the Deseronto School Board met to discuss its regular business and hear a private report on a special aspect of the school's business.

Major items of correspondence were received and filed among them notification from Inspector H. Langford that former Principal Peter Noash had been accepted by the department as the school's principal for the coming year.

The yearly request from the Deseronto Athletic Association to have use of the school diamond was granted.

In their letter The Athletic Association indicated that three teams would use the facilities and that they would fulfill their usual obligation to work the field and make repairs as necessary.

A special questionnaire was received by the board from the Trustee Association requesting information on change in the number of pupils and other data pertinent to the department's legislation on Separate Schools.

Secretary Madeline Stevenson was directed to supply the information as requested.

A motion from the chairman of finance, Maurice Delior, was passed authorizing the board to borrow up to $28,000 at any one time for the purpose of operating the board's business, and the motion was presented upon request to the bank concerned.

The committee on management presented and passed a motion to name Mrs. Leona Tucker as a teacher at the public school with a starting salary of $4,000.

Some discussion took place over the need for the basement area of the public school to be properly locked off from the remainder of the school.

It was noted that the former lock to this area could be opened by any one of the sixteen keys and that students had been using the downstairs without permission for smoking and recreation. The proximity of records and files as well as the presence of valuable equipment made this practice dangerous.

It was moved that a minimum of keys be made to fit the new lock and be available only upon special request.

Three Pay Heavy Fines For Impairment

PICTON (Staff) — Magistrate T. Y. Wills had one case of ability impaired and two of drunk driving to deal with at he held regular court here Wednesday. The two drunk driving charges were reduced to ability impaired, and all three were found guilty.

The charge was laid after Picton Constable George Wright followed the accused along west Main St. on January 11 at which time the accused went over the centre line four times in about a half a mile.

Canada Gets Good Five Cent Nickel

Alberta Plant Hits Steady Jackpot

Using a brand-new technique to turn out coin blanks for the best nickels ever minted in Canada is just one of the innovations of an expanding plant at Fort Saskatchewan near Edmonton, Alberta. With an investment that will soon reach $10,000,000, a work force of nearly 1,000 and a go-ahead program of research and development, this plant also produces fertilizer, cobalt, industrial chemicals, high-grade copper residues and special metal powders. The new nickel blanks are made from pure nickel powder compacted into long, flexible strips. Softer than previous blanks made up to 1962 in Europe, they take a better impression at the Ottawa mint, yet are just as hard wearing. With Canada away out in front as the world leader in nickel production (worth an annual $400 million dollars), it is fitting that the nation's familiar five-cent coin be truly all-Canadian made. Marks of improvement to look for on recently-minted nickels are the beaver's whiskers and his cross-hatched tail.

Research worker in Sherritt Gordon's Fort Saskatchewan plant examines a cross-section of nickel powder with projection microscope.

The new junior "B" hockey broom in London, Ontario, swept large piles of golden dust into the orifices of the brand new London arena and the exchequers of the equally new OHA Junior "B" club of the city.

No wonder other arena managers and junior "B" clubs' officials are adroit with envy. It is reported the London Nationals junior "B" club is its inaugural year of operation took in some $131,000 in the schedule, playoffs and playdowns to the semifinals.

The report says some $34,000 were gobbled up by the expensive machine which left a surplus of $97,000. That's a beautiful hunk of loot to put in the safety deposit box for reference next season.

The reason for the phenomenal first-year success of the London club, I'm told, is a hockey-hungry population in a large city and the beautiful new Treasure Island Gardens opened last autumn.

And if you think you hear sounds resembling gnashing of teeth or wringing of hands they would be emanating from the brass of the New York Rangers. They Rines management wanted to move their junior "A" franchise from Guelph and had the effrontery of placing it in London. Instead they chose Kitchener where crowds, it is reported, resembled more the well-known corporal's guard, than the roaring 4,000 to 9,000 roaring fans that greeted the Nationals at each game.

The Toronto Maple Leafs put the club in London under the coaching of Ike Hildebrand. He did a tremendous job in his first year as a junior mentor. The Leafs gave him some players and the whipsaw of them into a classy club that went all the way to the provincial semi-finals where they were eliminated by the ultimate Ontario champions, the Waterloo Siskins.

And London will likely stay with the gold-producing junior "B" next year. It was reported that the sponsoring Leafs want junior "A" there next season, but trouble has arisen between the London arena directors and the Maple Leaf brass.

"SUNK"

Doug Storey, president of the Quinte Hydroplane racing club is a very unhappy man. It seems that the club had made arrangements for a summer series of races in the bay. These events last year, Mr. Storey says, drew thousands of people to the waterfront and other harbor places of vantage.

Now, Mr. Storey says, the City Parks Board has slipped racing plans in the hat with refusal of permission to conduct the races off Victoria Park and Zwick's Island.

"I understand," he says, "that the matter is being taken to the city council, and I'm certain they won't change the Parks Board decision."

"Our club had been invited to stage a 100-boat Canadian Boating Federation Regatta here this summer in connection with the observance of Railroad Week. Now it looks like this will have to be cancelled."

It is reported the roaring cacophony of the hydroplanes disturbed the Sunday siestas of some citizens and they lodged complaints to the powers-that-be.

"We have a lot of fine young fellows in the racing club who are indulging in clean wholesome sport. The popularity of this kind of racing was evidenced by the presence of thousands who turned out to watch it last summer," said Mr. Storey.

"Now it looks as though we will have to disband," he said.

COACHES WANTED

Recreation Commission's Norm Carter tells me there is a dearth of coaches for the minor softball association classifications.

"We have some 39 teams ready to go—but we are badly in need of mentors. At the moment we could use at least 15. Anyone willing to coach teams from tyke to midget are asked to contact Roy Payne at WO 2-8361."

Mr. Carter said there will be no weekend play as far as these youngsters are concerned. The schedules call for play from Monday through Thursday.

So how about lendings a hand, gentlemen? Your efforts will be greatly appreciated.

Chisox Nicholson Hits 573-Foot Homer

And That Was One Of Three ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

By MURRA YCHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Dave Nicholson, reaching for even greater heights with his strikeout act this season, has added depth to the other half of his repertoire.

The Chicago White Sox swinger is rotating the third strike at a slightly faster rate than he did last season when he fanned a record 176 times.

But Nicholson went a long way Wednesday night toward showing his ability as a double threat as the White Sox swept a doubleheader from the Kansas City Athletics 6-4 and 11-4 in American League action.

The ball went a long way, too —573 feet by Comiskey Park measurement. The hit was one of three home runs Nicholson clouted in the two games.

Nicholson's other two homers didn't go as far — but they still accounted for four runs and gave him four homers for the season.

At the same time, Nicholson gave equal treatment to his strikeout mastery, fanning three times for a season total of 22. If he maintains his present pace, he'll top the same number of times as he did last year, the 24-year-old right-hander will be in the 200 class.

Nicholson wasn't the only home run hitter Wednesday night. New York Mets settled into the act as they split a doubleheader with Washington Senators, with one opener going and dropping the nightcap 5-4. Cleveland Indians home runs stopped Baltimore Orioles 7-5, Detroit Tigers whipped Boston Red Sox 5-3 and Los Angeles Angels nipped Minnesota Twins 4-3.

CLINCHES THE VICTORY

Nicholson's second homer in the first game climaxed a four-run rally and clinched the victory for Pitcher Hector Lopez. Nicholson had cracked a three-run homer for the Athletics in the first.

Floyd Robinson connected for the White Sox in the third while Minnie Minoso knotted a three run pinch homer in the seventh, putting the game far beyond Kansas City's reach.

The Yankees erupted for five homers but still gained only a split with the Senators. Pitcher Lopez connected twice and Mickey Mantle and Roger Maris once each as New York glided to the first-game victory.

Maris hit another in the second game, which the Senators won in the ninth when Chuck Hinton connected for a three run catcher Elston Howard's passed ball. Hinton smashed a two-run homer in the first game for the Senators' only three-run blow in the second.

The Indians got four home runs as they outslugged the Orioles. Max Alvis hit one for three runs, and Dick Howser and Larry Brown added back-to back blows in a six-run sixth inning. Rookie Brown connected in the seventh. Brooks Robinson and Boog Powell homered for the Orioles.

Norm Cash supported Dave Wickersham with two homers, good for three runs, in the Tigers' triumph. Wickersham beat the Red Sox for the second time in five days. Frank Malzone singled home two runs for Boston while Billy Bruton had a two - run single for Detroit.

Jim Fregosi's three-run pinch homer tied Los Angeles past Minnesota. Fregosi blasted a Camilo Pascual pitch after Tom Satriano doubled and Bob Knoop walked. Harmon Killebrew's two-run single in the first gave the Twins a 3-0 lead.

TWO LINEMEN SIGN

HAMILTON (CP)—Hamilton Tiger - Cats of the Eastern Football Conference Wednesday renewed contracts of two offensive linemen, Hardiman Curington, a 235 - pound offensive guard, and Ellison Kelly, a 250-pound tackle.

Hard-Luck Rides Cards' Gibson

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

A walk, Roseboro's double and a sacrifice fly brought in a run in the second, Frank Howard's triple and Roseboro's single added another in the fourth.

The Braves held a 6-5 lead in the eighth when rookie Richie Allen got the Phillies started with a walk. Two outs later, Covington beat his former Milwaukee teammates. Allen also singled to start a four-run Philadelphia uprising in the first inning and scored in the fifth after smashing a triple. Art Torre homered for the Braves.

Cardenas collected a two-run homer, a double and two sacrifice flies for four runs batted in against the Mets. Frank Robinson produced three runs for the Reds with a two-run homer and a single. Sammy Ellis won his first major league start with a seven - hitter. George Altman homered for the Mets.

Jackson brought his record to 4-1 while striking out 11 and driving in what proved to be the winning run with a double in the Cubs' three-run fourth inning rally. Willie Smith celebrated his 32rd birthday by stroking a double and a single for the Giants and Willie McCovey slammed his sixth homer before Jackson retired the last 12 men he faced.

Has Rogers Craig rubbed off on Bob Gibson?

Craig, the former New York Mets hard - luck hurler, probably hasn't revealed any of his tough-luck techniques to his new St. Louis Cardinals teammate. But it's been an unusually unsuccessful week for Gibson, who got too close to the target Monday night and Wednesday night couldn't get close enough.

It cost Gibson $50 Monday night when he fired a couple of beanballs at Philadelphia pitcher Dennis Bennett. It cost the Cardinals a victory Wednesday night when Gibson fired a pegs over first base and let the Milwaukee Braves score a 1-0 loss to Pittsburgh Pirates.

Gibson came on in relief of Ray Sadecki in the seventh after Robert Clemente led off with a double. Gibson walked Donn Clendenon intentionally. Bob Bailey followed with a bunt single that loaded the bases and when Gibson couldn't accommodate raced home with the clincher.

The victory went to Bob Friend, who checked the Cardinals on eight hits in 9.0 record. Sadecki allowed only seven hits but came up with an 0-3 record when the Cubs extended his streak of misfortune.

Don Drysdale, meanwhile, got in three - for - three performance from catcher John Rosboro and broke a string of four straight losses for the Dodgers as Los Angeles downed the Colts.

Elsewhere in the National League, Jim Covington's two run homer gave Philadelphia Phillies a 7-6 decision over Milwaukee Braves, Leo Cardenas drove in four runs as Cincinnati Reds walloped the Mets 12-4 and Chicago Cubs whipped San Francisco Giants 4-3 behind Larry Jackson's five-hit pitching.

Friend was in trouble twice but Ken Boyer put him there both times. Boyer doubled in the fourth but was thrown out at home when he tried to score on a single by Curt Flood. In the seventh, Boyer led off with a triple but stayed there as Friend retired Flood, Charlie James and Johnny Lewis.

Drysdale, now 3-1, had trouble only in the seventh when Walt Bond's fourth homer, a single by Bob Aspromonte and John Bateman's double produced the Colts' runs. Roseboro was instrumental in two Dodger runs.

London Seeks Junior 'A'

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League announced Wednesday they will be the sole sponsors of the London Nationals junior hockey team next season.

The conclusion of the deal, involving Leaf officials, the executive of the Nationals and officials of London Treasure Island Gardens, will give the Leafs 70 per cent of the stock in the Nationals.

The Leafs, owners of 50 per cent of the stock, offered $25,000 for purchase of the 25 per cent owned by Treasure Island Gardens. Because the remaining 25 per cent was held in escrow, the Toronto club now owns 100 per cent of the leased shares.

The Nationals, a Junior B team last season, have filed an application to enter the OHA Junior A series. The Junior A council will vote on the application the week of May 18.

Britain Seeks Open Tournament

LONDON (AP)—Britain's tennis chiefs said Wednesday they intend to press their plans for an open Wimbledon tournament and a reorganization of the Davis Cup competition.

At a meeting of the Davis Cup nations in London July 2, the only British will propose that the number of entries in the European zone be sharply reduced.

Then when the International Lawn Tennis Federation meets at Vienna July 8, Britain will ask permission to make the all-England championship at Wimbledon in 1965 and 1966 open tournaments with professionals entered along with amateurs.

Britain has proposed open tournaments three times and each time the Federation has voted the plan down.

Trenton RCAF Beats Parsons In Soccer Ex.

A brilliant scoring effort by R. Gale gave Trenton RCAF a 4-1 victory over Parsons Cleaners in a soccer exhibition game last night.

R. DeGenova at left back and J. Rosenburg at left wing, played outstanding games for the Cleaners.

A regrettable incident occurred early in the game when guardsman V. Brosman of Parsons suffered a broken leg when he was accidentally kicked.

The accident occurred in the first two minutes of play.

Parsons play their first Kingston District Soccer League engagement at Kingston Saturday when they meet the Kingston Sports Club. Kickoff 6 p.m.

Ed. Machen Moved Up To Fourth

NEW YORK (AP) — Eddie Perkins of Chicago was named Fighter of the Month by Ring magazine today for his impressive performance in retaining his world junior welterweight championship last month against challenger Bunny Grant of Kingston, Jamaica.

In the magazine's ratings, released at the same time, Eddie Machen, of Los Angeles, scheduled to fight former champion Floyd Patterson, rated seventh in July in Sweden, was moved up to fourth in the heavyweight class. Ernest Terrell of Philadelphia was dropped to fifth. They were the only changes in the class ruled by world champion Cassius Clay.

STUDENTS WANT BAR

ABERYSTWYTH, Wales (CP) — University students are to go on a one-hour strike because their request for a bar was rejected. One student said: "We don't want a gin palace in our building, just a well-furnished lounge bar where students can mix freely and enjoy informal social contact, which is a vital part of university education."

Belleville District Softball Will Be 4-Team League

The Belleville and District Softball League will open its schedule on Monday, May 18, with four teams participating, it was announced at a league meeting last night.

Trenton Commercial Printers returned to the fold shortly before the meeting, filling out the four-team grouping. Other entries are Tweed Lombanks, Trudeau Motors and Ellis Juniors, the last two teams from Belleville.

The Trenton club has apparently solved some of the player trouble which almost knocked the Printers out of action last weekend. The club was not represented last night, but called by phone and said "we are definite starters and we will be attending a meeting here in Trenton tonight to try and complete arrangements for our home games." The team was attempting to secure Tuesday night for home games, but if this could not be arranged the Printers expect to use Saturday for home games.

Games in Belleville and Tweed will commence at 6.45, while Trenton games are expected to start at 8.15. Postponed games will be played on the following Saturday whenever possible.

The loop will play an 18-game schedule, running from May 18 to about July 18 or 19. The first week's schedule has Trenton opening at Trudeaus on Monday, Ellis Juniors going to Trenton on Tuesday or Saturday, Trudeaus playing at Tweed on Wednesday and Tweed visiting the Juniors on Thursday.

A complete league schedule will be released as soon as Trenton has a definite home night.

G. Alexander, Belleville, was re-named as league statistician.

Beats Record Field

By GARRY ALEXANDER
(Staff Sportswriter)

Stan Woodcock, runner-up in last year's race, showed his heels to the pack and captured the 20th annual running of the 4½ mile Ken Colling Memorial Cross Country Run yesterday afternoon.

The 20-year-old Moira Secondary School student outdistanced a record field of 70 district harriers and won with plenty of room to spare over his nearest competitors. His time was 23 minutes and nine seconds.

Woodcock led most of the way but made his decisive move in the Queen Street stretch, headed back toward the BCIVS campus and the finish line.

"I took a pain along Queen Street but didn't let up and it soon left me," the grade 11 student said later. Woodcock also said that he owes his triumph to Bill Vermilyea because "he taught me everything I know about running."

Vermilyea was a three-time winner of the race, in 1960, 61 and 62 and was also a Moira student.

Second place yesterday went to Clyde Jourdain, of the Ontario School for the Deaf, who grabbed the runner up spot from third-place Bob Sinasac, of Albert College. Jourdain's time was 24:8.3 while Sinasac was clocked in 24:25.2. Running a strong and fresh fourth was Moira Secondary's Johnny Hayman, a crowd favorite, in the time of 24:29.5.

Murray Lockwood, of Central Hastings High School, was fifth, followed by Ray Bouma, of BCIVS, Joe Deacon of OSD, Dave Clarke, of BCIVS, Bob Watson and Don Curnow, both of Moira.

Woodcock's time was thought to be a record in some quarters but a check of official's records at BCIVS listed last year's time as 23:0.4, rather than 23:9.4. Trenton's Brian Kane was the 1963 winner.

The heat took it's toll on some of the runners yesterday, a number of them falling near the finish line, but it failed to slow the leaders.

Presentation ceremonies were held in the BCIVS auditorium following the race.

Mr. Cleo Colling, donor of the trophy presented Woodcock with his awards and expressed thanks to all those who worked so hard to make the annual event such a successful affair.

Earlier, Mr. E. Orr, principal of the school, welcomed the harriers and other guests to BCIVS.

Homer "Red" Townsend called for the first 36 finishers to take their place on the stage and crests were presented to these boys by Father McGee, of Nicholson Catholic College. Townsend also thanked the city police for their protection and co-operation.

Official starter for the race was Mr. A. Haig, principal of Albert College, while other teachers taking part in the handling of the race included Stan Barbour, Mr. Townsend, Father McGee and others from the city's various secondary schools.

By THE CANADIA NPRESS

Fans in two of the international League's northern cities got their first look at their teams in home openers Wednesday. Toronto Maple Leafs supporters went home happy. Buffalo Bisons boosters unhappy.

The Leafs came from behind to please 10,389 at their home debut with a 5-3 victory over Jacksonville Suns, banging home all their runs in the seventh inning. The crowd of 13,021 at Buffalo had their home opener spoiled by Atlanta Crackers, who picked the day to get their first win of the season with a 7-2 thumping of the Bisons.

Rochester Red Wings downed Columbus Jets 7-2 and Richmond Virginians edged Syracuse Chiefs 3-2 in other contests.

Leafs were held hitless for 5 2-3 innings by Jacksonville hurler Harvey Branch. But they powered their way onto the scoreboard in the seventh with Harry Chiti's three-run pinch homer, the big blow of the inning. The Suns held a 2-0 lead after the first inning on three hits and two Toronto miscues.

Ron Piche of Verdun, Que., was the winner and Bob Humphries, who replaced Branch in the seventh and served Chiti his home run pitch, was the loser.

Eddie Plank Holds Record For 'Lefties'

NEW YORK (AP) — Eddie Plank, great left-hander of Connie Mack's pennant winning Philadelphia Athletics before the First World War, holds the major league record of 70 shutouts by a southpaw, not 64 as listed in some record books.

Plank, who stepped off the Gettysburg campus into the major leagues in 1901, pitched 64 shutouts in the American League and six in the Federal League, which invaded the realm of the majors in 1914-15.

The Little Red Book of Baseball, endorsed by the American and National leagues as the official record book, lists Plank's 35 Federal League victories but does not include his six shutouts.

Seymour Siwoff, editor of the book, said: "We inadvertantly forgot to include Plank's 1915 shutouts.

"They definitely will be in the 1965 Little Red Book."

Sport Snapshots

By JACK SULLIVAN

Joe Thomas was a year out in his calculations.

The studious, bespectacled manager of E.P. Taylor's racing stable in Toronto predicted in 1958 that a Canadian-bred would not win the Kentucky Derby "within five years."

"The way Canadians are going about it these days, they just can't help breeding a horse that will win the Derby," he said at the time. "You could name half a dozen breeders who might expect to do it."

The list included such names as Conn Smythe and Larkin Maloney of Toronto, the Armstrong Brothers of Brampton, Ont., the Luxiana Stable in Vercheres, Que., Alberta Ranches in Calgary. And, of course, Taylor.

They were matching their knowledge of breeding, backed with loaded wallets, in the race to become the first to saddle a Canadian-bred Derby winner. Thomas didn't venture a guess as to the eventual winner of this behind-the-scenes contest, but he undoubtedly had his boss at the top of the list.

'BREED THE BEST'

Canadians didn't snicker at Thomas's prognostication.

He knew everything there was to know about the fabulous 600-acre Windfields Farm that came cp with Northern Dancer, this year's Derby winner, and how his affluent employer had spent millions of dollars building it and the National Stud at Oshawa, Ont., into two of the top five breeding establishments in North America.

Along with the introduction of high-quality stock in obedience to the old dictum to "breed the best to the best—and hope," Taylor's success lies in use of the most up-to-date methods.

But it wasn't by any means a sure thing that he would one day in May stride into the winner's circle at Churchill Downs in Louisville. Any wealthy Canadian sportsman has a chance to do it simply because of the unique operation of Windfields and the National Stud.

Each year, Taylor conducts a pre - priced yearling sale. He puts a price tag on each one and says how many will be sold. Purchasers can choose the yearling they want. Taylor retains the left-overs.

Under this procedure, the best of the Taylor stock often is sold but Canadian horsemen may as well face one fact: Even with a little bit of luck they can rarely beat Taylor, chairman of The Jockey Club.

For instance, it is well-known now that Northern Dancer had a $25,000 tag on him but owners passed up the colt because they felt he was too small to go anywhere. Taylor, poor chap, was stuck with it and the $114,900 he picked up in last Saturday's Derby brought Northern Dancer's earnings to $304,872 in two years of racing.

Canada's richest horse race, the Queen's Plate, is another where Taylor chuckles all the way to the bank with the winner's loot while other owners grumble about their ill luck.

No one wanted Canebora for $7,500 as a yearling. Last year, the colt whipped a cumbersome 19-horse field in the richest Plate in its 104-year history and returned Taylor a handsome $34,800.

EIGHT PLATE WINS

It was his eighth victory in the last 15 Plate races and five of these were accomplished with horses that no one wanted at Taylor's take - it - or - leave-it sales.

Included in the five was Victoria Park, a horse that almost made Thomas's prediction look good. He was by-passed as a $12,500 yearling and two years later, in 1960, became the first Canadian - bred to enter the Derby and finished a respectable third. He went on to line Taylor's pockets at a scandalous rate.

He won the Queen's Plate that year, went to the post at 1-to-20 odds, paid a nickel on the dollar and gave Taylor a $43,425 purse to bring his total earnings in two years to $124,307, the first Canadian-bred to earn more than $300,000.

Victoria Park won one more race before being hurt and finished with lifetime earnings of $250,076. Now at stud at Oshawa, his first crop of two-year-olds will go to the races this year.

Maybe next year one of them will make it to the Derby. This isn't impossible any more.

DISCOVERS BULLET

WIGAN, England (CP)—Sgt.-Maj. Jack Leonard of this Lancashire town has just discovered that he has a bullet, fired at Gallipoli 49 years ago, embedded in his thigh.

THE Arnold Palmer METHOD

Say the word "chip" to yourself. It sounds quick and sharp there is nothing soft about it. The chip shot in golf should be played just as the word sounds. There should be nothing soft or lazy about your chip shot stroke.

The best way to make your chip shots crisp is to keep the left wrist firm throughout the shot. Never let it get flabby so that it bends or buckles in it.

Address the ball with your left wrist firm and slightly ahead of the ball as in #2. Maintain this firmness on the backstroke (#3). Then strike the ball with your hands and wrists in approximately the same position as they were at address in #2.

The firm left wrist will give you the solid contact with a square clubface that is so necessary, especially on short shots where accuracy is of utmost importance.

Maroons Seek Wrap-Up

By BOB PARKINS

WINNIPEG (CP) — Winnipeg Maroons, nearing the end of their longest season since they were formed in 1902, will be making an all-out bid tonight to bring the city its first Allan Cup in 33 years.

"We want to get this thing over with," coach Gord Simpson said at a practice Wednesday. "They'll be giving it everything they've got—like they did Tuesday—and we'll do our best to wrap it up, you can count on that."

Woodstock Athletics lost 5-0 Tuesday in their finest showing of the best-of-seven series despite the score. In the first two games, inept performances left the Ontario club on the short end of 5-0 and 7-1 scores.

The single goal by a team that averaged five goals a game in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior League this season has given Winnipeg goaltender Don Collins an average of 0.33, probably a record for Allan Cup finals.

Reflecting on Maroons' overpowering victories, Simpson said "this is probably the best-conditioned team we've ever had. We've put in a lot of ice time this year."

Woodstock playing-coach Ted Power hopes another strong game will produce enough breaks for his team to end its scoring famine.

"I thought we played well enough to win Tuesday in spite of the score," Power said. "But the puck just wasn't bouncing for us.

"We have to get the first goal to beat those guys. And we'll be going after it next time—watch us. They always seem to beat us around the 12-minute mark of the first period, and then they're on their way."

Power has had his team in mid-morning workouts following each loss to Winnipeg, each time emphasizing shooting.

"You can't win if you can't score," Power summed it up. "And brother, we sure haven't done much scoring."

PUBLISHER HONORED

LONDON (CP) —Canadian-born publisher Baron Thomson of Fleet is to receive what Lord Beaverbrook's Evening Standard calls a "minor but pleasant accolade." His photograph is to appear in the photographic record of the National Portrait Gallery. Portraits usually appear only after the subject's death.

The Handguns

Henry Tom scored 268, highest score of the evening, when the Quinte Marksmen's held their weekly shoot on a national course at their outdoor range this week.

Other good scores were turned in by George Valiquette 262, Frank Allin 260, Harold Howting 254 and Louis Kulcsar 248.

The Marksmen are currently making plans for the club's first black powder, muzzle-loading competition. It will be held, likely near the end of May, with top marksmen from surrounding districts taking part.

Hiding Athletic Prowess

Canada Has Track Potential

OTTAWA (CP) — A former British national coach said Wednesday that Canada is only nine years away from pulling together a track and field team capable of beating England.

Geoffrey Dyson, new director of the Royal Canadian Legion's sports program, told a press conference that this country is hiding its athletic prowess by not taking part in international team events.

After more than a year of travelling across Canada holding coaching clinics, speaking at athletic banquets and generally striving to generate more interest in track and field, Dyson said he is convinced that Canada has the makings of a good, well - balanced international team.

He suggested a few warm-up matches against such countries as Jamaica and Australia—which he expected Canada to win—before moving into London for the match against the English.

Dyson said the talent was available but generally speaking there was a lack of top notch coaching, facilities and competition.

King's Desperate

Marlies May Get Surprise

By JERRY GLADMAN

TORONTO (CP) — Edmonton Oil Kings have a tough chore ahead of them and a big question is whether the defending Memorial Cup champions have the able bodies to do the job.

The Kings take on Toronto Marlboros tonight in the third game of the best-of-seven finals. Trailing 2-0 in the series, the gritty Edmonton crew has its work cut out for them.

Neither team showed too well in the series opener when the Marlboros skated to a 5-2 triumph. However, the Kings started to find the range in the second match and the 3-3 decision in Toronto's favor could have gone either way.

The visitors refused to back up a step in the second game and at times enjoyed much the better of the play. But a shortage of personnel and two quick third - period goals by the Marlboros appeared to weaken the Kings' effectiveness.

"I'm trying to play everybody to keep them going, but I just don't have the bench boss Oil King coach Buster Brayshaw Wednesday.

"I'll just have to keep utilizing them until I come up with the right combination to work with."

PLAYED TOO MUCH

Brayshaw said he feared his club has played too much hockey and this might have an effect on them.

"They are close in the 100-game mark and could be tiring."

"I'm not trying to take anything away from the Marlboros. They are the best balanced team I've ever seen. I can probably put one or two lines out there to match them, but not three. So I try to play every-body as much as possible to keep them fresh."

In Tuesday's game Brayshaw juggled the forwards, and even used two defencemen up front in an effort to ease the scoring famine.

"All three picked up leg injuries in front of the Toronto net in that second game," he said. "They could hardly get their shoes on. But I won't know their condition until before the game".

Toronto coach Jim Gregory said there were no injuries on his team but "there could be some changes made for the third game."

Gregory feels the Oil Kings have yet to display their full capabilities.

"I think the best game of the series will be this one," he said. "It should be a corker."

CHALLENGER SOUGHT

LONDON (Reuters) — The Royal Thames Yacht Club Wednesday announced the start of trials Saturday between the two possible America's Cup Challengers Sovereign and Kurawa. No decision will be made on the choice of the eventual challenger until the actual selection trial off Newport, R.I. in August. Britain has never won the cup since the first race in 1851.

Hartack Offered Extra Pay

NEW YORK (AP) — Willie Hartack, who rode Canadian-bred Northern Dancer to victory in last Saturday's Kentucky Derby, earned at least $11,431.20 instead of $11,430 for his winning ride.

The extra $1.20 over the customary 10 per cent of the winning purse came from Mrs. William E. Behringer of Bay Shore, N.Y., a community on Long Island.

Hartack found a cheque in a letter from Mrs. Behringer in his mail Wednesday.

"Quite by accident," wrote Mrs. Behringer, "I picked four mount, Northern Dancer, in a Kentucky Derby pool. You rode an excellent race. Therefore I would like you to accept 10 per cent of my winnings." Enclosed was the cheque for $1.20.

"I've never had one like this," Hartack said. "I don't know what I'll do with it, but I'm not going to cash it!"

Hartack, who suffered an ankle injury Tuesday when his mount fell during the parade to the post for the second race at Aqueduct, rode in four races Wednesday but didnt have a winner.

Russia Charges China Toadies To Capitalists

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Communist party suggested today that Red China's leaders are playing up to capitalists in West Germany, Britain, France and Japan.

The allegation was made by Kommunist, the Soviet party's official theoretical journal, and was distributed in advance of publication by the government news agency Tass.

"When Chinese propaganda speaks about the struggle against imperialism," Kommunist declared, "it reduces it only to the struggle against the United States, bypassing their allies—West European and Japanese imperialists.

"Is it possible that the Chinese leaders are looking for partners among the monopolist circles of West Germany, Britain, France and Japan in the struggle against so-called 'modern revisionism?' "

The latter term is one the Chinese use in attacking Premier Khrushchev's policies, including his espousal of peaceful coexistence with the West.

End of Beatle Infestation On Television Not in Sight

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—The end of television's Beatle infestation is not in sight. Ed Sullivan, whose CBS variety hour seems to be a wholesale importer of Liverpool singing groups, has signed Jerry and the Face Makers for a second appearance next Sunday and taped a third turn.

Still another group, Billy K. Kramer and the Dakotas, will appear on the show next month.

Elderly (i.e.: Over 21 years of age) television viewers may be comforted by a statement of Robert Precht, Sullivan's son-in-law, who is the show's producer.

Precht said that it has always been the policy of the show to present singers whose record sales were near the top of popularity lists — which is where The Beatles and their British brethren are perched.

"We certainly don't want viewers to get the impression that the show is simply a vehicle for rock 'n' roll," Precht added. "And if it does seem like a lot now, remember it is one of those fads, and will pass."

NBC's White Paper series next season will include a one hour special on Lee Harvey Oswald, accused assassin of president Kennedy. An NBC news special on the defence of India, pulled out of this month's schedule when the oil company sponsor complained it was "inconsistent with company policy," will be shown May 26. At the moment it has no sponsor.

Singer Paul Anka will be seen on the three major networks during the next few weeks without singing a note. He will travel the Goodson - Todman games and panel show circuit from NBC's Match Game, to ABC's Missing Links to CBS To Tell the Truth.

ISN'T CAPITULATION

CALGARY (CP) — The new Canada Pension Plan is not a "capitulation" to Quebec, Paul Jewett, Liberal member of Parliament for Northumberland said Wednesday. She told a Liberal luncheon the new plan embodies parts of the Quebec provincial scheme because virtually all provinces thought they were good ideas. The federal government had expected to make changes in its original plan.

THEATRE FEATURE TIMES

AT THE BELLE — Burt Lancaster, Kirk Douglas, Fredric March, Ava Gardner in "Seven Days in May". 2.10 - 7.10 - 9.20.

Two New 'Quality' Movies Not What They Could Be

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The new movies—

Two of the new spring crop of films were made by U.S. companies in Spain and at least one might support the thesis of "Yankees, come home."

The better of the two exhibits is The Thin Red Line, first movie sponsored by the American Congress of Exhibitors, a group of theatre men who provide backing to "increase the flow of quality product."

The Thin Red Line shows quality, even flashes of brilliance. It might have been a fine achievement, except for the trap of "playing it safe."

ADAPTED FROM NOVEL

The script was adapted from the James Jones novel which drew its title from a midwest saying: "A thin red line separates the sane and the insane." The borders of sanity are explored in two characters—a sensitive, fate - haunted private play by Keir Dullea (David and Lisa) and a tough-spoken, hair-trigger sadistic sergeant, Jack Warden.

But unfortunately the depths of character are never plumbed and what results is standard war action, expertly done.

The Thin Red Line has been billed as an anti-warm film. It isn't. It pictures war as a nasty game in which you've got to learn the rules. But it's still a game. . . .

Another Madrid-based movie is The Fall of the Roman Empire, filmed at a cost of untold millions. Unfortunately, its script is as empty as its vast sets are filled.

It is hard to believe that it was created by the same team that made the stirring El Cid. Nothing seems to have fallen right for the Empire. Stars are miscast, their lines are stilted or just plain silly, scenes play too long.

AT THE PARK — Christopher Lee, left, faces a rebellious "Devil-Ship Pirate" in the Hammer Film production in color and HammerScope. Also starred in the Columbia release are Andrew Keir and John Cairney. Lee, who plays Captain La Lee's evil side, showing today and Saturday at the Park Theatre. On the same program in color, "The Crimson Blade". Both hits are first showings. Continuous show Saturday from 1.00 p.m. Doors open 12.30 p.m.

AT THE PARK — Jack Hedley at "The Crimson Blade" struggles with Lionel Jeffries' bondsmade in the new Cotton Crown in color and HammerScope. Also starred are Oliver Reed and Jane Merrow. Also star in the Columbia Picture release showing today and Saturday at the Park Theatre. On the same program in color, "Devil-Ship Pirates". Continuous show Saturday from 1.00 p.m. Doors open 12.30.

FEAR JOBLESS GLUT

VANCOUVER (CP)—The National Employment Service and unions are concerned about the number of unemployed moving to northern British Columbia hoping for work on the Peace River hydro - electric project. The Pacific region of the NES has sent letters across Canada advising the unemployed not to go the Peace where a $73,000,000 dam now is under construction. The region's unemployment figure jumped 230 to 1,727 last week.

Beavers Cause Many Problems

TORONTO (CP)—Eddie Sargent (L—Grey North) said Wednesday increased beaver populations are causing problems in some parts of Ontario.

He told the legislature the beavers are building 40-foot high dams in some rivers and pon-venting water from reaching Georgian Bay.

The too-eager beavers are causing concern among commercial fishermen who have urged the dams be bombed to release the water.

Kelso Roberts, lands and forests minister, promised to investigate.

Forest Fire Danger Spreads In Many Areas

British Columbians Worry About Floods

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Firefighters battling blazes across eastern Canada's parched forests can expect little help from the elements today as the crisis spreads.

One of 34 Ontario fires was raging out of control in Algonquin Park. The army was standing by in Quebec and Nova Scotians finally gained the upper hand in battles with 20 blazes.

Nova Scotia was the hardest-hit province with more than 3,000 acres of timberland destroyed. Prime Minister Pearson offered federal aid if it is requested. By early today all of the fires were under control or extinguished. The hazard remained.

In western Canada, in contrast, British Columbians worried about spring floods. Alberta and Saskatchewan residents have had rain for the last few days.

Newfoundland went to another extreme. Rain, freezing temperatures and snow hit most of the east and northeast of the province Thursday, eliminating any danger of forest fires.

In Nova Scotia, where river levels have dropped in three weeks of sunny, hot weather, the weatherman predicts more sunshine and above-normal temperatures this weekend.

A Canso water-bombing plane on loan to Nova Scotia from the Newfoundland government and a Beaver water-bomber hopped to Truro fire to fire all day Thursday.

K. F. Burgess, Nova Scotia's chief forester, said the province's technical term for woods fire conditions is "extreme" but the word "explosive" would be more applicable for the hazard as it now stands.

The last Ontario fire in Ontario raged out of control in Algonquin Park near Lake Traverse, 140 miles northwest of Ottawa. Winds gusting to 35 miles an hour Thursday halted water-bombing operations.

J. K. K. Legris, provincial forest protection officer, said the blaze had destroyed about 1,000 acres of cut-over land and pine plantation Thursday night. An additional 50 men were being rushed in to aid 100 fire-fighters already there.

Six more fires were reported in the Parry Sound district, four near Sault Ste. Marie and Sweetwater district, three each in Sudbury and North Bay areas two near Fort Frances and one in the White River district.

The fire situation in Ontario fire danger conditions were reported low but the rest of the province reported a high danger rating as temperatures continued in the 80 degrees.

Rainfall has been minimal across most of southern Ontario. Temperatures recorded Thursday showed highs of 81 in Windsor, 82 in London, 81 in Toronto and 68 in Ottawa.

Minister Denies Problems

By STEWART MacLEOD

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons Thursday took a rural ramble through all the major agricultural problems of Canada during a debate spiked with a stiff charge of patronage.

Debates drifted from the soybean fields to the dairy barns, to the pig pens, the tobacco farms, the wheat fields and the cheese plant. Even manure forks were mentioned.

But before the agriculture department estimates got off the ground, the spicy subject of patronage held the floor for an hour as Erik Nielsen (PC—Yukon) took up where he left off April 24 when he charged that Agriculture Minister Hays had agreed to get an Edmonton dairy manager to abandon his no-compete contract to supply military installations in that area.

He said that the representative—a Mr. McKay—tried to persuade Jacob Trach of Purity Dairy Company to cut the contract he had to supply dairy products to RCAF Station Namao and Griesbach army depot.

"My information is that Mr. Trach said to Mr. McKay that he can do business with instructions from Ottawa, find something wrong with your product' . . . In other words somebody was going to stick a manure fork into the cream can."

DENIES IT

When he resumed his speech Thursday Mr. Nielsen added additional allegations he said should be investigated—Mr. Hays was ready with a supportive statement that constituted a sweeping denial.

The representative in question not only did not work for the agriculture department but the minister said he had never seen him or Mr. Trach and neither knew any of his officials were in any way involved.

Industry Minister Drury, whose department includes the department of defence production, rose to say that Mr. McKay was an employee of the defence production depart-ment and the minister had the "utmost confidence" in him. Mr. McKay had denied making any such threat in connection with the contract and he had not received any instructions from Mr. Hays.

Mr. Nielsen said Mr. Trach was prepared to swear under oath to the information given by him to the House. Mr. Drury said he was prepared to get an affidavit from Mr. Trach also and Hays said he would be prepared to have a judicial inquiry.

The Trach matter was also said there were "goings on" among members of the Liberal party in connection with the appointment of solicitors to the Farm Credit Corporation.

READS LETTER

He read a "personal and confidential" letter addressed to D. Ant to Mr. Hays, which Mr. Nielsen said was signed by Mr. Carvell, parliamentary secretary to Justice Minister Favreau.

Mr. Carvell, lawyer he is retained solicitor corporation work, and "in view of the reluctance of the chairman of the Farm Credit Corporation to make these changes, I would appre-

May Move Canadians Into Pass

By GERARD ALARIE

NICOSIA (CP)—The United Nations military command in Cyprus is studying a plan to strengthen its positions in the embattled Kyrenia Mountains north of here by moving up A-Company of Quebec's Royal 22nd Regiment.

The 140 men of A-Company have been posted since their arrival on Cyprus in Yrakhomi, a northern suburb of Nicosia, where everything has been relatively quiet.

A reliable informant said Thursday the UN is considering moving A - Company into the strategic Kyrenia Pass area, 12 miles north of here, if the tense situation between feuding Greek- and Turkish - Cypriots gets any worse.

The Kyrenia Pass is prized by both sides because the main road between Nicosia and the northern seaport of Kyrenia passes through it.

FINNS TO TAKE OVER

The informant said a company of Finnish UN troops recently arrived on Cyprus will take up guard duty in Yrakhomas if the Canadians are moved.

The decision on whether to move A-Company into the mountains would depend directly on battle preparations being made there by Greek- and Turkish-Cypriots.

A large movement of men and munitions toward Greek-Cypriot positions was reported Tuesday, but a UN spokesman said later the fresh troops were just replacements for those in the front lines.

There was only sporadic firing in the Kyrenia Mountains Thursday, with no casualties reported.

But there was a heavy overnight exchange of fire in a Nicosia suburb which ended without apparent injury to either side at about 3 a.m. Thursday.

Maj. Bob Theriault of Quebec-B - Company, commander, estimated a total of 300 shots were fired by both sides. He said the warring factions also exchanged insults over loudspeakers.

HARRY HELPS GUINEANS

CONAKRY, Guinea (AP)—Singer Harry Belafonte says he plans to Guinean artists appear in the United States, Canada and South America. Belafonte said as he boarded a Copenhagen-bound plane Thursday he is invited to Guinean cultural affairs and plans to act as consultant to Guinean presentations.

Mr. K Sails for Visit to Egypt, Gets Half Credit for Revolution

CAIRO (Reuters) — Russian Premier Nikita Khrushchev headed here by ship today for a 16-day visit as the authoritative newspaper Al Ahram gave him credit for "half the success of Egypt's revolutionary initiative."

Khrushchev's ship, the Lenin Komsomol, was expected to arrive in Alexandria Saturday from the Black Sea port of Yalta for the first-ever trip made by a Russian premier to an Arab country and to Africa.

The editor of Al Ahram, Mohamed Hassanein Heykal, writing in Cairo Moscow, said the "results would have been different" had Egypt's revolution taken place starting in the 1940s.

The article said the Russians considered the visit significant because it was the first of its kind; it coincided with the completion the first stage of the Soviet-aided Aswan Dam project and it offered opportunities of consolidating Egyptian - Soviet relations.

Khrushchev will open the first stage of the giant hydro-electric project, the high Aswan Dam next Thursday.

FBI Probes Death of 44

Find Cocked and Loaded Pistol In Wreckage of Pacific Airliner

All 44 persons aboard the turbo-prop airliner were killed.

A quarter-mile off metal fragments, a garbled tape recording, the gun and bits of the victims' bodies were all the evidence investigators had to work on.

Gamblers and gospel singers were among the passengers aboard the morning flight from Reno, Nev., that went down in a fiery crash-landing in Stockton, Calif., 80 miles east of its destination, San Francisco.

Seconds before the airliner plunged nose first to earth, a garbled message came over its radio but was lost in a screech of static and electronic squeals. The Federal Aviation Agency had a tape recording of it, however, and investigators hoped it would provide some clue.

The FBI quickly took charge of a cocked and loaded .38-calibre revolver found on the slope.

"Our captains are authorized to carry a gun," said a Pacific Air Lines spokesman. "But none has ever done so to our knowledge."

Two Franciscan monks in their robes walked through the rural pasture Thursday administering last rites.

"We saw the plane coming in low, flying in kind of a glide, with its left engine not turning at all," said David Silva, 22, who was washing his car when the airliner came in over his house.

"The right engine was making a terrible roar, revving hard. Then the plane vanished over the top of a little hill and at that instant we heard this tremendous explosion, like a sonic boom."

Cass Defends Bill

TORONTO (CP) — Frederick Cass said Thursday two of his three regulars for a "police state" were concentrated in the Ontario Police Commission when he became attorney-general in 1962.

Mr. Cass said that in the first year the commission had control of the Ontario Provincial Police. Secondly, it had powers of inquisition and imprisonment.

The third requisite for a police state would be a government that was democratic but weak, or a government that was not democratic one, Mr. Cass said.

After he became attorney-general in October, 1962, he proposed to take away the police commission's power over the OPP but to increase its powers to investigate crime.

DANGER INCREASED

Mr. Cass said his view of the danger involved in vesting both of these powers in the commission was strengthened by the fact that the commission was headed by "an experienced, dedicated but very ambitious man."

Although he did not name him, the man referred to by Mr. Cass was believed to be Judge Bruce Macdonald, former chairman of the commission, who resigned in January.

International Peacekeeping Force Proposed by Pearson

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson's proposal to sound out other countries on organizing a standing international peacekeeping force is designed to support the United Nations, not in front of it, the world body.

The prime minister emphasized this Thursday night in a university lecture in which he announced his government has obtained cabinet approval for the proposal.

After confidential exploratory talks, will make a formal approach to the other countries to further the project.

The object is to start with countries which have already earmarked contingents for United Nations service. Besides Canada, others in this category are Norway, Denmark, Sweden, Finland and The Netherlands.

"They would be, ready, and willing," Mr. Pearson said. "Soon, I hope, others would be added until all the continents would be represented."

The contingents would be on standby orders in their own countries, and would only be used on UN duty on request by the UN.

"In some situations this standby force might not necessarily serve as an entity; only

Unable to Get Action

Windsor Teacher States Children Beaten

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — A Windsor school principal said Thursday she knows of at least eight children whose parents beating their children but has been unable to get action on them.

Miss Olive Marcone, principal of Roseland Public School, said something should be done to stop the beatings. She said the children "do that the next evidence we have before an inquest isn't the body."

She was speaking during a panel discussion at the annual conference of the Ontario Association of Children's Aid Societies.

"What can be done?" she asked. "I know of beating cases. The police work on them. Then in court a sharp lawyer for the case thrown out or the mother was going to testify decides to keep her mouth shut."

Speaking at the same panel discussion during the second day of the association's three-day meeting, Dr. H. B. Cotnam, Ontario supervising coroner said he files on 20 proven child killings by parents or older children. For every one case that is brought to his attention there are 100 unreported cases, he said.

He said doctors should be required to report beating and neglect cases to police and Children's Aid Societies.

Dr. Cotnam also said the problem of the battered child deserves immediate and special attention since "there is an apparent increased incidence of this type of case within the last several years."

During a panel discussion, four teen-agers told delegates schools have failed them.

The panelists were Mary Allison McConville, Windsor, Mary Lou Stroud, Amherstburg, Douglas Deporter, Leamington, and Donald Dawson of Windsor.

"We have reached the point where you look upon us as monsters and we regard you as monsters," one panelist said. "This is wrong but it is a fact. You have lost the art of communicating with us."

The young panelists felt a teen-ager should be treated as an individual, not as a cog in a machine. Teachers, parents and clergymen all failed to grasp the feelings and emotions which are part of the problem of growing up, they said.

"They tell us not to read filthy books, not to attend unpleasant movies or watch sex shows on TV. Yet all these things are produced by adults. Do they think they can teach us by the rule of saying one thing and then doing the exact opposite themselves? If they wish us to have better examples, let them stop producing such rot."

Labor Landslide Forecast After Municipal Vote

New London Boroughs Mostly Won by Labor

LONDON (Reuters) — Opposition Labor Party leaders today hailed Labor's success in widespread municipal voting Thursday as a forerunner of a landslide victory in the general election this fall.

With the bulk of the returns in from municipal elections throughout England and Wales, Labor had not only won control in a majority of the 32 new London boroughs but also had a net gain of 254 seats in voting for city and town councils in the provinces.

Deputy Labor Party leader, George Brown, told reporters the returns meant that his party, out of power since 1951, would score a landslide general election triumph over Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home's Conservatives.

Voting Thursday showed a continuation of the leftward swing recorded in last month's elections for 53 county councils. It also filled with new public opinion poll figures giving Labor a 17 - per - cent popularity lead over the Conservatives.

LOST 122

In the voting outside London, the Conservatives lost 122 seats, Independents lost 47 and Liberals dipped by 50.

One important outcome was that Labor won control earlier feared the creation of the Greater London Council would end its long domination of local government here, saw its position in the capital consolidated.

Last month Labor won 64 seats against the Conservatives' 36 in the first elections for the Greater London Council. After Thursday's voting, it was assured of control in a majority of the 32 individual and enlarged local councils within the area.

'Drugging' Of Attaches Protested

MOSCOW (Reuters) — The United States and Britain have protested to Russia over the apparent "drugging" of four service attaches at the Black Sea port of Odessa in March.

The U.S. state department announced it had protested to the Soviet Union over the apparent drugging of three U.S. military attaches after they were visiting Odessa on the same date as a British naval attache was similarly involved.

The U.S. embassy here declined comment on the state department's announcement. A embassy spokesman said the three U.S. officers were on an official trip to Odessa and returned to Moscow the day after the alleged incident.

A well - informed source in London said the British attache had returned to Moscow and now was all right.

AWAITED TESTS

(In Washington a state department spokesman told a press conference Thursday night that the American protest had been delayed to await the results of medical tests, which "showed the presence of enough barbiturate to cause extreme drowsiness."

(The spokesman added that the attaches had dinner at their hotel and went to bed. When they woke up the next morning they "showed mild symptoms suggesting they had been drugged.")

A British embassy spokesman said a written note dated April 29 was handed to the Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister at a protest made to Russia's foreign ministry Monday.

The latest incident followed action by the Soviet authorities April 10 banning travel outside Moscow and Leningrad to British air attache and four U.S. service attaches.

The British attache and two American assistant air attaches were restricted to Moscow 90 days after they were involved in a bus near Moscow, March 17. The three officers were accused of trespassing on military property and observing a military airfield.

Two Quakes Shake Japan

TOKYO (Reuters) — Part of northern Japan was shaken by an earthquake today followed after a stronger earthquake split open the earth, sunk seven feet and left a trail of destruction in the air in some areas.

The first earthquake, which opened fissures of up to 30 yards long, registered four on a scale of seven, according to meteorological agency said. The second earthquake today registered three.

No casualities were reported in either earthquake.

Makarios on Pacification Tour Admonishes Greek for Action

TIMI, Cyprus (AP). — President Archbishop Makarios raised his hand warningly at one Greek - Cypriot Thursday and said "I think you are more to blame than the Turks in this island. Although there are hotheads on both sides."

The unusual dialogue occurred in a talk between Makarios and a Turkish-Cypriot coffee-house in this mixed village of 350 Greek- and 250 Turkish-Cypriots. It has been the scene of communal fighting.

Makarios, the Greek-Cypriot leader, stopped in the village on his pacification tour of western Cyprus, his first since fighting erupted last December.

Under orders of Greek-Cypriots and Swedish troops with the United Nations peace force, Makarios walked into a coffee house in the coffee shop, situated in a building that serves as a community centre for Turkish-Cypriots.

The coffee shop owner shook hands with Makarios, as did two other Turkish-Cypriots. All Methodist, a village councillor, and Ramadan Attan, a constable.

A crowd gathered in front of the building. He smiled and asked: "Well, well, do you still fight among yourselves?"

Metteah acknowledged this to be true on at least three occasions and Makarios said jokingly "you all need a proper hiding."

Metteah spoke up: "It's all the Greek's fault. The Greeks keep attacking us, preventing us from going out to our fields to work, terrorising us and destroying our property."

An elderly Geek tied to protest, but Makarios cut him off. The president said the Greeks appeared most to blame in this case and added:

"Unity is peace and to show the Turkish community that Greeks and Turks can really live in peace together, at least in mixed villages."

He invited Greeks who felt molested by Turks outside the village to notify the government, which he said would punish them.

"But you must make the Turkish in your village feel safe," he advised.

There were smiles on both sides as the archbishop departed, but it was obvious fear and mistrust were far from dissipated. A Swedish officer in the district said: "We hope President Makarios' visit will help dispel fear on both sides."

Member Pleads for More Research in Manufacture Of Pesticides in Commons

A plea for more research into the manufacture of pesticides was made yesterday in the House of Commons by Robert Temple, Liberal member for Hastings-Frontenac.

Mr. Temple said that more money for research in this field was necessary to develop types of pesticides, which would be less dangerous to wild life.

Mr. Temple said he fully realized the value of pesticides in controlling insects, but said the use of insecticides was also taking a heavy toll in fish and life life.

He said that in Alabama 30,000 acres had been treated to control the Japanese beetle.

"It did a good job on the beetles, but it also killed the meadowlark, robins, brown threshers, the grackles and the starlings and seriously reduced the ringneck pheasant population," he said.

In North Alabama pesticides were used in the cotton fields and when rain fell it got into the stream and rivers and wiped out all fish life in 18 streams. Many thousands D.D.T. was used in an attempt to control the Dutch Elm disease and 95 per cent of the robin population was killed. And pesticides were being blamed for the failure of lake trout in Lake George, N.Y., to reproduce.

Ten million fish in the Mississippi had been killed by pesticides, Mr. Temple said, while in Great Britain the failure of the golden eagle to reproduce was being blames on pesticides

The speech by Mr. Temple was made yesterday during a House of Commons debate on agricultural estimates. Mr. Temple said more money should be provided for additional research into pesticide manufacturing.

New Machine Will Separate Oil From Water

TORONTO (CP)—A machine that could be a boon to harbor officials and a joy to conservationists was put through its paces in Toronto's harbor Friday.

Port officials of Toronto and Hamilton, officials of the Great Lakes Institute, and oil company officials watched as the machine skimmed off the water as it went by on a cross-separator at a dairy.

C. W. Morgan, port director of Hamilton, said the machine could put an end to the problems of oil pollution which have bothered ports throughout the world for years.

Prof. B. Langford, director of the Great Lakes Institute of the University of Toronto, said the machine could aid in conservation by eradicating the problem of serious pollution of paper dropped by "A" Group Scouts May 2nd.

The machine was invented by Trygve Thune of Oslo, Norway, a manufacturer of harbor and ship equipment. He said the machine combines an oil recovery unit and an oil boom.

To recover spilled oil, an impervious floating wall or oil boom is fastened around the only area and contracted. As the oil film grows in thickness, it is pumped into a separator unit.

The separator is a metal tank barge with a paddle wheel at the rear. As the wheel rotates, the floating oil is pushed into a flat tank where it can be easily drawn off.

Mr. Morgan said when oil was spilled in Hamilton harbor, a boom could easily be erected around it, but pumping out the oil had been a laborious job. The new machine, he said, would eliminate the problem of extracting the oil from the wa-

Rockefeller May Be Forced To Speak of Private Life

An AP News Analysis
By ROBERT T. GRAY

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—A new note of frankness has appeared in Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller's national political activity on the sensitive topic of his divorce and marriage.

The development reflects the thinking of many of his campaign leaders throughout the country that the issue must be faced more directly if he is to preserve any chance of winning the Republican presidential nomination.

Rockefeller has run far behind in virtually every primary and poll connected with the Republican contest.

Originally, the New York governor answered questions about his private life with no effort to defend himself and by saying he would submit to the judgment of voters.

The subject was not discussed publicly otherwise by him or his leading spokesmen.

Then the question of the presidential nomination is rapidly nearing the important Oregon and California primaries.

PRESSURE INCREASES

Pressure has increased on Rockefeller to speak out more frankly on his divorce and re-marriage in an effort to offset the damage they caused to his political fortunes.

The impersonal approach seems to have been part of his efforts, direct or indirect, to win understanding.

There has been developments:—

—Asked in California about his divorce, Rockefeller did not give the usual answer that the voters would decide what happened. He said the happiness that occurs in having to accept failure.

—When the question of his private life was raised by a college youth at a rally in Portland, Ore., Rockefeller answered quietly: "As you live, you learn that people in their own extraordinary ways find solutions to problems than others realize. We must have the courage to face these problems."

—At a reception in Charleston, W.Va., a top Rockefeller supporter called upon Republicans to judge the governor on his record in public life, not on "matters completely extraneous."

These statements still fall short of what some Rockefeller advisers have suggested — a U.S. - wide television appearance by the governor to explain his divorce and remarriage in a manner that would win sympathy for him.

But those who know Rockefeller say he would not even consider such public exposure of his private life.

Roy Sills Will Not Run for Re-election

The local politics appointment is settling for a lesser role out of the limelight.

Roy Sills, president of Hastings South Liberal Association, said today he would not seek re-election for a fourth year of office. The association held its annual meeting Saturday in the Kiwanis Centre.

The Hallowray farmer, for years a familiar tussler in local farm and community affairs and politics headed the association in its fight to win the federal constituency for the Liberal party.

Last year Mr. Sills climaxed the political phase of his life by bidding for provincial riding of East Hastings. He was defeated, but waged a hard battle in the livelier campaigns in Ontario, by Clarke Rollins, M.L.A.

Mr. Sills said he would not seek office with the association again since he felt it time that "newer blood" take over the reins.

Vanderwater Park to Open Mother's Day

The Colonel Roscoe Vanderwater conservation area will be open this weekend — a special gesture for Mother's Day.

The Moira riverside beauty spot at Thomasburg, just off Highway 37, normally opens the third week in May.

However, Bruce Smith, chairman of the Moira Conservation Authority's executive committee, last year decided the parkland-cum-picnic-ground should be made available for Mother's Day. So successful — and popular — was the experience that Mr. Smith apparently thought it should be repeated.

The Authority announced this morning the Vanderwater property will therefore open a week earlier than usual.

Also something new again has been added.

There will be no entrance fee for the first week.

Federal Health Dept. Will Not Ban 'Anablast'

OTTAWA (CP) — The health department has indicated it won't stand in the way if a doctor administers the controversial "Anablast" serum of French biologist Gaston Naessens to a Quebec child reported stricken with leukemia.

An explanation of the department's position in the case was issued in a statement issued by Mr. Nassens.

Mr. Nassens, self-taught biologist who came to Montreal last week at the request of restaurant-owner Rene Guynemer, issued the statement Wednesday night in Montreal following a meeting here with Dr. G. O. W. Cameron, deputy health minister and other health department officials.

Mr. Guynemer of Duverray, Que., had asked Mr. Nassens to administer the serum to his 3½-year-old son Rene, who has been given only a few months to live. The father has said the boy has leukemia—cancer of the blood cells.

Mr. Guynemer accompanied Mr. Nassens to the conference with department officials here. The department's chief concern is the application of its laws controlling the distribution of new drugs.

A statement by the department today said it would not regard as "distribution" within the meaning of the law "the prescription or administration of any drug to a single individual by his attending physician, but rather as the practice of medicine within the purview of provincial regulatory authority.

"Any attempt, however, to sell Anablast serum or any other new drug, or to make it available to physicians or others for clinical tests or trial, may be undertaken only in accordance with the provisions of the new drug regulations, which prohibit such distribution until satisfactory evidence has been filed with the food and drug directorate."

IN MEMORIAM

REVELL — In loving memory of my husband and father, who passed away May 8, 1952.
There are those in life you cannot forget
A gift that is real and true.
The love of a wonderful father,
A man that is loved by you.
You left in spring, now spring returns
Fresh blooming with the love you gave,
Memories remain forever more,
With a silent ache of missing you,
Which only heaven can heal.
We love you more dearly than we know,
But lovelier and death shall let us see.
What love and life should always be
I was not there to say goodbye,
Though I know you would understand,
For I never could have said good-bye,
To a father I loved so well.
I'll keep you in memory dear,
But you did not go alone,
For part of me went with you,
The day God called you home.
—Lovingly remembered by daughter Gladys and son-in-law Gordon.

REVELL — In loving memory of my dear husband Edwin Revell (Ted) who passed away May 8th, 1952.
My life cannot speak how I miss you.
My heart cannot tell what to say,
God alone knows how I miss you,
In a home that is lonesome today,
Sorrows they say in this world are many
But when I lost you God was the greatest of all.
—Always remembered by your loving wife Lillian.

REVELL — In loving memory of a dear father Edwin (Ted) Revell who passed away May 8, 1952.
In tears we saw you sinking,
We watched you fade away,
Our hearts were almost broken,
You fought so hard to stay,
But when we saw you sleeping,
Your suffering o'er at last,
We could only smile through our tears,
To suffer that again.
—Always remembered by his daughter Mrs. Ann Hall and son-in-law Ross.

REVELL — In loving memory of a dear grandfather, Edwin Revell who passed away May 8, 1952.
And God shall wipe away all tears,
There shall be no more death, neither sorrow, nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain. Revelations 21:4.
—Lovingly remembered ever by grandchildren.

Many Inquiries Made About Cardiff Homes

BANCROFT — Realtors in Cardiff, say they have had hundreds of inquiries about 150 homes that go on sale in the former Uranium town, eight miles west of here this Saturday.

The houses have been empty since miners deserted Cardiff after the closure of two uranium mines. The homes, owned by Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation have been turned over to a Peterborough realtor firm. The houses will be sold at 4,500 dollars for a three-bedroom bungalow, and 4,500 dollars for a two bedroom bungalow on the basis of first come, first serve.

The Government C.M.H.A. expects to recover some $900,000 from the deal, the houses were erected in 1956 at a cost of two million dollars.

Meanwhile, tomorrow, former Ontario Premier Leslie Frost will be presented with the key to Cardiff and become its first honorary citizen in a rededication of the community.

It was reported from Peterborough today that a Belleville resident secured one of the bungalows yesterday and plans on becoming one of the new citizens of Cardiff.

Ontario, Quebec Relations Subject of Talk by Minister

TRENTON — Speaking to more than 100 persons at a dessert luncheon in the parlors of King St. United Church on Wednesday, Rev. Noble Hatton, regional director for the Canadian Council of Christians and Jews advocated a "positive" approach in Ontario and Quebec relations.

Rev. Hatton said that the problems of Quebec, in relation to Canada's nine other provinces, should be viewed as a "family" matter and that the people of the other provinces should learn to tolerate and overlook the weak points of French Canadians, much as they would the objectional characteristics in members of their own families.

The Canadian Council of Christians and Jews is doing its part to resolve the differences between French Canadians and residents of Ontario by arranging exchange weekends and visits between young French Canadian adults and young Ontario adults.

Exchange summertime visits between French Canadian high school students and high school students from Ontario, are also arranged by the council, as a way of developing a greater understanding between the youth of the two provinces.

Other "public relations" projects sponsored by the council are Brotherhood Week, Round Canada and Citizenship Receptions, at which persons who have just become Canadian citizens are welcomed by members of the council and public officials.

On the subject of inter-faith relationship, Mr. Hatton said the council was sponsoring religious dialogues between Anglican and Roman Catholic priests and Protestant ministers and meant to invite Jewish rabbis to take part in the discussion groups in the near future.

Council Offers $4,000 for Gravel Pit

TRENTON — Trenton council has authorized the public work committee to make an offer of $4,000 to Lyle Carr for the gravel pit, owned by Mr. Carr and located just to the west of Mount Pelion.

At some future date, council may, according to present thought on the matter, build a road between Front Street and Catherine St., running along the west side of the mountain.

Acquiring the gravel pit would be the first step in this direction.

Egg Producers Lose in Fight To Get Plan

TORONTO (CP) — Agriculture Minister William Stewart said Thursday there is no enough evidence of support among Ontario egg producers to adopt a requested marketing plan without a vote from the industry.

The Ontario Poultry Producers' Association had requested the government to establish a plan on a two-year trial basis through the Ontario Farm Products Marketing Board. It asked for adoption without a vote.

Mr. Stewart said in an interview that after study of the request it appeared, through meagre attendance at meetings to discuss the proposal, that there is no pronounced support of the plan.

A Workless World?

Frank Capon, vice-president of Dupont Canada Ltd., believes "we could produce today all we need to support the present living standards with a 30-hour week if everyone worked hard for the 30 hours." Soon, he says, 30 hours a week will be all the work required.

If that statement is questioned by some, it is just as likely as not to be for Mr. Capon's requirement that we work hard. Looking around at the many activities which really do nothing to improve our standard of living, many will argue that a 30-hour week would suffice even if we worked no harder than we already do. All that would be required would be to eliminate useless production and competition and to make sure that all took a hand in the task.

Mr. Capon, though, seems to have something different than an equitable distribution of work in mind. He contends that, if machines replace man with what it produces in the future, the broad mass of the people will have to rely on the ownership of machines, or capital, rather than upon wages, for the broad distribution of wealth.

He made this observation at the annual meeting of the Trust Companies Association of Canada, a group which one would not expect to be overly receptive to radical proposals. Needless to say, he startled the delegates.

What Mr. Capon proposes is that the corporation tax be abolished and that institutions be discouraged from investing in equities. Otherwise, he argues, pension funds, university endowments, insurance groups and other trusts will tend to take a large share of the available equities that there will not be enough for the individual who will, in the scheme of things he envisages, depend upon dividends for his daily bread.

This view is radical in the true sense of the word. It is only recently that the institutional investors have been weaned from investing together in bonds and have been turning from debt securities to equity investments and one measure before the House of Commons seeks to encourage insurance companies to divert more of their funds to equities. One argument advanced by advocates of this trend is that only in this manner can those with savings in such institutions avoid the ravages of inflation.

It may well be, though, that the need for this policy is diminishing just as the policy itself gains favor, for the federal pension plan will certainly reduce dependence on private pension plans and similar savings and there is good reason to expect that, no matter what may be said, pensions paid will increase as the value of the dollar declines.

This would make Mr. Capon's suggestion feasible, but hardly essential. Ownership of the machines which produce our wealth, with a constantly diminishing requirement of human labor, is not the only method of distributing this wealth reliably. Instead, in the type of economy which Mr. Capon envisions for the future, Social Credit theories may at last make some sense. If the great economic problem of the future is to get rid of the wealth these machines produce, it may prove easier to give it away than to assure that each of us owns an equitable share of the machines, and therefore of their products.

Mr. Capon, it is said, is actuated by a desire to insure the future of free enterprise and he might, therefore, reasonably reply that a give-away system would defeat his aims. It does seem questionable, though, whether any system in which we have to tax our ingenuity to get rid of all we can produce can be compatible with a system based on enlightened self-interest. In the utopia for which Mr. Capon would prepare us, enlightened self-interest will involve disposing of, rather than acquiring, as much of this world's goods as possible.

When this problem actually besets us, it will be a wonderful, wonderful year.

I strongly suspect that there is a functional relation between freedom and development, as well as between development and nation-state. The weight of historical example is on the side of this argument. Pharaohs built pyramids and Fascists made the trains run on time, but neither succeeded in creating a highly specialized modern society dedicated to relativism and pragmatism in the settlement of dispute, and open to individuals to seek their places according to what they have been able to become and not according to what they are born to. The fact that the Western democracies have not been able to achieve perfection on these scores is no reason to deny all validity to the social meaning of Western libertarianism, science and pragmatism.—K. H. Silwert.

Letter to the Editor

Union Jack Made up Of Three Flags

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

In Mrs. J. Provovost's letter she mentions she would not imply that all those in love with the Union Jack should move to England. . . . Why, England!

What about Scotland and Ireland?

The Union Jack is made up of the three flags, hence we get the word "Union." Only the flag of St. George is English. . . . His being only one-third of the flag. The Cross of St. Andrew was joined with that of St. George when James the VI of Scotland became James the I of England—in 1606, and in 1801 the Cross of St. Patrick was added.

I feel that our British heritage should be preserved because was it not when King John in 1215 signed the Magna Carta at Runnymede it demonstrated that there is a basis for world law.

As Albert Beebe White, professor of History at the University of Minnesota, said, "English constitutional history is not national history but world history."

As regards our tax year ends and our tourist season anything we fly the Union Jack—if they only knew the words of the song the "Union Jack shall ever." it would solve that. May I quote here the first stanza of verses written by Alexander Muir:

In days of yore, from Britain's shore
Wolfe the dauntless hero came
And planted firm Britannia's flag
On Canada's fair domain—
Here may it wave our boast,
In our grateful prayer
And join in love together—
The thistle, shamrock, rose entwine
The Maple Leaf Forever.

I feel that by having the Red Ensign for our national flag, the Union Jack with its historical background is the banner, and the flag bearing our own Canadian coat of arms, we could then wave them, joining together, therefore giving our future generations a flag to live up to, worthy of historical and future values.

The idea of getting rid of all the old traditions and getting a brand new design, 18 fear, would not bear the same meaning. But we should not destroy there remains the story of the youth who did have a brand new flag, a new country and new ideas, and I would not care to see history repeat itself and our youth going to grief in the same way.

Yours sincerely,
(Mrs.) Dorothy Howse.

Doctor Says Hair Doomed

Ottawa Journal

Dr. James W. Burks, of Tulane University, who is a specialist on the scalp, took the gloomy point of view, said at a conference in Memphis, Tennessee, that a century or so from now everyone will be bald. He explained:

"Hair on the head is no longer useful but purely ornamental . . . it's destined to go."

Dr. Burks is a brave man to present such a theory to a well-educated evolution in Tennessee. And he will have the applause of those who are bald already for he invites them to consider themselves the vanguard of human development in the "fittest" who are to survive.

But when he says that hair is not useful and is ornamental he betrays himself as a man who has not seen the Beatles.

If Dr. Burks wants to start discarding spare human parts, perhaps he should start with the legs. As for their usefulness we quote a shoe merchant's remark made the other day on the evolution of men's footwear from the stout, triple-soled walking shoe to the pointy-toed winklepicker: "Who walks?"

Municipal Speculation

Brantford Expositor

Only once in the last seven years has Brantford's municipal tax rate been raised, and once it was cut. Taxes have been kept down by sales of land acquired for $700,000 by the city ten years ago. Only part of the land had been sold but so far it has brought $6,000,000 used to pay outright for capital projects other cities have to borrow to finance.

Fewer Prunes, More People

New York Times

The population of the United States is shooting up toward 300 million, a mark it will reach in a few years if nothing happens to stop it.

Sometimes we get a dramatic example of what this increase means. California, to illustrate, has a little less than 37 million acres of land in farms, but according to the Agricultural Extension Service this acreage is dwindling at the rate of 200 acres a day. In about two decades this movement has cut the States farm lands by more than a million acres. The trend is unmistakable.

In some areas, such as the Santa Clara Valley, there are thoughtful people who foresee that apricot trees than there used to be. These have been replaced by people, as California caught up with and passed the State of New York. Aren't people more valuable than prunes? Certainly.

But people have to live, and the land is not for sale on prunes and apricots, then on other horticultural products. What is happening in Santa Clara County is happening in a different way in Fairfield County, Connecticut, upstate New York. The nation has plenty of food — even a big and country agricultural surplus maintained by a benignant Government. But some day? That is what we have to think about.

The man who digs up an orchard or a cornfield to make room for industry or houses is serving a human need. He is also liquidating the means for satisfying another human need.

This is not a problem to be settled in the election this fall. It is one you will be thinking about for a long time. But there it is, and as we write, hang does another California farm or another Long Island potato patch.

Strictly Personal We Tend to Blame Others For Our Sins

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

The day after the publication of my recent column on the "blaming others" for our own sins of omission and commission, I ran into a man I know, who said: That was a fine piece you wrote yesterday — I read it in my lean-ago can."

I looked at him quizzically, until he got the point. "I see what you mean," he said ruefully. "That last means that I do the way thing you were writing about — instead of applying the rule to myself, I projected to my son, and accused him of blaming others for his woes."

"Yes," I said, "and that kind of attitude on your part — which is quite unconscious, of course — is startling confirmation of what I wrote. Because your immediate tendency was to find someone outside of yourself who needed that advice more than you did."

"You're absolutely right," he reflected. "Because I neglected to tell you the end of the episode. It happened that my son had already read the column — and he said to me, 'You know, dad, I was hoping that you had read it! He applied to me what I applied to him."

The father saw the son as blaming his parents, or environment, for his failures, or faults. Both were wrong; while the son saw the father as blaming the boy for these qualities in the father-son standings in the family.

This widespread form of "projection" actually ranges all the way from family relationships to international arrangements. Businesses and public institutions are especially prone to this mechanism. In one typical study of a hospital, made by Prof. Chris Argyris of Yale, it was found that "the nurses partially adapt to their own inability to be what they believe is an ideal nursing administrator by projecting their own limitations upon the administrative staff of the hospital."

As one nurse described it: "If you ask me, administration doesn't understand us. If they did, they would get busy and solve the many annoying administrative difficulties we have. Just take scheduling. They haven't been able to solve that yet to a satisfactory level." And the chemical laboratories. If you want to help us nurses, please do upstairs with the administrators out of them."

A hospital is particularly fertile field for this sort of study because failures are serious and personal and the blame is easily shifted from doctors to nurses' aides to administrators to the boards of trustees — and then back again to the lowest level. A patient with a legitimate complaint is rarely able to pinpoint the "core of responsibility" for the neglect, because the deceptive juggling of blame has been refined to a high order of skill.

And please don't read this piece to someone else "who needs it more."

Auto Needs Breathalyzer

Portland Oregonian

Since Jan. 1, seat belts by law have been standard equipment in all new cars sold in Oregon, but there are still instances arising from highway safety sources that the new rule hasn't been heeded by the car maker, simply because too many motorists are too lazy to buckle seat belts when they move away from the curb.

Now the automotive industry has come up with a new gimmick intended to encourage occupants of cars equipped with seat belts to use them. It combines the ignition switch is hooked up with the belt buckle so that unless the belt is buckled the engine won't go.

Inasmuch as the industry a long time ago figured out how to keep up from banging bumpers with its "safety" bumper, neutralizing the starter except when the automatic gear shift level is in "neutral," this doesn't seem like a very startling invention. If they really want to impress us, and delight the highway safety people, why don't they devise a gizmo to energize the starter circuit only after ti has sniffed the driver's breath, and detected nothing stronger than garlic!

To Your Good Health Diabetes Patients Should Be Careful of Gangrene

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Please write about gangrene for elderly diabetics. I am particularly concerned with early detection of gangrene, the risk of it being caused by lacerations, contusions, etc., and means of preventing the spread of the terrible affliction. — J. D. S.

In chorus with other doctors I have stressed often enough about care of the feet in diabetes because of the risk of gangrene. Your letter brings it up short. We haven't said much about it except to "be careful." So am glad you asked.

Gangrene, of course, means that soft tissues are dead or dying, and decomposing. It is a dangerous condition indeed, and sometimes can be stopped only by amputation.

Medical attention is necessary at once. Don't waste even a minute trying to treat it yourself.

But there are preventive measures.

This is of increasing importance among elderly diabetics not only because they are living longer but also because diabetes is constantly being detected in older people.

The big factor is circulation. With diabetes there is apt to be a higher degree of hardening of the arteries. This is particularly true in the smaller arteries and capillaries of the lower extremities, and especially below the ankle.

When tissues are damaged, (stubbed toe, a blister, scratch, ingrown toenail, bruises skin from shoes's poor) or when any infection gets a start, the circulation may be so poor that the tissues cannot protect themselves. Gangrene ensues.

When the case of diabetes is not controlled well, when the patient has not been following proper diet, or not being careful about infections, or accidents or other medication — changes in the amount of lipoproteins (fats) or substances in the blood make the risk even greater.

There is usually no pain when gangrene begins. Later it can be a different matter.

Signs of impending gangrene are redness and swelling around an area of the foot, usually extending up the foot; or black, red, swollen area (such as a toe).

There are two main types of gangrene: Dry gangrene, with the tissue changing color; and moist gangrene, in which color changes also occur but in addition there is infection and discharge.

If in doubt, don't wait. Every hour counts, and if you call your doctor right away he can stop gangrene — yet — it still isn't wasted effort if there is some sort of infection or inflammation, you may still be averting a developing case. Play safe.

Tomorrow we'll suggest ways of prevention.

Dear Dr. Molner: I drink a quart of milk a day but have a terrible time to get it down for adults peal the age of 40. Is this true? — H. E.

No. I don't think you need that much milk (I firmly believe that a pint a day is good for adults) but it is a good idea to drink about your weight, make it the skim variety and keep on drinking all you want.

Dear Dr. Molner: What is anorexia? It's symptoms? — T. M.

Anorexia is loss of appetite. It can be serious if it is a symptom of trouble. For example it may be a symptom of tuberculosis, cancer of the stomach; profound emotional disturbances or a variety of other illnesses.

Policeman Has Hard Life

Sault Ste. Marie Star

A police officer has many duties other than those which are most apparent to the general public, and one of the most important of these is his appearance in court as a witness.

Unfortunately, such duties often fall at the most inopportune times for him. It would be impossible to schedule cases so no one is inconvenienced, but it seems the law of averages were invoked, rather than for, the officers.

As quite often happens, the officer has just come off the night shift a couple of hours before court. He might sit around half the morning before his case is called, only to have the defendant change his mind and plead guilty after all.

Even more frequently, he is called for court duty on his day off, or even worse — while on "dirdays."

With a tight schedule to be met in order to fit in annual two-week holidays for a large group, they must be planned far ahead. As a rule cases in which an officer is subpoenaed are set so he will be available, but adjournments can upset this and bring a case up right smack in the middle of a police officer's annual holiday. On a few occasions when this matter was mentioned, Crown has sharply reminded those concerned that a court appearance takes precedence over holidays. It is not hard to be of the officer was simply staying at home, but if he had made plans to go away on his annual vacation, these longlaid plans are greatly vexatiy be ruined. Fortunately this is not a frequent occurrence.

There are, of course, some monetary compensations, slight as they are. For an appearance as a witness in magistrate's court, the officer is entitled to $2 for witness fee. In cases where a witness fee is not provided he is allowed at least two hours court time and one hour for each hour or portion of an hour after that spent in court. This court time is accumulated and he is allowed to reserve five days and months for the prevailing rate of pay for his rank for the balance of the time accumulated this agreement is made once a year, shortly before Christmas.

This does somewhat better in higher court on criminal cases, or on inquests where the witness fees are higher, $4 and $5. The bugbear of them all, though, is when an officer is required to appear with $1 attached, commanding his appearance as a witness in some civil action, which might drag on for days. In rare cases, the lawyers concerned see to it that the officer receives a better recompense, but this is not always so.

All in all, these "recompenses" sound pretty feeble in this day and age when a day's day-off lost, holidays ruined and sleep denied. Along with some of the more obvious handicaps of the job it is understandable how the phrase "a policeman's lot is not a happy one" was coined.

MR. MELTZER ON REAL ESTATE
"What's Your Problem?"

By BERNARD. C. MELTZER

"Caveat Emptor! (the guy buyer buys at his own risk) is the doctrine that generally applies in real estate transactions. It somewhat modifies the warranties — either oral or written — given by the seller.

Where there are concerns or questions, these warranties should be set forth in great detail. Otherwise, one's recourse may be unclear — as in the following case:

Dear Mr. Meltzer: It may sound indelicate, but my problem is cesspools. Since I had suffered several years of cesspool troubles at my previous house, I wanted to make sure that the new house we were buying had no such problem.

When we found the house we wanted, we were specifically assured by the owner, in the presence of the broker and other witnesses, that in the ten years since he had built the house he never had any cesspool trouble. We bought it.

Now I am once more plagued with cesspool trouble. I have had a plumber out on two occasions at most a semi-permanent member of the family, for my cesspool requires pumping about once in a month. Is there any action I can take against the man from whom I bought the property?

Answer: Your problem has two aspects — technical and legal. It may be that you are dumping an unreasonable amount of sewage into the cesspool or that you are dumping a type of sewage (chemicals, etc.) that a cesspool is not designed to handle.

If you are not guilty of any of these things and the fault is with the cesspool itself, then it is necessary for you to secure legal determination of the validity of the warranty given you by the previous owner. Only an attorney acquainted with the facts can render an opinion and decide whether you have a basis for legal action.

I would recommend that anyone contemplating buying a house with a cesspool first have it inspected either by a sanitary engineer or an inspector from the local board of health — or make the Agreement of Sale conditioned upon such an inspection.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: The present and future effectiveness of our Civic Association is being threatened.

We are strongly opposed to a proposed improvement that will seriously affect our community. We have planned to take strong action to oppose it. The fear has been expressed, however, that if we do this — and offend the administration — we will be "punished" by having our assessments raised. Some members have claimed that this is a common device to control militant Civic Associations. Some of us are not convinced. Could you advise us as to the potential danger of this?

Answer: "Punishing" even militant Civic Associations by raising assessments is a common fale. I myself have investigated a number of these rumors. In my experience, and to the best of my knowledge, it is not a danger.

Assessments are based on uniformity of market values. It would not be possible, therefore, to change them on a discretionary basis without being both obvious and subject to supportable attack. I think your association can calm its fears and exercise its right of protest.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: Our house needs several repairs and many desirable improvements but we don't have much money and we have postponed doing anything about it. It is, therefore, a question of how and when to do this work. Could you tell us if it is better to do all one thing at a time or to try and have all of it work done at once. There are three factors to consider: inconvenience; cost of the work and cost of financing.

It would be more convenient to have the repair man complete everything at once. By making a total package of the work that must be done, because he can plan his work schedule better, the contractor can do the total work at a lower price than on a piece-by-piece basis.

The cost of financing will also be less. On a piecemeal basis you would have to finance the work with a series of home improvement loans of 3 years in length at true interest rates of 9 to 12 percent or more.

One loan covering all of the work can be financed in the form of a mortgage 15-20 years in length at a true interest rate of about 6 percent.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: My husband and I are planning to list our house with a realtor. At the same time, however, since it is our home and we can show it to advantage we would like to have the right to sell ourselves if we should find a buyer.

Would it be possible to make such an arrangement with the realtor?

Answer: A direct answer to your question is that no arrangement can be made. A clause can be inserted in the listing agreement that would nullify the contract if you should find your own buyer.

I do not recommend this, however. Contingent contracts such as these place the realtor in a somewhat insecure position. He cannot be sure his efforts will be rewarded and this tempers his concern.

I would advise you to leave the prospect finding to the realtor, and be his assistant in showing your home to advantage.

Auto Insurance Subject of Talk By George Ward

Belleville General Insurance Agent, self representative for Lorne McDougall Insurance Agencies, George F. Ward, spoke to Y's Men last night.

They heard an informative speech on auto insurance, commenting on the increase in auto insurance premiums this year, compulsory auto insurance and Compensation Without Fault auto insurance. Guests included Alf Atkinson.

Jim Barton will be the official delegate to the Y's Men International Convention at Estes Park, Colorado, in June.

Rod Webb to Visit NORAD Headquarters

Rod Webb, M.P. for Hastings-Frontenac, will be one of the Members of Parliament to have the opportunity to visit NORAD Headquarters, Colorado Springs, U.S., and also the SAGE Installations at North Bay to see these important areas of the North American Air Defence System.

This visit and briefings are sponsored by the Department of National Defence. The group will leave Ottawa Saturday morning and return Monday in time for the opening of the House of Commons.

Horticultural Society Notes

Monday night's meeting of the Horticultural Society to be held in Moira Secondary school should be of real interest to anyone interested in any type of gardening. Mr. Byron Beeber, Fruit and Vegetable Extension Specialist with the Department of Agriculture for Hastings, Prince Edward and Lennox and Addington counties will give a talk and demonstration on Spray Materials. This is a particularly important topic in these days of chemical gardening.

It is also "Swap Night" for members and their friends who will be able to exchange flowers from their home gardens.

Wally Grouse will have the proposed presentation and sale of Colorado Blue Spruce seedlings. Groups of these trees will be available free of charge to members in attendance, while others will be available to members and citizens at large in groups of three at a nominal fee to cover costs of shipping and handling. These trees will be available at this meeting.

'Plowboys' Will Be Honored At New Colors Presentation

The famous "Plowboys" of the 49th Battalion, Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment — at least some of them — will march again.

A goodly company of the "originals" and those who later fought with them, on the bloody fields of Sicily and Europe, will be honored here on May 17th.

They will be given a place of honor on the right flank of the Second Battalion as it leaves the parade grounds at the Fair Grounds following the colors-presentation ceremonial.

Missing, will be the steel helmets and other accoutrements of war. They will wear the berets of the regimental association. On their breasts will glitter the medals of service.

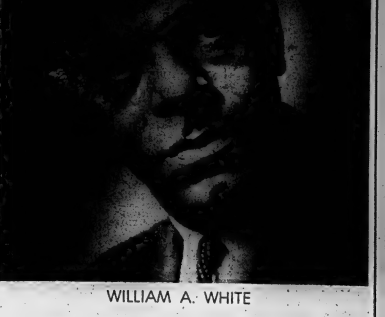
The "Plowboys" will march to the Fair Grounds gates where Lord Tweedsmuir, a former regimental commander, will take the salute.

In special tribute to the "Plowboys" contingent, the Second Battalion will be drawn up in review order and "present arms" to the "old guards."

"This, a regimental spokesman says, "will be done in token of appreciation of the gallant efforts of the First Battalion — present, absent and the While Battalion — in winning the battle honors so proudly displayed on the new colors."

He requested that as many of the "Plowboys" as possible wear berets and medals for the function.

The First Battalion members will not march through city streets with the Second Battalion following the ceremonial. They will be dismissed at the conclusion of the ceremony at the Fair Ground gates.



The parade of the "old soldiers" will be under the direction of Sergeant Harold Truscay, M.M., president of the regimental association.

The King Is Dead Long Live the King

By J. McCRACKEN
Canadian Lumbermen's Assoc.

The lumber industry has a built-in royal family and the head of the house is the lumber grader. From the time when Canada's rich forests made possible a thriving industry, the lumber grader held sway and his decisions were seldom questioned.

While the basic qualifications were a clear eye and a quick mind, brawn was also a major consideration. The young man stood alongside an experienced grader while the newly cut boards came out of the sawmill on a continuing moving "green chain", broadside. As they approached, the old hand would eye each one briefly, making a mental note of its defects; knots, size, color and location, warp, shake, stain, anything that would affect the grade. He would turn it over, check the reverse side, then, with his chalk, put his grade mark on it. At the end of the chain, men piled the boards according to these marks.

The work had to be done quickly. Decisions could not be delayed, for the chain brought a never-ending supply of lumber out from the mill. The dexterity of the grader made him supreme. Experience crowned him king, ability kept him on the throne. The public bought what the king provided.

It is different today. The need for greater efficiency, increased utilization and improved methods brought about a palace revolution, and the results are being acclaimed by the general public.

The grader still stands at the "green chain", but his authority is vested in a licence issued by a licencing authority.

Grading courses for different species are being operated from Newfoundland to British Columbia. Each candidate is examined for his theoretical and practical knowledge of established grading rules, for the lumber produced at his own mill. If successful, he receives a licence, entitling him to use a grade stamp. The stamp identifies the species, the grade, the firm, and grader who applied it. Every licence must be renewed yearly or if a man changes employment.

Stamped lumber is mandatory on all government projects and all construction authorized under the National Housing Act. Many users now specify grade marked material to ensure they receive a quality product.

Hardwood flooring is also a grade marked for the protection of the consumer. The general public is urged to ask for grade marked lumber and hardwood flooring, for the same reason they buy graded eggs, butter, meat, etc.

Yes, the grader is still king, but his divine right is not only a clear eye, a quick mind and brawn. It depends on whether or not he has a licence.

Choose the Right Neighborhood

Choosing the right neighborhood in which to build or buy is often considered more important than the selection of the house itself. In other words, prospective home owners will accept a house that does not completely meet their expectations in order to be in the right neighborhood. This is understandable considering the influence of the neighborhood on a family's pattern of living. A neighborhood can be pleasant or unpleasant, noisy or quiet, ugly or attractive, sociable or inhospitable. Certain neighborhoods provide easy access to shopping, schools and churches, while in other neighborhoods, these amenities are more remote. If there are children of school age some thought should be given to traffic conditions and the children's safety. Off-street as well as recreational facilities is a further important consideration for families with youngsters. Another factor in choosing a neighborhood is its relation to the place of work of the head of the family. Access to work or to the city centre should not be calculated simply as distance but rather as travel time. Finally, since investing in a house usually means settling down in a neighborhood for a number of years or even permanently, the continued vitality of a neighborhood as a residential area should also be seriously investigated.

Adding Convenience in Bath

One of the main reasons for modernizing an old bathroom or adding a new one is to achieve greater convenience for everyone in the home. The added beauty and comfort through new fixture designs and colors are important, but these advantages are lost if the bathroom remains cramped and uncomfortable.

If only one bathroom is available for adults, two lavatories are advisable. A twin installation in the children's bathroom is a good idea, too, not only because it can be used simultaneously by youngsters to wash up before school and bedtime, but also because children take pride in their possessions and so will be helped to develop cleanliness habits.

Where there is room for only one lavatory, it should be generous in size, providing ample bowl room and ledges. Where space is less, the larger of two bowls, the more convenient the bathroom even in a twin installation.

While bathroom fixtures have been available in color for decades, new shades introduced recently offer the modernizing homemaker the choice of many elegant tones, including tan shades, such as Spice Mocha, and subtle pinks. The new hues permit more use of yellow, rust, gold and olive for accessories to achieve a decor which can vary from antique to Colonial or modern.

New designs in fixtures add luxury and minimize maintenance. Growing in popularity are the single-control faucets, now available for the bath and shower as well as lavatories. These fittings have a single knob, to control water volume and temperature simultaneously, and many are washerless.

Faucets and flushing mechanisms are the only "working parts" in a bathroom. When a new toilet is installed, it's wise to make sure the mechanism is designed to insure against dripping water and lever jiggling.

As the average human height reaches taller dimensions a large size tub for comfortable bathing gains importance. Sixteen - inch sides and a five and a half-foot length will provide bathing room.

DON'T SHAVE FOR WORK

Do-It-Yourself With Fir Plywood

Did you know that over 65 fir plywood do-it-yourself plans are available from your lumber dealer? Built-in shelves and cupboards for the kitchen, bunk beds for the children's room, posts and backyard furniture all be easily constructed from these easy to follow plans designed especially for fir plywood.

Fir plywood is an ideal material to work with too. It comes in convenient panels of 4' x 8', it can be nailed, glued, and sawed. It's suitable for use either indoors or out. The waterproof glue line that bonds it together is stronger than the wood itself.

Any housewife would appreciate a built-in fir plywood serving centre in her kitchen. It's designed to fully utilize all available space and help her save time in preparing meals.

The kitchen isn't the only room that will benefit from the fir plywood plans. There are designs for every room in your home. There's a built-in music and T.V. centre that houses a radio, television, and record player, with plenty of space for storing records and books. Sectional coffee tables are quick to make, and can be used on the patio in summer and brought in to your basement recreation room in winter.

Doing it yourself is not only a money saving way to build, easy to finish. You can paint, easy to finish. You can paint, tint or stain it, or clear finish it with lacquer or varnish letting the natural grain pattern of the wood show through.

There's hardly a homeowner around who has all the storage cabinets, music facilities, wardrobes and entry walls he wants unless of course he already has the fir plywood habit.

See your lumber dealer soon, and ask him to show you his wide selection of fir plywood plans.

PROVE GOOD WORKERS

VANCOUVER (CP) — More than 300 men with criminal records have been employed by British Columbia Electric and Hydro in the last 12 years and have proved satisfactory workers. Ralph Purves, a company official, says employers should give consideration to former inmates, although many lack employable skills.

'Operation Facelift' Raises Home Value

When it's time to plan remodeling projects, "Operation Facelift" should be one of the first on the list, say building experts. Applying a new "face" to a home's exterior, with the use of siding, does more than add lasting beauty.

By making a house safe against the elements, siding outside provides protection inside, thus guarding the appearance and value of any interior renovations and improvements. Then, too, as exterior remodeling job is an investment for the future and a real enhancement of property values.

"Operation Facelift" might begin with the choice of siding materials, and there are many, each with its own advantages. Anything from personal preference to local climate could be the deciding factor.

There's the familiar standby, wood — practical, economical, easy to shape to fit any wall. Wood siding is available in many types, to create many architectural effects, and can be painted to carry out any color scheme preferred or stained for a rustic look. It does, however, require maintenance, through painting or varnishing, so one question of upkeep should be considered.

Modern low-maintenance materials include aluminum siding. Among its advantages are: no warping, rotting, rusting or cracking and no danger from termites. In addition, it is available today in a variety of finishes and colors.

Easy to maintain, too, and long-wearing, is asbestos-cement siding. A fireproof, weather-proof substance made from a mixture of asbestos fibers and portland cement, it is resistant to rot, rust, decay, chemical fumes or corrosive salt air, and hardens through exposure.

It's made in a selection of shapes and textures, and in a range of colors from traditional whites to deep hues and soft pastels.

Thin masonry veneers are often used incombination with other types of siding. They include brick, stone and simulated stone. Here, too, color and pattern choice is excellent.

Durable and easy to handle, plywood siding is becoming a popular resurfacing material. Speed of application is one of its advantages, as it comes in large panels.

Explorers, C.G.I.T. Hold Annual Dinner

On Wednesday, April 29th, Plainfield CGIT and Explorers held their annual mother and daughter banquet at Bethel-Zion hall. Approximately 70 sat down to the well laden tables.

Miss Elaine Gibson, president of the CGIT, was chairlady for the evening. Miss Janet Sills proposed the toast to the mothers, and her mother, Mrs. Fred Sills, responded. The toast to the church was given by Miss JoAnne Chisholm, and Dr. H. F. Swann responded.

Mrs. Arnold Dills led the gathering in a singsong of familiar and foreign tunes. Mrs. Percy Hay, leader of the Explorers and Mrs. Don Chisholm, leader of the CGIT, gave a survey of their year's work and presented attendance prizes to their respective groups. Sharon Dills and Janet Chisholm from the CGIT and Ann Ketcheson and Bonnie Rowe from the Explorers were the proud recipients.

Mrs. Percy Hay presented diplomas and pins to four Explorer girls who are graduating to CGIT, and they were welcomed to the CGIT by Mrs. Laurison Ketcheson.

The evening was made more memorable by the graduation of two girls, Marjorie Reid and Elaine Gibson, from CGIT. This is a rare event, and was marked with a beautiful candlelight service and the presentation of corsages and the CGIT pins to each girl.

Mrs. R. G. Nicholls, founder of the CGIT group only four years ago, was the guest speaker. She gave an inspiring message to the group of young people present. Marjorie Reid thanked the speaker and presented her with a gift.

The benediction was pronounced by Dr. Swann, which brought a happy evening to a close.

Successful Living

When Family Criticizes It's Because They Care

DEAR DORIS — Last year mother started saying how stupid I was, mainly because my sister won a scholarship. . . . Now my marks have improved this year but now my family keeps saying what bad manners I have, and that I should not be so grumpy and mean. I've tried to please them but it only seems to make them more critical. The fights are getting worse.

I can't really see why my family doesn't like me because at school, although I'm not popular, everyone seems to like me. — GRUMPY.

DORIS CLARK

DEAR GRUMPY — Believe it or not, your family cares! How about surprising them with a "change of face?" I'm sending you the name of a good book on manners. Get it and study it until you can show your family you know just how to act.

Good manners come out of thoughtfulness for others. If you take the positive approach, you may even find some ways in which you can be helpful to your brother!

DEAR DORIS — That was a wonderful message written by a soldier on a battlefield. He had asked God for certain things: what he got was quite different, but good.

The trouble with the fellow in your column was that he didn't realize, as many don't today, that when we sincerely ask God to forgive our past sins, the battle has just begun. We must daily continue to give battle, and we will be given spiritual light to see our own imperfections.

God won't put unblemished fruit into a dirty sin-rotten container. — P.I.F.

DEAR F.I.F. — True. We can't just ask forgiveness and proceed to sin again. The battle for supremacy over our lesser selves has to go on and on.

DEAR DORIS — Last week I went to a party with a boy I like very much. A girl he had met at another party started to flirt with him and talked with her, and by the end of the party he wouldn't even talk to me.

As I like him very much, should I let her have him or should I sit back and watch him do this? — IRENE.

DEAR IRENE — Wouldn't he even take you home? What kind of dimwit is he?

Don't lower yourself to the other girl's level by fighting for such a rude, self-centred person. What have you got if you do get him back?

Confidential to WORRIED LANDLORD — The situation you describe will endanger the morals and proper development of all the children in the family. If indeed the mother's husband is having intimate relations with the girl of 15, this affects everybody. Such conditions should be drawn to the attention of the Child Care authorities in the area.

Women Want Commission On All Welfare Services

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario government has been asked to establish a royal commission on welfare services, expand the services of the welfare bureau of the department of labour, and extend minimum housing standards through its provisions.

In a brief presented to Premier John Roberts and the cabinet, the Ontario Council of Women emphasized that although millions of dollars are spent on welfare, social agencies have expressed concern over the effectiveness of the welfare system. No official body has made a complete assessment, the council said.

The brief said a royal commission is needed to examine welfare to eliminate waste and overlapping, co-ordinate the findings of welfare agencies, unify procedures and facilities and promote preventive and protective services.

The brief also asked for permissive legislation to allow municipalities to adopt minimum housing standards. Now a municipality must make application to the provincial government if it wants such bylaws, although a government study done two years ago advocated permissive legislation, the brief said.

ASKS IMPROVEMENTS

The council also asked for improvements in the women's bureau of the department of labor. It suggested:

—The bureau should prepare a booklet in language and language which would consolidate all the laws affecting women's rights from welfare to credit buying.

—The bureau should begin research projects on women's work in a changing society, including day care services for children of working mothers and refresher courses for women returning to work;

—Counselling services for young girls and older women seeking work, and training courses for homemakers should be instituted;

—An advisory committee representing each section of Ontario women should be appointed to the bureau.

Jean Jeffs and Donna Knight gave a vocal duet, and Marguerite McMillan contributed a vocal solo.

An appreciative address was read by Kenneth Weaver and Stanley Williams made the presentation of a pair of step tables and a large wall mirror.

Ernest and Clara voiced thanks for the party and gifts and invited the group to visit them in the home of their son Oshawa. The ladies served refreshments and all enjoyed a social half hour.

During the evening Mr. Wilbur Graff of Trenton was introduced. He is the new owner of the Spencer farm.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

WHAT'S YOUR M. Q.?

Aiming to be a model house guest at friends' vacation retreats? Here's a test of your ability. As a house guest, may you:

1. Sleep as late as you like?
2. Take a sanitary walk if the mood moves you?
3. Help with the housework?
4. Take care of your own room and bath?
5. Go off visiting with other friends in the community?
6. Go to bed before your hosts do?
7. Stay up to see TV, even if your hosts want to retire early?
8. Make phone calls?
9. Skip a party or some other entertainment your hosts have planned?
10. Invite friends to visit you at your hosts' home during your stay?

Answers:

1. As long as the hostess indicates it's a house rule.

2. Yes, if it doesn't interfere with the hostess' plans, but it must do leave plenty of time for guests to do as they like during a visit.

3. If there's no maid, it's polite to ask, but guests should do only what the hostess okays.

4. During a prolonged stay, yes, unless the hostess prefers otherwise.

5. Yes, if there's time to do so without neglecting your hosts, and if they are agreeable.

6. As long as there's no other company, it's permissible to ask to be excused early if you're tired.

7. Yes.

8. It's expected that a house guest will have to make a few calls, but it's courteous not to take advantage of the privilege.

9. No, not unless you are ill or there's some other bona fide reason for not going.

10. Yes, if it's all right with the hostess, in addition to being consulted about this, she also should issue the invitations.

The Eastern World Marriage Celebrated In Anticipation of Love

By BRUCE LEVETT

RICHMOND, B.C. (CP)—"In the West, love comes first. With us, marriage comes first, then fear and love."

Inderjit Singh Kohaly is a young Sikh. He lives near the flat peat bogs of Richmond, just outside Vancouver, 7,000 miles and 400 years away from the Punjab Mountains where Sikhism was born.

His high-crested turban and full beard are as worn by his forefathers before him. But gone are the pink windings above the soft brown eyes of the East Indian male student of religion.

He is one of 1,000 East Indians in the Greater Vancouver area, one of the largest concentrations in the Western Hemisphere. By profession he is a metallurgical engineer; by trade a printer who publishes pamphlets at the wedding customs and beliefs of his people.

"We have no special hymns for the marriage ceremony," he says.

"The hymns we use were written to smother the wedding between the soul and God. We use them also for the wedding between soul and soul."

While the hymns have not changed in their long journey from the Golden Temple of Amritsar, customs have changed.

ABANDON SARI

The bridegroom, whether he wears the beard in his daily life or not, dons it for his wedding in the temple of Khalsa Diwan here.

"The girl usually marries in Western dress."

The long, white gown and veil have taken the place of the sari.

"There is more and more free choice these days — but most marriages still are arranged by the parents. This is a holdover from the days when a girl would be married within her own village. But the bride's and groom's friends as her brothers and sisters and the girl does not marry with her brother."

So the Sikhs, who comprise 90 per cent of the Indian population on Canada's West Coast, cling to the belief that as there is one God, there is one human toward union with his Lord, so it is in marriage.

The stages are four, love, restraint and harmony.

"In the West, love comes first," Mr. Kohaly says.

"With us, marriage comes first, then fear and love. In the West, love in spring seems to be invested in May, when summer has already begun. With us, spring is begun in February, when we are still shivering with cold. And yet we celebrate the spring when the branches of trees are still naked and flowers have not yet come. We celebrate our spring in anticipation of the coming flowers. So we celebrate our marriage on the promise and anticipation of love."

'HOLY FEAR'

Before love comes, "there is a stage of fear—not slavish fear but holy fear which dispels all fear."

He quotes from the Sikh bible, the Guru Granth Sahib or Great Book:

"Those who fear the Lord have nothing else to fear; those who do not fear Him have much in store for them."

The word used in the Guru for love is ras, which means enthusiasm, eagerness tinged with hope and optimistic pleasure.

The third stage is restraint and the Great Book says "love comes into the heart which Sikh. He lives near the flat peat withdraws itself from all other affections."

After the ceremony, the bride withdraws from her parental home. All her relations become strangers and their attraction disappears in comparison with the "supreme sweetness of the new relation."

Last comes the stage of Sahaj, of complete oneness, "of perfect balance which knows no separation, no mistrust."

In acceptance of these four stages, the couple circles the Great Book four times.

The Sikhs are proud of the fact that never has there been a caste system since their religion was begun by Guru Nanak. The wealthy sit by the poor at the wedding feast. They sit side-by-side on the floor of the chaklas temple and chant their hymns together to the beat of harmoniums, drum and cymbals.

FAMILY OUTINGS HOME

On the temple porch, guarded against youngsters with knotty propensities, their shoes clutter together.

Mr. Kohaly says few in the community distinguish between the Sikhi, Hindus and Moslems who make up the East Indian population.

"They call us all Hindu, and I guess it is because that we all come from Hindustan, that is fair. But the rites and customs of the Hindu are necessarily those of the Sikh."

The Hindu girl wants to marry a man selected by her mother.

There is a belief among the Sikhs that the first—husband or wife—to step upon the toe of the other after marriage will be the most favored through life. Sometimes a newlywed Hindu girl will slip the toe of her slipper beneath her husband's foot.

In the large Vancouver community of Sikhs caste prejudice starts married life with all the necessities for running a modern household upon them by family and friends.

As Mr. Kohaly explains it, a couple has nowhere to go but together; rather they are husband and wife who have one spirit in two bodies."

Family life, called ashtash, is the most favored and highest order of Sikhism."

Public Health Nurses in Great Demand

OTTAWA (CP)—The need for public health nurses in Canada has never been so urgent as it is today, the national meeting of the Victorian Order of Nurses was told Thursday.

Mrs. F. R. Martin of Ottawa, presenting the report of the advisory nursing committee, said over-changing legislation in all fields of medical care made it imperative for the order to emphasize to its members the importance of being highly qualified in public health nursing.

The meeting also re-elected Joseph Jeffery, of London, Ont., as president.

Today the 200 delegates will hear a discussion on the expanding program of home care. Prime Minister Pearson is expected to pay a brief visit.

NOTE:

We are being pushed by requests into repeating my recipe for Coconut Honey Filling. This popular pastry filling was first given here January 30/63. It is excellent for filling little tarts, or as a topping on pastry, based "squares" or as a filling for layer cakes.

COCOANUT HONEY FILLING
(requested by popular demand from January 29/63):

1 cup cups natural cocoanut (dried but unsweetened — see note below); ⅓ cup sugar, 1-3 cup honey, ½ cup water, ¼ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon vanilla, 2 teaspoons butter.

Mix all ingredients together in saucepan over medium heat, stirring, until cocoanut absorbs moisture, about 5 minutes. Remove from heat and cool.

NOTE:

If you cannot buy unsweetened cocoanut and have to use sweetened, reduce amount of sugar in filling to about ¼ cup or leave sugar out entirely.

QUESTION:

Please repeat recipe for Barapana given before Christmas /63 . . G. H.

ANSWER:

Please give your name and address next time you write.

These consist of 4 layers: pastry, raspberry jam, mock marzipan, topping and a highly satisfactory icing. They are detailed to make but the results are worth the trouble. They are of professional calibre.

BARRIPANS:

Pastry: 1 cup unsifted all-purpose flour, ½ teaspoon salt, 1-3 cup shortening, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 tablespoon cold water.

Cut shortening and butter into flour and salt until size of peas. Moisten with water and pat into ball. Roll out thinly to fit 9¾ x 9¾" pan. Line bottom only. Spread thinly with ½ cup best-quality raspberry jam.

Filling: ½ cup butter, 2-3 cup sugar, 2 eggs, 2-3 cup unsifted flour, ½ teaspoon salt.

Cream butter and sugar together until light. Beat in eggs then beat in rice flour and salt. Divide dough in equal portions by spooning ½ into another bowl. Tint ½ pale green by adding 2 or 3 drops green food coloring. Tint second ½ by adding 5 to 10 drops red food coloring. Now put dough by spoonfuls into cake pan in checkerboard arrangement. Using a measuring teaspoon pick up enough green filling piled high to amount to about 3 teaspoons. Place it at corner of pan. Then with another teaspoon pick up enough pink filling piled high to measure about 2 teaspoons and place in beside the green. Working carefully and neatly arrange these little mounds to completely cover pan, making it look like a green and pink checkerboard. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. for 35 minutes. Do not brown this. Cool and chill.

Icing: Mix together 1¼ cups unsifted icing sugar, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 teaspoon almond flavoring, 2 tablespoons warm milk. Mix very well. Spread over cooled marzipan layer. Cut into small squares or bars. Store covered in the refrigerator. This definitely has the delicious marzipan texture and flavor.

U.C.W. Meeting

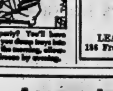
ST. ANDREW'S U.C.W.

MARMORA — The regular meeting of the United Church Women of St. Andrew's Church met in the church parlor on May 5th.

Mrs. L. Stetson, president, opened the meeting and Mrs. Eldon Killian conducted the devotional period. Mrs. J. M. W. McLeod was in charge of the program which followed. The theme was "Worship and What It Means" and this was discussed separately by each of the four units and their ideas presented. The prevalent thought was "Worship means desire to be guided by the Holy Spirit, the study of the Bible as study of the Scriptures and writings of devoted Christian writers and prayer."

The business period followed with minutes showing that a pot-luck supper and bake-sale held on Friday evening was successful. It was decided that the pot-luck suppers continue every second Friday beginning on May 18th. Meeting to the last of June and that one unit carry the bake table sale and the other three the supper.

Noted in the correspondence was a letter advising of a study period of three days from July 30-32rd to be held in Albert College for the women of the Bay of Quinte area. The theme to be "God's Purpose and Our Response."



The June meeting roll call is to be answered by a gift of clothing for the boys to the Indian settlement in Deer Lake, Alberta. The units are asked to bring gifts of their adopted Korean boy, in June in order that it may be sent in time to reach him in time for Christmas. A pleasant letter was received from Lee at this meeting. She stated at his holidays ending in March, he had been promoted to Grade 3. He is 13 years old.

Circle 3 served lunch in the upper room.

FREDERICTON (CP) — The Irish might be interested to learn they haven't got a monopoly on the little people.

Among New Brunswick's Micmac Indians, the wee folk aren't called leprechauns but they have made their presence sufficiently felt to become the subjects of a store of legends.

For one thing, the busy little creatures are credited with teaching the Micmacs how to make arrowheads and canoes.

And now, indirectly, they are going to be of further practical help.

Two Micmac men are having the story of their little people produced in England on Royal Tuscan china, the sale of which will mean money in New Brunswick.

The handicrafts branch of the New Brunswick industry department has hired Michael Francis and Stephen Dedam to depict the legends of Indian and Eskimo history.

Six designs for reproduction on the china were completed by Mr. Francis last year and the two men recently turned out several Indian legends in art form for the 1965 Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire calendar.

The legends intended for the calendar are selected for particular interest to children because the calendar is widely used in Canadian schools.

Some of the activities of the Micmac imps are depicted in Mr. Dedam's latest work, a set of humorous drawings expected to be reproduced on hasty notes and bridge tallies.

Mr. Dedam's—designs will show the little folk of New Brunswick playing the fiddlehead (an edible fern), ringing the bluebells (another plant), feeding the pussy willows and whistling at the spring beauties.

Police Discount Possibility In Man Drowned

HAWKESBURY, Ont. (CP)—Provincial police said Thursday they have discounted any possibility that Andre Couture, sought on a charge of impersonating a doctor, was drowned in the area where his parked car was discovered last Saturday.

The car was found parked on the shoulder of Highway 17 about five miles east of this eastern Ontario town.

Sgt. H. J. Morell said a marsh by creek and waterhole have been dragged and checked by a skindiver. Nothing was found.

"I suspect Couture parked the car there and hitch-hiked to throw us off his trail," he said. "He's probably in Montreal."

Couture worked at a Burlington, Ont., hospital for almost two years, posing as a Dr. Andre Couture. An investigation was started last week and he was labelled an impostor by the Ontario College of Physicians and Surgeons.

A warrant for his arrest has been issued by Burlington police.

The man was in Hawkesbury with his wife and children but left last Friday, saying he was going to Burlington to prove that he was a qualified doctor. Couture then disappeared.

BURLINGTON, Ont. (CP)—A doctor at Joseph Brant Hospital said Thursday a man sought as an impersonator once saved the life of a man who suffered a coronary attack and whose heart had stopped.

Dr. R. M. Tindale said the man who called himself Dr. Andre Couture was on duty when a patient suffered a coronary.

"Couture first gave the man a cardiac massage," he said. Then the intern used a defibrillator which sends shocks through the heart to start it beating.

The patient—the name was withheld—was nursed back to health by Couture and recovered. He later donated $1,600 to the hospital for a cardiac monitor in gratitude, Dr. Tindale said.

International

some of its national contingents might be selected to serve. Parts might be used alone, or be combined with contingents from other UN members not included in the standby arrangements."

Mr. Pearson first advanced the idea in an address to the UN General Assembly last fall.

It is a modification of the unifing-for-peace proposals in the UN at the time of Korea. Those proposals included a suggestion that there be a standing peacekeeping force but, because it was supported by the United States, it was opposed by Russia.

STRENGTHEN UN

"There has been some disposition to interpret my proposal as an intention to turn away from the United Nations," Mr. Pearson said. "The whole point of it was to strengthen the capability of the members concerned to serve and support the UN."

Mr. Pearson spoke in a Dag Hammarskjold memorial lecture at Carleton University, where the late secretary-general of the UN received his first Canadian honorary degree.

The prime minister said if there was agreement among contending nations to keep forces in readiness as Canada does, there could be an international agency to co-ordinate training, prepare contingency plans and assess past experiences in preparation for future needs.

"I do not expect that even the most modest of such arrangements could be accomplished quickly. Nevertheless, the Canadian government is determined to push ahead toward this goal.

Mother Denies Son's Story He Was Turned Out

SUDBURY (CP)—The mother of a 16-year-old youth charged with car theft said Thursday the family will do everything it can for him and she denied that she and her husband refused to accompany him to court Wednesday.

Magistrate Anthony Falzetta suspended the case of Maxi Junior Wills after the youth and Constable Howard Ireland said Mr. and Mrs. Wills and two older sisters refused to travel to court from nearby Balfour Township.

"Nothing but a pack of lies," said Mrs. Max Wills, in an interview Thursday. She denied her son's story that he had been turned out of the house, had had nothing to eat and was forced to sleep in cars.

Judy Wills, 19, said of her brother: "That kid has sat at this table every day and eaten breakfast and dinner, and then he takes off."

"When Maxi knows he has done something wrong, he won't come home," added Mrs. Wills. "Instead he sleeps outside in cars."

Mrs. Wills said her husband was already at work when Constable Ireland came to drive them to court and that she was ill at the time. Judy Wills derided the policeman's story that she and another older sister refused to accompany him to court.

The youth has been remanded in custody until Monday because bail of $500 was not produced.

Sunday School Lesson
Blueprint for Full Life

By CLARENCE W. CRANFORD

A child heard her parents refer to their recreation room as the "rec" room. The child was puzzled, because she thought they were saying "wreck" room, and she couldn't understand what wrecks had to do with a room in which they had so much fun.

The child was right to be puzzled. As a matter of fact, occasional play can help to prevent us from becoming nervous wrecks. All work and no play can rob one of delightful leisure time experiences, either alone or with his family or friends. The Bible condemns laziness (Proverbs 6:6), but does not tell us to go to the other extreme of doing nothing but work. It is true Jesus said that we must work the works of God while it is day, "the night comes when no one can work," but He also took time out for rest and prayer. He found time to attend a wedding, for which we are criticized for enjoying Himself with fun-loving people. (Matthew 11: 19) In fact, the Bible sets before us the example of Jesus' balanced life. He grew "in wisdom, and in stature, and in favor with God and man." (Luke 2:52) We, too, should seek a balanced life in which we develop and maintain physical, mental, social and religious health.

PLAN FOR RECREATION

No generation has ever been blessed with so much leisure time, or so many recreational facilities as ours. Labor-saving devises, shorter work weeks, have led to increased leisure time for millions. Almost every village boasts at least one gymnasium and golf course. The ease of transportation and good roads have brought mountains and sea coasts within easy reach of millions who, a generation ago, would have been limited to near-land picnics or short excursions.

Every person needs times for relaxation and recreation. Once when the disciples were so busy Mark says they "had no leisure even to eat." (Mark 6:31) Jesus said to them, "Come away by yourselves and rest a while." Every person needs time to be alone. He also needs time for his family and friends. Many a man has sacrificed his family on the altar of business ambition. Said a wealthy man, "If I had it to do over again, I would spend much more time with my family, for now my children are grown and gone, my wife is dead, and business success is a poor substitute for love and companionship."

But leisure time must be wisely and creatively used. It is not a time for over-exertion and against "weekend athletes" who work at a desk all week, and then overstrain the heart with too much physical exercise over the weekend. Leisure time should include relaxation, the pursuit of interesting hobbies, and, above all, the making and deepening of relationships with family and friends.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for May 10: "The Christian's Use of Leisure," Matthew 6:33; Mark 6:30-32; 1 Corinthians 6:12-14, 19, 20; Philippians 4:8.

Christianity does not frown on pleasure. It says God gave us the world to use and enjoy. It does say, however, that the body is not ours to do with as we please. It is the temple of God's Spirit (1 Corinthians 3:16; 6:19-20), and should be treated as such. One does not treat a Stradivarius violin as if it were a cheap fiddle. And one should not treat the body as if it were of no consequence. Health is a priceless gift. The body is the instrument through which we express our personality, and our awareness of God.

Concerning habits that undermine health, happiness or moral fibre, Paul had an important rule: "I will not be mastered by anything." (1 Corinthians 6:12) When some sought to justify gluttony and other forms of indulgence by saying "Food was made for the stomach, and the stomach for food," Paul answered that God would destroy both stomach and appetite. The body he said, is not meant for immorality, but it is "meant for the Lord." (1 Corinthians 6:13)

The cathedrals of Europe are masterpieces of man's creative art. The finest of craftsmanship and planning went into them, for they were temples of the Lord. The body is one of God's great masterpieces. He made it as a temple for His Spirit. To debase it in any way is a worse offense than to break one of the stained-glass windows of the Notre Dame cathedral.

And just as each cathedral had a plan, so there is a blueprint for noble living. This blueprint is presented in Philippians 4:8. Jesus summed it all up by saying "Seek first the kingdom of God." (Matthew 6:33) Whoever works or plays with this in mind will not prostitute his work or his play to unworthy ends.

PC Members In Quebec To Hold Meet

OTTAWA (CP)—Quebec Conservatives, aiming at greater autonomy in the Progressive Conservative party and increased organizational activity, are called to a meeting at Trois-Rivieres, Que., next weekend, Quebec leader Leon Balcer announced Thursday.

The move is in line with decisions at the February meeting of the Progressive Conservative party at which Mr. Balcer was proposed by the Quebec wing and accepted by John Diefenbaker, as Quebec leader and chief lieutenant of the National leader.

Conservative members of the Commons, former MPs and executive members of the senior, women's and young people's associations in Quebec have been invited to the meeting which will be under the joint chairmanship of MPs Paul Martineau (Pontiac - Temiscamingue) and Theogene Ricard (St. Hyacinthe-Bagot).

Mr. Martineau, former mines minister, will outline a proposal for greater autonomy for the Quebec wing of the party and plans for building up the party organization in the 75 Quebec constituencies.

Mr. Martineau said it is not the intention to propose that the Quebec wing enter provincial politics but to rebuild the party's organization in the federal constituencies.

Cass

It was Mr. Macdonald who headed the commission during its investigation into organized or syndicated crime in Ontario. During the course of the investigation Judge Macdonald called for increased investigative powers for the commission.

Mr. Cass said he agreed the powers that were later included in Section 14 of Bill 99—the Police Amendment Act — were needed by the commission to fight crime.

As attorney-general, Mr. Cass introduced Bill 99 in the legislature March 19, along with several others bills. He did not speak again in the House until Thursday, when as a private member he made his long-awaited statement regarding what had come to be known as the "police state" legislation.

CAUSED RESIGNATION

The uproar caused by Section 14 of the bill, which would have permitted the police commission to imprison persons who refused to be interrogated in secret about crime, caused the resignation of Mr. Cass March 23.

In his statement Mr. Cass declared:

"The former chairman (Judge Macdonald) was strongly of the view—in which I unreservedly concurred — that powers of inquiry as contained in the bill proposed by me were necessary if the threat of organized syndicated crime was to be held still in check."

He said the provisions of Bill 99 were discussed by him with his "colleagues" — presumably meaning his colleagues in the cabinet.

Mr. Cass said when he proposed to give the new powers to the present police commission under the chairmanship of K. Percy Milligan, he did so with full confidence that the commission had a "real appreciation of the freedoms and rights of the individual."

NO OTHER EXPLANATION

Mr. Cass gave no other explanation of how section 14, including powers described as "regulative" by members of the legislature, came to be drawn up.

The legislature voted unanimously March 28 to kill section 14. The new attorney-general, Arthur A. Wishart, later presented a substitute section for it which was approved.

Bill 99 finally was enacted into law Thursday night as the House prepared to prorogue today.

MUST WEAR CAPS

SWANLEY, England (CP) — Boys with Beatle haircuts have been banned from this Lancashire town's swimming pool unless they wear bathing caps so that shedding hair won't clog the filters. One of the local boys said: "My bird, (girl friend) wears her hair short. I don't want to look like a girl; so I have my hair long."

Too Bossy Mother Invites Non-Co-operation, Sassiness

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I am a 13-year-old girl who just found out why kids are so nasty to their mothers. The reason is because mothers are too bossy.

Why do mothers think they have to be in on every little thing that happens? If mothers would leave their kids alone more it would be much better for their kids and much better for the mothers, too.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I found this unfinished letter to you on my daughter's dresser this morning. I would like to tell you my side of the story.

If I had more co-operation from this 12-year-old Know-It-All I would not be so irritable. My life is an endless round of picking up books, hats, coats, underwear, damp towels and whatever she decides to drop.

Children today treat their mothers as if they were hired help and then expect them to be cheerful and uncomplaining. Perhaps if my daughter were more considerate her mother would not be so "bossy." What is your verdict? — MY SIDE.

DEAR YOUR SIDE — Sorry, Mother, you are guilty as charged. The very act of taking over your daughter's letter as you did is evidence that you are indeed too bossy. (I'll bet you finish your husband's sentences, too.)

Children who are taugh early to pick up after themselves will not be slobs at age 12. But that's another column. Try taking the whip off this girl's back. Allow her more independence of thought and action and I promise you she'll be more cooperative.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — Several days ago I read the letter in your column from the young man who was undecided about marrying his fiancee. It seems she had a bad habit of throwing her engagement ring in his face every time they had an argument. My fiancee was the same type but I married her thinking she would outgrow those childish tantrums. I kept telling myself she'd settle down once she had the "Mrs." in front of her name.

Well, Ann, we've been married 15 years and she's still throwing things — bottles, dishes, knives, lamps, any object that happens to be in her hands when she flies off the handle.

Leaving her is out of the question. We have a large family and I'd hate to think of what would become of the kids if I walked out and left her in charge.

It's too late for me, but I hope the guy who wrote you will take your advice and get out while the getting is good. — BATTLE-SCARRED.

DEAR SCARRED — Yours was not the only letter which expressed such sentiments. For those of you who may have walked in late, I repeat: Take a good, clear-eyed look at your beloved during courtship — and remove those rose-colored glasses, kids. A fiery uncontrolled temper will not vanish after marriage. It will probably get worse.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — My brother's wife was expecting her first baby any day. The family got together and gave her a shower. Several relatives decided to pool their money and buy substantial gifts — such as a crib, a high chair, and other pieces of furniture. The baby was born last week, but died after a few hours.

My mother thinks she should return the gifts. The heart-broken girl wants to give these gifts to her own sister who is expecting a baby. The relatives are mad because they say they did not buy the gifts for her sister but for her.

DEAR MAID — I assume the girl is young and that she will one day have a family. She should store the gifts in the hope that she will be able to use them herself.

cists if you could assist me in carrying out Mr. Forgie's request."

Through all this, the Commons echoed with cross fire. "Same old bunch." "Wouldn't your mother be proud of you." "Keyhole gossip." "The old pork barrel patronage."

Later the debates moved out into the field.

When all things are considered, said Herman Lawrderer, (L—Bellechasse), the eastern farmer is the worst off worker in Canada. In many cases his lot is worse than the unemployed because he might work 15 hours a day to earn less than he would draw in unemployment insurance. He said direct subsidies were needed immediately.

HAS LANGUAGE PROBLEM

Jean-Paul Matte (L—Champlain) said the French-speaking farmer was at an immediate disadvantage because few employees of the agriculture department spoke French. There was great difficulty in communicating about problems, he said.

Harold Danforth (PC—Kent, Ont.) and Richard R. Southam (PC — Mount Mountain) both asked the government to make clear-cut policy statements on certain issues. Mr. Southam was concerned particularly with branch rail line abandonments.

Mr. Danforth said statements were needed on many aspects of agriculture. The tobacco industry was in "dire trouble" and the government had not made its position clear. The soybean industry was waiting for a directive and Canada was importing all kinds of meats that could be produced in this country.

Before the House got into the estimates, Mr. Drury announced that the Canadian Wheat Board has set higher delivery quotes on Prairie wheat.

Effective May 11, deliveries on all kinds of wheat except durum will be 13 bushels per seeded acre for all Prairie points now under an eight-bushel quota.

Autopsy Reveals Traces of Drug In Student

TORONTO (CP)—The attorney-general's crime laboratory Thursday checked samples taken from the body of a 23-year-old University of Toronto student to determine whether pep pills caused his death earlier in the day.

The body of Wayne B. MacKenzie was found in his university residence room. An autopsy revealed traces of a drug.

"The student definitely died after taking a drug of some kind, but we're not sure yet what the drug was," said Dr. Morton Shulman, Toronto's chief coroner.

MacKenzie was a fourth-year geology student. His parents live in Burlington.

Last winter a survey of University of Toronto students showed that 27 per cent of the male students used tranquillizers or pep pills when under pressure and 13 per cent used them regularly.

The study, by the Student Service Commission, also showed that 36 per cent of female students used the drugs.

Guard Harriers Winner of Command Cup

PICTON (Staff) — The First Battalion, Canadian Guards, from Camp Picton were the winners in the Eastern Ontario Area Cross Country Championships held at the camp on Wednesday.

Their ten-man team defeated teams from RCEME, RCS of S and 1 Sigs Regt. in a test that ran for 4.9 miles over various types of terrain.

The first three finishers in the races were all members of the local battalion. Corporal John Kennedy, winner of the Battalion race last month, led all the others and came in with an excellent time of 23 minutes 50 seconds. 2nd Lt. Gordon Henry was second and Capt. M. I. V. Bowater was third.

One member of the Guards, Gdsm. R. G. Mack, known as "Shoeless Joe" as he lost one of his shoes in a pothole in the first half mile of the race, but, nothing daunted, he continued and completed the race with the one shoe.

Runner-up team was the RCEME squad which amassed a total of 121 points. The School of Signals was third, and 1 Sigs was in the fourth spot.

On behalf of Brigadier Ross, Lieut.-Col. Mulherin presented the Area Trophy to Cpl. Allan Norvak, captain of the Guards harriers.

The Guards team will now move on to bigger and better things as they compete in the Command cross country held at Petawawa next Wednesday.

The switch gear tender of Canadian Allis Chalmers at $17,436 and the 5,000 KVA transformer tender of Maloney Electric at $17,175 were also accepted.

The Commission also reported that installation of the flouridation equipment at the filtration plant is proceeding, with completion depending on the delivery of some parts for connecting the pumps. The Venturi nozzle and low lift metering equipment is not in yet. Delivery of these items is expected by May 8.

Lieut. Col. William Mulhern, Commanding Officer of Camp Picton, (left) chats with Lieut. Com. B. M. Chown, R.C.N., Kingston. Cadet Tudor Hardy, R.M.C., Kingston, is in centre. Commander Chown inspected the Sea Cadets of H.M.C.S. Hallowell at the Picton Armouries last night.

Mr. Platt was one of the more than sixty applications for the new position and as all applications had excellent qualifications, the High School Board was hard pressed in make the decision. Mr. Platt will begin his duties sometime in June.

Soviet Union May Be Moving To Establish Major Foothold On Africa's Northern Coast

TUNIS (AP)—The Soviet Union, apparently disregarding its disappointments in Africa, may be moving to establish a major foothold on the continent's northern coast.

The new pledges of Soviet aid to Algeria, announced in Moscow Wednesday, opens the door to an important Soviet penetration effort in North Africa.

At the same time, Premier Khrushchev and an impressive party of Soviet officials are en route to the United Arab Republic for a two-week visit. Their ship passed through Turkey's Bosporus Strait Thursday and steamed south toward Alexandria.

May 15, Khrushchev and President Gamal Abel Nasser will dedicate the Aswan Dam flood-control and power project being built with the help of Soviet funds and technicians.

It is too early to say whether the Soviet effort will bring permanent results. So far, Soviet aid and spending in half a dozen African countries have not brought results expected by Communist leaders.

STEEL PLANT PLANNED

The Algerian - Soviet agreement signed in Moscow will build and equip a steel plant in Algeria, a petroleum institute and technical school as well as a textile school and two agricultural study centres. The centres will have Soviet teachers.

This aid is in addition to shipments of tractors, two small planes and a 19,000-ton tanker promised by the Soviet Union.

On the complaints of the educational part of the program, the Soviet Union will become second after France in cultural influence in Algeria.

Strong Western diplomats believe from Algeria, the Russians will attempt to exert more influence on the neighboring countries of Tunisia and Morocco.

The new Soviet aid announcement follows a triumphant visit to Moscow by Algeria's left-leaning President Ahmed Ben Bella. It follows a period during which Algeria has been making increasing strides toward socialism and reduction of its economic dependence on France, its former ruler.

FRANCE IS MAIN SOURCE

However, France still remains Algeria's main source of aid and without it the country could not function.

The Soviet bloc moved into Algeria after Algeria's July, 1962, independence from France. The Russians at first adopted a cautious attitude.

A ban on the Communist Party in Algeria in the fall of 1962 kept the Soviet effort down. However, the growing orientation toward socialism, hostility to the United States and efforts to reduce French influences appeared to encourage the Soviet Union to increase its activities in Algeria.

The Soviet Union has been active, with money and technical assistance in Guinea, Mali and Ghana in West Africa, Somalia on the eastern side if the continent and Egypt in the north.

However, at this stage only Ghana follows the Soviet Union to any extent. Guinea, which although pledged to socialism, are gradually revising their attitude.

Britain Wants to Dispel Any Notions of Discord Over Cuba

By HAROLD MONTGOMERY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Britain is anxious to dispel any notion that discussions between President Johnson and British Foreign Secretary R. A. Butler over the Cuban trade issue were in any way stormy or accompanied by threats.

Butler met with Johnson at the White House Apr. 29 where a British source says the president again urged the British government to support the U.S. and block further sales of trucks, buses and other equipment to the Castro regime.

The information said the president spoke at some length on the issue, according to the wire of his remarks at Wednesday's press conference. He expressed regret that some ships have not co-operated with the U.S. "all the way" and said the U.S. will "constantly press" that the allies pursue a policy of economic isolation towards Cuba.

NO TABLE-THUMPING

The private talks between Butler and Johnson led to a number of published reports the president stormed at Butler and that his remarks were accompanied by table-thumping and other gestures of anger. The British information said that was not the case.

He said Johnson was emphatic in his argument the allies must stand together if the policy of isolating Castro and preventing the spread of communism in the Western hemisphere is to work. The president also indicated the lack of co-operation within the alliance is embarrassing the administration in view of rising domestic sentiment in favor of some final solution to the Cuban problem.

Butler was reported to have replied that with the British government facing elections in the fall, it also is keenly aware of sentiment at home in the face of increasing world trade, with the West as well as the Communists.

VITAL TO CASTRO

Both Britain and France have some under increasing U.S. criticism for having sold buses and locomotives to the Castro regime. George Ball, U.S. undersecretary of state, indicated earlier this week the French sale of locomotives was a more serious problem than the British sale of buses since the Castro regime is in urgent need of railway equipment to haul sugar to ports. The more sugar Cuba exports the greater would be its earnings and its ability to import at home and finance subversion in other countries.

World Bridge Olympiad Still Led by Britain

NEW YORK (CP) — Britain continued its lead in the world bridge Olympiad tournament at Italy overlook the U.S. and moved into second place in the standings after 18 rounds of play.

Each of the leaders won its 19th round match by a 7-0 margin.

Britain defeated Argentina, Italy topped the United Arab Republic, the United States defeated Mexico and the Swiss, in third place, defeated South Africa.

Brazil, tied for fourth with Switzerland before the weekend games, lost 7-0 to seventh-place Thailand and dropped to fifth place.

Fourth place in the standings is particularly important because at the end of the 28-country round robin the top four teams will qualify for the semi-finals beginning May 11.

Britain has 108 victory points, Italy 107, the U.S. 94, Switzerland 93, Brazil 86, Canada 84, and Thailand and Belgium 83 apiece.

Canada won its 19th round match by defeating France 6-1.

In the women's event Britain leads the field with 55 out of a possible 56 victory points after eight rounds of play. The U.S. is next with 46 followed by Sweden with 38.

Canada, defeated 4-3 by the U.S. in the eighth round is in 11th position with 24 points.

MONTREAL (CP) — Hal C. Banks was liberated today on $25,000 cash bail, pending appeal on his recent conviction on charges of conspiracy.

Mr. Justice Lucien Tremblay, chief judge of the Quebec Court of Appeal, said: "It would have been difficult to justify Banks' detention."

Banks, former president of the Seafarers' International Union of Canada (Ind.), was convicted May 1 of conspiring to wound or maim Capt. Henry Francis Walsh, a rival union organizer.

Capt. Walsh was beaten up behind a hotel in Owen Sound, Aug 18, 1957 following differences with the SIU.

Banks' appeal is to be heard at the September term of the Appeal Court. Mr. Justice Tremblay said the bail will end Sept. 14.

"The accused does not have the power he had in 1957, when the bail was pledged to have taken place," he said in granting bail. "He is no longer SIU president and the fear of him being liberated on bail should constitute a danger for society."

GOT FIVE YEARS

Judge Claude Wagner sentenced Banks to five years in penitentiary Tuesday. The appeal was lodged immediately by Banks' lawyer, Maxwell Cohen, along with application for bail before Mr. Justice Tremblay.

Banks, meanwhile, faces trial as the key accused on a charge of conspiracy to assault Richard Greaves, a rival union official, in Toronto in January, 1960.

Arrangements Have to Be Made Hastily

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson told a university audience Thursday night of one of his embarrassing moments during preparation of the United Nations emergency force for the Middle East in 1956.

He recalled that at that time he was in New York when Egypt's foreign delegation to the United Nations asked for a talk.

There were hasty preparations being made in New York and Ottawa, Mr. Hodgson, superintendent of the Quinte Corps, Dr. K. M. Douglas, Brigade Surgeon and Major Gen. Angus B. Duffy, Emergency Measures Organization co-ordinator.

Several presentations were made. Officer's warrants were presented to Mrs. Marian Elizabeth Bryant, as corps nursing officer; Mrs. Sabra M. Arnott as nursing officer of Belleville Nursing Division; Mrs. John Robert Sproule as cadet superintendent of cadet ambulance division; Mrs. Margaret Mavis Berry as nursing officer of Belleville nursing division, and Mrs. Isobel Crozier Golden as nursing officer of Belleville nursing division.

A five-year extended instructor's certificate was presented to William James, secretary of the Belleville branch and president of the ambulance division.

Ten year certificates were presented to Mrs. Viola Byers of Picton, Mrs. Marion Lois Sharpe of Picton, Mrs. Annie Thorne of Picton, Mrs. Ethel Rosina Goodwin of Picton, Mrs. Rose Tolley of Picton, Mrs. Nora Bayerstock of Belleville. Proficiency subjects for Belleville Nursing cadets, basic course in casualty simulation was presented to Mrs. Ethel Kellar receiving her second service stripe for six years service.

Dr. J. Russell Scott was also presented with a certificate as cadet surgeon.

Says Group of MP's Prepared To Block Govt. Estimates

OTTAWA (CP) — Terry Nugent, Progressive Conservative MP for Edmonton-Strathcona, demanding a parliamentary inquiry into the government-owned northern transportation policy on the ground it gives special advantages to Crown corporations over private enterprise competitors.

He says he plans to appeal to Trade Minister Sharp to separate an inquiry by a Commons committee. If this is refused, he says a group of MPs are prepared to block approval of Mr. Sharp's departmental spending estimates in the Commons.

Mr. Nugent cites replies tabled in the Commons this week by the government in a series of questions about Crown-owned Northern Transportation Company Limited, a subsidiary of the government's Eldorado Mining and Refining Limited.

The replies formally acknowledged that Northern Transportation spent at least $75,000 on a wartime landing ship, Mr. Nugent says the vessel is identical to one which Yellowknife Transportation Company Limited, private-enterprise competitor of Northern Transportation, was refused a government licence to operate.

Mr. Nugent says the $75,000 doesn't include the cost of buying the vessel, now tied up at Vancouver. He says the work being done on it indicates Northern Transportation anticipates getting the kind of license refused to Yellowknife Transportation.

When he first asked the government about the vessel last December, Mr. Sharp said the Canadian Maritime Commission had refused Northern Transportation a licence "so they have not purchased the equipment."

But in replies tabled this week, the government said Northern Transportation owns the vessel, has spent $54,884 on refitting and $14,181 excise tax to import it and is having it surveyed for refit at a further cost of $33,000.

Mr. Nugent says the government admitted this week that Northern Transportation operated at least one vessel on the Mackenzie River without a proper licence and no legal action was taken against the Crown company.

In pursuit of his objective of parliamentary inquiry, Mr. Nugent is assembling information on the cargo rate structure of northern transportation.

He suspects it gives the Crown company a big advantage in competing with Yellowknife Transportation through inflated freight rates in one section of the north where Northern Transportation enjoys a monopoly. This monopoly arises from the fact that only Northern Transportation gets the hauling business of its parent, Eldorado Mining and Refining.

St. John Ambulance Corps Holds Annual Inspection

The Belleville Armouries looked like a disaster clinic last night as members of St. John Ambulance, Quinte Corp., from Belleville, Trenton and Picton gave skills tested candidates at their second annual inspection.

An official inspection party inspected each member for dress appearance. Official inspector of the unit's division was Lt. Col. Dr. L. J. Calvert, St. John Ambulance Area Surgeon. He was accompanied at the inspection by Col. Simpson, area field representative of Ontario, Squadron Leader Minion, representing officer commanding, RCAF Station, Trenton, Mrs. Marian Elizabeth Purtell, Corps nursing officer, inspector of the women's division, Mr. Archibald, area nursing officer, Belleville and Miss Warren, nursing officer, Bancroft in 1962.

Following the inspection, members broke off and made ready lifesize, various casualty patients, which were later inspected and queried by Dr. Calvert as to the type of injury and what treatment was being used.

Other dignitaries present included Jack Hodgson, superintendent of the Quinte Corps, Dr. K. M. Douglas, Brigade Surgeon and Major Gen. Angus B. Duffy, Emergency Measures Organization co-ordinator.

Ken Reardon Resigns From Les Canadiens

MONTREAL (CP) — Ken Reardon ended a 24-year connection with Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League today, resigning as vice - president for "business and personal reasons."

"It was a difficult decision to make," said Reardon, reached at his home here.

The former great defenceman, five times an all-star, declined to discuss his future plans or elaborate on reasons for his resignation, other than to say he wants to be able to spend more time "with my children in their formative years."

Since retiring as a player in 1950, Reardon has had to travel a good deal as a member of the Canadiens administration.

A good puck-carrier and one of the earliest of the rushing defencemen, Reardon was a bulwark of the great Canadiens teams coached by the late Dick Irvin in the 1940s.

Ontario May Operate Pension Plan

TORONTO (CP) — Premier Roberts said Thursday the government is investigating an alternative to outright provincial administration of the Canada Pension Plan in Ontario.

Mr. Roberts said in the legislature an arrangement may be possible for the federal government to administer the national plan in Ontario on a contract basis, just as the federal government now collects some taxes for provinces.

Such an arrangement might solve an overlapping of administration that would result from the provincial government setting up its own administrative machinery to handle the national plan in Ontario, the premier indicated.

The contract basis would still give Ontario effective control of administration, meaning that the province would have to be consulted before any change was made in the federal plan.

Premier Roberts said he was pleased by the development of the national pension plan.

The only major problem still facing Ontario was whether or not to administer the plan provincially, as the federal government plans to allow the provinces to do. So far, Quebec is the only province which has committed itself to administering the plan itself.

LONDON (AP) — Ex-King Umberto of Italy, 59, has undergone a successful operation in a clinic here for removal of an intestinal ulcer, a clinic spokesman said Thursday.

Ontario Hydro and Canning Industry Have Suffered Due To Low Levels in Lakes

OTTAWA (CP) — Resources Minister Laing said in the Commons Thursday the most serious financial losses caused by low water levels in the Great Lakes are not generally known.

While power and Canadians knew of the problems faced by resort owners and shippers in southern Ontario, he wondered how many were aware that the water shortage had meant an extra expenditure of $12,000,000 by Ontario Hydro.

Hydro had been forced to bring in large quantities of coal to feed its thermal plants to generate power lost by the low levels, Mr. Laing said.

And the drought, one of the causes of the water shortage, also had caused damage estimated at $75,000,000 to Ontario's canning industry.

STUDY DIVERSION

The minister told Gerard Laprise (Progressive Conservative—Temiscamingue) that the government was not exceedingly interested, therefore, in the latest studies of diverting water from Hudson Bay into the Great Lakes. Mr. Laing said that whether the government intended to recommend that such a study be made.

Later, Industry Minister Drury told Stanley Korchinski (PC—Mackenzie) that the government is doing all it can to alleviate the problem of low water levels in the Great Lakes.

Dredging would continue, he said, but more should have been done two or three years ago when the present situation could have been foreseen.

Mr. Korchinski, Saskatchewan farmer, said Prairie grain farmers would be asked to pay the extra shipping costs of getting their wheat to overseas markets because they couldn't sail from Great Lakes ports with full loads.

must act now to restore Great Lakes water levels to normal.

Eddie Sargent (L — Grey North) reiterated his call for a crash program, saying that Premier Roberts could find his government in even more trouble than over issue when over its so-called "police state" bill.

Murray Gaunt (L — Huron-Bruce) passed on to the government a five-point program he said had been recommended by the Georgian Bay Development Association to help restore lake levels.

The two members said the Georgian Bay water level is down three to five feet from normal.

WIDESPREAD HARDSHIP

Mr. Gaunt said low lake levels are causing economic hardships from The Lakehead to Montreal. A number of reasons advanced for the drop in levels, he said, included lack of snowfall, evaporation, the deepening of the St. Clair River channel at Sarnia, the loss via the Chicago drainage canal and removal of forest cover.

Mr. Gaunt said corrective proposals of the Georgian Bay Development Association include lowering the level of Lake Superior to elevate the levels of lakes Huron and Michigan; establishing a control dam at the foot of Lake Huron; and diverting water from the James Bay watershed into the Great Lakes.

Earlier, Mr. Sargent said he had received no real indication that the government was coming to grips with the problem when he asked Premier Roberts in the fall a question on the governors of Michigan, Illinois and New York along with Canadian authorities to launch a "crash program."

Mr. Sargent said ship builders at Collingwood had to turn down a contract because of the low water levels. The industry would go out of business, with a loss of 1,000 jobs, if the water

Parliamentary Notebook

OTTAWA (CP)—If Canada's next federal general election comes before the end of 1965, it will be fought on the basis of the same constituency boundaries as the last five elections.

The government bill providing for redistribution by independent commissions on the basis of the population count of the 1961 census is stalled in the Commons.

Informed circles say that even if the bill wins parliamentary approval by June, it is doubtful the redistribution can be carried out in keeping with revised constituency boundaries until 1965.

One authority says that once the bill is passed it will take another two months before all the redistribution commissioners are appointed and ready for action.

TAKE YEAR

Although the task of re-drawing constituency boundaries can be completed fairly promptly in the larger cities, it is expected it will take a full year to do the job for Ontario's 85 seats and 25 in Quebec.

Under terms of the government bill, the constituency boundaries would be subject to the Commons when completed. If within 30 days, at least, one-third of the MPs object to the plan, it goes back again to the provincial commissioners who have another 30 days to revise the boundaries, which then become final.

This authority reckons 18 months likely will elapse between the time the measure receives royal assent and when redistribution itself becomes final. If royal assent is received in June, the job will be done by December, 1965.

Politicos say that's not the end of it.

ADAPT STRUCTURES

All parties, especially the Liberals and Conservatives, will then have to reorganize to adapt their party structures to the new constituency lineup.

If predictions are drastic, this will take time.

Some party officials think it can be done in two or three months. Others are inclined to think they may need more time, maybe nine months or more. The latter group bases its estimate on the time taken to reorganize after the last redistribution in 1952 when only a comparatively small number of constituencies were affected.

The redistribution bill has received first and second readings in the House but was temporarily withdrawn from discussion April 23 after it bogged down in clause-by-clause discussion at the committee stage.

HOPES FOR CHANGE

Justice Minister Favreau, government House leader, expected the redistribution would "feel in a better mood" later. So far there has been no indication such will be the case before the Commons again.

The Commons bogged down over procedure for naming the 10 four-man provincial commissioners which will have the redistribution job formerly done by parliamentary committee.

Favreau fought but a split-second when debate reaches the clause numbered, appropriately, 31. It would have made differences in population "weight" as between rural and urban ridings illegal. But House already has agreed to defer discussion of this clause until the week-31 one after.

It provides a maximum 30-per - cent population variation for each constituency above or below the average for its province. The Conservatives have agreed to the 30-per-cent leeway in the interests of rural ridings which generally have smaller populations than those in cities.

Workers Want Sit-Down Strike

WOODSTOCK (CP) — About 750 workers at the Ontario Hospital here will ask other Ontario hospital workers to stage a sit-down strike July 1 if negotiations with the government on salaries and working conditions fail.

The action has been approved by members of branches 28 and 131 of the Civil Service Association and will be presented to an association session at the provincial association in Toronto May 16.

In April, workers at Woodstock, Whitby, Hamilton and North Bay provincial hospit ls voted to strike unless their urgent petition directly to Premier Roberts asking for wage increases.

Sport Slices...

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

It was a beautiful May morning. The sun shone warmly. Powder-puff cloudlets speckled the sky. I stood on the waterfront chatting with a grizzled veteran of the busy harbour. He knew his fishing and as I learned later his "boating."

Rippled water nuzzled the hulls of moored craft. A dozen or so swung at their berths. More were moving gently in the bay and the river-mouth, crowed by pickerel hunters. There were cabin cruisers, punts, flat-bottoms and others, while three or four youngsters manoeuvred hastily-constructed raft.

My friend waved his hand at the beautiful spring scene. "Greatest sport in the world, whether for fishing, cruising or just plain loafing," he said.

He spoke in serious vein. "Trouble is boating takes its toll of lives through accidents caused in the main by plain damn carelessness."

"Read somewhere," he said, "where Ontario had 69 percent more boating deaths last year than in 1962. The year said some 183 persons drowned in boating accident compared to 63 the previous year."

"I also read somewhere that there's a lot of do's and don't for boat operators which if followed properly would eliminate a lot of these accidents. Trouble is some people won't take the trouble to follow them."

The Canadian Boating Federation says that a study of boating deaths in Ontario last year showed that capsizing was the major cause and bad weather was the major cause of capsizing.

When the clouds start to roll across the lake and the wind rises, says the CBF, don't wait until the waves are breaking over the bow you head for shore.

At the first sign of a storm head for the nearest safe anchorage. Summer storms are violent but usually short-lived. You may be a little late for dinner but you'll live to eat it.

Don't regard life-jackets as stay. A government-approved life-jacket is the best life insurance you'll ever buy. If you capsize, resist the temptation to strike out for shore. Exhaustion is what you have to fear and you will not become exhausted if you keep calm and stay with your boat.

Realize the limitations of your boat. A car-top is not made to ride out a blow on Lake Superior. Year after year car-top operators take to waters that were never meant for their type of boats.

Make sure you have something to bail with. A tin can isn't as good as a bilge pump but it is a great deal better than nothing if your boat springs a leak.

If your operate an outboard keep cars or paddles aboard. There is nothing as helpless as an outboard boat with the motor dead particularly in a storm.

Learn the small-boat distress signal—the waving, in a vertical circular motion of a piece of light-colored material in the daytime or a light at night.

Throttle down on sharp turns or in bad weather; don't stand up or change seats in a small boat; don't leave your steering wheel or tiller unattended; don't accelerate quickly, and keep bilges free of oil, gasoline and rags.

Be nice to those in other boats. Slowing down when passing other craft is a mark of the big man. An old guide once said that the bigger the wake of a passing boat, the smaller the brain of the operator.

Race Relic Does 156 OnSpeedway

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The dinosaur is not extinct—not so long as it has a jockey like Parnelli Jones.

He booted it to 156 miles an hour Thursday at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, where it was considered a big hit the last time it was seen—until Jones did it two years ago.

Jones did win last year's $500,000 Indianapolis 500 in the Agajanian roadster and would have won it the previous year if a hydraulic brake line hadn't worn through.

The Torrance, Calif., veteran turned four laps Thursday, all clocked by electric timer at 155.871, 156.002, 153.333 and 156.233. The official one-lap record around the 2½ - mile track is 151.547 miles an hour, set by Jones last year in substantially the same car.

CHANGE ENGINE

Jones' car is "conventional" so he says that it has its engine mounted in front and that the power plant started out as an ordinary four-cylinder Offenhauser. Master mechanic Johnny Pondelik Foulkner has secret modifications he said added five miles an hour last year. He evidently and would dreamed up some more during the winter.

The track itself is faster this year, due to repaving of the bumpy back stretch, and improved tires are being used.

A Ford V-8 Fuyer of Houston, Tex., defending United States Auto Club national champion, followed Jones' practice run Thursday in another roadster and got up to 153.6.

New rear-engine Offenhausers are available to both Jones an Foyt. And they'll try them before deciding definitely to stay with the "relics."

Dodgers Need Hit Shots; Podres Out?

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Are officials of Los Angeles Dodgers beginning to be concerned with the sputtering start made by the defending world champions?

That seemed to be the big question today following two developments—still another loss by the weak-hitting Dodgers, 3-1 to Houston Colts in National League action Thursday night and a trade report involving pitcher Johnny Podres.

Denied by the Dodgers, the report said Colt officials had been offered Podres, who in his only appearance on April 28 was struck in the elbow by a Warren Spahn pitch and has been on the mound for only two innings this season.

"I know nothing whatsoever about it," said Dodger general manager, Buzzie Bavasi. "I haven't talked to anyone on the Houste. club. There's absolutely nothing to it."

There may be nothing to the report but there's no shortage of facts to convince Bavasi that the Dodgers have not been playing championship ball.

The loss to the Colts was their fifth in 22 games and left them six games behind the leading San Francisco Giants. The Dodgers are in front of only the Colts and New York Mets.

ATTACK IS ANEMIC

The Dodgers today scored only 78 runs and hit only 14 homers — eight by Frank Howard. Maury Wills is the only regular hitting over .300. The team is batting .235, eighth in the league.

While the Dodgers were belting their problems, Tom Haller's two-run single in the eighth gave San Francisco a 7-6 edge over Chicago Cubs, Clay Dalrymple's two - run homer started Philadelphia Phillies on the way to a 9-6 victory over Milwaukee Braves, St. Louis Cardinals defeated Pittsburgh Pirates 6-5 and New York Mets nipped Cincinnati Reds 3-2.

The Colts scored in the fifth on a single by Walt Bond, a double by Jim Wynn and Bob Aspromonte's sacrifice fly. Winning pitcher Bob Bruce led off the sixth with a single and came around with the clincher on a sacrifice and Al Spangler's single.

The Dodgers scored their lone run in the seventh on singles by Dick Tracewski and Wes Parker and a sacrifice fly by Willie who also collected three singles and a double.

Dalrymple, hitless in 23 previous trips to the plate, slammed his homer off Hank Fischer following a single by John Herrnstein, snapping a 5-3 tie. Art Mahaffey tagged for homers by Joe Torre and Eddie Mathews, and Jack Baldschun's relief help for the victory.

HAYS STILL HOT

The Giants went into the eighth trailing the Cubs 6-5 but singles by Jesus Alou and William Mays—the third hit for each—set up Haller's game-winning single off Lindy McDaniel. Mays' three hits lifted his average to .472.

Roberto Clemente hit a two-run homer in the first inning, but Curt Simmons, now 2-2, and Roger Craig stopped the Pirates the rest of the way. The Cardinals scored all their runs in the fourth against Bob Veale on singles by Julian Javier, Curt Flood, Dick Groat and Charley James, an infield out and an error.

Al Jackson evened his record at 2-2 by scattering nine Reds' hits. Tim Harkness, of Lachine, Que., hit a two-run first inning homer off Jim Maloney and Johnny Edwards homered for the Reds.

Sweep Series From Woodstock

Maroons End Allan Cup Famine

By BOB PARKINS

WINNIPEG (CP)—A 32-year famine ended Thursday when Winnipeg Maroons beat Woodstock Athletics 8-3 and brought the city its first Allan Cup since 1921.

The victory against the diehard Eastern champions gave Maroons a four-game sweep in the best-of-seven final for the nation's senior hockey crown.

It climaxed a 13-year bid by Maroons, Manitoba's only senior hockey team. They were formed in 1952 and despite two previous appearances in the playoffs were unable to win Winnipeg's eighth Allan Cup.

The club's previous Allan Cup finals were against Galt Terriers in 1961 and Windsor Bulldogs in 1953. They lost both series in five games on Eastern ice.

KEPT TRYING

Athletics never stopped trying as they tied Winnipeg once and continually threatened by twice pulling within two goals of the lead. Through much of the game Maroons were struggling to turn back a suddenly-spirited Woodstock attack, but lack of goal m o u t h presence frustrated most of the visitors' best efforts.

Winnipeg, with six former professionals on the ice, again displayed too much puck sense and in the end it was Maroons' clutching at goalmouth straws that brought them the cup.

GOT LONE GOAL

Wilson had scored Athletics' only goal in the first three games, in which Maroons ran away with 5-0, 7-1 and 5-0 victories.

Collins sparkled again in the Winnipeg n e t s, handling 38 Woodstock shots including 15 in the third period. The three-goal performance by Athletics boosted his average to 1.00 for the series.

At the other end, Ron Late stopped 27 shots. He was Woodstock's individual standout in the first three games and was rated near the top again in the fourth.

Referee Bill Roberts of Montreal let the teams jostle each other at will and handed out only five penalties, three to Woodstock. Maroons scored on all three Woodstock penalties.

SURTEES LEADS

MONTE CARLO (AP) — John Surtees of Britain, driving an eight-cylinder Italian Ferrari, turned the fastest lap Thursday in opening the qualifying runs for th. Grand Prix of Monaco, which will be raced Sunday. Surtees was timed in 1:25 for a lap on the twisting 2.18-mile course. Jack Brabham of Australia, driving his own Cowtry-Climax powered Brabham racer, was second with a lap time of 1:26.1.

Reject Fan Selection Of All-Stars

NEW YORK (AP)—The major league all-star teams for 1964 again will be chosen by the players, coaches and managers, commissioner Ford Frick said Thursday.

The game will be played at New York's new Shea Stadium, Tuesday, July 7.

A recommendation by the player representatives to return the voting to the fans "in order to stir up more interest" was rejected on the grounds it was "not practical."

"The teams chosen in the past few years by the players has been regarded as truly representative and that method of selection has been retained," said Frank Slocum of the commissioner's office.

The all-star teams have been picked by the fans from the game's inception in 1933.

The players turned over to the players in 1957 after criticism of the 1956 fan vote which resulted in all Cincinnati players as starters and two others as alternates following a campaign sponsored by a Cincinnati radio station.

Golf Club Short Putts

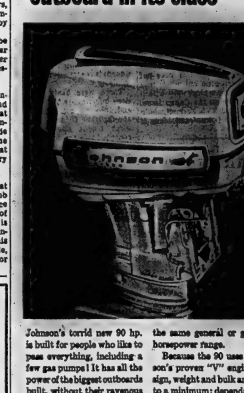
The men's golf season officially opens on Sunday, May 10, 1964, with the mixed 2-ball "Fun Day" which was inaugurated last year.

As stated, this is a fun day — a "get acquainted" day — 9 holes of golfing fun — each player may use only one club, of his or her choice and a putting contest is surprising how effective a "five" iron can be when it is the only club that you can use.

The tee-off time is 1.00 p.m. and open to all adult members, plus visitors and junior members if each is accompanied by an adult member.

The Lorne Stutsman's golf will be followed by a "pot-luck" dinner — each player will bring either a main course dish or a dessert.

MIDLAND LEAGUE



The club has accepted an invitation to join the Midland league — an institution of at least 30 years standing. Complete information will be made available to members after the first round has been played at Peterboro Golf and Country Club this coming Saturday.

OPENING DINNER DANCE

Tickets are now available at $6.00 per couple at the Club House for the dinner dance May 23, 1964. The number of tickets is limited — sale is restricted to members only until May 19, 1964 — after this date, if tickets are available, members may obtain these for guests.

Ken Wharram Wins Lady Byng Trophy

Keen, Henry Next

MONTREAL (CP) — Kenny W. arram, a diminutive right winger who has toiled with the Chicago Black Hawks, is the National Hockey League's choice as the player best combining good manners and top ability in the season just finished.

His selection as winner of the Lady Byng Memorial Trophy was announced by the NHL Thursday. The choice was made in balloting among sports writers and broadcasters in the six NHL cities.

The choice of a Black Hawk as the Lady Byng winner is somewhat of a rarity in recent NHL history. The last Hawk to win it was Bill Mosienko in the 1944-45 season.

Besides being honored as the player "adjudged to have exhibited the best type of sportsmanship and gentlemanly conduct combined with a high standard of playing ability," Wharram gets a more practical contribution from the league—$1,500 — to go towards off - season activities at his Melville, Sask., home.

For heading the poll with 120 points, he receives $1,000. The other $300 is made up of $200 awarded both the Chicago Black Hawks, as the National Hockey League's best team, and second-half polls.

Wharram, a five-year regular with Chicago who is only five-footeleven and 158 pounds, collected 60 of a possible 70 points to go with his first-half record of 60. He scored 30 goals and 28 assists for 58 points, enough to place him sixth in league scoring. He picked up only nine minor penalties.

Dave Keon, the Toronto Maple Leaf centre who won the trophy the previous two seasons, was runner-up with 69 points and gets $300. Third was Camille Henry of New York Rangers with 50 points.

Others who received points were: Bobby Hull, Chicago, 38; Phil Goyette, New York, 21; Murray Oliver, Boston Bruins, 13; Alex Delvecchio, Detroit Red Wings, 12; Norm Ullman, Toronto, 3; Al McDonald, Chicago, 2; Jean Ratleuer, Montreal, 1; Andy Hebenton, Boston, 1.

Marlies Game Away From Memorial Cup

By JERRY GLADMAN

TORONTO (CP) — Barring unforeseen accidents, Toronto Marlboros should experience no difficulty in relieving Edmonton Oil Kings of the Memorial Cup Saturday night.

The Marlboros moved within one game of their goal Thursday by drubbing the Oil Kings 5-2 for a 3-0 lead in their best-of-seven series.

Marlboros' impressive performance in the third game and the lack of effectiveness exhibited by the defending champion Oil Kings, strongly suggests a clean four-game sweep for Toronto.

The Kings, who were expected to give the Marlboros their toughest battle to date, disappointed a small crowd of 2,204.

At no time did the defending champions appear to be in the second game when they held the hardrock Marlboros to a standoff for more than two periods, only to lose a 3-2 decision.

The home club skated off with th triumph, outscoring the visitors 3-1 in each of the first two periods and counting the lone goal in the third.

STANLEYOWSKI STARS

Pete Stemkowski, a standout for the Marlboros throughout the series, fired two goals as did Brit Selby. Paul Laurent got the other, his first Memorial Cup goal.

Edmonton goals were to Butch Paul, who played the game with a cast on his wrist and a heavily taped ankle, and defenceman Bert Marshall.

Only the tremendous skating of Fran Huck, the 18-year-old scoring sensation picked up from Regina Pats of the Saskatchewan Junior Hockey League, kept the crowd from being more than a little disappointed with the Western champions.

Huck, an 86-goal scorer with Regina, put in an impressive one-way effort for Burnie Brashaw's crew and came close to scoring on several occasions.

There was enough good checking throughout with the Marlboros handing out most of the heavy bumps. Referee Frank Daigneault of Montreal called 11 penalties—Marlboros taking eight.

Should the Kings manage to survive Saturday's game, a fifth match will be played here Sunday. In the event sixth and seventh games are called for, the series will shift to Kitchener to wrap up the series.

Has' Remarkable Power

Oliva Another 'Hank Aaron'?

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Baseball men are starting to call Tony Oliva a left-handed Henry Aaron and, based on the Cuban rookie's auspicious debut in the American League, the assessment may be accurate.

Oliva made a believer out of Los Angeles manager Bill Rigney by flailing Angel pitching for six hits in nine times at bat in a two-game series.

"He's a heck of a hitter, isn't he," Rigney said after Oliva collected his hits, including a grand slam home run and a solo homer, and drove in six runs in Minnesota Twins' 9-1 victory over the Angels Thursday.

"I haven't noticed too much he can't hit. It looks like we'll have to throw him spitters and hope we drown him."

Oliva is a gangling kid, six-foot-one and 175 pounds. Yet he hits with remarkable power, like Aaron, Milwaukee Braves' great outfielder.

He also collared two singles to raise his average to .427. He has seven homers and 18 runs batted in.

Tony is an uncomplicated 22-year-old to whom the game of baseball is a simple thing. He just hits the ball. He doesn't care who the pitcher is; he sel-ihe pitcher he is batting dom even knows the name of against.

Now Its Outfield Measurements

Finley Stirs Trouble Pot

CHICAGO (CP)—Charles O. Finley, owner of the Kansas City As, is fencing again with president Joe Cronin of the American League.

Finley, who recently complained about Yankee Stadium's right field distance, said Thursday he asked Cronin to check outfield measurements in all league parks.

Finley said he measured fence distances at Comiskey Park here after some of his players said they doubted advertised measurements of some parts were accurate.

"So I spent $04 for a 500-foot steel tape and measure," said Finley.

"Well, Comiskey Park's advertised 352-foot foul lines are 347 feet. The deep center field measurements are 405 feet instead of the 414 painted out there.

"The phony numbers are psychological barriers to visiting ball players. The league president should order all ballparks and teams to measure distances from home-plate to the posted markers in all parks and require corrections where needed."

Batting—Tony Oliva, Twins, collected two homers, one a grand slam, and two singles, driving in six runs and lifting his batting average to .427 in Minnesota's 9-1 walloping of Los Angeles Angels.

Pitching—Jack Lamabe, Red Sox, won his third game with out a loss since leaving the bullpen for a starter's role, allowing only six hits in Boston's 7-0 victory over Detroit Tigers.

Richmond Demotes Syracuse

At 37, Rollie Sheldon hasn't much time left to fight his way back onto New York Yankees' pitching staff, but he hasn't stopped trying.

The Richmond right hander offered some convincing arguments Thursday night as he set Syracuse Chiefs down with three hits in pitching the Virginians to a 6-1 victory that knocked the losers out of first place in the International League.

Sheldon pitched no-hit ball for the first five innings and didn't give up a run until John Sullivan reached him for a bases-empty homer in the sixth inning as he picked up his second win without a loss.

Fred Hopke staked him to a two-run lead with a bases-loaded double in the first inning and the Vees picked up three more runs in the fourth.

It is the only other game played, outside Bill Monbouquette's five three Rochester home runs in the fourth inning for Columbus Jets in a 7-3 decision over the Red Wings.

The base-empty blows by Steve Demeter, Jim Liggett and Paul Blair wiped out an early two-run lead established by Ted Savage's homer.

Three runs in the sixth inning and two more in the seventh enabled the Jets to end a five-game losing streak.

Clouts Grand Slam, Homer, Two Singles

Twins' Oliva One-Man Gang In 9-1 Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Tony Oliva, Dalton Jones and Tony Conigliaro are three rookies with a knack for losing a baseball at opportune moments.

All three demonstrated their talent with telling effect Thursday to improve the fortunes of their American League clubs with Oliva, Minnesota Twins' Cuban slugger, leading the way.

The happy-go-lucky Minnesota outfielder ran his season's home run total to seven and produced the first grand-slammer of his career as he drove in six runs with a pair of homers and two singles in Minnesota's 9-1 conquest of Los Angeles Angels.

Jones and Conigliaro contributed two-run homers to a 7-3 victory by Boston Red Sox over Detroit Tigers to give Jack Lamabe his third win in as many starts.

Cleveland Indians broke their first-place tie with the idle Chicago White Sox by downing Baltimore Orioles 9-4 and New York Yankees outslugged Washington Senators 8-6 in the only other games played. Chicago and Kansas City Athletics had an open date.

SMASHES SIX HOMER

Oliva, hitting at a fantastic .518 clip in his last seven games, connected again with the bases empty in the eighth. Jimmie Hall's two-run homer followed.

Jones, who only hit seven homers all last year in the Pacific Coast League, got his second for the Red Sox in the third inning at Detroit only to have the Tigers bounce back with three runs in the bottom half. Conigliaro's clout in the ninth was the clinching blow after Dick Stuart's two-run single had put the Sox ahead to stay in the seventh.

Shortstop Dick Houser, the Indians' leadoff man, drove in four runs with three singles against Baltimore while winning pitcher Jim Grant contributed a two-run homer to his own cause. Tito Francona, a former Oriole, also hit a homer with a mate aboard.

Tom Tresh, the Yankees' injured left fielder, came off the bench in the seventh inning to supply a pinch single that produced the tie-breaking run at Washington. The Yanks had scored five times in the third inning, blew the lead when the Senators came up with their third two-run inning in the fifth and tied it as Hector Lopez sent home Bobby Richardson in the sixth with his third hit of the night.

Ontario Leads Tenpinners

WINNIPEG (CP) — Ontario competitors took first - round leads Thursday in both categories at the Canadian temple bowling championships.

The Northern Ontario pair of Clive Vittoson and Robbie Montgomery of Fort William led the doubles competition with four points.

In the five-man team competition, Ontario led with four.

In doubles, Alberta and British Columbia had three points each for a second-place tie. Ontario and Saskatchewan each had two and Quebec trailed with one. Manitoba had a first-round bye.

Northern Ontario had a first-round bye in the team competition. In this category Manitoba and Saskatchewan were tied for second with three points.

Each doubles and team entry plays six matches in the four-day competition that ends Sunday.

Each match consists of a four-game set with the winner picking up a point for each victory. The club with the highest match total also gets a point for a maximum of five points.

REAL MADRID WINS

MADRID (AP) — Real Madrid beat F. C. Zurich of Switzerland 6-0 in soccer Thursday and advanced to the final of the European Cup of League Champions. The Spanish team won the two-game total-goals series 8-1. Real Madrid will meet Internazionale of Milan, Italy, in the final at Vienna on May 27.

No Gentle Touch
Hand That Rocked Cradle Now Runs Baseball Club

By KEN ROGERS

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—The iron hand that rules Salt Lake Bees has painted finger nails.

It belongs to Enid Cosgriff, the only female general manager in professional baseball.

Mrs. Cosgriff became president of the Pacific Coast League team in 1961, after Walter E. Cosgriff, her first husband and the Bees' chief executive, was killed in an auto accident.

She took on the added task of general manager last fall, shortly before marrying a Salt Lake physician, Dr. Michael Murphy.

It's tough to tell where the lady stops and the boss begins.

CAN'T BE SOFT

"Just because I am a woman, I can't let the players think I'm soft and soapy," she said. "When we have a problem with one of the players I get together with the field manager, Vedie Himsl, and decide on a policy.

The Bees were running in the red when Mrs. Cosgriff took over—the fans stayed home.

"Six weeks after the death of my husband," she said, "I was out selling box tickets as president of the club.

"I learned from that experience not to fold when the pressure is on. Salt Lake wanted triple A baseball, and my husband was working toward keeping it here—I just stepped into his shoes.

KEPT CLUB ALIVE

"Both the club and the public looked to me to keep a competitive sport alive."

There have been changes in the Salt Lake club and in its park, Derks Field. The field, the bleachers and locker rooms are spotless.

She established a sidewalk cafe for between-inning refreshments, dressed stadium officials, including herself, in snappy blazers and put fresh flowers in offices.

There's one thing that gives the lady boss the heebie-jeebies—men sliding into base.

"I shudder when I think of the cleaning bills," she said. "but if they make it safely, I forgive them."

Gary Player Tops Field In Colonial

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—Gary Player shot a two-under-par 68 Thursday and seized the first round lead in the $75,000 Colonial National Invitational golf tournament.

The little South African made a seven-foot par putt on the final green to save a stroke ahead of Tommy Jacobs, one of the forty finishers who tacked up a 35-34—69.

Palmer carded a disastrous 41 going out but battled in with a 34 for 75. Nicklaus shot a 39-37—76.

Al Balding and George Knudson, both of Toronto, each had rounds of 74. Balding shot 39-35 and Knudson 38-36.

Club Travel Planners Elected

OLIVE BRANSCHE — GUNTHER ACTROS

Planning to attend the same drama festival, two clubs are merging for this occasion to charter a Canadian National coach. This novel approach to cut expenses was explained by Mrs. Olive Bransche, newly-elected travel convenor for her Ladies' Club, and Mr. Günther Actros, well-known theatre personality and drama teacher. "Each club had sufficient members . . . about 30 . . . to obtain the CN Party Fares discount of 20% explained Mrs. Bransche. "Even over and above CN's rock-bottom Red and White fares. But by travelling together, we can charter a CN coach, for even greater savings". Mr. Actros added "Our students could not have afforded the trip by themselves, but the CN Charter Coach Plan gives us our 'own' air-conditioned coach with savings as much as 33⅓ — and places the festival within our means. In fact, we are planning to use the Canadian National Group Travel Plans for all future excursions."

May Call Campbell In Suit

TORONTO (CP) — National Hockey League president Clarence Campbell may be called as a witness in former NHL referee Eddie Powers' libel and slander suit against Hector (Toe) Blake, coach of the Montreal Canadiens hockey club.

Mr. Justice Samuel Hughes Thursday granted Powers' lawyer permission to subpoena Mr. Campbell as a witness in the Ontario Supreme Court trial scheduled to start May 19.

The suit is based on a statement attributed to Mr. Blake published in the Feb. 1, 1963, edition of Montreal Matin. Montreal had lost the previous night's game against Toronto Maple Leafs 6-3.

The 46-year-old Powers resigned claiming Campbell gave him insufficient support in fining Blake only $200 on Feb. 14 for his comments.

Hurt Boxer Taken To Hospital

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Featherweight boxer Salvador Precido, whose preliminary fight with Mario Baptista was stopped Thursday night in round four, collapsed 15 minutes later in his Olympic Auditorium dressing room and was taken to a hospital.

State Athletic Commissioner Alberto C. Dias said Precido, who fought as the Barracuda Kid from Mexico, emerged from his post-fight shower and complained of pains in the back of his head and neck. Then he slumped into a chair.

An ambulance took him to hospital where he was admitted for observation.

A ringside physician who examined the 22-year-old boxer at the end of round four said he had suffered a broken nose. Precido's nose had started to bleed in the first round and by the end of the fight both men were covered with blood.

Baptista, 23, also of Mexico, and Precido both were fighting at 122 pounds.

HUNTS WITH A CAMERA — Ernie Pleau, 61, retired deputy-director of the Montreal Police Department, abandoned the gun when he discovered that there was more challenge stalking game with a camera. Currently president of the annual Montreal Sportsmen's Show and vice-president of the Montreal Anglers' and Hunters' Club, he frequently lectures in public on wildlife, using his private collection of wildlife slides as props. Lover of Nature Gave up Using a Gun for Hunting

By JOE DUFUIS

MONTREAL (CP)—If it were possible, Ernie Pleau would like to catch a trout using a line made of the strands of a spider web.

"For me, a fly is never too tiny, or a leader too fine," he says.

But if Pleau declinedly devoted to the idea that a sport fisherman should give his prey every chance to outwit him, he goes even further with the principle in hunting.

Long ago he gave up hunting game with a gun. He prefers a camera and has built a large private collection of wildlife slides which he insures for several thousand dollars.

With these credentials, it follows naturally that Pleau would be active with sportsmen's organizations.

He is one of the founders, and currently president, of the annual Montreal Sport men's Show, and vice-president and long-time sparkpring of the successful and vigorous Montreal Anglers and Hunters Club. He frequently lectures on wildlife, using his slides.

A 230-pound six-footer, Ernest Michael Pleau retired last January as deputy-director of the Montreal police department after what he describes as an unspectacular 37-year career. By unspectacular he means that he wasn't wounded, or even shot at.

LIKED OUTDOORS

Pleau, 61, explains that his interest in the outdoors owes nothing to his police work.

"As a young man, I felt some sort of appeal, or calling if you like, to get out into nature.

"My first experience was with the very amateurish still-fishing (hook and worm) Then I advanced to bait casting and trout fishing in the Laurentian lakes. From there I got into the finer points . . . lighter equipment and things like that."

He got into hunting the same way but abandoned the gun when he discovered there was more challenge stalking game with a camera. Many of his slides represent hours of silent vigil, a keen knowledge of the forest and animal habits.

His wife Yvonne, who died five years ago, shared his love of the outdoors, frequently joining him on expeditions of 15 to 20 days in the bush.

"She could more than hold her own. One thing, she was perhaps a little more patient than I was."

They had no children and Pleau now lives alone in a downtown hotel suite.

Born in Montreal, he is perfectly bilingual although he didn't get further than ninth grade. He came up through the ranks on the force and was responsible for 3,000 men when he retired.

CONSERVATION MINDED

"I've found a tremendous enjoyment, and at times a sheer exhilaration, communing with nature," he says. "For a city-bred man like myself, this opened up unforeseen horizons and made me, perhaps, more conscious of the human factor in life."

But although nature taught him tolerance, he still rankles at the way man continues to abuse the land.

"Do you know that not so long ago, within the last generation, our resources were considered inexhaustible? But now? Now, everything is changed. In a country like Canada where the population is growing ever so rapidly, man shamelessly pollutes our waters and seems to be happy only when he destroyes the habitat of our wildlife. Man poaches without scruples."

If it continues, he says, many species of animal and fish will disappear. "We've got to educate the public about conservation. This is a great challenge and we must all face up to it."

Pleau leaves this month for a six-month trip through Western Canada.

"Everybody goes to Europe, to the chateaus of France, to the Vatican. Me, I want to see my country first."

Not Trying to Run Satire Show Weekly Says Producer

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—"Nobody ever said we'd have a 30-minute satire show every week," said Leland Hayward, almost angrily. "That Was the Week that Was is simply a program that makes comments on what's going on in the world."

Hayward is executive producer and owner of the Friday night NBC show usually called TWI.

"I think that, all things considered, we're doing pretty well, although I'm never happy with it and am always trying to make it better," Hayward continued. "But all satire—never."

The big problem of TWI is lack of time. "We're always in a rush," he said, "and much of the time we have to cut, rewrite, even add new material between the dress rehearsal and the time we're on the air.

SKETCH PLEASES

"We're trying to departmentalize the show, said Hayward. "We're pleased with the husband-and-wife sketch that Goodman Ace contributed last week, and would like to continue it. Ultimately we'd like a couple of good, fast sketches and lots of quick comment."

He deplores the "vendetta" that blew up between Jack Paar, whose variety hour follows the show, and his own troupe.

Next season, TWI will be moved from Paar's path on Friday nights to a Tuesday night berth.

Before the "emmy awards" balloting, there will be considerable electioneering on the television screens.

Today, for instance, NBC's Bob Hope Theatre will re-run Two is the Number with the performance that won Shelly Winters a nomination.

Teen-Age Canada

A RARITY — Teen-agers today rarely wear hats, Jack Hutton reports, despite the fact that older screen idols such as Frank Sinatra once made hat-wearing a fad.

How Many Friends Do You Know That Wear a Hat?

By JACK HUTTON

Tell me, when does a fellow start wearing a hat these days? For years I've gazed in slight awe at the sophisticated male models wearing their hats at just the right angle. But how many friends you know wear a hat?

I started wondering about this question this week after hearing that one of Canada's best-known hat stores (L. J. Applegath of Toronto) is closing its doors because even males are scorning headwear.

It's proprietor said he knew the handwriting on the wall when he saw it. The entire hat industry in Canada, he said, is finding that the younger generation prefers going bareheaded.

I felt twinges of guilt when I heard this. The only hat I've worn was a felt sports model bought to accompany a white sports car, and it blew away the second day.

I've obviously let down the hat industry in Canada. Shame on my bare head.

In the interest of pure research I raided my picture files. If I was looking for company for my sins, I found plenty of it. And the files revealed reasons for the bareheaded trend.

BAREHEADED ELVIS

There is, as far as I know, not one picture in existence showing Elvis Presley wearing a fedora. You will also search in vain for a picture of either Paul Anka or Bobby Curtola sporting a fedora.

Can you imagine a picture of Elvis politely tipping his hat to a passing lady friend? A sneak photographer grabbing that picture could destroy the Tennessee playgirl's image overnight.

I also plowed through hundreds of pictures of Richard Burton, but the image was always the same, the melancholy Welshman with uncovered tousled hair. Miss Elizabeth Taylor wore some knockout hats — but never her partner.

Come to think of it, I never remember the late President John Kennedy wearing a hat unless it was a formal affair demanding a top hat. And his example undoubtedly influenced millions on both sides of the border.

Bing Crosby and Frank Sinatra have worn hats in public for years. But they have something else in common: receding hairlines that look far better under felt covers. Bob Goulet, who hasn't that problem, still sings bareheaded.

I remember stepping into a hat store on impulse one day. The impeccably dressed salesman looked me over coldly and remarked, "Hmm, don't know if we have anything to fit the shape of that face."

Twenty hats later, I thrust my money into the salesman's hand and bolted with a black fedora. Half-way home I paused to look in a mirror and saw a fellow who resembled a pickle bottle.

I threw the hat into a trash can one block later. Somehow I think Elvis and Richard Burton would have approved.

It may be a bit like smiling in the face of a loaded shotgun, but our correspondents tell us that Hollywood stars have produced a flurry of sick humor slogans.

In Halifax, N.S., reader spotted a card the other day that read: "Be the first in your crowd to flunk. Why wait for others to set the style!

Several Vancouver, B.B., students are making up cards that look like goodwill messages when they first arrive in the mail.

One card shows a beaming face on the cover and the message: Good luck to a brilliant student. Inside it reads: Not you, stupid. (This card is for wonders for one's self-confidence.)

Another one states on the cover: We know you'll win a scholarship and be the most brilliant student in our school. Inside it adds: Unless they check your cuffs.

It must be wonderful to know you have friends like that.

AT THE BELLE — Divorced and in love, the combination of violent tempers and mutual attraction which ruined their marriage is still working away in this scene from "Mary, Mary", co-starring Barbie Nelson, Debbie Reynolds, Michael Rennie and Diane McBain, in the fun and laugh Warner Bros. Technicolor comedy, which opens Monday at the Belle Theatre.

Janine Gray Will Have More Clothes in Her Next Movie

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Janine Gray's shocked British friends will take more kindly to her attire in her second Hollywood film.

She's playing a lead with Robert Morse and George Maharis in Quick, Before It Melts, a comedy set in Antarctica. Janine is quite properly covered with sweaters over sweaters topped by parka.

In her last movie, The Americanization of Emily, there were reports that she had played a scene in the nude.

"But I wasn't nude," she protests. I wore pants."

That is all, however, she resisted efforts of MGM officials who wanted her to wear flesh-colored underwear to heave about the size of a silver dollar.

"I refused," Janine declared. "Why, those little things make you look grotesque. Just to prove it, I demonstrated how it would look with one pasty on and one off for the director, Arthur Hiller. He is a rather shy man and was a bit unnerved, but he sided with my argument."

The scene was a comedy sequence in which James Garner bursts into James Coburn's London apartment. Janine dresses hastily while the men engage in an argumegt, oblivious to her.

NO QUALMS AT ALL

Did she have any qualms about doing the scene?

"Not at all," she said. "The scene was played strictly for laughs and was quite charming. It was nothing like those foreign movies in which nudity is played for hot-breathing sex. I would certainly not do anything like that."

Janine admitted that the reaction among friends and family in Britain was a bit testy. Her parents were alarmed, she said. "My mother wrote me to ask what nasty kind of business I was engaged in. After I explained the whole thing, they weren't so concerned.

Heavily-Insured Passenger Shot Aircraft Pilot

FBI Says Gun Owne Held $50,000 Policy

CONCORD, Calif. (AP)—The FBI has established that a heavily - insured passenger apparently shot a pilot of an airliner crashing at 5,000 feet on a flight from Reno to San Francisco just before it crashed near Concord Thursday, killing all 44 aboard.

The man's name and the beneficiary of his newly - purchased policy were not immediately disclosed.

An informed source said the FBI had traced ownership of a powerful magnum revolver found in the wreckage to a man who took out an insurance policy in excess of $50,000 on his life just before boarding the plane.

An FBI laboratory check in Washington, the source said, determined that the revolver, a .357 Smith and Wesson magnum contained six sport cartridges, fired only recently.

The source confirmed that a tape recorder found in the wreckage carried the voice of pilot Ernest A. Clark, saying, "He's tied, I've been shot."

Then came a tape scream, just before the Pacific Air Lines plane went into the plummeting dive from a mile up that ended with a shattering explosion in the rough pastureland southeast of Concord.

LOST MONEY GAMBLING?

Speculation arose immediately that the gun writher had lost heavily at the Reno gambling tables. But questions for the two largest casinos in Reno said there was no indication of any unusually heavy losses by a patron the night before the crash.

The FBI did not give the exact amount of insurance taken out by the owner of the gun, but a source said it was the largest policy taken out by those who purchased machine-dispensed insurance before boarding at Reno.

Another mystery to be solved if possible was whether the passenger shot and Pilot Clark or pumped bullets also into co-pilot Raymond E. Andrews and stewardess Victoria E. Schafer, the other members of the crew.

All aboard the twin-engine F-27 should have died when it went to unidentifiable bits by the impact near a herd of grazing cattle.

His deputy, Mal Whalin, said a fingernail found at the scene contained a hole which could have been made by a bullet. He said the nail was torn from a skull but declined to say what part of the body it came from.

CBA, FBI INVESTIGATE

Ten investigative teams from the Civil Aeronautics Board in Washington as well as FBI agents investigated every angle of the crash at the scene, 40 miles east of San Francisco.

DE VALERA TO VISIT

OTTAWA (CP) — President Eamon de Valera of Ireland will visit Ottawa June 1-5, Prime Minister Pearson announced Friday.

Nasser Welcomes Mr. K

By TERENCE BULNSUM

ALEXANDRIA (Reuters) — Soviet Premier Khrushchev, sun - tanned and beaming, arrived in Egypt today on his first trip to Africa.

Egyptian Air Force jets roared over Alexandria and naval units, sirens blasting, gave Khrushchev's all - white ship, the Soviet liner Armenia, an escort into port.

Crowds of Egyptians cheered wildly as Khrushchev, in apparent high spirits after a holiday on the Black Sea coast, walked down the gang-plank and was embraced by President Gamal Abdel Nasser.

Both men grinned broadly.

The warmth of Khrushchev's welcome contrasted with the cool formality of the welcome accorded Communist Chinese Premier Chou En-lai when he was in Egypt five months ago. Khrushchev's visit, to be highlighted by the opening of the first stage of the giant Aswan high dam, a symbol of Soviet aid to Africa, was to last 16 days.

PRAISES PREMIER

In a welcoming speech Nasser described Mr. Ruslan pre miss as "a courageous fighter who has devoted his whole life to the ideals of peace on earth."

In reply, Khrushchev said his exchange of visits with Nasser —who visited the Soviet Union in May and July, 1958—would "help to expand co - operation between our two countries.

"Our visit to the United Arab Republic is an expression of the developments that have taken place in relations between our countries."

Khrushchev's arrival in the U.A.R. coincided with a Soviet conference of Afro-Asian solidarity at Baku, the capital of Azerbaijan.

Khrushchev himself was expected to make a spirited defence of Russia's policy in Africa during a four-day stay next week at Aswan.

Talks between him and Nasser will also play an important part in his visit.

LEOPOLDVILLE (Reuters)—Police at Mwene-Ditu in The Congo's Kasai province recently found 17 prisoners suffocated to death and five barely conscious in the local police station cell.

The police had crowded the prisoners into the windowless cell and slammed the door, says a South Kasai provincial government communique published Friday.

The prisoners' shouts went unheeded and eventually all was quiet. Discovery of the deaths was made the following morning when police opened the door.

Because the cell had no alternative ventilation, the town police were in the habit of leaving the cell door open.

But when two prisoners walked out of the open door to freedom the police decided to close the door.

The communique said an inquiry was being made.

Men Cut By Forces Get Cash

By BEN WARD

OTTAWA (CP)—A cash settlement will be paid to service-men with more than five years of service who are forcibly retired by the defence department's new program to integrate the navy, army and air force.

Maximums will be 10 months pay—up to $15,000 for senior officers. All payments are subject to income tax.

Associate Defence Minister Cardin announced the bonus plan Friday in the Commons, saying it is designed to relieve the hardship of prematurely-retired servicemen in reverting to civilian employment and compensate them in part for the pay and pension benefits they would have received by serving until normal retirement age.

It will apply immediately to the 500 officers being retired by the RCAF this summer as surplus to air crew requirements.

Integration plans call for eliminating 10,000 armed services personnel in the next two years, thus reducing the total force to 112,000. It will be done by combining many of the "housekeeping" activities now carried on separately by the three services.

WILL QUALIFY

Most of the 10,000 men involved in the reduction will qualify for the new bonus. Others won't because of normal retirement.

Those with under five years'

Arena Audience Is Thrilled By Circus in European Style

The circus has come to town.

The International Hippodrome Circus gave its first performance at the Memorial Arena Friday evening to the delight of a large audience. Its two-day stand here is sponsored by the Belleville Youth Committee.

Proprietmen, riggers, electricians and others worked at top speed Thursday night and Friday morning until everything was set in position in the ring, on the floor and in the air, ready for the first performance last night.

Performances start today at 2.00 and 8.00 p.m.

Last night's audience sensed the European atmosphere of the big show at once. Seats were placed right up to the edge of the ring, just as shown in TV scenes of circuses in Europe. The performers were so close to the front row of seats that the audience could almost reach out and touch them. This intimate arrangement is novel to Canadians and offered a thrilling experience. Clowns used the audience as part of their crazy buffoonery, which always delights those who are not being ribbed.

When the Francisco et Cie. funny men from France, got into action with the patrons, it was a riot.

The public was even called upon to ride a bareback horse at the finale of the Richard Remos Bareback act and the participants made the crowds roar and enjoy the unusual experience.

The fast-moving program included many features new to Canadian audiences. Natal — is he man or monkey? — broke out early in the program. He scampered up a guy wire to the girders so fast, many who saw him still don't know what he is. The La Fontane Sisters, direct from a South American tour, provided beauty and thrills with their daring, skilful high ladder balancing and juggling. Kay and Kay are two American girls who brought chills and thrills to the audience in their high aerial routines. Freddie and Ortane made the crowd gasp with their astounding head-to-head balancing on the treacherous rola

"MY, DOBERMAN, WHAT BIG FEET YOU HAVE"

—That's what Modoc, the king-size elephant with International Hippodrome Circus, may be saying to one of his fellow-performers, a Pinscher Doberman, as the cameraman proves that circus people are not the only ones who can perform incredible tricks. The Doberman appears to have nibbled on some of Alice's mushrooms to attain this size, but even better Wonderland tricks were displayed before an enthusiastic audience as International Hippodrome Circus opened a two-day stand at the arena here last night.

Billion Savings Is Goal

By RUSSELL ELMAN

OTTAWA (CP) — Defence Minister Hellyer has sounded a clarion call for recruitment into Canada's armed forces at the same time as the government plans to eliminate unnecessary manpower.

Minutes after he spelled out proposals Friday to reduce service personnel by 10,000 with a reduction in expenditures amounting to $1,000,000,000 in the next 10 years, he proclaimed in the Commons that the services still offer excellent career prospects for those with ability and determination.

"Therefore, I urge members to encourage young men to volunteer to serve their country in the armed forces."

Friday was defence day in Parliament. These developments were recorded:

1. The Commons agreed to reconstitute the special committee on defence.

2. The government announced a cash settlement will be paid to servicemen with more than five years of service who are forcibly retired ahead of time.

HI FIRST OPPONENT

The proceedings provided opposition MPs with their first chance in the Commons to criticize the government's white paper.

Nine Are Killed By One Twister, 82 In Hospital

50 to 200 Dwellings Destroyed by Storm

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich. (AP)—A killer tornado slammed across southeastern Michigan Friday strewing death, injury and property damage estimated in the millions of dollars in its path.

State police said at least nine persons were known dead in nearby Chesterfield Township, which bore the brunt of the death - dealing twister. Rescue workers feared other victims may be found in the rubble.

Governor George Romney flew over the devastated area Friday night. He estimated that property damage "could run into the millions."

Two Mount Clemens hospitals reported 82 persons were admitted for treatment. At least 200 others were treated and released.

The tornado, which roared through a residential area not far from Selfridge Field Air Force Base, was one of three tornadoes which touched down in southeastern Michigan.

The tornado was described as roaring like a giant vacuum cleaner.

Sheriff Lester A. Almstadt said the twister ripped through an area three miles long and three-quarters of a mile wide."

The intimates of the numbers of homes destroyed ranged from 50 to 200.

Another tornado struck at Luna Pier, about 60 miles from the blasted Mount Clemens area Friday night. A trailer park and a funnel also dipped into southeastern Monroe County and flattened a barn there. It is across the county from Luna Pier.

SMASHES HOMES

A tornado which hit between Pontiac and Lake Orion in Oakland County, some 30 miles east from the Detroit area, smashed homes and tore down trees and powerlines.

Romney took a helicopter flight over the devastated area. Roadblocks set up on four miles square was sealed off for the weekend. He said the area would be patrolled by 300 national guardsmen and 200 state policemen to keep out the curious and possible looters.

Almstadt said the battered area which lies just from the air as if a heavy-heeled giant had stamped on it again and again, had at least 75 homes destroyed completely.

Diem's Brother Is Executed

SAIGON (Reuters)—Ngo Dinh Can, younger brother of former president Ngo Dinh Diem of South Viet Nam, was executed by firing squad today, it was announced.

Can, 53, former overlord of central Viet Nam, was sentenced to death by revolutionary court last month for murder, unlawful arrest, extortion and illegal financial dealings.

Appeals for clemency by Roman Catholic and Buddhist leaders and the U.S. government were turned down by chief of state Gen. Duong Van Minh.

"Bill 99" Haunts Closing

By BOB EXELL

TORONTO (CP)—The second session of Ontario's 27th legislature, still obsessed with its controversial Bill 99, ended at last Friday after establishing itself as the province's third-longest legislative session.

Lieutenant - Governor Earl Rowe prorogued the session at 2 p.m. after reading a 20-page government-written speech that touched on all the highlights of the session but one—Bill 99, an Act to Amend the Police Act.

The 107 remaining members of the 108 who entered the house last Jan. 15 drifted at home, obviously relieved that it was all over. For, in some manner, Bill 99 seemed to have been reflected in everything done by the house since its introduction March 24.

Farquhar Oliver, the Liberal opposition leader, said in his session speech that it was this session of the legislature in which the opposition finally came into its own. The reason: Bill 99.

HAS IMPACT

By forcing the government to kill Section 14 of the bill, Mr. Oliver said, the opposition had shown it could have a "terrific impact" on government legislation. This incident has instilled in the public mind that it is the role of the opposition.

Both Mr. Oliver and Donald C. MacDonald, the New Democratic Party leader, said the post-election session had been expected to be a quiet one. Instead, said Mr MacDonald, the session turned out to be "a very remarkable one."

The Conservative government of Premier Robarts was returned to office last Sept. 25 with 77 of the 108 members. The Liberals had 28 seats and the New Democrats seven.

The house met for a special two-day session in the fall. The second session began Jan. 15 and sat for 69 days—71 if one day and another committee is included.

It made no difference for the record books, for the second longest session was 71 days in 1923. The shortest year had set the record—61 days.

ONE DIED

There was one death during the second session. It was Maurice Belanger, Liberal member for Windsor Sandwich, reducing membership in the house to 107.

Little major social legislation was introduced by the government. The most important measures dealt with education.

The government established a new department—primarily of fairs, with Education Minister Davis taking on the added portfolio—and passed legislation es-

Much Activity on Water Front

Ontario Calls Parley

TORONTO—An international conference to deal with water levels in the Great Lakes will be convened in Ontario as soon as possible, Premier John Robarts said yesterday.

He said all states bordering the Great Lakes will likely attend along with representatives from the Quebec and federal governments.

Some joint action to solve the serious water problem would be the aim of the conference he said, but "where it will lead to I do not know." Any solution would take time to implement, he said.

Premier Robarts said outside the Legislature that he expects invitations will go out to the governments concerned in about three or four weeks.

Federal Govts. Will Confer

OTTAWA (CP) — Talks between the governments of Canada and the United States will likely take place over the receding water levels in the Great Lakes, senior government source said Friday.

The source said unofficial talks have already taken place with U.S. authorities and that federal engineering staffs are fully conversant with the U.S. viewpoint.

The federal source said the question of a conference was still at a "mooted" stage. No date or site had been set.

Preliminary arrangements would be handled at an international level through the external affairs department.

Sees Canada As Lone Hope

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Philip A. Hart, Michigan Democrat, said Friday Canada is the only source of more water for the Great Lakes.

Discussing a plan for a study of water diversion into the Great Lakes, Hart said Canadian concern about the problem is heartening since Canada would likely have to supply any additional water.

To get it, he said, the flow of Canadian rivers would have to be reversed and run over a divide into the lakes.

"I realize that any effective proposal will be expensive and will not be accomplished overnight," he said. "But let us make a start."

He said the lakes' water levels are at an all-time low.

Pollution to Be Studied

OTTAWA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Martin announced Friday that agreement in principle has been reached with the United States for an investigation of water pollution in Lakes Erie and Ontario and the international section of the St. Lawrence River.

The investigation will be made by the International Joint commission, which has a technical advisory board charged with maintaining surveillance over the quality of water in connecting channels of the Great Lakes.

Details of the investigation remain to be worked out between the two governments.

Hope to Find 300 Bancroft Men Work Before Mine Closes

BANCROFT, Ont. (CP)—The National Employment Service hopes to find jobs for most of Bancroft's 300 uranium miners before the mine, due to close June 30, is no longer said Thursday.

Harry Kushnel, president of Local 1006, of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (Ind), said NES will begin interviews in the Bancroft's one remaining uranium mine, due to close June 30.

The federal government confirmed the mine's closure Monday when it announced Canada Metal Co. stockpiling ceiling. Metal Mines Ltd. had been stockpiling since completing its last contract in June 1963.

Mr. Kushnel said the union had not yet received a reply to a telegram sent to Prime Minister Pearson requesting a meeting.

Mr. Kushnel said the union felt that the government should pay transportation costs incurred by the miners and their families moving to new jobs.

Move More Canadian Troops Into Embattled Mountains

By THOMAS A. REED

NICOSIA (AP) — A second clash prevailed again today in Cyprus after United Nations intervention ended 10 hours of fighting at the Turkish-Greek village of Louroujina, 15 miles south of Nicosia.

Greek-Cypriots kept the village under siege from positions on a hilltop until UN troops arrived in force and restored order. One Turk was wounded.

Louroujina was swelled by an influx of Turkish-Cypriot refugees to a population of about 3,000. Turkish-Cypriot farmers kept some 10,000 sheep and goats pent up in the village to protect them from grazing in the surrounding fields.

The firing broke out about midnight Friday night. It didn't end until British officers flew in by helicopter and arranged a truce.

Turkish - Cypriots said the Greeks started the fight. Greek-Cypriot officers said they had to protect their farmers bringing in spring crops.

PREPARE TO MOVE

Preparations, meanwhile, are being made to move more Canadian UN peacekeeping troops into the embattled Kyrenia Mountains.

Making plans to move into the mountains from Trakhonas, a northern suburb of Nicosia, was A company of Canada's Royal 22nd Regiment, under the command of Maj. Phil Plouffe of Quebec City.

In Ankara, Turkish foreign office sources said Senator J. W. Fulbright, U.S. Senate foreign relations committee, had proposed that Greece and Turkish-Cypriots from the troubled island as a solution to the crisis.

Fulbright, President Johnson's special envoy, left Turkey Friday after one day of talks with Premier Ismet Inonu and other Turkish officials.

The Turkish sources said Fulbright's suggestion was rejected. They said Turkey could not accept the Turkish-Cypriots or accept a solution against Turkey's national honor or interests.

CLING TO IDEA

Turkish officials were said to have clung to the form of partition as a solution in their talks with Fulbright. Under such a scheme, the Greek-Cypriot and Turkish - Cypriot communities would live apart under a federal system of government.

The UN command on Cyprus announced, meanwhile, that U.S. Air Force planes would start bringing Denmark's contingent of 970 men for the peace force in Cyprus next Thursday. The Danish contribution will increase the UN forces to about 7,300 — more than the goal of 7,000 established by U Thant. The surplus will allow Britain to pull back 235 of its soldiers.

The projected make-up of the UN force includes 1,087 men from Canada.

Senior Citizens Enjoy Musical Entertainment

The Belleville Senior Citizens held the first meeting in May in the Recreation Centre, Pinnacle Street, on Wednesday evening. In the absence of the president, Mr. Simmie, the vice-president, conducted the meeting, while Mrs. Adams presided at the piano.

Mrs. Cook was in charge of the entertainment and was chairman for the program. She introduced Mr. H. Wagner and his musical sons from Thomasburg and Tweed and from Belleville who favored with a number of selections. British Veteran Will Prolong Visit Here

TRENTON — Mr. C. T. Capp of Deal, Kent, England crossed the Atlantic on the "Carmonia" this week, and has now embarked on an extended Canadian holiday with his daughter, Mrs. Ronald (Joy) Craddock of Wharf St., Trenton.

Originally, Mr. Capp planned to spend a month in Canada, but his first few days in this area have impressed him to the point where he thinks he'll extend the time to two months and maybe three.

A first world war veteran, (he fought with the Royal artillery), Mr. Capp is making his first trip to Canada, and incidentally, seeing for the first time his daughter, Mrs. Craddock, Ryan Mark, John, Elizabeth, Mary and Marjie Craddock.

Since his arrival in Trenton, Mr. Capp, in his 70s, has been motoring around the district with his son-in-law, Ron. He says he is most impressed with the "straight roads" in Canada and the fact that Mrs. Craddock lives Thursday night left him speechless.

Incidentally, considering the controversy that has been raging locally about the cutting of trees in town, Mr. Capp was greatly impressed by the number and luxuriance of trees in Trenton.

Mr. Capp will be one of the honoree guests of honor at a reception in Mrs. Craddock's home from "across the Pond", in June in the Trenton Armory.

Will Honor Kerr Family

TRENTON — The members of the Trenton Rotary Club are planning a Testimonial Dinner for Mrs. James Kerr and her daughter Mary, the former owners of the Hotel Gilmer. Tentative plans call for the dinner to be held this coming Monday, May 10.

The Trenton club's weekly dinner meeting has been held at the Gilmer since its opening and the Kerrs have played host for 22 of these years. Club members feel that Mrs. Kerr and Mary should be told, in a concerete way, of the club's appreciation for the happy association.

On May 1, the Kerrs sold their interest in the hotel to Frederick and David Lewis of Toronto.

RCAF Association To Install Officers

TRENTON — Recently-elected executive officers of 413 (Trenton) RCAF Association will be installed at a ceremony in the Trenton Armory, Wednesday night, May 20.

This year's president is Louis Knack; immediate past-president, Wm. Jones; 1st. 2nd and 3rd vice-presidents, F. J. Martin, W. H. Menzies and Earl Everson; secretary — treasurer, Brian Cooke; RCAF liaison officer for the Wing, F/L C. R. Dobbin.

Five Wing members will attend the association's provincial convention and the Wing will hold a meeting with Belleville Wing, 413, in the RCAF Station social centre this month.

Attend VON Meeting

TRENTON — In Ottawa this week, attending the 66th annual meeting of the Victorian Order of Nurses, are Georgo Greer, Trenton VON branch president and Miss Ada Stewart, R.N., VON nurse-in-charge locally.

The local delegates toured the parliament buildings with the other members of the VON order, Thursday and attended the reception for the delegates hosted by Governor-General Georges Vanier and Mrs. Vanier, Friday afternoon at Rideau Hall.

This week, a team from the City literally "cleaned house" in the Businessmen's Bowling League, coming through as "B" champion and winning the league trophy, donated by the Weaver Funeral Home, and the Ostrander trophy for the playoffs. "Mo" Mitts also won the high average and high triple.

Team members were: R. Hafner, B. Barre, C. Pickell, D. Smith, M. Mitts, R. Andrus

Read It, Drink It Then Dream

NELSON, B.C. (CP)—Public health authorities here ordered newsstands to remove copies of a magazine containing pages said to be soaked in a chemical that produces miraculous dreams and hallucinations.

Dr. M. S. Smart, district medical health officer, said the pages are "a grave hazard" if the chemical and urged its readers to dissolve the pages in methyl alcohol and drink the concoction.

Dr. Smart said methyl alcohol taken internally could cause blindness, paralysis and even death.

Dr. Smart said the distributing agent here for the magazine agreed to remove copies not already sold.

The magazine said the combined effect of the drug in its pages and the methyl alcohol would produce intense and lasting hallucinations. Readers were asked by the magazine to regard their experiences "in the interests of science."

Membership In Boy Scouts Shows Decline

OTTAWA (CP) — The National Council of the Boy Scouts of Canada marked its 50th anniversary here on the occasion was dampened by the effects of the first drop in scout membership since the Second World War.

Reports to the council's annual meeting showed that the number of boy scouts declined by 3,364 or 3.2 per cent in 1953. The new total is 101,000.

Wolf cub packs swelled their ranks by 2,571 to 174,128 but this was not enough to offset losses in the war. Membership in all scout divisions increased by 309 to 282,000.

R. C. Berkinshaw of Toronto, retiring council president, expressed concern that the scout movement may be losing touch with today's teen-agers.

He praised the work of a special committee which has been rewriting the scouting "manual of age" for three years.

CHANGE UNIFORM

The committee has introduced long-pants uniforms for boys who dislike the traditional shorts, a simplified dress program and new activities such as rifle shoots, amateur radio, cooking, sailing and star.

The outgoing president called for organizational changes to permit French-speaking scouts outside Quebec to be grouped together.

Mr. Berkinshaw, who served two years, was succeeded by Lt.-Gen. Howard D. Graham, president of the Toronto Stock Exchange.

THE TREE FIGHTS BACK

What remains of the old elm tree on Henry Street, the subject of controversy this week between members of town council and Henry Street residents, now bears a sign "This tree is a monument to Trenton council."

Council first voted Tuesday not to cut down the tree, because of objections from some Henry Street residents; then reversed its decision and voted to have the elm chopped.

Rain Will Help Fight Fire in Algonquin Park

PEMBROKE (CP) — Showers forecast for today are expected to aid more than 100 firemen battling to control a forest fire in Algonquin Park that has already swept across 4,000 cutover acres.

"It will help but it certainly won't solve our problem," said J. K. K. Legris, provincial forest protection officer.

The fire, one of 44 burning in the province, was relatively inactive Thursday after gusting winds began to die down and three planes, grounded Thursday by high winds, returned to their water-bombing duties.

Frank Snider, district forester said 180 men, including 50 Maliseolin Indians trained in fire-fighting, were battling the blaze in the Lake Traverse area and 25 more men would be brought in today.

About 100 Camp Petawawa soldiers had been put on standby, he said, but that the alert was called off for the weekend.

Meanwhile, Nairn Centre, a small community 30 miles west of Sudbury, was threatened by one of 14 fires burning in the district. Light rain and 120 fire-fighters controlled the blaze which had burned to the edge of Highway 17.

A number of cars were scorched while motorists waited for the road to be cleared after a rear-end collision in dense smoke.

Mounties Probe Pep Pill Death Of Student

TORONTO (CP)—The RCMP was called in Friday to investigate suspicions that University of Toronto students are operating an illegal market in pep pills. The death of one student Thursday was blamed on the pills.

Toronto police said pep pills found in the stomach of Wayne Bruce MacKenzie, 23, of Burlington, Ont., found dead in his university residence room only three hours before he was to have left the university, had been obtained illegally.

The drug — mephetermine sulphate—can be obtained only by prescription. Police said MacKenzie had purchased the drug from a Toronto druggist "two or three times."

A fourth-year student who chose to remain anonymous said Friday an illegal trade in drugs is run by students in medical and related courses.

He said he had been offered pep pills earlier this year, but had refused because he did not need them.

CHECKED CAMPUS

The RCMP investigated the university campus last week following candid admissions by a number of male and female students that they regularly took pep pills and tranquillizers, but found no evidence that illicit drugs were being sold or used.

MacKenzie, who had finished his fourth year history examinations, had been taking pep pills during the three weeks of his final exams.

Members of his family said MacKenzie had been "studying too hard and was probably exhausted."

Dr. George Wodehouse, director of the university's health service, said most students in the campus are using pep pills regularly.

"One student from (MacKenzie's) residence came in to us last Friday all hopped up and we sent him to the infirmary to settle down," he said.

ONE FAINTED

Another student said a student who had been taking pep pills fainted after completing an examination and had to be carried from the room.

A survey by the student service commission last winter showed that 20 per cent male students used the pills, when under pressure and 13 per cent continued their use. About 36 per cent of female students used the drugs regularly.

Mackenzie's parents were on her way from Burlington to pick-him up when his body was found. His suitcases were packed.

Dr. Morton Shulman, Toronto's chief coroner, ordered an inquest for June 18.

Says Taylor Has Set up Race Monopoly

TORONTO (CP) — Donald MacDonald, leader of the Ontario New Democratic Party, charged in the legislature Friday that E. P. Taylor, Toronto industrialist and horse breeder, through the Jockey Club has united has established monopoly control over racing "with the provincial government aiding and abetting him in his efforts."

He said that breaks given the Jockey Club, which controls racing on Ontario tracks, has deprived the public treasury of many millions of dollars. Mr. Taylor is president of the Jockey Club.

"Racing in Ontario is now operated for the benefit of a few horsemen in the province to the detriment of the many," Mr. MacDonald said.

Referring to the $20,996 Mr. Taylor received last year in government grants to thoroughbred breeders, Mr. MacDonald said:

"It is beyond my comprehension how the government can defend this subsidization of the rich man's hobby from the public treasury."

W. J. (Bill) Killough has been appointed public relations chairman, Belleville United Appeal. Mr. Killough is public relations officer for Ontario Hydro's Eastern Ontario region with headquarters here in Belleville.

service aren't included because they have no present pension rights anyway. Also, they haven't been out of civilian life long enough to make the transition difficult.

One defence source said there likely will be strong complaints about the tax angle. Under present income tax regulations, the bonuses will count as taxable income in a single year. In Britain, where a similar bonus was paid to servicemen displaced by integration, the amount could be spread over several years for taxation purposes.

In the case of an RCAF squadron leader who now gets $8,700 a year the bonus could be $7,300. This would jump him from the 35-per-cent income tax bracket to the 40-per-cent bracket for one year. It would take about one-third of his bonus to pay the extra tax.

School Holds Spring Concert

An enthusiastic audience of parents and interested citizens filled the auditorium of the School for Retarded Children on John Street on Tuesday evening for the annual Spring Concert put on by the children.

Highlights of the program were solos by Marguerite Rodgers and Gerald Thrasher, a recitation by Roddy Stovell, and the Rhythm Band under the capable direction of Margaret Rodgers. Several action songs were thoroughly enjoyed, both by the audience and the children.

At the end of the concert, Mrs. Don Maddocks, Education Committee chairman, thanked the teachers for the effort they had put into the training of the children, and presented the pianist, Mrs. M. McKellar, with a gift in appreciation of her assistance. The children were served refreshments in their classrooms while the adults enjoyed refreshments upstairs.

IPSWICH, England (CP)—Ipswich's growing Italian colony is to have its own wine shop. Magistrates granted a special licence for sale of chianti and all other Italian wines, despite opposition from 20 local establishments.

Give Permission To Administer Leukemia Serum

QUEBEC (CP)—The Quebec College of Physicians and Surgeons said Friday night it has decided to permit the administration of Gaston Naessens anti-leukemia serum to a Montreal youngster provided "all the necessary precautions are taken."

The college said three-year-old Rene Guynemer can be injected with the serum if its manufacture and administration are supervised by representatives of the college and the Quebec health department.

In a statement issued following a special meeting here, the college said it cannot remain indifferent to the Guynemer case now that the federal government "has refused to take responsibility."

The college said that if the boy's father, Montreal restaurateur Rene Guynemer, wants his son to have the serum he must agree to the supervision of a team of experts who could prevent "possible toxic and other such dangerous reactions that might occur."

Naessens, a self - taught French biologist, claims his anti-blast serum has cured leukemia although authorities in his country have branded it as worthless

The federal health department insisted Thursday it would not stand in the way of an injection for the Guynemer boy if the serum were administered by a doctor.

The department said it would regard the administration of the serum to one individual by his doctor as "the practice of medicine within the purview of provincial regulatory authority."

The Quebec college also specified that its approval, extended to the Guynemer case alone—not for general use—and then only if it proves after a complete medical examination that the boy does have the fatal blood disease.

The House of Commons has been discussing the handling—or mishandling—of Canada's water resources.

Nothing, (except air, the supply of which never varies), is as essential to a country as an adequate supply of fresh water.

From his earliest days, ever since he turned from hunting to tilling the soil, man has done things which affected this water supply. At no time in the past, though, were the changes he made in the natural terrain as great as they are today. Fortunately the very ability which results in these changes also makes it possible to apply remedies. Few of these remedies, however, produce immediate affects; in many cases these effects, once produced are not easily reversible. It follows that advance preparation and careful study are indicated.

One of the present conditions which was mentioned in the House debate was the prevailing low level of the Great Lakes. There have been a rash of suggestions lately for the diversion south of rivers now emptying into the Arctic, ranging from an ambitious scheme to water most of the continent by turning south a river in the Northwest Territories to a more modest—and doubtless more practical—suggestion for turning a Quebec river into the Great Lakes. There is actually a precedent for the latter plan —Ontario Hydro diverted the Ogoki into Lake Superior many years ago.

Before any such work is undertaken, though, the average layman who has lived a good part of his life along the shores of one of the Great Lakes is likely to feel that some questions should be answered. What assurances can the experts give us that the present fall in lake levels is permanent, and not just part of an ebb and flow which has occurred many times in the past? It is only a few years ago that owners of waterfront property in Ontario and New York State were threatening suits for damages because of high water. If memory serves us aright, some blamed this condition on the St. Lawrence Seaway development—now nominated by some for the role of scapegoat in the low water crisis. Low water in Lake Huron is being blamed on the dredging of a deep channel into Lake St. Clair. Previous periods of low water were blamed on the Chicago drainage canal, while we seem to recall that a period of high water was said by some to be caused by Hydro's river diversions mentioned previously.

Perhaps all these examples of man's interference with nature were, in fact, the cause of changes in the lake levels. The suspicion arises, though, that this may be more a case of man's ingenuity in finding a possible cause for an unexpected development. If the governments do finally decide to drain a few Arctic-flowing rivers into the Lakes, we think it would be highly advisable for them to make the flow reversible—otherwise some lakeside cities may find their business districts turned into unique beaches.

The Poor Beatles

Curiosity consumes us.

Two of the Beatles have visited—and fled—Hawaii.

They complained that, because of pestering by the press, they were unable to find the peace and quiet they sought there.

Newspapermen are used to being blamed for almost everything.

Still, we cannot help wondering whether the Beatles could have remained inconspicuous if the press had not located them and called attention to their presence.

What about those haircuts? They are a fairly plain identifying feature.

The two Beatles have now gone to Tahiti. It is a wise choice. With all those fuzzy-wuzzy Polynesian topknots, who is going to notice a couple of guys whose hairdos have apparently wilted?

Heavy Penalty

Dr. Wladislaw Dering, who now practises medicine in London, England, is today a soldier and wiser man. He has learned the penalty of going to court with unclean hands. Dering sued Leon Uris, the famous author, over a paragraph in the novel "Exodus." The paragraph charged Dering had performed 17,000 surgical experiments on prisoners in the infamous Auschwitz Nazi concentration camp. Dering won his case and was awarded—a half-penny damage which may have been done Dering's reputation by the paragraph in "Exodus" is a fleabite beside that inflicted by this award.

In a democracy, the individual enjoys not only the ultimate power but carries the ultimate responsibility.—Norman Cousins.

Sherbrooke La Tribune — When the Russians proclaim their peaceful intentions we have serious reasons for doubting their sincerity and requiring proof before trusting their statements.

It is in order to ask ourselves, however, whether the Russians are not justified in having similar reactions to statements of the same kind from the West, particularly the United States.

The president of the U.S. recently announced an impending reduction of fission-able material output for the manufacture of nuclear weapons. Mr. Johnson represented this decision as a new manifestation of his country's desire for peace.

It is true that the American military services made known the existence of an eminently toxic gas called sarcotoxin, capable of killing several million persons in a single minute. Not only was the existence of this gas revealed, but it was disclosed at the same time that significant supplies had been built up in the last three years.

It is difficult not to see the contrast between the presidential declaration and the revelations on the subject of the gas. What one gives with the left hand in the matter of disarmament, one gives the clear impression of taking away with the other. We can see in this attitude a lack of sincerity. The Russians will even see bigotry there, and perhaps they will not be entirely wrong.

Without wishing to condemn the U.S. beyond all reason, we must acknowledge that its policy in regard to peace is far from coherent. What we have just said on the subject of nuclear material and gas can be illustrated by the American attitude toward Cuba, whose-ille space Washington deliberately violates. When the Russians act in the same way, we call it provocation. Should there be two standards of judgment, depending on which camp does the deed? (April 26)

Ottawa Le Droit — Before 1958, date of General de Gaulle's return to power, the United Nations and the United States exerted pressure in favor of the independence of Algeria, although history makes no mention of the existence, at any time, of an Algerian people. The independence now is a fact but a fact that seems to be quite a disaster for Ben Bella's "Algerians". Just like the independence of the former Belgian Congo, it is revealing itself as a catastrophe for the natives of the country.

From various sources it is learned that massacres of Europeans, added to the exodus of a great number, have overwhelmed the economy of a country that only a few years ago was prosperous. The cadres improvised by Ben Bella are incompetent and executive socialization is speeding up the rate to utter ruin. One could truly believe that the new regime has chosen as a slogan: "Unemployment, misery and hunger."

If you go to France, in the bus from Orly airport to the centre of Paris you will without fail be surrounded by poor "Algerians"; there are at least 1,000 fleeing from their country every day. Out of a population of 10,000,000 there are 2,000,000 unemployed. Algeria "free and independent" is costing France more than it did before. Not just them, but before noon, sitting, and pressed into the arrangements, at his law office desk. And the phone rang.

Ross Macdonald no longer is Government Leader in the Upper House, nor a member of Prime Minister Pearson's Cabinet. ..so he is uncluttered politically, so more a Liberal now really than Vincent Massey was 10 years ago.

OLD LEGIONNAIRE

The Senator has other and impressive credentials.

His is one of the "Old Sweats" from World War I, having done the whole awful 1914-18 bloody course as a Private, NCO, then Lieutenant in the Canadian Expeditionary Force.

And of course, he is a past president and still a driving force in the Royal Canadian Legion, with the Red Ensign, battle flag of two World Wars, stamped deep on his heart.

You hear the Macdonald name not just in Press Gallery shop talk, but in the halls of the Centre and West Blocks of Parliament Hill — and still and although the decision as always the "in" group, continues insisting that it be the next resident of Rideau Hall.

And it could scarcely happen to a better man.

Senator W. Ross Macdonald, as the icing on the cake of all his other considerable qualifications has an absolutely indestructible sense of humor.

As the political laird of Brantford, perhaps he is remembered most fondly — at least by the visiting firemen from all over town — the day, in the disastrous Liberal campaign of 1957, when Prime Minister St. Laurent was flying in there for a noontime rally.

The Senator, as the man in charge, had everything laid on in style at the Brantford downtown park, bands, of course an escort, a platform of local dignitaries, and most politically important of all, a right goodly crowd to listen to old "Uncle Louis."

LE RIPLING SAID

There he was, just before

"Uncle Louis" couldn't make it. Not until later. Much later. His plane, due in Brantford was routed in upstairs by fog over Malton Airport.

What to do?

Senator Ross Macdonald alerted all his people, then sat back and counted his fingers crossed for the fog to lift.

Phones were ringing all over the office. What to do about the crowd? Call it off? The platform of people? The parade? The escort?

It was mad. Confusion. Almost panic.

But, like Kipling said: "If you can keep your head when all about you are losing theirs and blaming it on you..."

And they were. Blaming the Senator. It was his show, wasn't it?

So amid all the political bloodsweat and tears-at the moment, he sat there and laughed about it.

Ottawa Le Droit — For the moment there is no serious question of setting up a common market between the United States and Canada, the factors involved being too disproportionate to enable Canada to agree to the free circulation of all commodities between the two countries. That would introduce the long-term danger of us becoming the equivalent of new American states. Yet it is not impossible to think of specialization in manufacturing, by means of agreements.

The efforts of the minister of industry, Mr. Drury, aimed at stimulating our production in the country, are in this spirit. Our industries find themselves affected by such a step. But is it not justified by virtue of the fact that our trade deficit with our neighbor rose last year to $821,000,000? Something certainly has to be done to cut it down. If some agreement concerning specialization in manufacturing did eventually some into force between the two countries, Canada would have to benefit from some kind of "least favored nation" clause?

We probably have not reached that stage yet. The principle of periodic consultations between the two countries seems useful, however. Moreover, in order to anticipate difficulties that do wait until they soar up to the full height of their intensity. (May 1)

Montreal La Presse — Unless he is totally indifferent to every principle of fairness, no person will deny that every citizen in a democracy ought to have a vote equally as effective as his neighbor's.

Well, it is an open secret that on the present electoral maps, both federal and Quebec, this elementary equity does not exist. . . .

Parties favored by the rural vote never resign themselves graciously to losing the ruling advantages conferred upon them by a bad electoral map. And parties favored by the urban population never give up hope of gaining the precious votes of the rural population.

Look at Mr. Diefenbaker and the attitude he takes in the Commons. Since his last Conservative victory he has stimulated on the western plains, among the farmers, the opposition leader intends to the rearrangement of small rural ridings. The Liberals, supported by the NDP, nevertheless generally concede a difference of 30 per cent in the number of voters between rural and urban ridings.

And what is happening in Quebec? Nothing. An excellent scheme of revision has gone to sleep in the lap of a committee, entangled in partisan viewpoints.

The time has arrived, however, when the citizens' patience is beginning to wear thin. The Canadian voters, those of the cities in particular, know that their rights are affronted and they will not accept this for much longer. . . . (Gerard Pelletier, (May 1)

Ottawa Offbeat
Believe W. Ross Macdonald Likely Governor-General

By RICHARD JACKSON
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — First heard when the new Session of Parliament opened back nearly three months ago, a rumor continues to live and grow.

It is of a name widely whispered of the man currently considered the most likely to succeed General George P. Vanier as Governor-General.

The name of Senator W. Ross Macdonald of Brantford.

Now the interesting thing about this talk is its persistence.

Ross Macdonald first was rumored for Rideau Hall, National Capital residence of the Governor General, as long as 13 years ago.

Field Marshal Harold Alexander was preparing to retire as the Governor General and several Canadas had ever seen — his activities included skiing, mountain climbing, fire-fighting, tennis, swimming, cricket, riding, square dancing, basketball, soccer, golf, sailing, cycling, in fact, the whole athletic works — and two men, far and above all others were in the front-running as successors.

One was Vincent Massey, former Canadian High Commissioner to London and Ambassador to Washington, who made it.

The other was W. Ross Macdonald, then MP for Brantford and Mr. Speaker of the House of Commons, who didn't. Not just then, anyway.

BETTER NOW THAN EVER

Turn back in the news clips or newspaper files to the year 1951 and early 1952, and you find that of the two, Ross Macdonald rather than Vincent Massey seemed slightly favored for the coveted top honor.

Well qualified he had the highest recommendations.

In the Commons since '35, he was becoming highly-regarded even when facility in "the other language," not only wasn't necessary, but not particularly in political favor.

For he had been studying at Laval University, taking private language lessons, spinning Berlitz records in his spare office time and spending lengthy stints in the Isle of Orleans in mid-St. Lawrence, talking, even living French.

Now, 13 years later, he is even more qualified, with still more excellent recommendations.

As long in Parliament as Paul Martin, 29 years.

A member of the St. Laurent Cabinet, Solicitor General, opposition, then Government Leader in the Senate.

A warm, friendly, personally charming, completely bilingual statesman-in-depth, perhaps best of all, from "Old Ontario," the hearth and home of English Canada.

And this time it is English Canada's turn in Rideau Hall.

Perhaps significantly, Senator

To Your Good Health
Ways in Which to Prevent Gangrene From Starting

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

(SECOND OF TWO ARTICLES)

Yesterday we discussed gangrene and the problem it poses for those afflicted by diabetes; the signs of a beginning case; the great danger of this affliction; the reasons for it starting.

Today I'll concentrate on ways to prevent it from getting even a start.

The first rule is to keep diabetes under control. Don't cheat on your diet or other treatment methods. Maybe you can, most of the time. But it's the consecutive speeding in your car or bluffing at poker. When you get in trouble, it's bad!

Other rules:

Strict cleanliness pays off.

Don't walk around (even just in the bathroom) barefoot, or in stocking feet, or with soft, cloth slippers. Stubbing your toe can cause a small wound, and a small wound can start gangrene in an older person with diabetes.

Wear shoes that fit. They should be comfortable, and should provide protection both for the toes and soles.

Trim toenails somewhat across, or nearly so. Do not give them a "graceful curve", because (diabetes or not) this invites an ingrown nail occasionally. An ingrown nail hurts. It provides an idea for a place for gangrene to start. A diabetic can't afford that.

Besides washing the feet regularly, clean under the toenails. Use an orangewood stick, because it is soft enough not to make little nicks in the skin. (Cleaning under the nails is important because fungus or other infections might get a start there otherwise.)

For small wounds, antiseptics are very important and useful.

The safest is rubbing alcohol. Fresh peroxide is good, too. Avoid iodine (it can be irritating.) Decidedly avoid anything with phenol (carbolic acid). It may be a good germ killer but it is also too strong, and can be an irritant.

Watch out for fungus infections — athlete's foot. This is the absolute rule. Such an infection, ordinarily annoying but not dangerous, can (and will) lead to cracks in the skin where other infections can get a foothold. (N. pun intended. Because this is serious.)

If your feet are excessively moist, look out. Because such a condition can cause cracks in the skin. It is helpful, if you have this trouble, to use a bland foot powder. You may need to change socks an extra time per day.

Corns and calluses should be treated by your doctor or by a podiatrist because a small infection, to you, is more than ordinarily dangerous.

You may use plain corn pads, from the medicated ones. If overlapping is necessary, don't use bits of cotton wool or sanitary pads. Use a soft-cloth bandage.

Avoid hot or cold foot baths. This is more important than a most people realize. Until they get into trouble, because with circulation impaired you may not feel the difference of hot or cold. So a too-hot or too-cold foot bath can cause trouble before you realize it.

Some people use white or light colored socks. I don't think the color is important, except that light colors better show any bleeding or drainage from a sore place, so you notice it sooner.

If — and, of course, answered all the phone calls — made everybody, probably even himself feel a couple bit better about the things were in, and waited, still hopefully, for the word and ran to lift the fog and bring "Uncle Louie" in, finally, late but IN, by car from a long delayed touchdown at Malton.

He could be as big a hit in Rideau Hall as Harold Alexander And HE was the absolute smash success of all time, receiving all but the most-VIP of his guests in warm informality. His first — and last — receptions (call them parties, for that is what they were, in the truest sense) were for his newspaper friends. In slippers, slacks, and rumpled sport shirt, he received them, led them in a bar and buffet, then to the piano where he keyed, like the master musician he was his annual reminiscences over rocked old Rideau Hall.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

40 YEARS AGO

Game Warden Herb McCabe received official word from the Department of Game and Fisheries today announcing advanced dates for the angling for pike and pickerel in inland waters of Ontario. In order to give anglers an additional week's fishing for pickerel and pike will open on Saturday, May 13th.

With diamond cutting having been established in Canada as the direct result of world war conditions, "The Diamond Industry" was the basis of an educational talk given the Kinsmen Club by J. E. "Eddie" Logan, manager of Reed's Jewelry store. "It might be interesting to know that 75 per cent of the diamonds mined today are being used expressly for industrial purposes and only twenty years ago his grandfather buried himself clearing the land.

Some of the older residents will be interested in recalling the names of the boys who played football here years ago and the team we give the following item from the file copy at this time in 1904: "The following players will compose the city football team in a match to be played tomorrow night the W. A. Team, Trent Road: W. A. G. Hardy, Lorne Marsh, Max Jamieson, Russell Weir, Fred Diamond, Harry Twining, Nash, Jack McFee, Ellis (Bud) Bogart, Harry Kelso and Cummings.

MAY 9, 1914

Mr. Wilson H. Lloyd, a graduate of Belleville High School, has passed with honors his Sophomore year in medicine at Queen's University, Kingston. This summer he will work for the government near Cobalt.

Mr. J. L. Foster of Moira is spending a few days in town.

Coleman Street between Bridge and Catherine Streets is being graded.

Fifty years ago, May 10th (1864) Elias B. Ruttan, blacksmith of Shannonville, died suddenly, began his apprenticeship. He first began the business of a smith in West Ameliasburgh in a little frame shop at the corner of Bridge and Coleman Sts At that time an old wooden bridge spanned the Moira river. Mr. Ruttan has followed the blacksmith trade through the long half century and says that he has not lost six months in all that time owing to illness or by taking holiday.

A WONDERFUL EXPERIENCE!

"Educational relations make the strongest tie."
— Cecil John Rhodes.

She makes a pretty covergirl.

We're speaking of Beverly Davies, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon J. Davies, of 188 William Street, for on the cover of the (Sept. '63) quarterly magazine, "Teaching Aids Digest" published for Canadian Secondary School Teachers, is her picture along with her display "Ceramic Glazes" which won the grand prize at the Second Canada-wide Science Fair in Toronto and sent her on an expense-paid trip to the Fifth International Youth Science Fortnight at London, England, last July.

To the interested teachers and citizens, the cover story concludes, "we offer plaudits and encouragement. For in the words of Dr. H. E. Duckworth, Dean of Graduate Studies at McMaster University. . . 'Science Fairs give to our most talented determined high school students a measure of recognition usually accorded only to athletic heroes'."

A year has passed since Beverly displayed her exhibit at Toronto, and today we asked her if the Canada-wide prize winning trip to the Science Fortnight had been worth all the work her display entailed. Had the experience really enriched her life? She answered,

"It was the most wonderful experience I've ever had in my whole life. Right now I can scarcely think of my life in terms of not having had the trip; it has opened wide so many doors and horizons.

"I remember how thrilling it was to be next to exhibit my project for those two days in Toronto. I thought nothing could touch that ever. It was just marvellous, meeting all the other students, who were also interested in the same things I was, and from all parts of Canada. The fun we had exchanging ideas, the parties they were, and the friends one really made and kept.

"To find oneself a winner to the Science Fortnight, was mighty exciting: the trip over, seeing that city you'd always heard of appear in reality as the plane neared the airport. Soon I was mingling with people from all over the world, students like myself, 400 to be exact, who were Fortnight participants, staying in hostels of the University of London. The amazing thing was language didn't seem to be a great barrier. You managed somehow, by signs or dictionaries to understand, knowing these students were like yourself, just human, no matter where they lived in the world.

"Soon we all were caught up in a whirl of attending lectures and addresses by such men as the Master of Clare College, Cambridge University; an explorer and president of the Royal Geographical Society not to mention the Duke of Edinburgh, whom we met personally! What a thrill! We were made welcome at a reception and tea at The House of Commons, and visited places such as the Clarendon Physics Laboratory at Oxford. There were dances and social gatherings and a wonderful atmosphere of friendliness. My address book is proof when I say I made many friends of many different nationalities during the Fortnight. What a success it was!

"I have applied and been accepted, as an ex-participant, to be a Courier at the 1964 Fortnight, which is a matter of being one of the hostesses and chaperons for the delegates this year, from August 9th to 18th.

"Then the very next day, on August the 19th, I shall leave on a European tour for Participants of the Science Fortnight which also includes ex-participants. We will visit Brussels, Heidelberg, Innsbruck, Vienna, Interlaken, Paris. At such centres other ex-participants expect to meet us. We will return to London on September 6th.

"His R.R.H. Prince Philip reminded us, ". . .you are joining a great international fraternity which is trying to save a mankind." The Fortnight allows the planting of the seeds of a lifetime's understanding and goodwill, and Lord Tweedsmuir's remark to Mr. Green the originator and director of the Science Fortnight: ". . .out of like interests come the strongest friendships" clearly and concisely sums up the reason I feel such an experience is so enriching.

"Attending the Science Fortnight has been the greatest thing that's ever happened to me. I'll ever be indebted to and thank my parents, teachers, and all others who encouraged me and made it possible."

Slemon Accepts Position in U. S.

OTTAWA (CP) — RCAF Air Marshal Roy Slemon will take up a new career in Colorado Springs, Colo., after his retirement as deputy commander of North American Air Defence Command there, it was learned Friday.

An announcement made in Colorado Springs and reported here by the defence department said Air Marshal Slemon will be associated with the Air Force Academy Foundation, an agency which supports the U.S. Air Force Academy.

He will direct a project to create an aerospace educational centre at Colorado Springs.

The centre is planned as a focus for educational efforts on air and space activities and will include facilities for educational seminars and conferences.

Another job of the centre will be to handle displays for the 1,500,000 visitors to the air force academy each year.

Car Wrecked, Two Injured In Accident

Two men miraculously escaped death early this morning following an accident which left their 1957 automobile completely demolished.

Admitted to Belleville General Hospital were 33-year-old Roger Lefort of Shannonville suffering a broken left leg and 20-year-old Lester Goodberry of Napanee suffering two broken legs, facial lacerations and other minor injuries.

The accident occurred at 4.45 a.m. just east of Salmon River bridge at Shannonville on Highway No. 2. It is believed the car was proceeding west but police were unable to question the two occupants.

They were taken to hospital by La Salle Ambulance of Belleville.

Police said the speedometer was locked at 100 miles per hour. The car came to rest on the south shoulder of the road while the rear wheels lay at the north edge of the pavement.

The accident is still under investigation by Ontario Provincial Police Constable Howard Adamson.

Commentators Ask Review British Middle East Policy

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Second thoughts are imposing a check on what started out to be another hate-Nasser campaign.

Angry criticism of the Egyptian president's rabble-rousing speeches is gradually giving way to a pointed reassessment of Britain's role in the Middle East.

For a while, it looked almost like Suez all over again. Reports two British soldiers had been beheaded in South Arabia coupled with fiery anti-British attacks by Nasser, produced a wave of feeling against Egypt's leader unequalled since the Anglo - French intervention in Suez in 1956.

Now that doubt has been cast on the authenticity of the atrocity story—although some official sources still believe it to be true—some British commentators are asking their government to take another look at Middle East policy.

PAPERS CRITICAL

"What are we doing in Aden, anyway," sums up several articles in British newspapers and magazines.

A common tendency is to question Britain's inclination to shape its policy in Aden, for instance, according to the wishes of a new feudal rulers in neighboring sheikhdoms.

The Spectator, a London weekly, says in an article entitled Living With Nasser Britain has deliberately slowed down constitutional progress in concert with the sheikhs. She has done remarkably little, the paper says, to persuade these sheikhdoms to reform themselves.

The New Statesman, also published in London, calls on Britain not only to cease "playing footsie" with the feudal sheikhs, but to recognize that it is today both impossible and immoral to maintain a "military hold on other people's territory without the support of the people concerned."

"Until this change of heart takes place, our Middle East policy will continue to be seen by the rest of the world as the last hopeless expression of imperial rule, and British soldiers will continue to die in a cause which is as sordid as it is senseless."

To Present Show For Children

Rev. F. Wellington, former field secretary of the Big Brother Movement in Toronto, will entertain Belleville and district children nightly next week, at Park Dale Baptist Church. Using equipment valued at $10,000, he will show movies and slides, will entertain on conventional and unusual musical instruments and will tell stories, using his talking dummies, Tiny and Uncle Cy. The entertainment which is free, will be presented Monday to Friday evenings, both days inclusive, with a different program each day.

A Lift for Living
Chief Goal Is to Understand Beyond Mere External Things

By REV. HAROLD E. KOHN

Colonel T. E. Lawrence, that intrepid adventurer who rallied Arabs to the Allied cause during the First World War, told of two desert chieftains who visited him in London after the war. The Arabs had saved Lawrence's life more than once, and "Lawrence of Arabia" was grateful to them. He invited them to England to see the sights. They stayed in the finest hotels. They were taken to the Tower of London, to Buckingham Palace, and were received by King George and Queen Mary. Everywhere they went they were the centre of attention because of their unusual garb and their association with Colonel Lawrence — a hero in England.

When the time arrived for their departure from England, Col. Lawrence asked the chieftains to choose anything they wanted as a gift to take home with them. The Arabs went into serious, secret consultation. Then they announced that they had agreed on the gift they would most desire. Of all the wonders they had seen they wanted most two hot water faucets.

DID NOT UNDERSTAND

The Arabs did not understand that hot water faucets alone will not furnish hot water. Hung on the walls of their desert tents the faucets would be merely ornamental, for behind hot water faucets there must be plumbing, heating system, and reservoirs of water, or the faucets will have little meaning. Can't you imagine Arabs transporting two faucets from London to the deserts of the Mid - East, hanging them on the walls of their tents and then squeezing and pounding them in fruitful frustration because those faucets offer no water?

The Arabs are like the rest of us: we have too high a regard for the superficial. We are infrequently aware of the deep backing of resources every one of life's facets must have. We have a great love for external things, and we glory in them. In education such externalism means getting diplomas and degrees without a sustained growth of knowledge and the cultural awareness which the contoured mind amasses; it means schooling without achieving an amplified worthiness. In maintaining the appearances of wedded life we neglecting the soul of it, which is self-effort manifested in kindness, forgiveness, loyalty and companionship; it is ceremony without commitment, a faucet, without resources.

Externalism in parenthood means provision for all of a child's material needs and neglecting the cultivation of his spirit; furnishing a splendid home but a poor place, giving him good toys and dull table conversation; teaching a child to brush his teeth without inspiring him to brush his mind; training him to keep his body clean, but not his soul.

In religion externalism means following rules but not the spirit; observing religious rituals, traditions and holidays without the wholehearted dedication of life to God which makes all else in religion meaningful.

BENT HANDLE TROUBLE

People who bent handle troubles when it comes are those who have an abundance of spiritual resources behind the walls of their lives. Their glory is not in faucets, but in deep wells and vast reservoirs. When life's chief goal is to understand beyond mere external things, and we glory in them. In education such externalism means getting diplomas and degrees without a sustained growth of knowledge and the cultural awareness which the contoured mind amasses; it means schooling without achieving an amplified worthiness. In maintaining the appearances of wedded life we neglecting the soul of it, which is self-effort manifested in kindness, forgiveness, loyalty and companionship; it is ceremony without commitment, a faucet, without resources.

BENT HANDLE TROUBLE

People who bent handle troubles when it comes are those who have an abundance of spiritual resources behind the walls of their lives. Their glory is not in faucets, but in deep wells and vast reservoirs. When life's problems heavy demands upon their souls, when droughts arrive and the world seems dismally dry and parched, they become replenished and refreshed from sources Heaven has hidden from the world. We all know such people. I do. A few days ago a good friend of mine, a minister of the Gospel, died. His death came suddenly, without warning to his wife, his children, and the community that loved him. Many who looked on, as his family moved with quiet dignity through difficult days, remarked about the stoical effort such splendid conduct must have demanded. Of course the bereaved wanted very much to carry their burden with good grace; therefore will power and effort were involved. But these were not the secrets to the handling of their heartache. These people were not so much engaged in strenuous trying as they were in being thankful to God. They knew that their great was God's affair and that on the other side of human weakness lie the boundless expanses of God's strength. They recalled the great truths of their faith, God's dependable love; that ultimately His hands are in all things and all things are in His hands, the resurrection of their Lord, triumphant over death, a witness to the conviction that even death is not fatal to the souls of God's children. Behind the externals of their religion was a deep, abiding trust. They knew the meaning of resources as well as faucets. A New Testament benediction, written to the church at Ephesus, reads, "now to him who by the power at work within us is able to do far more abundantly than all we ask or think, to him be glory in the church and in Christ Jesus to all generations, for ever and ever. Amen." This is the spiritual insight that goes beyond appearances, that sees in Power, not in our own, working within all who are open to it. And that Power is God. Behind that is our greatest need or our widest guesses. There is a reservoir beyond the faucets.

The chief goal of life should be to make vital connection with it

John L. Good Honored at Variety Night

STIRLING — Stirling Theatre was filled to capacity recently for the variety night in honor of Principal John L. Good of Stirling - Rawdon District High School. Mr. Good has served the local high school since 1926 and plans to retire in June of this year.

The students and staff arranged a full evening of entertainment composed of items by the school band, the various grades from nine to 13, and a special school song featuring the heritage and the friendship. The words were written by Sandra West and the music by F. W. Bakker and John Svoboda.

The program centred around familiar songs, fashions, gymnastics, dances, a rural serenade and many other items of interest. The songs included a serenade to Mr. Good and his helpmate.

The director, Mr. J. W. Bakker, welcomed the large audience and spoke briefly paying tribute to Principal Good. Two members of the student council, Edgar Reynolds and Margaret Hommersen introduced the program before and after intermission. A large number of the students had special parts in this variety program.

The staff was instrumental in training the group and the whole evening was a grand tribute to Mr. Good.

Canadian Fashion & Fad

THE PLUNGE...

With this season's neckline plunging to a new all-time low, the foundation garment designers have dreamed up a host of new underpinnings to go with the plots. The cleavage exposing Empire necklines and the Great Divide are THE trends. Adaptations of these styles are seen in current ready-to-wear selections, especially for afternoon.

Many women, who wear a size 16 or over, will think that these new fashions are not for them. If the figure is in proportion with the bust and hip measurements more or less the same and with the waistline 8" to 10" smaller, then a modified plunging neckline can be worn successfully.

However, some women find that extra pounds have blurred the outline. The clever choice of one of several new fashion foundations will whittle those extra inches away. An all-in-one corselette offers an unbroken line from bust to thigh, hence solving many of the problems of the fuller figure.

The long-leg panty girdle with bias sections extending from the sides of the hipline is another slimming device. These girdles come equipped with a garter at the waistline and when worn with a long-line brassiere are wonderful streamlining. Great advances have been made in the creation of strong controlling rubber and spandex, which were well and are light in weight. Spandex is manmade and is available under three or four different trade names.

ADDITIONAL COMFORT

For additional comfort, there is a side - zippered garment which has firm supporting sections across the abdomen, back and hipline. A well-constructed brassiere for the fuller figure should have a back section cut high enough to eliminate a bulge above the waistline. The new, stretch shoulder straps are comfortable and a great help towards better figure control.

For those figures needing little control — all adult figures need some — the new plunging necklines will be most chic. There are many new specialty designed bras with minimum construction at the front, all styled with the new necklines in mind.

Here is an interesting reaction to the plunge. The special bras designed for these necklines or lack of them are selling well. But many a dress customer is insisting that her plunging dress be made with a demand is so great that several of Canada's best evening gown stylists are equipping their creations with an optional "modestie" which can be removed or not, depending on the wearer. As usual, in fashion, the customer calls the shots!

Successful Living
Children's Motives for Stealing Vary Widely

DEAR DORIS — If I leave any loose change around the house, a nine-year-old has been taking it. She denies it, but I know she has taken it.

The other ones in the house wouldn't touch it. They are younger and couldn't reach it. What can be done? — WORRIED.

DORIS CLARK

DEAR WORRIED — Children help themselves to change for various reasons, some of them not very serious. Sometimes it is done because she now knows the value of a dime, for buying candy. Occasionally a child will steal change for the excitement of it, and because this brings attention to her. In these cases the stealing is done because the child is not getting enough of the kind of attention she needs.

Whatever the difficulty is, you can get skilled counselling about this by consulting the Children's Aid Society of Belleville, Hastings County and Trenton, 63 Moira Street, Belleville.

DEAR DORIS — What can be done for a teen-ager's face that has become scarred from pimples? Is it true that such a thing as a skin graft can be done? — CONCERNED.

DEAR CONCERNED — I have never heard of using a skin graft for such a purpose. The operation is called skin planing; the surgeon removes the thin outer layer of scarred skin, and fresh, unblemished skin grows over the inner layers. With considerable success.

To FATS — Send me an envelope with your name and a stamp on it, and 20 cents, and I'll send a leaflet of exercises which will help you reduce; also a diet. One is no good without the other.

• • •

Confidential to CURIOUS TEEN-AGER — The answer to your question is yes. There are good books which explain this at your library, or another note to me, with a stamped, self-addressed envelope (addressed, if you like, to General Delivery) would get you the names of those I particularly recommend.

Going Places
Home Again, Happy, Broke But— Where Did All the Money Go?

By SHIRLEY and BOB SLOANE

What does it cost to travel? That is what does it really cost?

That old saw about planning your spending list and budget, then spending the first in half and doubling the other, is all too true. But there are many hidden factors in the expense of a trip that can be realistically planned, and usually aren't.

For example, it is rarely taken into consideration that while you're travelling some one is doing your home life continues exactly the same, even though you spend the money while you are away.

Such items as tobacco, entertainment, laundry and cleaning, toiletries, lunches, dining out occasionally, automobile maintenance (if you're travelling by car), and myriad other items of every day living theoretically can be deducted from what you figure your trip will cost you because you would have incurred those expenses at home.

OFTEN OVERLOOKED

Even more often overlooked are the hidden items on which you do not spend money while away. . household utilities, telephone, newspapers and magazines, and auto maintenance (if you're not travelling by car). to name a few. It is very painful to be away long enough — usually by the minimum is a month — to have a few bills arrive suspending your auto insurance and disconnecting utilities and telephone.

Okay, wise guy, so where does all the money go?

It goes, firstly and obviously, into the basics of a trip — transportation, meals, beverages, tips, sightseeing, tours and incousines (or, as they're called in the travel business, transfers), and the item which always gets us seems to cost us more than anything else, shopping.

But even the basics are full of zingers and variables. If you're travelling by ship, all your meals are paid for. When you're in an airplane at mealtime, that's taken care of, and many seasoned travellers choose their flights on this basis. If you're staying at a resort or hotels where American Plan (called "pension" in Europe and most other parts of the world) is the rule, then the cost of those meals is already figured into the hotel rate you expect to pay.

On the other hand there are certain extra few bucks for incidners know about or stop to think about. Most vary from minor to medium expenditures.

After-dinner coffee costs extra in most parts of the world. Most countries levy irritating and pointless head-or-port taxes on departure; anywhere from $1 to $4 is the average.

In most countries (and some parts of North America) service charges and city taxes are added to hotel and restaurant bills; in many places the waiting runs as high as 22 percent of your hotel bill.

The restaurant percentage is supposed to be in lieu of tipping but most North Americans tip that out — and, indeed, Europeans have come to expect it.

If you're going on what is supposed to be an all-expense tour, you'd better be sure to read that brochure carefully to find what the tour operator considers "all expense." Sometimes it may not include all or even any — meals. If breakfast is customarily included in the price, you can make out a good; if not, you spring for it.

Other extras may or may not include tips. Do they never include tips to drivers and guides. Also with special guides at sightseeing attractions, your regular driver, and your full-time courier, this can easily run to $1.50 a day.

Rarely included either are beverages, alcoholic or otherwise (one interesting exception is Portugal, where the law requires serving of local wines included in the meal price and another European country — we've forgotten which — where they may add 5 percent to a restaurant bill if you don't drink).

Wise travellers always figure in a sum for inoculation; medical and dental replacement or repair, unscheduled parties or night club visits, long distance calls, and laundry, which you would dream of until they happen.

And, of course, shopping. This falls into three categories: things you need or want and don't have at home; things you don't need but want; and souvenirs. They're all worthwhile unless you get sucky categories mixed; the big one? want to travel shopping money is not in lieu of needed or really wanted, and avails little when there's some anyway.

BARGAIN BUYING

Bargains come in two varieties: those purchased where they are made, and those bought at home; things you don't need but want; and souvenirs. They're all worthwhile unless you get sucky categories mixed; the big one? want to travel shopping money is not in lieu of needed or really wanted, and avails little when there's some anyway.

Duty-free items are those which normally carry a high tariff, but are available to foreigners minus the tax. Sometimes this is called "duty-free" and sometimes just a closed off area of the airport or pier, whence there is no turning back.

The best duty-free buys are always liquor and perfume, usually cameras, optical equipment, certain types of jewelry, and watches. The list varies according to place; in the free port of Gibraltar, cameras are not duty-free, though they are in most other places.

We all know about the souvenir purchases in Africa or Israel which are later discovered to have a "Made in Japan" label on them. The local souvenirs are often the cheapest and always those most obviously typical of the place. They do not encompass tin ashtrays in the shape of a cowboy hat from Africa.

But it would — and does for us — mean authentically costumed dolls, handwoven local products, even kooky hats. The item is insignificant, but the memories souvenirs are your what count. After all, "souvenir" is a French word meaning "to remember."

QUESTION:

My sister is one of your readers and asked your page to me in Biloxi Mississippi where I now live. We are having a tea for 200 and I want to know how many sandwiches to make. How many people will one loaf of sandwich bread serve? . . . Rosie O'C.

ANSWER:

I'm glad you pinned me down. For your benefit I've made up the following:

Because there are so many variables in the size of bread slices and amounts of filling used, we measured everything to the last crumb and ounce.

VARIATIONS:

1) Chicken: Use same amounts as above but substitute 2 cups very well-packed chopped or ground cooked chicken for the salmon and substitute finely chopped raw celery for the green relish. 2) Tuna: Substitute one 1-lb. can drained flaked tuna for salmon in above. 3) Ham: Substitute 2 cups very well-packed ground cooked ham for the salmon in above and substitute mustard relish for the green relish. 4) Egg: Substitute 2 cups finely chopped or ground hardcooked eggs (12 large or 8 medium) for the salmon in above and substitute mustard relish for the green relish.

NOTES:

1) If sandwiches are frozen, when crusts are cut off and sandwiches cut into quarters and arranged on sandwich plates they will be nearly thawed. 2) TO SERVE 200 PEOPLE make up fifteen 24-oz. 24-slice sandwich loaves as above. To make 5 variations, make 3 loaves each with salmon filling in the above and one each with tuna and ham and egg (see variations).

Couple Should Have Decided Children's Future Earlier

DEAR ANN LANDERS — My husband and I have been married for three years. He has two children by a former marriage and I have three. This is where the trouble comes in.

His children are with his wife who has remarried. She has no financial responsibilities to them since their step-dad adopted them legally. My children were with me until my husband began to complain that he didn't see why he should have to put up with another man's kids. To keep peace, I boarded them out. Their father pays support money for them and he is always Johnny-on-the-spot with the cheque.

ANN LANDERS

I miss my children something awful and feel that I should be making a home for them. This would mean leaving my husband. It's a terrible choice but I am faced with it here and now.

Where do my obligations lie? — MUDDLED.

DEAR MUDDLED — What in the world did you and your husband talk about before you married? Did he think you were going to drown your children so he wouldn't be bothered with them?

Get those youngsters out of the boarding home right now and keep them with you. If your husband can't stand them let him go live in the boarding house.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I am 20 years old and engaged to a boy I have been going with for four years. He has always been truthful and open with me.

Recently he was called to take his physical for the Army. He passed with no trouble. The next day he got to thinking about it and decided to go back to the draft board and tell them about a few things that are wrong with him. He then got his doctor to write a letter to that effect. He was re-examined by the Army doctors and was classified 4-F.

Do you think this could effect our future in any way? Is it possible that his 4-F status will make it difficult for him to get a good job? I somehow feel that what he did was immoral. Help me think this through, please. —SUSAN.

DEAR SUSAN — The Army doctors know all the tricks in the book. They would not have reclassified your friend 4-F unless there was a valid reason for doing so. Have faith in him and let him know it. His 4-F status should in no way keep your fiance from getting a good job.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — Last night I went out with a 17-year-old kid I will call Ron. It was my first date with him although I have known him all my life. We were supposed to go to a party but it was cancelled at the last minute because the host got German measles.

Ron suggested that we just cruise around for the evening although I told him I'd rather go to a movie.

At a long stop light he took a pint of Bourbon out of the glove compartment and offered me a drink. I said, "No thanks." He took a swig of Bourbon and put the bottle down on the seat beside him.

I told him to let me off at a bus stop because I didn't care to be with a driver who drank. He got mad and snorted, "One drink does not make a drunk driver but if you're such a creep you can get out here."

He stopped the car (three blocks from a bus stop) and I got home on my own. Today it is all over school that I am a nut. Am I? — R.D.

DEAR R.D. — If more girls had your brand of common sense — and courage — we wouldn't be reading so often about kids whose lives ended just when they should be beginning.

If what you did is considered nutty we need more nuts like you.

On Tuesday evening, May 5th, XI Beta Zeta Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi, held its final meeting of the year at the lovely new home of Mrs. Fern House. The installation of the new executive was held. President, Mrs. June Sine; vice-president, Mrs. Mary O'Flynn; secretary, Mrs. Pauline Bishop; treasurer, Mrs. Doreen Greer; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Jean Desmond.

Plans were discussed for a bridge to be held in September. Following the meeting, the members enjoyed a social get-together and a game of cours whist. A most delicious lunch, served by the social committee, brought the evening to a close and completed a successful year under the capable direction of Mrs. Dorothy McCormick.

MARY LOUISE EGGER

J. R. Blackbourn, Manager, Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce, Front and Campbell, Belleville, has announced the appointment of Mrs. Mary Louise Egger as assistant accountant at the bank's main branch in this city. Mrs. Egger is well known as the former Mary Lou Kinnear, daughter of Mrs. Kinnear and the late Dr. J. W. Kinnear. The appointment, which is the first of its kind in Belleville banking circles, is an indication of the growing importance of the part being played by women in the administration and operation of chartered banks. Mrs. Egger's appointment will increase her responsibilities and became effective on May 1.

Women's Institutes

CANNIFTON - CORBYVILLE

On Monday, May 4th Cannifton-Corbyville Women's Institute met at Cannifton Town Hall. In the absence of the president, Mrs. J. Latchford, District Director, presided.

Convener for the evening was Mrs. P. Meale and her motto was "Something New in Education". Fitting in with this apt topic was a film on "Bookmobiles," presented by Mr. Workman of the Hastings County Library Advisory Committee. The film, a colorful one of Nova Scotia rural life and the part that community libraries and bookmobiles play in the lives of Nova Scotians opened up interest in the possibilities that could be had for citizens of Hastings County, in fact, for all Ontario.

Here, the basics for a child's reading habits were clearly indicated, at the time when he has learned to read and is proud to test his new-found skill. It is important that the needful reference library is accessible in his preparation for higher learning. All available help should be at the school child's grasp; and a comprehensive library for reference and pleasure is most useful.

After a highly interesting evening the hostess, Mrs. C. Ellsworth and her committee served tasty refreshments.

How much does it cost to heat this 6-room house electrically?

This 6-room home is owned by Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Thomson of Harrowsmith, near Kingston, Ontario. In his own words, here's what Mr. Thomson has to say about the cost of electric heating:

"I consider it a very economical system and I've lived with them all. Last year our electric heating cost was about $200. This is perfect as far as I am concerned. Electric heating is great. It really is.

Why people would think it's expensive is beyond me. Electric heating doesn't cost me any more than other systems and it's much better. You don't even know that it's there."

Electrically-heated homes insulated to Hydro standards cost no more to heat than homes with other systems. In fact, in many areas in Ontario it actually costs less to heat a home electrically.

AND LOOK AT THE COMFORT ADVANTAGES YOU ENJOY

Flameless electric heating is the cleanest heating possible. Since it doesn't burn fuel, it cannot possibly create dust, smoke or dirt.

With electric heating you can have a different temperature in every room because you can have a thermostat in every room. You enjoy even, comfortable, healthful warmth—always. Consider the extra living space you gain with electric heating because it needs no furnace . . . no bulky fuel storage tanks!

Maintenance is eliminated. Annual cleaning and inspection are not needed. No dirt is created and there are no filters to clean or replace. Electric heating is the most carefree heating system of all.

With all its advantages, is it any wonder so many people throughout Ontario are turning to electric heating for the comfort, convenience, and economy they want in a heating system.

ELECTRIC HEATING FOR YOUR PRESENT HOME

If you are planning home extensions or if parts of your home are not now properly heated, you can install supplementary electric heating for less than it costs to extend your present heating system.

Electric heating is one of the many comfort features of the famous Medallion all-electric homes. For full information, consult a qualified electric heating contractor or your Hydro.

Stories of Famous Hymns

By HORACE B POWELL

WELCOME, HAPPY MORNING

"Welcome, happy morning!" age to age shall say:
"Hell today is vanquished, Heaven is won today."
Lo! the dead is living, God forevermore:
Him, their true Creator, All His works adore.
Earth with joy confesses, Clothing her spring,
All good gifts returns with Her returning King;
Bloom in every meadow, Leaves on every bough,
Speak His sorrows ended, Hail His triumph now.
Thou, of life the Author, Death didst undergo,
Tread the path of darkness Saving strength to show;
Come, then, Thou and Faithful, Now fulfill The word
Tis Thine own third morning; Rise O buried Lord.

Fourteen centuries ago in Poitiers, France, the lines from which this favorite Easter hymn was taken were written by a Latin poet, Venantius Fortunatus.

There were 110 lines in the original poem and the stanzas which form the hymn were translated, less than a century ago, by John Ellerton, English churchman and scholar.

Fortunatus, it is said, began to lose his eyesight while he was studying as a young man in Ravenna, Italy. He sought relief in prayer and at the same time, so the story goes, bathed his eyes with oil which friends brought to him from an altar lamp in St. Martin's Church at Tours, France.

When, a little later, the young poet's sight was restored, Fortunatus accepted his transformation as a miracle. Grateful for his restoration, he traveled from Ravenna to Tours to worship at the shrine of St. Martin and, from that time on, he lived in France. It was not long until he entered the priesthood and was ordained. A few years before his death he was named Bishop of Poitiers.

Manitoba Schools Dispute Still Bitterly Live Issue

By CARL MOLLINS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

—The French Catholics of Manitoba have been sacrificed on the shrine of ... political ambitions — Le Courrier, St. Hyacinthe, Que., 1904.

—The Manitoba government's refusal to support parochial schools is an insult to Catholics.—MLA for St. Boniface, Man., 1964.

—Extending legal provisions for separate Catholic schools in Ontario strikes at the roots of our whole system of national education. — Toronto Globe, 1850.

—Increasing government grants to Ontario separate schools is a betrayal of the public school system and Protestant taxpayers. — Loyal Orange Association resolution, 1963.

Bickering about sectarian and secular school systems may be slightly more polite in public now than in Canada's acrimonious past. But the issue is as bitterly alive today as in the time when "papist conspiracy" and "Orange plot" were every-day political epithets.

Manitoba is the forefront now—as many times in the past—of the perennial squabble about uses of public funds for parochial schools.

DEBATE VIGOROUS

But the debate reverberates elsewhere with undiminished vigor, a Cross-Canada Survey by The Canadian Press shows. Ontario, Saskatchewan and Quebec are making delicate adjustments in the balance of the politically volatile argument.

Manitoba Roman Catholics are campaigning for state aid to parochial schools in the face of the government's stand for a single public school system. A committee has been appointed to study a plan to share public facilities with parochial schools.

In Ontario, the government has vetoed the opposition of Protestant groups to step up grants this year to Roman Catholic elementary schools. But it rejected Catholic proposals for separate systems of secondary schools and teachers colleges.

The CCF government of Saskatchewan passed legislation before the April 22 election to free supporters of separate secondary schools in 16 main urban areas from the necessity of paying also for the operation of public high schools through taxes.

The Quebec government has passed legislation to unite distinct Roman Catholic and Protestant school systems under a single education department to eliminate some duplication of effort. The government has spurned demands by some groups for a third, "neutral" school system.

EXTREMES PLACED

The provinces least involved in the religion-in-education debate are British Columbia and Newfoundland, two that go at opposite extremes ideologically as well as geographically. B.C. makes no provision for denominational schools and bars religious instruction; Newfoundland's public school system is operated by the churches under general government supervision.

The otherwise national issue has its roots in the origin of the country, when early schools organized by churches grew up alongside community schools managed by local pioneers—the basis of free, common schools supported by taxes.

Separate schools for religious minorities—Roman Catholics in Ontario, Protestants in Quebec —were established as a political compromise to overcome mistrust on both sides when the two central provinces united in 1841.

The right of religious minorities to maintain separate school systems existing on entrance to Confederation was guaranteed in Section 93 of the British North America Act, which created Canada in 1867. The right was extended to the Northwest Territories, from which the Prairie provinces were formed.

LEGALLY COMMITTED

Ontario and Quebec thus are constitutionally committed to providing separate schools for their respective minorities, although this fact does nothing to dampen the ardor of advocates and opponents of the system. A significant third force in both provinces urges a neutral system in keeping with North American democratic principles.

The Maritime provinces on joining Confederation nominally maintained a single public school system while informal local agreements established some schools staffed by Roman Catholics. In New Brunswick, for example, the Catholic Church builds schools and rents them to the local board of education as public Catholic schools.

British Columbia, immediately before and after entering Confederation in 1871, passed legislation limiting public support to a single, non-denominational school system. Newfoundland negotiated a guarantee against interference with its denominational school system on joining Canada in 1949.

Alberta and Saskatchewan accepted the legacy of separate schools from the Northwest Territories on becoming provinces in 1905. But Manitoba, a province in 1870 and enlarged in 1881, abolished state aid to parochial schools in the School Act of 1890.

Manitoba Catholics appealed to the Imperial Privy Council, which said the province acted within its powers but that a remedy lay with the Dominion Parliament. A remedial bill was introduced at Ottawa but died on the order paper after Sir Wilfrid Laurier, in an intrusion on provincial rights, said the Manitoba schools question was a major issue in the 1896 election, but the Laurier Liberals were swept into power and the law remains unchanged.

RIGHT 'ILLUSORY'

The Manitoba law permits the establishment of French schools, financed privately, but municipal taxes and provincial grants are directed only to the public schools. Catholic spokesmen say the right to parochial schools is illusory without financial resources.

About 4,000 children of a total of perhaps 32,000 Roman Catholic students in Manitoba attend 39 Catholic elementary and secondary schools. Another 10,000 attend public schools in predominantly Catholic areas where permissible religious instruction is considered adequate by church officials to rent attended regular public schools;

Parts of the current controversy in the 1959 report of a provincial royal commission on education, which recommended a measure of direct provincial aid to parochial schools under a complex, perpupil formula.

Catholic school officials have estimated the formula would mean about half their bureaucratic costs and the plan was considered acceptable, if not a final solution. But it has not been implemented.

Premier Duff Roblin has indicated proposals whereby pupils of parochial schools may share certain public services in public schools. A legislative committee assigned to work out a system is directed to maintain the separation of church and state and the direction of public funds into a single public school system.

NOT SATISFIED

"As insult to Catholics," says Larry Desjardins, Liberal MLA for St. Boniface. The proposals "do not offer a final solution to the basic problem," says Archbishop George H. Pidgeon of Winnipeg, who cites the "natural rights" of parents to a school system of their choice without "unjust financial burdens."

In Ontario, where 20 per cent of the population is Roman Catholic compared with 22 per cent in Manitoba, about one-quarter of more than 1,200,000 elementary school pupils are enrolled in separate schools.

About 12 per cent of total municipal school taxes go to separate schools under a program whereby taxpayers pay to the school system of their choice, often paying higher rates if they support Catholic schools. On the other hand, provincial grants — last year provided almost half as much to separate schools as to public elementary schools.

Chief complaint of the separate schools was that they were not getting a fair share of corporation tax. Catholic proprietors can designate their support for separate schools in tax returns, but it is impossible for big companies to say what proportion of their shareholders are Catholics supporting separate schools. Taxes from these thus were neutral and went automatically to the public schools.

The new arrangements introduced this year increases grants to separate schools under a formula based on the proportion of the population paying separate school tax.

The change was prompted by an appeal late in 1962 from he Roman Catholic Bishops of Ontario, who also urged extension of the separate school system to the secondary and teachers' college levels.

REACTION PROMPT

Critical counter-appeals were prompt from Protestant church groups urging the government to hold the line. Premier John P. Robarts, while increasing grants in aim at "fuller equalization of educational opportunity," rejected any extension of the separate schooling system as certain to create frightening financial problems.

In Quebec, where over 80 per cent of the population is Roman Catholic, the side-by-side Protestant and Catholic school systems operate in relative harmony.

Municipal taxpayers designate which schools they support and corporation tax money is distributed on the basis of the population's religious affiliation.

But the Catholic school authorities are agitating to have the share-out based on school-attendance only and the provincial government is considering this. In addition, Bill 60 will unite the Catholic and Protestant public schools under an education minister for the first time in almost a century, with the aim primarily to eliminate unnecessary duplication of effort.

SEEK SECULAR SCHOOLS

Agitation for secular schools in Quebec, while vociferous and occasionally physical by a provincial royal commission on education, has achieved no concrete results.

Quebec secularists are not alone. During the recent debate in Ontario, a Unitarian minister among others suggested the Protestant argument against extension of separate Catholic schooling would be more valid if the so-called public schools were strictly secular rather than essentially Protestant.

Logic leads many neutral contributors to this debate to the conclusion that a truly public school system would either completely eliminate religion or make provision for instruction in all sectarian dogmas.

Referring to the origins of Canada's divided schooling system in the Kierzkowski Canadians, educational historian C. E. Phillips of the Ontario College of Education, comments rather wistfully:

"With tolerance developed in practice, it would not have been necessary to enact the first separate-school law in 1841 and limit provincial prerogative in education by a guarantee of separate school rights in 1867.

"Canadian education was not improved by the bad feeling, strife, litigation and waste resulting from these enactments."

per on defence, published March 26.

There were complaints that Mr. Hellyer had forged ahead alone instead of letting the Commons committee review the situation. Fears were expressed that the committee's future is problematical and a suggestion was made for abolition of the post of associate defence minister.

Mr. Hellyer kept his remarks close to the main subject at hand—the bill replacing the services staffs chiefs by a single defence staff chief.

The defence minister said creation of a new post—a preliminary to eventual integration of the armed forces—will permit reorganization on a functional basis.

He said the government had rejected the existing system because it is "virtually unmanageable and the minister is unable to exercise his constitutional authority adequately."

A recommendation by the Glassco royal commission on government organization that a number of support functions be transferred from the individual services to the chairman of the chiefs of staff for administration would probably result in a continuation and perhaps amplification of the committee system.

GAVE WARNING

Mr. Churchill noted that the Glassco commission had warned against placing too much control in the hands of one man.

Mr. Hellyer maintained that civilian control would be strengthened as a result of proposed changes.

The defence minister said the over-all estimate predicts a 30-per-cent average saving in the 50,000 personnel employed in headquarters, regional headquarters, training and other support units. Biggest saving would be at national defence headquarters.

"If we reach our goal we expect that the savings in dollars will amount to approximately $100,000,000 annually, or $1,000,000,000 over a 10-year period."

The savings in expenditures of the 3 services establishment would make more money available for new weapons which would have to be increased to 25 from 14 per cent in the years ahead.

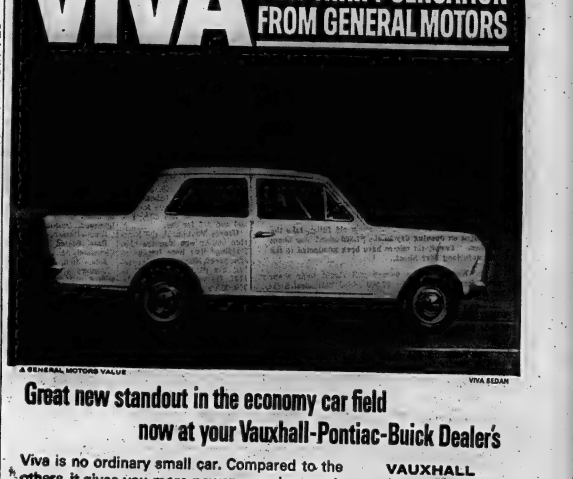
Directed by Pierre Perrault and Michel Brault of Montreal, Pour la Suite du Monde (So the World Goes On) also received a special award for "its visual qualities, its perception and artistry."

It recreates the tradition of hunting the porpoise at Ile-aux-Coudres, an island in the Gulf of St. Lawrence which preserves the language and customs of an earlier era.



A total of 140 films, including four feature-length productions, were submitted by 43 Canadian producers for awards in 14 categories.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CANYON, Sports Editor

The long-drawn controversy over harness racing privileges in the city may come to a head here Monday night.

Mr. Sidney Pratt of the Department of Agriculture, will be in the city to speak to a meeting of the Belleville Raceway, the Quinte Driving Club, and others interested in the sport.

The meeting is scheduled for the Club Canara at eight o'clock and all interested parties are urged to attend.

Secretary Don Thomas of the Belleville Raceway, informs me that the new Raceway tickets are now available from any member or director. He pointed out that anyone holding "blue" membership cards may exchange them for the newly issued cards.

As the future of harness racing here may depend on decisions handed down Monday night, all interested should attend the evening meeting.

READY FOR SECOND "JEWEL"

Fresh from a record-breaking victory in the Kentucky Derby, Canada's crack three-year-old, Northern Dancer will be out to capture the second "jewel" in the U.S. triple crown of racing on Saturday, May 16.

The richest of the three races with a $150,000-added purse, the 88th running of the Preakness will be held at Pimlico Race Track in Baltimore, Maryland. The distance is 1 3/16 miles.

Television coverage of the race begins at 5.30 p.m. EDT on the CBC-TV network. Sportscaster Jack Drees will call the race, with Chris Schenkel handling the interviews and color commentary.

Again, Northern Dancer's strongest competition is expected to come from Hill Rise, the California colt that was beaten by a neck in the Derby. The E. P. Taylor-owned horse needed a record time (two minutes flat) to win the races.

The closeness of the race has left some doubts as to Northern Dancer's superiority. Some track experts maintain that rider Bill Hartack won the race at the first turn when he moved his mount to the rail picking up three lengths.

Northern Dancer's supporters point out that Hill Rise had every opportunity to catch the Dancer, but failed. There was only a two-length difference between the horses as they came into the long Churchill Downs stretch.

Other top thoroughbreds who could give the two favorites some trouble are Rex Ellsworth's The Scoundrel and Rokeby Stables' Quadrangle.

AT GREENWOOD

The thoroughbreds, having had their spring tune-ups, moved on to Toronto's Greenwood Monday, well conditioned and ready to go.

During the 24-day meeting at the east-end Toronto plant, eight stake races will be contested for added money totalling $70,000. Three of the eight events will be raced during the first week at the six-furlong oval.

The ladies of racing, three-year-old fillies, take the spotlight on opening day in the $7,500-added Star Shoot Stakes. Twenty-six misses have been nominated to the seven-furlong Star Shoot.

On Wednesday the women will flaunt their shapely racing forms again, in the $7,500 added Whimsical Stakes, for fillies and mares. The "older girls" will race a mile.

The old warriors, four-year-olds and upward, stride into action Saturday, May 16, in the $7,500 added Ultimus Stakes Handicap. Twenty-four stake horses have been nominated for this one-mile test.

The remaining five stakes are the Friar Rock Stakes on May 23; the Inferno Stakes Handicap, May 30, and the Eclipse Stakes Handicap and Marine Stakes, both scheduled for June 6.

The Friar Rock and The Marine Stakes will give the three-year-olds a vital prep for the June 20 running of the Queen's Plate.

As usual, racing fans will be seeing new talent. The two-year-olds, some who started at Fort Erie and others who haven't yet had competition, will likely rattle the rail with their youthful and exuberant bursts.

Willie Hits Homer No. 11 ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Giants Drop Dodgers 7 Games Back

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Eleven isn't a round number, but San Francisco Giants certainly used the digit to keep Los Angeles Dodgers going around in circles.

Juan Marichal won his 11th game in a row over a two-season span and Willie Mays hit his 11th homer of the season Friday night as the National League leaders whipped the Dodgers 3-0 and dropped the defending world champions seven games back.

Marichal brought his record to 5-0—he leads both leagues in victories — by checking the Dodgers on five hits while Mays lifted his average to .400 with his home run and a single. Mays also drove in a run with a sacrifice fly.

Marichal, who had a 25-8 record last year and hasn't lost a game since Aug. 30, 1963, now has four complete games in six starts and an eye-opening 2.02 earned run average. Mays leads the league in five departments including batting, batting in with 26, runs scored with 24 and hits with 36.

The combination proved too much for the Dodgers, who went down to their 14th defeat in 22 games this season.

HITS LONG HOMER

While Mays added to his homer total, Philadelphia's Wes Covington took care of the night's rape-measure homer and drove in five runs in an 11-3 walloping of Cincinnati Reds that kept the Phillies one game back of the Giants.

Covington hammered a John Tsitouris pitch over the right centre field scoreboard at Connie Mack Stadium in the fourth inning. The scoreboard is 405 feet away and 65 feet high.

Elsewhere in the NL, Tony Cloninger pitched a six-hitter as Milwaukee Braves edged Pittsburgh Pirates 2-1 and New York Mets nipped St. Louis Canadians 5-4. Houston Colts and Chicago Cubs were not scheduled.

The Giants scored in the third against Dodger starter Phil Ortega on a double by Matty Alou, an infield out and Mays' sacrifice fly. Jose Pagan's double, a sacrifice and Alou's single produced another run in the fifth before Mays closed out the scoring with his homer in the sixth.

ENDS DODGER THREAT

The Dodgers' biggest threat was made in the first inning when a walk to Jim Gilliam, Chuck Hiller's error on a grounder by Willie Davis and a walk to Ron Fairly filled the bases with two out. Marichal worked out of the jam by getting Frank Howard to ground out.

Covington singled home a run in the first, hit his big homer with two on in the fourth, then wound up his evening by stroking a single after John Callison tripled in the sixth. Callison had two triples, a double and a single in support of Dennis Bennett, who brought his record to 3-2 by limiting the Reds to four hits.

Cloninger, who checked the Pirates on one hit last week, forced in a run with a walk in the first inning but pitched shutout ball the rest of the way. Felipe Alou's double and a triple by Eddie Mathews produced a third inning run for the Braves and Joe Adcock scored across the fourth on a single by Frank Bolling and Denis Menke's double.

Carl Warwick's three - run homer in the eighth inning pulled the Cardinals into a 4-4 tie, but Mets won it in the ninth when George Altman singled, moved up on a sacrifice and raced home with the winning run on a pinch-hit single by Joe Christopher. It was the first time this season the Mets had been able to win two straight games.

Quinte Bowlers Defeat Pick Of Kingston

Belleville's top Quinte Classic League five-pinners scored a victory over the pick of the Kingston Major League here last night in the first half of their annual home-and-home series.

The Belleville team, consisting of Leo Labelle, Jim MacKenzie, Jack Canning and Ron Saylor, defeated the Kingston squad in three of the four games played, chalking up a total pinfall of 3857. Kingston's total was 3766.

Belleville won the first game 971-928, the second 947-880 and the fourth 1079-954. Kingston took the third encounter 1004-1003.

Saylor was high man for the winners. He rolled 192, 276, 272 and 238 for a 1006. Canning was second with 343, 237, 186 and 233 for 999. Labelle had 217, 210, 196 and 204 for 827 and MacKenzie had 219, 224, 206 and 213 for 862.

George MacDonald, the Kingston bowler who won the "Mr. Bowling" title here last weekend, paced Kingston and in fact had the night's high total of 1101. He rolled games of 248, 250, 312 and 291. Charles Baltz had 275, 232, 241 and 203 for a 949 total. Charles Parada had 191, 270, 256, and 213 for 930. Bill Griffith rolled 216 and 178 while Charles Gibson scored 195 and 247 for the other combined total of 836.

The second half of the series will be played in Kingston.

Ken Reardon Quits Canadiens
'Through With Hockey For Good'

MONTREAL (CP) — Ken Reardon, once a star defenceman with Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League, resigned from the club's executive Friday for "business and personal reasons."

Reardon, 43, said he wants a job that will permit him to spend more time with his children in their formative years.

He had been in the Canadiens organization since 1940, for the last eight years as vice-president and assistant general manager of the club and the Canadian Arena Company.

Senator Hartland Molson, owner of the Canadiens, said he accepted Reardon's resignation with a great deal of regret.

Reardon said his decision, which took hockey people here somewhat by surprise, was "a hard one to make."

He declined to say what he will do next. He had "several promising offers" from business firms and would take time off to consider them.

A return to hockey elsewhere seemed out of the question.

"Right now, I would have to say that I'm through with hockey for good."

Reardon, a rugged, colorful defenceman with the Canadiens under the late coach Dick Irvin in the 1940s, retired as a player in 1950 only 10 years after coming into the NHL directly from junior hockey in Edmonton.

Unlike many players, he was still a star when he quit, having been named to the NHL's first all-star team in 1950. He was also named to the first team in 1947 and to the second team in 1946, 1948 and 1949.

Joining the front-office ranks immediately, he was goodwill ambassador and subsequently manager of farm teams in Cincinnati, Ohio and Shawinigan, Que., and director of the farm system.

Reardon spent three years overseas with the army during the Second World War and thus served with only one Stanley Cup and NHL championship team, the 1946 club.

The conservation organization says in its May survey that run-off has been good in both these areas. Remainder of the Prairies and parkland will need additional rainfalls, particularly in the south.

Varsity Plans To Find Out
Athletes Born or Made?

SASKATOON (CP) — The University of Saskatchewan plans to spend $250,000 and 15 years in an attempt to discover, whether athletes are born or made.

The university said in an announcement Friday that preliminary studies had been carried out over the past two years under grants from the National Fitness and Amateur Sport Council. The council now had provided $12,000 to begin the main investigation.

Dr. W. A. R. Orban, director of the university's school of physical education and the man who helped develop the internationally - famous 5BX exercises for the RCAP, said the study could answer the question: "Is a good athlete born or made?"

"We need to study children before the various factors that might promote or limit athletic ability become apparent, and then, as they become evident, follow through and relate them to the child's growth and development until age 19 or 20, when the degree of interest or ability in certain sports has been demonstrated.

"If we can discover how to create an interest in a certain area at an early age, we can help youngsters develop athletic capacities."

In the university study, 216 boys in Grade 1 at Saskatoon schools will be given a battery of tests each year until they reach the age of 19 or 20.

Smythe Offers Vancouver Ice Palace

NHL Expansion Seen

TORONTO (CP) — An expanded National Hockey League, stretching from coast to coast, is envisaged in plans announced Friday to put a big-league arena in Vancouver.

Stafford Smythe, president of Toronto Maple Leafs, broke the news at the Western Hockey League's annual meeting in Seattle, where he offered to build an $8,000,000 coliseum, seating 30,000 in downtown Vancouver in time for the opening of the 1965-67 hockey season.

The plan is contingent on the city of Vancouver donating the land.

Later in the day, the plan was confirmed here by Harold Ballard, vice-president of the Leafs and of Maple Leaf Gardens.

Both Smythe and Ballard emphasized that the proposal pre-supposed an NHL franchise for Vancouver, now a member of the WHL.

But the two Leaf officials apparently differed in their conception of the shape of the expanded league.

"It won't be a matter of adding more teams to the present six-team league," said Smythe. "The way I see it, it will come with the formation of another six - team division. Vancouver would be a member of the new division."

Ballard said the new rink would enable the league to absorb Vancouver, Los Angeles, San Francisco and possibly St. Louis.

The two California cities currently are represented in the WHL. St. Louis has a franchise in the Central Professional Hockey League.

Ballard said the Leafs' interest in Vancouver would be confined to building and operating the arena. The franchise would be independently owned.

Also in financial difficulties were Duluth and Minneapolis, the WHL pennant - winners, with whom the Leafs have a working agreement.

Birds Nip Tigers; A's Nudge Twins

Yankees Blast Tribe; Chisox Take Lead

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

When Boston Red Sox made a major deal for Ed Bressoud they wanted his glove. They hadn't counted much on his bat.

The veteran shortstop was acquired from Houston in 1961 in a straight swap for Don Buddin to lighten up the infield. Bressoud did that.

And now he's belting away at a spectacular .380 clip and has a 22-game hitting string going including all 19 games this season. His highest pre-Boston average was .303.

It's all because of a shift in his batting stance.

"I moved in closer to the plate to prevent myself from chasing that outside pitch," the articulate 32-year-old explained.

BETTER LOOK

"Now I can tell better whether it's a ball or a strike. If I have to reach for it I know it's a ball and I stop myself immediately. Pitchers don't try to jam me inside much because that's where my power is."

Bressoud kept his hitting string alive Friday night with a two-run, tie-breaking single in the sixth inning of Boston's 9-3 triumph over Washington Senators.

Chicago White Sox edged Los Angeles Angels 3-1 and replaced Cleveland atop the American League standings after the Indians absorbed a 10-8 pasting from New York Yankees. Baltimore Orioles nipped Detroit Tigers 4-3 in 10 innings and Kansas City Athletics outlasted Minnesota Twins 6-5 in 10 innings.

Bressoud picked his spot against the Senators. His only hit came with the bases loaded, broke a tie and touched off a seven-run Red Sox burst.

Four of the runs were unearned, coming after an error by shortstop Ed Brinkman. Carl Yastrzemski hit a homer for Boston, John Kennedy for Washington.

GO IN FRONT

The White Sox, who have won 11 of their last 13, went a half-game up on Cleveland with their victory at Los Angeles.

Juan Pizarro and Hoyt Wilhelm combined for a five-hit effort while Pizarro and Ron Hansen hit homers. Ken McBride suffered his fifth straight loss after an opening-day victory.

Mickey Mantle stroked a three-run homer and Elston Howard added a three-run double in the Yankee conquest at Cleveland. Ralph Terry limited the Indians to five hits for his first win of the season but allowed homers by Bob Chance and Leon Wagner.

A double by Dick Brown and a single by Jerry Adair produced the 10th-inning run that brought Baltimore its decision over Detroit. Both hits were off Tiger reliever Larry Sherry.

Charley Lau's 10th - inning pinch homer was the deciding blow in Kansas City's three-hour, 53-minute struggle at Minnesota.

Jimmie Hall had a three-run homer for the Twins and Nelson Mathews a three-run double for the Athletics.

Cloudburst Postpones Colonial

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)— A cloudburst forced postponement of the second round of the $75,000 Colonial Invitation golf tournament Friday before most of the players ventured on the course.

South African Gary Player, who shot a 68 Thursday, has a one-stroke lead.

Tournament officials scheduled a 36-hole test today, with the Sunday 18-hole finale unchanged.

Tommy Jacobs was the only contestant other than Player to break par in the first round.

Bunched at 70 were Gay Brewer, Ray Floyd, Al Besselink and Jerry Edwards.

Al Balding and George Knudson, both of Toronto, were well back with first-round scores of 74.

TV League Seeks It Interlocking Schedule?

A special meeting has been called by Belleville and District Softball League president Harold Bawden to deal with a proposal for an interlocking schedule by the Trent Valley Softball League.

The meeting will be held at Club Canada tomorrow (Sunday) afternoon at one o'clock and all teams have been urged to attend.

The TVL and D group just got its difficulties ironed out this past Wednesday, securing four entries. They are Belleville Ellis Juniors, Tweed Lumbanks, Belleville Trudeau Motors and Trenton Commercial Printers.

Later the same night, the TVL, which earlier expected to have six entries, called B. and D. League executives seeking an interlocking schedule. The Trent Valley loop also had four entries after the Trenton RCAF club did not enter and Tweed joined the B. and D. League.

Entries in the TVL are said to be Bloomfield, Stirling, Madoc and Frankford.

Bawden said all Sunday's meeting late yesterday after several calls from the TVL executive who will attend the Sunday meeting. President Bawden indicated he will have it up to the B. and D. clubs now whether they want to revise their earlier plans for the interlocking plan. It is expected all four clubs would have to approve of the move before it would be made and at least one Belleville team executive indicated he was not interested following the Wednesday night call from the TVL.

A Trenton source said yesterday that he decided if that team would be interested in such a schedule. The Trenton team is to play every Wednesday night for home games here, the same as last year, and I understand most of the same players from last year's RCAF Flyers team now intend to play with the Printers, so everything appears to be moving smoothly here," he said.

The present 18-game B. and D. League schedule is slated to open on the holiday, Monday, May 18.

WINS IN FIRST ROUND

CHICAGO (AP)—Bobby Foster of Washington, D.C. won a technical knockout over Allen Thomas of Chicago when the referee stopped their lightheavyweight bout at 1:26 of the first round Friday. The victory in the televised fight was Foster's 19th in 19 fights. He floored his opponent twice and sent him into the ropes a third time before the end.

Should Take It Tonight

Marlboros Look For Wrap-Up

By JERRY GLADMAN.

TORONTO (CP) — Edmonton Oil Kings have 60 minutes left in which to prove they are a better hockey club than their most recent performances have indicated.

A loss to Toronto Marlboros tonight will send the Kings packing back to Edmonton minus the Memorial Cup and give the Marlboros the best-of-seven series in four straight games.

Early predictions before the regular hockey season ended were that Toronto would meet Edmonton in the Memorial Cup finals. Furthermore, the Kings were tabbed as the club to give the hardrock Marlboros their stiffest test to date.

However, the defending champion Oil Kings have failed to live up to their advance billing. Not only have they failed to come up with a victory in the first three games, but aside from two periods in the second game, the Kings haven't caused the Marlboros the slightest amount of worry.

The opening game saw the teams feeling each other out with Toronto taking advantage of the opportunities while the Edmonton club chose to pass instead of shoot. Result: 5-2 for Marlboros.

CAME OUT FIGHTING

The Kings came out fighting for the second match and for the better part of the first two periods, had Marlboros backing up. But the Westerners stopped playing hockey in the third period and Toronto took over. Result: 3-2 for Marlboros.

The third meeting was simply no contest as the home club battered the visitors into the ice. Result: 5-2 for Marlboros.

A big disappointment on the Edmonton club so far has been the ineffective play by their top line of Butch Paul, Max Mestinsek and Glen Sather. Of the six goals scored by the club, only one has accounted for only one—a deflection by Paul in the third game.

Questions and Answers On Highway Travel

Ontario Motor League
Eastern Ontario Club

Question: Would you please give me the time the tulips are in bloom in Ottawa and the best route there? — Miss P. McK., Belleville.

Answer: Tulip time in Ottawa is May 15th to May 30th and a beautiful sight it is which attracts hundreds of visitors daily. The quickest way to Ottawa would be highway No. 27 to Tweed and Actinolite then No. 7 through Perth and Carleton Place. Free government maps are available at the Chamber of Commerce or through your local O.M.L. office.

Question: We are going to Ste-Anne-de-Beaupre, Quebec, for a weekend. Could you tell me if the motel and tourist homes are still open and if we can get lower rates because of the off season and which is best road to take? — G. P., Trenton.

Answer: Take No. 401 and No. 2 all the way and for a change of scenery on your return, take No. 3 by crossing over at Quebec City and cross over at Valleyfield or Cornwall to get back to No. 2 and home. The motels and tourists homes are indeed open. As a matter of fact, most of them are open all year round, and at this time, tourists homes have a better rate than the motels. If you are looking for low priced accommodation, try heated cabins also. There are lots of them on No. 2 highway.

TRAVEL TRENDS

The average motorist on vacation in the U.S. spends $250. On a trip abroad, reports the American Automobile Association, the average expenditure is $1,125.

Fifty years ago it took the motorist 35 days to cross the continent. Today it can be done in six days.

Camping and tenting has jumped three-fold in the past three years to the extent that the provincial government can not keep up with the demand for more camp sites and provincial parks.

Question: How many First Aid Posts are there on the highways in Ontario, and who is responsible for their upkeep, also are the attendants at these stations trained in first aid? — Queen's Univ.

Answer: There are approximately 80-90 First Aid Posts on the Ontario highways. These stations are maintained jointly by the St. John Ambulance and the Ontario Motor League. The attendants of these stations are trained in first aid and have a certificate from St. John's Ambulance to this effect. All stations are shown on your Ontario maps, which is another good reason why you should carry an Ontario map in your car.

Question: I am interesting travel column in the Ontario Intelligencer and wondered if you could give me some advice on the Trans-Canada Highway. When can I obtain a map of this highway? Are there service stations and restaurants en route and what are the conditions of the roads? Your help in this would be very much appreciated. — A. J., Belleville.

Answer: Maps of the Trans-Canada Highway are obtainable at the local O.M.L. office or the Chamber of Commerce. These maps are free. The highway itself is good except for the odd strip which is under repair or improvement. As to service stations and restaurants, these are not too many but enough to keep a traveller from worrying and to supply service if needed. This is a well travelled route of vast and varied scenery, and is considered the scenic highway national highway. From Victoria, Beyond Columbia, to St. John's, Newfoundland, a 5,000-mile wonder.

Correction: We are interested in camping with our trailer at the Rideau Lakes. Is there a trailer camp in that area where we can it open for the season? — G. S., Belleville.

Answer: There is a trailer camp by the name of Black Lake Park three miles west of Junction Highway 15 and 29. Modern camping, toilets, drinking water fireplaces, swimming. Camping season is from May 1.

Movie Studios Anticipate Healthy Season - - on TV

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The 1954-55 television season shapes up as a healthy one for the movie studios, which can scarcely survive on feature films alone.

Television production helps absorb massive overhead costs and keep crews busy between pictures.

Fox, after dragging along with on series on the networks, has placed four full hours on next season's schedules.

One is a tried-and-true Daniel Boone, which will put Fess Parker back in a coonskin cap. The others are based on old Fox movies—Voyage to the Bottom of the Sea, 12 O'Clock High and Peyton Place. The latter will be an innovation: Separate half-hours played on ABC Tuesday and Thursday nights.

Warner Brothers also is staging a comeback after being blanked last year, except for the short-run 77 Sunset Strip. The Burbank lot will return with two half-hour comedies, No Time for Sergeants and Wendy and Me.

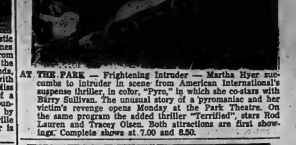
Revue, the television arm of the MCA-Universal-Decca combine, remains the giant in the field, scoring 12 shows against this season's nine. They range from The Virginian to the new 90 Bristol Court, which will consist of three consecutive half-hours concerning tenants of an apartment building.

MGM HAS STRONG FIELD

MGM is holding strong with Dr. Kildare and Mr. Novak while adding Solo, Flipper and Many Happy Returns. Screen gems, which is related to Columbia Pictures, also has a healthy schedule with repeaters (Rare), Donna Reed, Farmer's Daughter and Flintstones, plus Bewitched and another cartoon show from the Hanna-Barbera factory, Johnny Quest.

United Artists operates the same is television as in features: Financing but not producing. Its series for next season will be holdovers The Fugitive, Patty Duke and Outer Limits with a new comedy half-hour, Gilligan's Island.

Independent Desilu will have only one show next year—the one starring president Lucille Ball. Four Star will return with Burke's Law and add The Rogues, starring the first's cofounders, David Niven and Charles Boyer, plus Gig Young.



Bing Crosby shows up as a rising independent. He'll have his own half-hour comedy, plus Ben Casey and Slattery's People.

Danny Thomas is dropping his own weekly outing for six specials, but Jackie Gleason partner Sheldon Leonard will field the Dick Van Dyke, Bill Dana, Andy Griffith and Steve Brenman shows, and they also have interests in Keep Favorite Martian and Gomer Pyle, USMC.

VALUE DROPPED

The market value of fish in British Columbia dropped to $76,000,000 in 1953, about 20 per cent below the previous year.

AT THE PARK — Frightening Intruder — Martha Hyer succumbs to intruder in scene from American International's suspense thriller, in color, "Pyro," in which she co-stars with Barry Sullivan. The unusual story of a pyromaniac and her victim's revenge opens Monday at the Park Theatre. On the same program the added thriller "Terrified", stars Rod Lauren and Tracey Olsen. Both attractions are first showings. Complete shows at 7.00 and 8.50.

AT THE BELLE — Debbie Reynolds, in the role of a divorcee, has her confidence restored and her romantic feelings quickened by Michael Rennie, portraying a comedian on the decline, in this scene from "Mary, Mary", hilarious new Warner Bros. domestic comedy, opening Monday at the Belle, for days of Sun-spree entertainment. Barry Nelson, Diane McBain and Hiram Sherman, are co-starred in Technicolor film.

INTENSIVE CARE UNIT at Belleville General Hospital is filling vital need. Here student nurse Betty Remaik volunteers at "patient" for nurse Marion Woods. Specialized equipment is right at the bedside.

New Intensive Care Unit At Hospital Here Reported Filling Long-Felt Need

In operation for the past six months, the nine-bed intensive care unit at Belleville General Hospital is filling a long-felt and vital need, according to hospital officials.

Situated in the former first floor administrative area of the hospital, which last year was converted to patient use, the intensive care unit is, as the name implies, intended for the patient requiring constant and complex care.

Specialized cardiac and respiratory equipment is ready at the bedside for instant use. And the unit nursing staff is specially trained.

"It's an emergency unit for treatment of emergency cases," according to hospital administrator Stan Johnston.

WERE SCATTERED

Prior to the setting up of the intensive care unit last October, the very sick patients were scattered throughout the hospital.

Also scattered throughout the hospital were the emergency cardiac and respiratory machines, with the result that precious time could be lost in bringing equipment to the patient.

Now this equipment is concentrated in the one area, complete with oxygen hi piped to each individual bed and suction equipment for the patient having breathing difficulties is right at the bedside.

As the intensive care unit is classed as an emergency department, one or two beds are reserved for emergency use. The unit has nine beds but the average number of patients seldom gets above five or six.

Patient admission to the unit is controlled by the intensive care committee of the hospital medical staff which meets twice a day. The patient's attending physician also confers with the committee.

THREE NURSES

On admission the patient remains in intensive care as long as is required and until the medical staff committee decides he can return to regular nursing care. Three nurses are normally on duty although, depending on the number of patients, this sometimes can be reduced to two. Head Nurse is Miss Marion Gomme.

Visiting regulations are rigidly enforced — never more than two visitors to a patient and then only for ten-minute periods, at "odd" hours of the day.

The care is intensive and only by specially trained hospital staff nurses.

The whole purpose of an intensive care unit, according to Mr. Johnston, is to make available in one place all resuscitative equipment where highly trained personnel can give the best treatment possible.

It fills the hospital requirement to give care "according to need."

"The intensive care unit has filled a long-felt need at Belleville General Hospital," stated nursing director Miss Doris Smith. "It means we can give the constant and complex care necessary for the very sick patient."

But when the patient gets off the "very sick" list and is on the road to recovery, he doesn't seem to appreciate the constant care so much.

"As soon as an intensive care patient starts to get better, he usually wants to get back into regular care," says the hospital administrator.

Half Million Grant Given Aircraft Firm

KITCHENER (CP)—The department of defence production has given a $540,000 grant to Avian Industries Limited to aid in development of the Avian Gyroplane, a "jump" takeoff aircraft under development at Waterloo-Wellington Airport.

An Avian spokesman said he hoped the grant would mean that sales of the wingless aircraft could ultimately be made to the government.

Although the source of the grant indicates a military interest in the plane, "it could be used by other departments of the government as well," the spokesman said. It is designed primarily for bush and agricultural flying.

A three-bladed rotor provides the lift and the plane takes off like a grasshopper. But once airborne, it is pushed by a propellor at the back.

The plane was developed by about 30 engineers and others laid off from the Avro aircraft plant at Malton, Ont., in 1959 when the Arrow interceptor program was cancelled.

Four prototypes of the aircraft have been developed but the company has yet to start regular production.

Welfare Parley Is Postponed

OTTAWA (CP) — A federal-provincial conference on welfare assistance, scheduled to open here Monday, has been postponed because of the illness of federal Welfare Minister Judy LaMarsh.

The conference was to have been attended by provincial welfare ministers. No new date was set.

Miss LaMarsh is still undergoing treatment in an Ottawa hospital for a back ailment.

A department spokesman said there has been no firm diagnosis of the ailment that has been bothering her for some time. It was hoped she could be discharged late next week.

She would likely rest at home for some time before returning to her official duties.

Associate State Advocated By Rene Levesque

Only Status That Would Satisfy Quebec Is Claim

MONTREAL (CP)—Rene Levesque, Quebec's natural resources minister, said Saturday the only status within Canada that would suit Quebec would be that of an "associate state."

Mr. Levesque was addressing some 600 senior students of College Ste. Marie, a Roman Catholic French-speaking classical college operated by the Jesuit order.

He said co-operative federalism "would only lead to making a greater mess of something that is already somewhat of a mess."

He included in the present "mess" the Eskimos in northern Quebec, the Labrador boundary, immigration, powers not defined by the constitution and the overlapping in several provinces of corporations with federal charters such as the Bell Telephone Company.

The resources minister said the role of an "associate state" would allow Quebec, within the framework of association with Canada, to meet the aspirations of French Canada, which had all the characteristics of a nation.

NEED NEGOTIATION

The "associate state" status would have to be negotiated with the rest of Canada "without guns and without dynamite as much as possible . . . if this status is refused to Quebec, we will have to separate."

He said the present "difficulties" in the government of Prime Minister Pearson, always according to Quebec, "being torpedoed by the West" if it grants Quebec anything, show that Confederation has been possible until now only "on the back of a weak Quebec."

Speaking during lunch-time, Mr. Levesque continued, if they believe they are living in a confederation of ten provinces or even the two main ethnic groups, have "associate" status.

"We are not living in a Confederation, but in a federal system in which the provinces are nothing more than partial states."

He said it was "significant" that Mr. Pearson recognized a "special status" for Quebec. This destroyed "this myth of 10 equal provinces."

Following the meeting, Mr.

Plot To Kill McNamara Uncovered

By PETER ARNETT

SAIGO N(AP) — South Vietnamese authorities claim they have uncovered a Communist plot to kill U.S. Defence Secretary McNamara on his arrival here Tuesday.

Three men were arrested Saturday night as they tried to examine a bridge along McNamara's route from Saigon airport into the capital of South Vietnam. U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge was expected to accompany McNamara on the ride.

McNamara, winding up a visit to West Germany, showed no concern about the alleged plot.

"You can say that I have no comment to make, absolutely no comment," he told reporters in Bonn.

Reliable sources said a South Vietnamese police man happened on the plot about 10 p.m. Saturday when he spotted an underwater swimmer near the bridge. The swimmer and two other men in the area were arrested.

FOUND WIRE

One was in a public lavatory near the bridge and about 150 yards of wire trailed out of the structure. Police dug up 50 pounds of explosives in a kerosene can in a manhole.

The informants said the three men—two of them Viet Cong agents and the third a "strong suspect"—confessed to the plot during a night of interrogation. Their leader, who fled, had intended to set off the explosives from the lavatory as the McNamara motorcade passed.

Some Western sources suggested opponents of Premier Nguyen Khanh may have been trying to scare off McNamara rather than assassinate him. One of the defence secretary's objectives is to strengthen the Khanh regime.

U.S. State Secretary Rusk opened a diplomatic drive for Western support for the South Vietnamese government on his arrival in The Hague Sunday for the meeting of foreign ministers.

Question Getting Attention

By KEN KELLY

OTTAWA (CP)—What's wrong with an MP and a representative of an opposing political party discussing the MP's future election expenses during a chat about the MP changing party affiliation?

This question is getting a lot of attention these days. It is nearly always asked with the accompanying statement that election expenses are legally recognized by the Canada Election Act.

The answer seems to be that there's nothing wrong—provided the MP isn't being offered money or other advantage to promote anything being transacted in Parliament or to be transacted there.

That's the situation under the Commons rules. Under the criminal Code, the same answer is given—provided the situation doesn't involve anything covered under Section 100 which states:

"Everyone who gives or offers corruptly to a person who holds a judicial office, or is a member of the Parliament of Canada or of a legislature, any money, valuable consideration, office, place or employment in respect of anything done or omitted to be done or omitted by him in his official capacity for himself or another person, is guilty of an indictable offence and is liable to imprisonment for 14 years."

The important aspects are these—was money or advantage offered to promote anything before Parliament, and was it offered an MP to do or not to do anything in his official capacity to him?

The whole subject is under new scrutiny with the Commons' decision to have its privileges committee investigate the allegation of Gerard Girouard (Lapointe) about his he was invited to switch to the Liberal from the Social Credit party with the benefit of an election campaign fund.

Mr. Girouard, who subsequently switched to the Conservative party, has said his refusal to switch party was meant in any way to suggest bribery.

Both men are expected to get the chance to clear their names in their testimony under oath to the committee. There are four Liberal MPs—Maurice Moreau (York-Scarborough), Herb Gray (Windsor West), Lucien McIlraith (Lincoln) and Joe Macaluso (Hamilton East) — who were present at the Girouard-Davey meeting.

Yet, the question, of possible corruption persists in discussions here of the Girouard allegations.

Partly it seems to stem from the fact that Mr. Girouard was a member of one of four opposition parties and his vote might help the minority government.

It's a situation which might tempt a party to buy support to prevent defeat or to help get its legislation through the Commons.

Partly the question of wrongdoing persists because, near among MPs, fear that the public may refuse to believe a distinction between properties that could skirt the question of financing the next election and the question of what an MP has referred to as attempted bribery.

Many MPs figure the public is ready to believe the worst about politics and politicians. Confidence in the political institution of Parliament is the ultimate sufferer from such situations.

That might be enough to prompt them to dismiss the whole matter as a misunderstanding if it weren't for the nagging worry that someone will holler "whitewash."

So committee members seem ready to see a lot more than just party advantage or disadvantage in the inquiry.

BALLOONIST CLAIMS RECORD — Tracy Barner, of suburban Minneapolis, climbs into his gondola just moments before making a balloon flight early Sunday, in which he claims he broke seven altitude records. Floating in his home-made rig, including the balloon, he landed at Mondovi, Wis., after hitting an unofficial altitude of 37,000 feet. The world record is held by Boris Nevernov of Russia who reached 23,238 feet in 1940. (AP Wirephoto)

71 Die as U.S. Military Plane Crashes at Air Base at Manila

MANILA (AP)—A U.S. military air transport plane crashed at Clark Air Base and the air force said 71 of the 83 persons on board were killed.

The plane, a C-135 jet, crashed less than half a mile from the runway, a spokesman said.

"The present confirmed count from the hospital is 12 survivors," he said.

There were 73 passengers and 10 crew members on board.

The big four - jet transport capable of carrying 128 persons crashed at about 7:15 p.m. Manila time in a level, uncultivated area of dirt and grass, the spokesman said.

There was no sign of distress before the crash and the plane "just didn't make the runway," he added.

Most of the 12 survivors were "in pretty bad shape," he said.

Clark air base, about 60 miles north of Manila, is the main U.S. Air Force base in Southeast Asia. It is headquarters of the 13th Air Force and serves as a principal shuttle point for supplying American forces in South Viet Nam.

The plane was attached to the 64th Air Transport Squadron of Travis Air Force Base. A spokesman there said it left the base at 9 a.m. Pacific time for The Philippines and stopped at Hickam.

The worst air disaster thus far this year occurred March 1 when 85 persons died in the crash of a plane into a mountain peak overlooking Lake Tahoe, Nev., during a snowstorm.

Just one day before a British airliner crashed in the Alps near Innsbruck, Austria, killing 83.

The crash at Clark Air Field

Seeking Clues In Crash

CONCORD, Calif. (AP)—"Shoal," the one clear word transmitted from an airliner before it crashed, has top-level investigators searching for clues to the death of 44 persons aboard, one of them a passenger informed sources said carried a new insurance policy and a gun.

Twenty-five Civil Aeronautics Board officials sought to learn if the diving crash Thursday was caused by any physical incapacity of the crew.

Agents of the FBI looked into the possibility of crime aboard the plane.

Neither agency would comment while the investigation was under way. But there were these developments:

1. The C.A.B. played for reporters a tape recording of a garbled radio transmission from the pilot's compartment of the Pacific Air Lines Fairchild F-27 moments before it plunged nose first into the green hills near here on a flight from Reno to San Francisco.

Some heard the lines as: "I've been shot! I've been shot! Oh my God, help!" Others didn't read it that way. But all agreed they heard the word "shot."

PISTOL WAS FIRED

2. Washington sources said the FBI established that a revolver found in the wreckage had just been fired six times. The sources also said the FBI had traced ownership of the .357 Smith and Wesson magnum revolver to 37-year-old passenger Frank Gonzales of San Francisco, a sometimes waiter and most recently a warehouseman.

Gale-Force Winds Blamed For Heavy Damage in Ont.

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Gale - force winds swept through most of southern Ontario during the weekend and were blamed for at least two drownings, the sinking of two empty car ferries and a variety of other damage.

From all sections there were reports of falling tree limbs, snapped hydro lines, broken antenna, beet, lakefront antennas and overturned garbage cans.

The victims were an Ottawa man drowned in the rescue of his 11-year-old son, who abandoned his surfboard in high waves in White Lake near Arnprior, and a United States tourist whose boat capsized in Dalhousie Lake near Perth.

The ferries, under tow, sank in Lake Huron about 90 miles north of Sarnia when caught in the tail end of a killer tornado that hit southern Michigan Friday night.

The James W. Curran and the Hon. MacPhail, were bound for Kingston from Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., and were to be used by the department of highways between Wolfe Island and the mainland at Kingston.

At Petawawa, two boys on a makeshift raft were blown into the Ottawa and landed on the Quebec side.

Three Toronto yachtsmen were rescued by Toronto harbor police after their 14-foot dinghy was upset in high waves. A small car was blown over on the Toronto section of Highway 401 but its occupant escaped serious injury.

Winds gusted to 62 miles an hour on Toronto Island and reached 86 miles an hour in other parts of the city.

Gusts up to 80 miles an hour were reported in Windsor, blow-

Supports Arabs Against Israel In Cairo Speech

Hits at 'Foreign Bases' In Cyprus and at Aden

CAIRO (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev gave his support to the Arab world today in its opposition to diversion of the Jordan River plans by Israel.

Speaking to the United Arab Republic's one-party National Assembly, Khrushchev said Israel planned to "rob the Arab world of its own water."

Khrushchev put on Israel to implement United Nations resolutions on Palestine, which would reduce Israel's present frontiers.

Khrushchev arrived in Egypt Saturday for a 16-day visit, the first by a Russian leader to Africa.

The assembly rose en masse in boisterous cheering at Khrushchev's new declaration of support for the Arabs.

The Israelis have announced that some time this summer they will begin diverting waters of the Jordan to irrigate the Negev desert. The Arabs have threatened counter-action to cut off the headquarters of the Jordan.

ATTACKS BRITISH

The 70-year-old Premier also assailed British occupation of military bases in Cyprus and Aden. His government supports what "just and reasonable" demands of local populations for the evacuation of these and all other foreign bases, the Soviet leader said.

The presence of foreign armies is the source of danger, tension and disputes between countries," Khrushchev added.

Khrushchev warned the assembly against "imperialist stooges" he said the colonial powers left behind when they gave up their rule in Africa.

He charged that the Western powers were trying to maintain their influence through "stooges brought up and trained by the imperialists."

REFERS TO CHINESE

In a veiled attack on Communist Chinese efforts to assume leadership in Africa and Asia, Khrushchev said "the unity of all revolutionary forces in the world . . . cannot be built on a foundation planted by blocs based on color and races." Moscow has accused the Chinese of trying to bar the Soviet Union from Africa and Asian councils on racial grounds.

Nasser put on a display of pageantry reminiscent of a Hollywood extravaganza for his guest Sunday night.

Dressed in high spirits, Khrushchev predicted "total victory" over the forces of imperialism and colonialism.

Sandys Will Go To Aden For Talks

By IBRAHIM NOORI

ADEN (Reuters) — British Commonwealth Secretary Duncan Sandys arrived here by plane today from London to review the combined British-Arab operation against dissident tribal warriors calling themselves the Red Wolves of Radfan, a mountain area north of here.

He also was expected to deal with the political side of the operation and the internal political problems facing Aden and the South Arabian Federation.

Sandys also was likely to assess the possibility of a new approach to the United Nations for demarcating the disputed border with Yemen.

The federal and Aden governments are at loggerheads over serious constitutional problems arising from the move of the British colony with the federation in January, 1963.

One dispute is over which should get the rent from the British military bases here.

MOVE EQUIPMENT

In the Radfan Mountains, helicopters Sunday began airlifting more British troops and for forward troops in the area of Wadi (valley) Taym, seven miles east of the British-Arab Force (BAF) headquarters at Thumeir where hundreds of Red Wolves were known to be lying in wait.

Fifteen men of Britain's Royal Horse Artillery were moved by helicopter to Wadi Ataaba Bazir.

Maj. Anthony Stagg, regimental commander, said the move brought 1,000 yards of Wadi Taym within range of their two 150-millimetre howitzers.

Peter Hinchcliff, assistant adviser from the British high commission attached to Radfore, said about 300 tribesmen were fortifying the 2,800-foot Bakri Hazlah ridge overlooking Wadi Taym to tempt British forces into attacking them.

"But we've got moving now," he stated.

Brig. R. L. Hargreave, commander of the combined forces, told two South Arabian federal ministers "we are now in a position to be able to exert pressure on the dissidents to obey your government."

Southeast Michigan Area Faces Huge Construction Task

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich. (AP)—Disaster relief specialists worked at top speed today in the effort to get tornado-stricken Chesterfield Township back on its feet.

The southeast Michigan area, where a twister killed nine persons and injured hundreds Friday, faced a huge reconstruction task.

Governor George W. Romney, visiting the scene Sunday for a third time, said the loss might run as high as $5,000,000.

As 300 National Guardsmen and police and other law authorities continued patrolling the area off Anchor Bay, home owners hunted for lost belongings.

Looters were not permitted to go to their wrecked dwellings because of dangerous conditions.

State Police Capt. Fred Davids said one devastated section of the battered township "looks like Hiroshima."

A firm threat meanwhile was reported and police took precautions.

Davids said the threat came from looters from bottled gas systems at damaged or destroyed cottages and houses and from gasoline in the tanks of motor boats.

The tornado smashed at boats docked along the bayside as well as homes.

A search continued for possible more victims.

Davids said there had been no reports of missing persons but that this could not be relied on completely.

"It is conceivable," he said, "that a couple or a family could have been wiped out and there is no one left to make a report on it."

After a tour of the area with federal and state representatives, Romney said the township could not qualify for federal disaster aid.

Most of the damage was to residential or other private property. Only restrictive federal disaster aid to instances where public buildings and public services have been dealt great harm.

The Small Business Administration planned to set up an office in a school house to accept applications for low-interest federal loans to aid rebuilding by businessmen and home owners.

NATO Target of Demonstrators At Delayed May Day in Cyprus

NICOSIA (AP)—Thousands of Greek-Cypriot workers parading in the island's main town to celebrate May Day used the occasion to demonstrate against NATO and demand full independence for Cyprus.

The centerpiece of the Nicosia parade was a large float depicting a map of Cyprus embroiled in the tentacles of a huge, dying octopus identified as NATO .The monster had been mortally wounded by a peasant man and woman in national costume wielding a scythe and pitchfork, placard read "NATO octopus you will not have your way over Cyprus."

May Day celebrations were postponed until Sunday as May 1 this year was the Greek Orthodox Good Friday, traditionally a day of mourning.

Greek-Cypriot Labor Minister Tassos Papadopoulos said during the May Day rally here, said Cyprus was currently engaged in a struggle for self-determination and fulfillment of its independence. He told a crowd of many thousand that the Zurich agreement under which Cyprus gained its conditional freedom from colonialism in 1959 and which the Greeks claim gave the Turkish minority super privileges, was "only a stage for a fresh start."

He added that the time has now come for that start.

Papadopoulos continued: "The time has come for Turkish-Cypriots and other foreign ers, the mighty of the world and those who became self-appointed arbiters of he fate of our people, to realize that this soil they tread on, this Holy Land, is Greek land; it belongs to us, and the Greeks who are the overwhelming majority of the people will decide in freedom the future of our country."

Diseased Trees Come Croppers In High Wind

Disease weakened trees came a cropper in the city Saturday as gale force winds swept into the area, bringing the tail end of the hurricane which struck earlier in the Michigan area.

Traffic on Station Street at the upper bridge was interrupted during the afternoon as the limb of a big riverside tree crashed across the boulevard lane onto the traffic island.

Shortly before noon John Falls, Rider, escaped injury when a heavy limb fell on his car in the alleyway. Minutes later a big soft maple tree outside crashed onto the car smashing it to the ground.

And on the East Hill the limb of a tree smashed into the roof of a house at 185 Albert Street.

Also a number of trees in private property were damaged by the wind, one along Bridge Street West, where a heavy limb dropped onto a house.

And in the downtown area loose tar paper sailed along Front Street as the wind apparently ripped the roof away from some nearby building.

Thousands of African Black Families Finding New Life In Model Twp. of Soweto

Associated Press writer Amanda Lee Koyle has been allowed to get special government authorization to visit a model African township near Johannesburg, South Africa. The Bantu government officials hoped to show the contrasts between the model community and a neighboring slum area. His report follows.

By DENNIS LEE ROYLE

JOHANNESBURG (AP) — Thousands of African (black) families, apparently more interested in a leak-proof roof over their heads than in arguing black - white political issues, have found a new life in the model township of Soweto.

This multi-million-dollar project is part of white South Africa's answer to those who believe that Africans in this racially separated republic all live in mud huts.

Soweto does do. But in Soweto (South Western Township), fourth-largest city in South Africa and the biggest urban concentration of African people in the republic, nearly 300,000 Africans have escaped the colonial slum conditions to modern society, seven miles from the bustling skyscraper jungle of Johannesburg.

The project is not considered a socialistic heaven. Some apartheid critics by opponents of the policy in the United Nations and elsewhere, but the government views the community as a keystone in its drive for separate development of the races.

NO WHITES ALLOWED

Soweto has 24 sprawling suburbs extending over an area of 36 square miles. No whites are allowed to enter without a special permit and no white may own land or carry on any form of business in this segregated area.

A government official said:

"Frankly, the African living in this area would be exploited by white and colored (mixed blood) businessmen if they were allowed to operate. High-pressure salesmanship by outsiders would leave little chance for the African businessman to compete. Residents would be procured into buying goods which they do not require and can ill afford."

During the last decade 58,000 permanent homes have been erected and more than $65,800,000 has been spent on development and 1,000 shop-piece community.

Almost 7,000 houses costing $360 each have been purchased by Africans, with payments extended over 20 years. The others are rented to the occupants. They pay between the equivalent of $2.80 and $11.20 monthly rent.

SOME HAVE SERVANTS

More than 2,000 dwellings, comparable to those seen in the upper - class white residential districts of Johannesburg, have been privately built by wealthy Africans. Some have servants' quarters and garages. Prices range from $6,800 to $36,000.

Three stadiums seat 30,000 people and 70 tennis fields, 10 basketball courts, swimming pools, cycle tracks, tennis courts and tracks give Soweto people athletic facilities unequalled anywhere in black Africa.

There are 114 schools for the 70,000 children. Many day nurseries cater to children of higher-income families.

Nestling on the boundary of this model African township is the smelly slum of Pimville, home of 24,000 Africans.

Ragged, barefoot children aloah through muddy undrained streets amid the — roofed huts, carrying water from a communal tap which serves hundreds of people.

Tilting, tumbling one - room shacks house as many as 10 persons, huddled together in appalling squalor, where insufficient space forces them to take their meals in the dusty street or backyard.

Said the government guide: "These are the worst slums and we admit it, but gradually they are being erased. It will take time, money and patience but the effort is being made."

Pravda Says Marx and Lenin Spoke for Different Epoch

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Communist party said in effect today that some of the words of Marx, Engels and Lenin—the fathers of modern communism —are out of date.

The second of a series of major policy statements on the rift in the Communist world, the party organ Pravda accused the Red China of "plucking out quotations from works by Marx, Engels and Lenin which belong to another epoch and deal with a different historical situation."

The Chinese imagine Marxism as a set of unchangeable truths that Communists should follow the same way church workers follow the Old and New Testaments, Pravda added.

One of Peking's major criticisms of Premier Khrushchev's policies is that they betray the original tenets of Marxism.

CALLS FOR UNITY

Pravda opened the series of articles Sunday by calling for unity of all Communist parties with no single party dominating the others. The Soviet party has willingly surrendered its leading role, Pravda said.

In the second statement today, Pravda said the Chinese had "an original concept of socialism . . . without developed industry, without democracy, legality or respect for the right of personality, and with perpetuating poverty and privations for the working masses."

He was a member of St. Paul's United Church at Stirling, the Independent Order of Oddfellows Lodge A.F. and A.M. No. 7, and also belonged to the Army, Navy and Airforce Veterans in Belleville.

Besides his parents he is survived by his wife, the former Mary Hannora Long, and a daughter Miss Sharon Scott, at home.

The funeral will be held Wednesday from Duffin's Funeral Home to St. Andrews Presbyterian Church with interment in Stirling Cemetery.

EDWARD HARPER (TED) BROAD

The funeral of Edward Harper (Ted) Broad was held from the John R. Bush Funeral Home to Trenton United Church on Sunday. The service in the church and the committal rites at Belleville Cemetery were conducted by Rev. Morgan G. McFarlane.

Pall bearers were Ronald Smith, Donald Grase, John Sweet, Arthur Tufts, Merle Robinson and John O'Connor.

"It is for such socialism that millions of working people throughout the world are now carrying on the fight?" Pravda asked.

Pravda said the Red Chinese did not want the underdeveloped nations to turn to the new tasks that face them in economic independence, overcoming centuries of backwardness and finding a non-capitalist way of development.

HITS STAND

Instead, Peking urges only further struggle and fighting, although the Chinese leaders could not explain against whom this fight should be directed now in such countries as Algeria, Mali, Ghana, Burma and others," Pravda said.

The statement charged that the Chinese policy means "rejection of the new mighty levers of revolutionary transformation of the world."

Many Trees Uprooted by Heavy Winds

TRENTON — High winds in Trenton Saturday night caused many trees to be blown over and uprooted in some cases. No appreciable damage to buildings was reported.

One large tree, uprooted at the corner of Sidney and Francis Sts., knocked over a telephone pole.

Another three, on Baptiste St., fell across hydro wires.

$800 DAMAGE

Damage, estimated at $800, was caused Saturday night, when a car, driven by Mrs. Ida Leger, 476 Front St., Trenton, went out of control on Front St. north near O'Malley's Store, veered off the road into the yard at 533 Front St., slammed into the doors of a double garage and struck a car parked in the garage. Mrs. Leger was thrown out through the driver's door which came open as the vehicle started off the road. He was bruised and shaken up. $30,000 Loss In Service Station Fire

TRENTON—Fire, thought to have started in welding equipment Saturday night destroyed the service station on Trent St. in Frankford, owned by Jim Johns. A workman was using the equipment to repair a truck in the garage when an explosion occurred. In minutes, the whole building was ablaze. Destroyed in the fire was an estimated $15,000 - $20,000 worth of stock and repair equipment. The building itself was valued at $10,000. Two trucks were backed out of the garage soon after the fire broke out.

Firemen from Frankford and Sater's Point fought the blaze for more than three hours.

SEVEN COWS BURNED

Fire of undetermined origin last night levelled a barn and garage at Smithfield, owned by Harold Smith. Destroyed in the barn fire were seven head of Holstein cattle. A thoroughbred stallion, owned by Lorne Cole of Hilton, and housed in the barn, managed to escape the blaze under its own power after attempts by Smith to free the animal failed.

The barn destroyed in the fire was milking and machinery. The fire spread to an orchard near the barn but the blaze was contained here by men from the Brighton Fire Department.

Merely by Showing up For Work, Non-Whites Cause Concern in U.S. Construction

By RICHARD F. WHALEN

NEW YORK (AP) — Merely by showing up for work four Negro men have aroused the concern of the multi-billion dollar United States construction industry and engaged the peace-making efforts of President Johnson.

The reason. One is a Negro and the other three are Puerto Ricans.

A $25,000,000 New York City produce terminal going up in the Bronx is the scenario of a struggle to crack union barriers against Negroes in the skilled building trades.

At stake is the health of the construction industry which is of major importance to the country's economy.

Each day for seven days, the four men have reported for work and 41 white union plumbers have refused to pick up their tools. Plumbing work has stopped.

President Johnson has assigned Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz to take a hand in the dispute. Wirtz has talked with George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO and international president of the Plumbers Union.

CAUGHT IN MIDDLE

Caught in the middle is a perplexed plumbing contractor, Ralph Astrove. When his company won a $1,400,000 contract on the terminal, a New York commission advised him it was visible proof he was willing to hire without regard to race, color or creed.

The new civil rights tactic of putting the employer on the spot uses the Taft-Hartley labor law's provision upholding the employer's rights to hire any skilled worker, with the question of union membership to follow.

The New York City Commission on Human Rights reminded Astrove of the anti-discrimination clause.

He hired one Negro and three Puerto Rican plumbers when the commission sent him. None is a union member. All claim the union gave them a runaround.

But when the four showed up for work, the walkout began.

Some racial slurs were shouted that first day, but since then union plumbers have vehemently denied any racial slurs.

The city's department of public works, which is building the produce market, says all work may have to stop this week unless the plumbers get back to work.

Coming Events

Merely by showing up for work, four men have aroused the concern of the multi-billion dollar United States construction industry and engaged the peace-making efforts of President Johnson.

The reason. One is a Negro and the other three are Puerto Ricans.

A $25,000,000 New York City produce terminal going up in the Bronx is the scenario of a struggle to crack union barriers against Negroes in the skilled building trades.

At stake is the health of the construction industry which is of major importance to the country's economy.

Each day for seven days, the four men have reported for work and 41 white union plumbers have refused to pick up their tools. Plumbing work has stopped.

President Johnson has assigned Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz to take a hand in the dispute. Wirtz has talked with George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO and international president of the Plumbers Union.

CAUGHT IN MIDDLE

Caught in the middle is a perplexed plumbing contractor, Ralph Astrove. When his company won a $1,400,000 contract on the terminal, a New York commission advised him it was visible proof he was willing to hire without regard to race, color or creed.

The new civil rights tactic of putting the employer on the spot uses the Taft-Hartley labor law's provision upholding the employer's rights to hire any skilled worker, with the question of union membership to follow.

The New York City Commission on Human Rights reminded Astrove of the anti-discrimination clause.

He hired one Negro and three Puerto Rican plumbers when the commission sent him. None is a union member. All claim the union gave them a runaround.

But when the four showed up for work, the walkout began.

Some racial slurs were shouted that first day, but since then union plumbers have vehemently denied any racial slurs.

The city's department of public works, which is building the produce market, says all work may have to stop this week unless the plumbers get back to work.

Last Nov. 18 the convention here, the AFL-CIO, passed a strong resolution urging its members to fight racial discrimination everywhere.

MEANY APPLIES PRESSURE

Meany, once a member of Local No. 2, the one involved, has put pressure on it to come up with a solution.

Jack Cohen, the local president, has not been available for comment.

The commission says that there are only 18 non-whites among the 4,100 members of the local.

Union plumbers at the construction site blame civil rights groups and the commission for using the desire of the four newcomers to get into the union to "make a case" or "stir things up."

One said: "You're just hurting everyone—and most of all the contractor and he's the guy who's least to blame."

The union would identify himself, but must had much to say about the situation.

Others thought the union men had any objection to working with Negroes or Puerto Ricans, a bespectacled father of five answered:

"Hell, yes! I make a damn bit of difference. You ever see a white man come around here without a union card looking for a job? Why don't they go around here without a union card looking for a job? Why don't they go around to the union headquarters, join the apprenticeship program like everyone else. They're no plumbers. They probably haven't even had the nerve. All they do is crying to the commission and making a case out of it.

'WHY SHOULD WE'

"Why should we let them in? Where were they 35 years ago when we fought for better conditions. They want to come in at the top now!"

The 1947 Taft-Hartley law Astrove can hire qualified nonunion men. It is traditional, however, that they join the union within 30 days.

Bernard Kilman, 44, the Negro, rejects the argument that they should start as apprentices.

"We were hired as plumbers by Mr. Astrove. Now, the union's argument that we're not plumbers is not. If they don't won't let us work beside a plumber for an hour or a day or a week. Then, the union plumber can tell us we need training or whatever, but how does he know now?"

Isaac Borges, 43, father of five, was a plumber for 23 years here and in Puerto Rico, says:

"When I went to the union to apply for membership, they said: 'Well, first you have to go and get a job in a union shop and then come back.' So I went to a union shop and I was told: 'We don't have to be a member of the union, so get your membership.' So—what can you do? You work together to keep you out."

Borges said he makes $100 to $125 a week in non-union work. Union plumbers get $4.95 an hour plus benefits, or more than $200 a week.

PREDICTS DENTAL PLAN

TORONTO (CP) — Dr. Wesley J. Dunn, registrar-secretary of the Royal College of Dental Surgeons, says it will be only a matter of time before dental insurance will be offered Ontario residents along the same lines as the medical insurance plan now being set up.

Dr. Dunn said Saturday the dental profession has approved the principle of compulsory health insurance if it provides both preventative and treatment services and is fair to patient and dentist.

Robert Temple Honored by Czech Assoc.

TORONTO (CP) — Stanislaus Klouda, 60, was reunited from Czechoslovakia carrying his five-year-old daughter on his back, watched happily Saturday as Robert Temple, Liberal member of Parliament from Belleville, was honored at the national convention of the Czechoslovak National Association of Canada.

Honorary memberships were awarded to Mr. Temple, George Kerr, member of the provincial legislature for Burlington, who also helped reunite a family, and posthumously to United States President John F. Kennedy.

In 1951, Klouda, a political refugee, went back to his homeland from Germany in an effort to bring out his family. With his daughter riding piggyback, he made it, but a border guard stopped his wife. She was sentenced to 10 years in a concentration camp.

His wife, Maria, was determined to rejoin her family, however, and escaped.

In 1962, his wife went back to see her critically-ill mother. When she applied for an exit visa, the Czechoslovakian authorities said she would have to serve the rest of her 10-year sentence.

But through the efforts of Mr. Temple and External Affairs Minister Martin, she was home within eight days.

Think Caouette Losing Grip On Creditistes

QUEBEC (CP)—Political observers here are beginning to wonder if another blow has been struck at Real Caouette's once firm hold on Le Ralliement des Creditistes, a Quebec offshoot of the Social Credit party.

The question was raised by the actions of a group apparently unable to get Le Ralliement into provincial politics. Mr. Caouette has always maintained that the Social Credit theory can only be applied at the federal level and that going into provincial politics is useless as long as Social Credit doesn't hold power at Ottawa.

He has openly fought previous efforts to get the party into the provincial field, but he has not publicly denounced the latest development.

His right hand man, Laurent Legault, announced last week-end the party will definitely contest the next provincial elections, generally expected in 1966.

But the question of who will be party leader already is reported to be causing controversy, if not division, in party ranks.

Good Diplomats

Canadians Trained to See Viewpoint of Somebody Else South Hastings Liberals Told

Canadians have a national faculty for international diplomatic accomplishment, Transport Minister J. W. Pickersgill said here Saturday night.

The historic reason he told the annual meeting of Hastings South Liberals, were rooted in the fact that Canada had accustomed itself to making "accommodations with our neighbors."

"We've trained ourselves and bred into ourselves this curious faculty of trying to see the viewpoint of somebody else."

"It's got to be in us. It's part of our spiritual, moral and political makeup," he told the meeting at the Riverside Centre. "I often think that maybe it's the only thing that's distinctive about we Canadians."

During his speech Mr. Pickersgill appealed for wider understanding of problems in Quebec while accusing the late Premier Duplessis of heading one "of the most reactionary governments in the free world."

The remarks climaxed a speech that reviewed the state of the nation since the Liberal party resumed office last year. They also came at the end of a visit for Mr. Pickersgill.

Flying into gale-force winds, the Minister picked up Robert Temple, MP South Hastings at Toronto's Island airport, earlier in the day. (Mr. Temple earlier had been honored by the Czech National Association.) The party then flew on to Trenton for a discussion with the town's council — notably on the Trenton Bridge — then to Belleville for a meeting with the city's industrial commission in the Hotel Quinte.

Immediately after the hotel meeting he was driven to Toronto to the meeting at the Kiwanis Centre, anxious to conclude speaking in time to — and for good reason. Department of Transport regulations demanded his aircraft be in the air by 10 p.m.

WHOLE ASPECT CHANGED

However, in the interim — after the general business of the meeting had been dispensed with — Mr. Pickersgill spoke for a good half-hour.

In the past year, under Liberal government, he claimed, "the whole aspect of things in Canada has changed once more. A year ago, I believe, almost all Canadians had very grave doubts about the future."

Singling out the drop in unemployment for specific mention, he added: "Our main fight is that, though the Pearson government has not done everything right, it has done most things pretty well."

"It has created the impression once again that in the government in Ottawa there is a sense of direction.

"We have got the country — the affairs of the country — in the direction they ought to be going; toward renewed growth, toward renewed development, toward new goals."

Federal-provincial relations also had been bettered, he said, after the Diefenbaker government. "The plain fact is," claimed Mr.-Pickersgill, "that relations between Ottawa and the provinces were just about as bad as they could have been."

This applied particularly during "the later years, the last three years that Mr. Diefenbaker was Prime Minister."

He said it required a "great deal of statesmanship to get the relationship back on a proper basis."

SHOULD MAKE ALLOWANCES

While speaking on the topic of federal-provincial affairs Mr. Pickersgill said allowances should be made for Quebec. Under the Duplessis government the province was "held back by one of the most reactionary governments in the free world."

Its emergence has been accompanied by "some excesses — some of them have gone too far . . . some of them have said silly things . . . some have done awful things . . ."

Yet, he reminded the meeting, the province's own courts were now trying those accused of extremist activities.

"But for the most of these people they are just catching up with the twentieth century and in doing so it is creating some problems for the country."

Confederation he compared to a marriage designed to endure for all time.

"And it's going to endure for all time. Because if it doesn't there is no future for either of us."

Yet, Mr. Pickersgill warned, "it's never going to be static and automatic. It's always going to require statesmanship.

NO PICNIC IN CYPRUS

But, said Mr. Pickersgill, switching to international topics, domestic harmony and economic progress "won't, any of it, amount to anything if we let this world drift into another war—a war the end of which no one can ever imagine, much less foresee."

Such an eventuality reared it self in the Cyprus crisis in which Canada took the lead in averting possible war between Greece and Turkey.

Had Canada not done so "it would have been a terrible disaster—how terrible we can't even say."

"This is not any Sunday school picnic, this business in Cyprus."

He called Canada's UN mission "that terrible business fraught with the most awful dangers and not promising any certainty of success. All we can do is hope and pray."

Yet, aside from the "curious faculty" Canadians possessed for diplomatic roles, there was also the personality of Prime Minister Pearson whom Mr. Pickersgill called the "greatest single human asset there is in the free world today."

Party difference aside, he said, "I think that in this year that he has been Prime Minister he has demonstrated the capability for leadership right across the board—that will make him one of the greatest leaders one of the greatest Prime Ministers we have ever had in this country."

Charles Bates, Shannonville, Heads Liberals

A Shannonville-district farmer was elected president of the Hastings South Liberal Association Saturday.

Charles Bates was unanimously declared successor to Roy Sills, colorful president of the association for two terms.

Other members of the executive are:

Vice-presidents, Robert Ransome, Trenton; Wall Partridge, Belleville; Mrs. Grace Radcliffe, Trenton, Mrs. Effie McCabe, Jack Rashotte, Belleville.

Treasurer elected was Reg Dunham of Tweed and the secretary Doug Stork, Belleville.

Immediately after the hotel meeting he was driven to Toronto to the meeting at the Kiwanis Centre, anxious to conclude speaking in time to — and for good reason. Department of Transport regulations demanded his aircraft be in the air by 10 p.m.

Bigger Slice of Defence Dollar Needed for Renewing Equipment Says Member

OTTAWA—"A bigger slice of Canada's defence dollar must be diverted to renewing equipment of the armed services if the nation's defence complex is to have any significance, Robert Temple, MP Hastings South, told the Commons late Friday.

As government spokesman on the second reading of the bill approving the defence White Paper, Mr. Temple noted that funds devoted for new service equipment had diminished in 12 years from 42 percent to 13 percent.

If the trend was allowed to continue "we will have a well-dressed and well-paid force equal to anything in the world, in that respect but having no new equipment whatsoever."

Noting proposals for a mobile strike force, which he had been urging for the past 10 months — the Liberal spokesman said it made "very good sense" since Canada was determined to pay a full role in free world defence whether in NATO or the UN.

In order to play this role, Canada must have a fast-moving, well-armed force capable at striking out or containing thrusts they were.

An instance was Canada's UN role in Cyprus, he told the Commons.

SPECIAL MENTION MADE

The very fact that we were able to move our troops to Cyprus within 48 hours of Parliament approving such a move spoke well for the high degree of preparedness of both the army and the RCAF.

He singled out the airforce's Transport Command at Trenton headquarters base is in his constituency — for special mention in the Cyprus airlift.

Yet the mission pointed to other possible problems.

The speed of the Cyprus operation was due to the embattled island's modern air facilities.

"What would happen if our force for the keeping of the peace had to be sent to a country which did not have these modern airstrips?" he queried.

Present transport operations hinged on the RCAF maintaining four-engine Yukon.

However, the White Paper calls for an increased number of "air-truck" craft capable of a short take off and landing.

Urging swift passage of the bill, Mr. Temple said that the defence committee in the past year — on a non-partisan basis — had done "an excellent job for Canada."

City Firemen Spent Fairly Quiet Weekend

City firemen spent a fairly quiet weekend. At 12.55 a.m. Saturday they were called to the residence of A. Callaghan on the 5th of Sydenhaga, where a fire broke out in the wall of their home.

Firemen were able to save the building and only a small amount of damage was caused.

At 8.12 p.m. Saturday night Fire Chief Gerald Vance answered a mutual aid call to Frankford, where he acted as co-ordinator. The Batawa fire department was sent to the scene of a garage fire in Frankford.

A foam truck from the RCAF station in Trenton was also sent to the scene.

PREHISTORIC CAVE

TOULOUSE (AP) — A prehistoric cave adorned with drawings of mammoths, antelopes, a bison and a deer wounded by an arrow has been discovered in southwest France. Archeologist Louis Merec says the large underground grotto probably dates from a fiercely cold age.

Cried „No Wolf" too Often

The U.S. is now suffering the penalty of crying "No wolf" too often.

Washington is full of rumors that Cuban exiles are hatching a new effort to oust Fidel Castro by force. U.S. officials deny all knowledge of any such project. But who believes them? "All reports of unusual aircraft and troop movement in southern regions (of the U.S.) have been denied," writes Harold Morrison, Canadian Press correspondent in Washington. Then he adds—"just as they were denied prior to the 1961 (Bay of Pigs) and 1962 (missile) crises."

We are thus left to guess whether or not there is anything concrete behind the rumors. Having once been deceived into placing credence in U.S.-denied or invasion plans, newspaper readers are now twice shy.

The recent increase in Russian warnings to the U.S. to keep its hands off Cuba may be interpreted by some as indicating that the Russians, who are not likely to be uninformed about any major program involving Cuba, are convinced that something is afoot. But these warnings may just as easily be the product of a real Russian uneasiness over the complications which could arise from any attempt by Castro effectively to forbid U.S. reconnaissance planes access to Cuban skies.

Paradoxically enough, the withdrawal of Russian forces from Cuba, far from easing tensions, appears to be in the process of creating a new crisis. While the Russians were in control, they were very careful not to provoke the U.S. On its part, the U.S. also appears to have behaved with greater caution because of the presence of the Russians.

It is to be hoped that the Johnson Administration will heed the advice of Senator Fulbright, chairman of the Senate's foreign relations committee, who holds that the U.S. is showing undue concern over the Cuban situation. Those who like to worry, though, will find additional reason for concern in the fact that this new fuss of aggressive action against Castro comes at a time when Fulbright is on a visit to Europe, attempting to assist in settling the Cyprus problem. Perhaps he knows what's coming.

Unwise Diversion?

Miss Marion Royce is director of the women's bureau of the Federal Department of Labor.

As such, we presume, her duties include endeavoring to get the most out of the womanpower of the nation. It was apparently with this in view that she recently said in an address at Montreal that women are not properly exploiting their career opportunities, other than those in the nursing and teaching professions.

Now it so happens that these two professions, far from being over-crowded, are plagued by a shortage of what appears to be increasing rather than diminishing. Moreover, more people are entering these fields, but projections of future needs indicates that severe shortages of trained personnel will almost certainly face us in the future.

One wonders whether Miss Royce is really helping women when she endeavors to divert them from fields in which they have already well established themselves and where their services will be badly needed in the coming years.

There is something to be said for the argument that it does not benefit the community if some talented women find themselves in jobs which they dislike, merely because it has become customary to regard them as particularly suited for women.

Still, before reducing the proportion of women going into the nursing and teaching professions, would it not be advisable to attempt to persuade more men to enter these fields, so that they can help take up the slack? There is little doubt but that a higher proportion of men in the teaching profession would prove beneficial, particularly if the increase in male teachers were in the elementary schools. A few men are now turning to nursing, but except in special cases it will likely be many years before the majority of those requiring nursing care lose a preference for women nurses.

Meanwhile, for the sake of our schools and our hospitals, of students and the sick, we hope Miss Royce does not make too much headway in persuading women to turn their attention to other professions.

We have to choose, and for my part I think it less evil that some criminals should escape than that the government should play an ignoble part.—Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes in a dissenting opinion on admissibility of wire-tapping evidence, 1927.

'Proud Canadian' Asked Questions

Editor,
Ontario, Intelligencer.

Your correspondent who signs herself "Proud Canadian Mrs. Princeton" asks the question, "Does Canada have anything strictly Canadian?" Yes Mrs. P. Canada has men, women and children who are strictly Canadian. They may be found on the reservations in different parts of the country. Proud Canadians like you Mrs. P. call them Indians.

I would like to ask you, Proud Canadian. What are you proud of? Surely not of your letter in which you reject the flags under which our boys fought and died in two world wars. You reject our national anthem and our Queen, you reject the title Royal as in the RCAF or in anything else! Even the ten-year-old boy you mention, especially if he happens to be a Boy Scout is proud of all those things. And so I repeat Mrs. P. What are you proud of?

Yours truly,
Thos. Taylor.

Compliments Writer On Article on Fire

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

I would like to express my compliments to the reporter on your staff who was responsible for the article in Wednesday's paper on the fire at Wallbridge.

I, too, was at the fire, and am very pleased that someone else was aware of the suffering and death this fire was causing to so many dumb and helpless creatures.

The spectacle of this incident was indeed something to behold, and I hope that all those who witnessed the event have the opportunity to read this article, and reflect on the points presented there. It is also my hope that those who were responsible for the fire come to realize that much more than human life and dead grass was lost in those several hours.

Once again my compliments on what I consider to be one of the best articles printed this year.

Yours truly,
Ronald E. Foote,

My Fair Lady Translated

Brandon Sun

The tunes and plot of My Fair Lady, the sensationally successful musical adaptation of Shaw's Pygmalion, have become known and loved around the world since the musical opened in New York in 1956. My Fair Lady, in fact, has played in 18 countries and has been seen by millions of people.

Effective and meaningful translation of the dialogue and lyrics as the musical visited the capitals of the world, however seems to have tested the abilities of those concerned to the full. In particular, according to a BBC overseas broadcast, the translation of the phase, "The rain in Spain stays mainly in the plain," around which was woven one of Eliza Doolittle's principal songs, proved to be a major problem, the difficulty being in finding an equivalent phrase in the native language which would combine the subtleties of gentle language and pronunciation. The Spanish version for Mexican audiences, for instance, was "The King Who is in Madrid Has Gone to Aranjuez," while in Iceland, Eliza was gaily singing, "In Spain a dog lay on the ground near a clump of trees."

Odd to our ears, these, phrases are probably no more foolish or meaningless than our "rain in Spain" one and no doubt provided just as much entertainment in time form as did their English equivalents. It is perhaps of some comfort, though, to those unfortunates who have over the years suffered embarrassment during their students' lessons in muttering about "the rain in Spain," to know that they probably had counterparts in Iceland and elsewhere who felt just as silly talking about such things as Spanish dogs under clumps of trees.

Masterpieces Wear Well

Albert Goldberg, in the Los Angeles Times

"You can't go home again" was Thomas Wolfe's phrase for the eternal verity that life cannot be relived. But it is only partially true when applied to experiences with works of art. It may not always be possible to recapture that first shock of rapture of initial encounter with the great masterpieces of music, painting, literature or any other branch of the fine arts, but the impression is often a lasting one.

The truly great and unique masterpieces can be revisited again and again, if not always with the first ecstasy or enchantment, at least with increased understanding and appreciation. One of the tests of a masterpiece is that, like a perfect marriage, one can become totally lost in it, lose his or her identity and indestructibility in it, remain untouched.

The things that are dangerous to revisit are those second-class works of art that once gave pleasure and were held in esteem, but which, as they never have been acclaimed as great masterpieces, but they had enough vitality to be respected and hold everyone's interest for a while.

But when one returns to them after a long interval, with the perspective of time and experience, whatever power or attraction they once had has either diminished or vanished altogether. Changes in fashion have converted them into period pieces, musty, tawdry, and hopelessly dated.

Thought and Action Are Not Opposites

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

To most people, the words "thought" and "action" are opposites. A thought is what takes place in the mind; an action is what takes place in the world. Hamlet's trouble was that he "thought too much" and did not "act," according to general belief.

This is a false opposition, and those who believe in it are unable to grasp the true nature of either thought or action. Nor, for that matter, are they able to understand the central problem in "Hamlet," which was not a failure of action, but precisely a failure of thought.

There is the act of thinking and the act of doing. Both are acts, in different modes, and they are connected. Thought is not the opposite of action, but its prelude and its complement.

Opposite to thought (the one mental, the other physical) are two forms of non-acts: failure to think and failure to move. They are both alike, in that they substitute passivity for action. If he had thought more, Hamlet might have acted, in one way or another.

A thought that does not fulfill itself, in some act, is not a full thought; just as an act that is the spasm of mindless impulse are inextricably linked together, making a unity.

This is perhaps easier to see in the case of what we call "forces." Salvador de Madariaga has made the startling but accurate statement that, "Among men, deep down, physical force is over; for every seemingly physical force is in fact moral." What he means by this strange dictum?

Consider, for example, the "physical force" used in the recent overthrow of the Brazilian government. Is not the military, merely a tool of the moral force? An army must believe in officers, must support its government, must have morale, or its physical power shatters and disintegrates. It is the force of the idea that is the physical force.

I also think action" would be a beast, not a man, if he excluded the act of thinking. And a "man of thought" would be a vegetable, not a man, if he refused to act on his thoughts. Even abstract "thinkers" and men of "pure science" must have tangible consequences, if they are true thoughts, and not merely day-dreams. The end of life is action but we must not use this slogan to glorify physical movement, while neglecting the equally important truth that a movement of the mind is not the opposite but its necessary springboard.

Subsidizing The Wealthy

Windsor Star

One danger inherent in any form of subsidization is that it often benefits people who by no stretch of the imagination have need for extra money. The payments by the Province of Ontario to the Canadian Thoroughbred Horse Society is an extreme case in point.

One of the principal beneficiaries has been Mr. E. P. Taylor, outstanding one of Canada's richest men. He received $18,435 in 1962-63 and $20,906 in 1963-64. Mr. Conn Smythe, another very rich man, also received benefits though in much smaller amounts.

These men need grants from the provincial exchequer as much as a man needs two heads. Breeding and racing horses is merely a hobby for them. There is no need, in any case, of any subsidization for the breeding of thoroughbred horses. These are of no use whatever except for racing.

Another example of the rich becoming richer via subsidies from the taxpayers are the dairymen, rather than the farmers, whom the main benefits from the subsidy on butter.

To Your Good Health
Failing Health and Brain Damage Cause Memory Loss

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Doctor: What can be done about my mother who lives with us? She is 74 and seems to remember anything we tell her, although she recalls all sorts of details about things that happened when she was a little girl. — R. C.

There isn't too much I can suggest except that you be watchful of her general health and that you be patient. An older person doesn't forget on purpose.

There isn't any medicine to restore the memory. There isn't any diet that will bring it back.

I am pleased to read now that Dr. Irene Hulicka, a psychologist at the State University of New York in Buffalo, is making a study of old people's memories.

Already Dr. Hulicka has doubts that age itself means that the memory is bound to fail. She has done experiments with people as old as 80 which indicates that they can remember as well as young ones.

Failing general health, however, and certainly brain damage, can cause lapsed memory, and by and large this loss is noticed more readily than it should be, she suggests (and it sounds most logical), that damage to the brain may be only what more likely in advanced age. This is true of health problems in general.

I have no doubt that it will take a long time to learn as much as we need to know about the subject, but at least it is getting attention.

And, even for right now, Dr. Hulicka has what should be a very helpful suggestion. You can't remember what you haven't learned.

Old people may not see or hear very well. They may not be interested in some things which no longer seem important to them. So before you jump to the conclusion that someone has a memory problem, try advancing years, make sure that the person sees, hears, and pays attention to whatever ought to be remembered.

Where actual brain damage has occurred, be understanding. We don't become impatient with a child with a broken hip because he doesn't walk. We shouldn't become impatient if the injury has been to the brain instead, and the elderly is genuinely unable to remember.

Dear Dr. Molner: My boy is 7 and still wets the bed two or three times a night. However, there is no daytime problem.

I have seen an electrical device advertised that claims to stop this problem. I would appreciate your opinion.

I also need a long, unsigned, self-addressed envelope and 25 cents in coin for your booklet on bed-wetting. — Mrs. P.

The booklet is titled "Enuresis — Or Ten Ways To Stop Bed-Wetting." I can see that there are guarantees that any particular device found to work will help you apply it to a child's benefits.

Some of the patented "gadgets" work, and the booklet will tell you so. But you should make sure, first, that no medical condition is making it impossible for the boy to get through the night.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am on a 1,200-calorie diet. I eliminate corn, parsnips, green lima beans and navy beans are considered "starch" foods. And why can't I have all I want of raw tomatoes? — Mrs. P. P.

They aren't "starch foods" in the sense of bread, cake, spaghetti, etc. They contain from about 10 percent sugar (for parsnips) to 15 to 20 percent for corn. Usually one serving is an entire year!

Says Trustees Doing Well

Ottawa Citizen

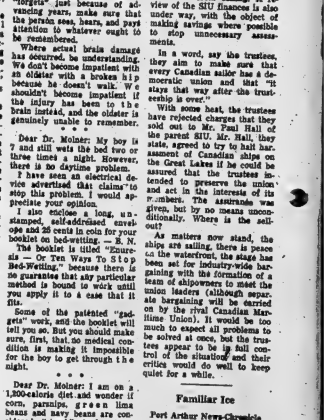
For the first time since the firing of Hal Banks and his replacement by Leonard Mc. Laughlin as head of the Seafarers International Union of Canada, the government-appointed trustees have issued an explanation of what they are trying to do. Significantly, it was made directly to the individual members of the SIU. They are the people most concerned in the trustees' plans to reform their union, and it is essential to gain their confidence. Time will tell whether the message addressed to them will have that effect, but it must surely have a good impression with those on the sidelines.

The seamen are told that the present officers of the SIU "will be kept in the union, and the trustees will only intervene when they think the officers are acting against the interests of union members or any particular member or the national and public interest of Canada." The are also informed of steps being taken to make sure that union executives keep no union secret: to protect the right of dissent by any member; to make it possible for him to file member with reasonable union experience to run for office in the union; and trial or barred from sailing. A review of the SIU finances is also under way, with the right of making savings where possible and stop unnecessary assessments.

In a word, say the trustees, they aim to make sure that every Canadian sailor has a democratic union and that "it stays that way after the trusteeship ends."

With some heat, the trustees have rejected charges that they sold out on the first day of the parent SIU. Mr. Hall, they claim, agreed by to halt harassment of Canadian ships on the Great Lakes if he could be assured that the trustees intended to preserve the union and act in the interests of its members. The assurance was given, but by no means unconditionally. Where is the sell-out?

As matters now stand, the ships are sailing, there is peace on the waterfront, and what has been set for industry-wide bargaining with the formation of a team of skilled negotiators of the union leaders (although separate bargaining will be carried on by the Canadian Maritime Union). It would be too much to expect all problems to be solved at once, but the trustees appear to be in full control of the situation and their critics would do well to keep quiet for a while.



Familiar Ice

Fort Arthur News-Chronicle

The present weather doesn't seem quite so unfamiliar when one reads in a report of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy meeting in Montreal that at Resolute Bay, Northwest Territories, the harbor is ice-free for only 56 hours in an entire year!

9TH BELLEVILLE FATHER AND SON BANQUET

The annual father and son banquet of the 9th Belleville Scouting group was held recently in the assembly hall at St. Margaret's — in-the-Pines Church.

This is the time when the Cubs, Scouts and Rovers of this group in the scouting brotherhood bring their fathers for an evening of fun. Stu Direct, chairman of the 9th Belleville group called the meeting to order and grace was said by the Rev. J. A. Dunlop, minister of the church and padre of the Belleville group.

Some 90 fathers and sons of all ages in the Scouting family sat down to a delicious turkey dinner served by the Ladies' Auxiliary and the group under the guidance of Mrs. Dawkins, president of the Auxiliary and the convener Mrs. M. E. Angus. Needless to say the dinner was a huge success and this was most ably attested to by members of the 9th John A. Rover Crew, the senior members of the Scouting group.

After dinner, chairman for the evening Stu Direct welcomed the fathers on behalf of the group committee and their leaders. He outlined briefly the Scouting program and called on the fathers to participate wherever and whenever they were called upon to do some small task for the group or the leaders. It was stressed that active participation is needed.

Chairman Direct introduced the head table guests as follows: Scout Ron Szmik; Rev. J. A. Dunlop; Cub Jim Farrell. Lew Andrews representing the District Council and Scout Ted Hill. Cub Jim Wiggins thanked the ladies on behalf of the fathers and sons.

The visitors were introduced to the gathering as follows: Rover Skipper, Al Murray; Scoutmaster, Don Kirkman; assistant Scoutmaster, Murray Angus; Cubmaster, Les Tripp; assistant Cubmaster Merrill Gordon and Joe Whittle.

Akela Tripp made badge presentations to four of the Cubs and explained in each case, the badge, its requirements and the aims of badge work.

The main event of the entertainment for the evening was a skit put on by the John A. Rover Crew, entitled "Hillbilly Wedding". This was most ably presented in view of the fact that somewhere along the line the original cast was lost and the participants had to all fill their lines. Everyone enjoyed a good half hour of fun and comedy. Robert Bailey played the sweet but bashful hillbilly pa. Worked into the skit were a couple of dittied rendered by the Glee Club singers of the Crew. Participating in the skit were: Murray Angus, Gordon Cook, Joe Whittle, Earl Hannah, Gary Stewart, Bill Stewart, Jerry Shields and Robert Bailey. The Crew was thanked by Ed White of the group committee and the meeting adjourned.

No Hyphenated Canadians Says Prime Minister

TORONTO (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson said tonight he believes that with the adoption of national symbols hyphenated Canadianism will be a thing of the past.

"That is my hope. That is my goal," he told the third Provincial festival at the O'Keefe Centre here.

"I think the time is near when the idea of Canadian citizenship is strengthened by the adoption of Canadian national symbols, will erase the image and the idea of any kind of hyphenated Canadianism," he said.

He also urged Canadians who form the "other third" of the nation not to become alarmed at the prospect of their own future because of the current debate over English and French biculturalism.

Mr. Pearson said that in a tangible way "the partnership of today is, and must be recognized and accepted as, an equal partnership of all Canadians of every origin and racial background."

"There is and will be only one class of Canadian citizen: First class!"

Courier Plane Burns on Impact, 46 Persons Die

LIMA, Peru (AP)—An Argentine Air Force courier plane, wheels down, the pilot groping for a landing in dense fog, crashed into a high mountainside here, killing 46 of 49 persons aboard Friday night. The plane burned on impact.

The only survivors were an eight - year - old girl, Graciela Martha Gastaldi; a 13-year-old boy, Jorge Enriquez, and a non-commissioned member of a crew of seven, Oscar Ahumada. All are Argentines. The children were in critical condition in hospital.

The seared wreckage was spotted by Peruvian naval helicopters Saturday.

Doctors at the scene, 18 miles north of Lima, said only four of the bodies found could be identified.

The plane, a propeller-driven DC-4, was trying to land at Lima's international airport after a flight from Buenos Aires.

In Buenos Aires, an Argentine air force spokesman said the plane was on a regular courier flight.

D. Hickson '64 Commander Of Quinte Power Squadron

Raised one of the leading squadrons on the 52-unit roster of the national body, the Bay of Quinte Power Squadron marked its 15th anniversary at the annual graduation dinner here Saturday night.

Over 100 officers and members heard startling tribute paid to the squadron by high-ranking officials of the Canadian Power Squadron.

Vice-Commanders Allan Reds of Toronto, Bob McCulloch of Belleville, and District Lieut.-Commander Bill Smith, also of Quinte, spoke highly of the accomplishments of the squadron since its inception a decade ago. Their comments appear in the sports column.

Another link in the chain of efficient commanders was added with the appointment of Executive Officer Don Hickson as 1954 commander. He succeeds Past-Commander Dr. John Clarke.

Other members of the 1954 executive are: Lieut. Commander, George Hume; secretary, Reg Edwards; treasurer, Tom Wright; first lieutenant, Peter Cook, Austin Gonan, Bill Willis and auditor Carl Reid.

The 1954 installation meeting chaired by Commander Clarke saw the introduction of new members, swearing in of the executive, presentation of certificates to graduates and merit awards.

THE NEW COMMANDER

Taking over his office, incoming Commander Hickson said the squadron that he would do his best for the unit and for individual members. He asked for the same esprit de corps and singleness of purpose given his predecessors.

"I've been given opportunity to improve our stature, show good Canadian hospitality and set a standard of competition, full play and good will in the forthcoming International Rendezvous."

He asked for contribution to all events and requested the Squadronettes to stand solidly by the squadron programs and other activities with the same intensity of purpose that has characterized their previous efforts.

Graduates of sailing courses, Jack Oilham, Leonore Valland and Dean Churchill were presented by Lieut. Bill Willis and received certificates.

Seamanship graduates Merlin Crewson, Dick DeBoer, Peter Cook, Dr. Reg Edwards, Mrs. Muriel Edwards and Geo. Weymark also received certificates. Their instructor, Reg Morry was presented with a numerous "scroll" of appreciation by the class.

New members included were: Prevost Hall, Bill Lockett, Murray Campbell, Mac McMurray, Bob Beckman, Dr. Doug Scott, Cliff Hubbs, Reid Walker, T. Watkins, Bill Willis, Ken Warmsley, Alex McLeod and Tony Warren.

Certificates were presented to junior associate Brian Valland and lady associate Mrs. Amelia Reeners, by Vice-Commander Hall.

23 SQUADRONS

In a brief address Vice-Commander Reds paid tribute to the squadron which, he said, had produced many national officers. The CPS, he pointed out, was not unique in making boating more safe but what it demands of its members. It aims to offer any one interested in boating the best of instruction.

The CPS now has 83 squadrons with a membership of 6,000," he said. "The district Quinte has 23 because it's the CPS is now stronger than ever."

The aims of the CPS and the obligations of its members are identical, he said. The national body depends on members to discharge their obligation—to participate and uphold the duties of the squadron and national body.

Appreciation of the piloting instruction given by Austen Gonin was shown in the presentation of a memento by a class graduate.

Merit awards were presented to Dick DeBoer, Jim Grais, George Hume, Colin Fox, Austen Gonin, Don Hickson, R. W. Edwards, Carl Reid, Bill Willis, H. D. Transu, Ed. Smith, Jack Marshall, Lenoox Smith, Dean Churchill and Reg. Morry.

Commodore Orland Prinkston of the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club extended the welcome of that body to the squadron. He said he cherished the good will that exists between the two organizations and trusted it will continue.

He said that he would like to see more people who operate boats take advantage of safety courses.

Dancing rounded out a highly enjoyable anniversary dinner meeting.

More Practical Christianity Plea Made by Missionary

By JANET KASK

MONTREAL (CP) — A plea for more practical Christianity —in such matters as social reform—was made Sunday by Margaret Kennedy, a Canadian missionary to India for the last 35 years.

She was speaking at the close of a three-day conference of the Presbyterian Church of Canada's Women's Missionary Society.

Speaking on the organization's motto, "The World for Christ," Miss Kennedy said real practical Christianity in history led to prison reforms, improvements in factory conditions, the freedom of slaves and the trade union movement.

The church in history, she said, did not always "speak out or act to meet the call of the masses. The cry of the working man was not heard."

"This attitude has not yet been fully eradicated or replaced," Miss Kennedy said.

She called on Christians to "do some hard thinking" about the meaning of Christianity.

She said Jesus Christ's emphasis on the equal importance of all men, and his repeated attacks on prejudice, are "still hitting us hard today."

IT'S 'NICE SORT'

In the second of her three talks Miss Kennedy said Saturday many people who call themselves Christians think of prejudice as "kind of a nice sort of sin."

She said as a result of "respectable" prejudice, a woman of another color who lives in another neighborhood is shunned before she opens her mouth."

She said Jesus Christ was a revolutionary who saw social injustices and spoke out against them.

"He was someone who risked everything to fight for the rights of others."

Mrs. Grace Teal of Formosa presented the conference with a silk tapestry embroidered by women of the Formosan Presbyterian Church.

CHOIRS HEARD

Canadian Indian choirs from the Cecelia Jeffrey Girls School in Kenora, Ont. and the Birtle Indian School, Birtle, Man., sang hymns during the Saturday program.

It was the largest women's conference ever held by the Presbyterian Church in Canada.

The conference celebrated the 100th anniversary of the birth of organized Presbyterian women's work in Canada and the 50th anniversary of the amalgamation of three groups into the Women's Missionary Society, western division.

The conference took the Women's Missionary Society back to its birthplace. It was in 1864 in Kingston that a group, later known as the Woman's Mission Society, was formed to help the work of Scotland in mission work among the French-speaking population.

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

Mr. Kenneth (Spike) Murphy, Bradley Street is a patient in the Kingston General Hospital.

An enjoyable closing bridge party for the University Women's Club Bridge Marathon was held last Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. W. N. Hurst, 248 Church Street. For the evening's play, the high prize went to Mrs. J. E. Pugh, the second prize to Mrs. F. T. Seibert, and the hidden score to Mrs. R. S. Burtt.

On Thursday, April 23, Mrs. W. R. Prentice of Foxboro, celebrated her 80th birthday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Wannamaker, with whom Mrs. Prentice resides.

Several friends gathered with members of her family to extend birthday greetings.

Mrs. Prentice was the recipient of many beautiful floral arrangements and gifts from friends and relatives.

A special honor was bestowed on Mrs. Prentice when Mr. Dave Smith, of CKWS, Kingston, dedicated his April 26th Barbershop Quartet program in honor of Mrs. Prentice's 80th birthday.

Kinsmen Hold 'Ladies' Night'

TWEED—The Kinsmen Club of Tweed held "Ladies' Night" on Tuesday at Stoco Lake Hotel. On arriving, each lady was presented with a beautiful red rose corsage.

After a delicious dinner there was a short business meeting with president Bob Bell presiding, who welcomed the ladies and other guests present. A donation was made to the Port Alberton Kinsmen Club to help out with their work in connection with the earthquake on Good Friday. It was decided to again sponsor a softball team and Mr. John Thompson will be the coach assisted by Alex McCallum and Don Woods.

The president of the Kinette Club, Mrs. Lillian Johnston, thanked the Kinsmen for the lovely evening. Following the business a dance was held and spot dance winners were: Mr. and Mrs. Ross Bateman and Mr. Tom White and Miss Laura Blye. A Chinese auction was held with Tom White as auctioneer, and the winners were Mr. Bill Knapp, Mrs. Ralph Smith, Mr. Bert Thompson and Mr. John Thompson. The arrangements for the evening were handled by Mr. Tom White and Mr. John Thompson.

DESIGNS FENCE

CALGARY (CP) — Mechanical engineer Morten V. Pedersen has designed a lazy man's fence. It's precut, prenailed and prestained — ready to be stretched accordion-style around the yard. Folded, the fence is three feet long and 66 inches high, pulled out it's 20 feet and 29 inches. He says the fence was suggested by the folding guard fences used on stairways to protect children.

Growth, Purpose of Universities Outlined by Speaker to Alumni

The annual dinner of the Belleville and district Queen's Alumni Association was held in the Old Fellows hall, Stirling. About 80 Queen's graduates and their friends attended.

Mr. J. Good, the president, welcomed the group and the Rev. G. Hommersen pronounced the invocation.

Letters were read from Principal Correy and the president of the Alumnae Association, thanking the group for a fine Manley Macdonald painting, which they presented to be hung in the new women's residence.

During the dinner community singing was led by Mr. J. Demeza, who also introduced the speaker of the evening, Dr. Duncan Duncan of Arts and Science, who spoke on "The University in the Modern World."

Dr. Duncan spoke of the changes that are taking place in the university of today. It is most important in recognizing that the universities are creatures by the minds of society. It is not enough to say that universities must be given freedom from the government if they are to survive, but the sums needed are not in terms of money only and so were given a charter as a guild.

To show how universities came into being as a result of popular demand he traced the growth from the 5th century B.C., when Athenian youths banded around teachers of philosophy, mathematics and medicine. These schools were disbanded by the Emperor Justinian in 529 A.D. and scholars were scattered all over the world. For six to seven hundred years, the university work was carried on in monastic schools, and was mostly of a religious nature. Only enough mathematics was taught to enable the clergy to calculate when Easter should come. It was the age of darkness. With the Renaissance universities sprang up in Paris, Salerno and Bologna which spread over Europe and the New World.

At that time the only condition of entrance was a genuine desire to increase knowledge. In our time the failure rate of students in university is based on the lack of desire to know, on the part of the students.

STRANGE BOND

The word university indicates a strange bond between professors and students. That bond is stretched too thin the whole structure alters. "Do we want that to happen?"

There is a distinct difference between the needs of a professor and a secondary school teacher. The professor must strive to increase the world's store of knowledge, and to spread that knowledge. Research and scholarship must go hand in hand with teaching — consequently grants for research must be made available.

Teaching at university level is only possible for one who is in constant touch with the developments in his own sphere. Those who neglect research lose casts among professors and students.

The war proved the fallacy of the "ivory tower" concept of university professors. They were to to be found in government, the army and economic spheres.

A smattering of knowledge is easily gained, if a man wishes to do serious work he must be prepared to spend long hours in the study or laboratory — intellectual enquiry gets a grip on a man.

TWO PRODUCTS

There are two products of the university, first a group of distinctive scholars, the intellectual leaders of the future, second those who return to society willing to pull their weight.

COURSES FOR MATURE PEOPLE

The modern university offers courses for mature people. Summer schools aid students who wish to improve their standing. The universities give assistance to less favored countries. They should be alert for every chance to offer their benefits to all who need them.

Dean Duncan gave some facts about Queen's in recent years. He mentioned that the men and women were about equal in numbers. "Plato first suggested 2,000 years ago that women should be given the same rights as men and we are beginning to adopt his idea." He stated among other awards that eight out of ten provincial scholarships were won by women last year.

This year Queen's is the third largest university in Ontario; by 1970 it will be the eighth. The chief difficulty in this respect is the housing problem. Kingston is not a large city and practically all the out of town students must live in residence.

Mr. Speer of Trenton thanked the speaker and Hero Hamilton in his usual breezy manner gave the latest news of college activities.

The new president, Mr. Demeza then took the chair and the evening came to an end.

Prize winning bridge players were: Mrs. F. Fraser, Mrs. L. Bott; low, Mrs. R. Reid and hidden score, Mrs. E. Gorham.

The final project for the spring season will be a rummage sale to be held later in May at the Kiwanis Centre.

Hot-Headed Husband Shows Sure Signs of Insecurity

DEAR DORIS — Would you kindly tell me how much does one have to take before she gives up trying?

My husband is very hot headed, especially when he drinks. If he loses a job over his quick temper I should just overlook it as if nothing happened. I have to work in order to keep things going.

I can't go anywhere without telling him who I am with and when I'll be home. If I'm late there is a big fuss. Of course he can go and come and nothing should be said. I can't speak to somebody I know on the street without being bawled out.

It takes a lot to get me going but when I do get mad I say what I think. — UNDECIDED.

DORIS CLARK

DEAR UNDECIDED — Couldn't you get mad offener?

This man of yours is so insecure it sticks out all over him. Refuse to snub your friends. Refuse to account for every minute. Demand more common everyday good manners. When you get them, praise him.

Believe it or not, your self-assertion now could be the security he needs to help him grow up.

DEAR DORIS — I am a retired teacher, described while in France by a German student, as "the old (!) teacher with the young heart who gave us lessons in English."

I see students who need help. I have advertised as a tutor. Parents, with what they describe as "problem" children, have employed me. But I must do tutoring in the home and I find the parents are the problem and feel I can do nothing worth while.—

I feel sure if I could have students in my home, I could do for them what I used to do. There must be students who would gladly avail themselves of the help I would gladly give. How can I get in touch with them?

My little violin students, eight years old, whose father I taught, when he was eight years old (!) is, after a bit more than a year's instruction, reading music well. He is a delight to his parents and grandparents — and to his teacher. — TEACHER WITH THE YOUNG HEART.

DEAR YOUNG HEART — If the parents hover around, or they seem to press you or the child for results, or the home is noisy, the extra effort is ruined.

You'll have a freer hand if you tutor under your own roof, although those problem parents will still have to co-operate.

How to find the pupils who need you? A newspaper ad, a talk with your board of education, and your child care agency. Make it clear from the start that your pupils come to you; not you to them. An excellent career for senior years!

Fresh asparagus is precious and popular and its season is short. Treat it right. Mary Moore gives you buying tips and recipes for bringing it to your table at its best.

Fresh Asparagus

BY MARY MOORE

If I do succeed in persuading you to make the luncheon or supper dish below, calling for raw asparagus, hard-cooked eggs and a cheese sauce, you will be glad.

The season for this delicate vegetable is all too short and we cooks should feature it while the crisp tender shoots are at their best.

ASPARAGUS BUYING TIPS: Buy fresh, tender, firm asparagus with close, compact tips. A tender stalk is brittle and easily snapped. The stalks should be a deep or bluish green. An excessive amount of white stem means stalks are tough. Don't buy asparagus with tips that are spread or stalks that are shriveled and tough and woody.

Dinner Menus

Pureed Baby Livers; Parsley Cream Sauce; Buttered Noodles; Spinach; Celery Hearts; Applesauce; Ginger Cupcakes; Coffee.

ASPARAGUS LUNCHEON OR SUPPER DISH (serves 4):

Allow 1/2 lb. well-trimmed asparagus per serving for this. 1 1/3 Rs. tender asparagus, 4 hard-cooked eggs, 4 tablespoons butter, 3½ tablespoons flour, ½ to ¾ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon mustard, 2 cups combined asparagus liquid and milk (see below), ½ cup grated cheese, 4 slices toast.

Cook asparagus in small amount of boiling salted water until barely tender, about 6 to 8 minutes. Drain and measure juice. Make it up to 2 cups by adding milk. (You should use at least 1 cup milk.) Melt butter, stir in flour, salt and mustard until blended. Then stir in milk until thick. Stir in cheese until melted. On each of 4 luncheon plates put 1 slice buttered toast. On toast arrange cooked asparagus; around border of each serving arrange 1 sliced hard-cooked egg. Pour hot sauce over the 4 servings.

TOSSED SALAD WITH ASPARAGUS:

Remember to use tender asparagus raw in your salads.

Shred ½ medium head Iceberg lettuce. Add 6 sliced radishes, ½ cucumber, sliced and partially pared and 1 medium tomato cut into wedges. Add 6 asparagus stalks cut into ¼" pieces. (One sliced hard-cooked egg is a good addition but optional). Toss with garlic French dressing just before serving.

CREAM OF ASPARAGUS SOUP (serves 4 to 6):

2 cups cut-up raw asparagus, 2 tablespoon chopped onion, 2 tablespoon finely chopped celery, ¾ cup boiling water, ½ cups rich milk, 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, 2 tablespoons flour, 2/3 teaspoon salt, shake of pepper, pinch of nutmeg.

Add the boiling water to the asparagus, onion and celery and cook, covered, until tender. Force all through sieve (or puzz in blender until pureed). Melt butter or margarine, stir in flour, salt, pepper and rosemary until blended, then stir in milk and asparagus puree until thick. If desired serve topped with a fluff of whipped cream and garnish with a few watercress sticks from raw asparagus tips.

Baking Title To Teen-age P. E. I. Girl

Ten provincial prize winners baked for judges Marjorie Elwood, Elaine Collett and Lois Caldwell.

At the display which followed, Mrs. John Diefenbaker presented the prizes. Pauline received a $1,200 scholarship and a silver rose bowl; Connie Rybka of Newmarket, Ont., won a $200 Canada Savings Bond for second place, and Charlotte Gravel of Comte de Beauce, Que., was awarded a $100 bond for finishing third.

Here is Pauline's winning recipe:

2½ cups all-purpose flour
1 tsp. baking powder
¼ tsp. soda
½ Cup shortening
1 Cup white sugar
½ Tsp. salt
2 Eggs
4 Tbsps. milk
1 Cup chopped dates
1 Tsp. vanilla
1/2 Cup cherries
2½ Cups corn flakes

Sift flour, baking powder, soda and salt. Cream shortening and sugar well, add eggs, milk and vanilla; beat well. Blend in dry ingredients gradually, mix well; add dates, cherries, mix. Shape into balls using a level tbsp. dough for each. Crush corn flakes. Roll each ball. Place on a greased baking sheet. Bake in 375-degree F. oven for 10 - 12 minutes. Makes about 50-60.

Total preparation and making time—40 minutes.

U.C.W. Meeting

ST. JOHN'S U.C.W.

CAMPBELLFORD — The regular meeting of Unit 6 of St. John's UCW was held at the home of Mrs. H. Pierce with 14 members present.

The president, Mrs. H. Pierce opened the meeting and welcomed all to her home. The devotional period was conducted by Mrs. Brackenridge and Mrs. M. Rannie, was based on the theme "The Long Range View".

Treasurer Mrs. C. Irwin reported $216 had been paid on the allocation. Twelve hospital calls had been made, also five house calls.

Members were reminded of the bean sale in conjunction with rummage sale on May 16. June meeting will be in the form of a potluck supper at the cottage of Mrs. F. M. Rutherford.

The study on India was given in two parts, "Opportunity" by Mrs. C. Irwin, and "Theological Education" by Mrs. M. R. Rutherford.

In her remarks Mrs. Irwin stated the churches in India have taken over from the previous mission bodies and now have national leadership. Any help, personal or money that Christians in the west may provide must not be used to retain any kind of control. India is on the way to becoming a welfare state and the government will take over all educational and medical institutes but at he present time is far from ready. The church must continue to pioneer its medical work in more remote areas and the field of preventive medicine is wide open.

In theological education, the new Indian churches are too young, too small and too illiterate to get along without the help of western Christian workers. The church in India is passing through an exciting and challenging period, it needs scholars, surgeons, physicians, nurses, writers, but most of all it needs men and women of ordinary gifts to consecrate their lives in India's needs.

The meeting closed after which lunch was served.

Ann Landers

Sees Symptoms in Child Of His Own Unhappy Youth

DEAR ANN LANDERS — In my youth I was a homosexual. After many years of intensive psychiatric therapy (which began when I was 14) I was able to enter into a proper relationship with a woman.

I am now happily married and the father of two delightful children. Recently a family moved next door. Their only son is eight years-old — an intelligent, sweet little boy who reminds me a great deal of myself when I was his age. I see in the family an amazing number of parallels to my own childhood and it is becoming difficult for me to remain silent.

ANN LANDERS

His mother does not permit him to play with other boys because they are "too rough." He plays with dolls and likes to sew. He is shy, frightened and his mannerisms are disturbingly girlish.

My wife and I have hinted broadly but the boy's mother doesn't understand and his father doesn't want to be bothered.

Every time I see this boy my heart sinks. I want so much to spare him the agonies of the life I know so well. Shall I risk making enemies of the boy's parents by telling them what I know? Or should I say nothing and watch this child become what I was? — OVERWROUGHT BYSTANDER.

DEAR BYSTANDER — I say go ahead and try. If you get through to the parents, the rewards will be enormous. If you fail in your efforts you will have incurred the animosity of the neighbors forever. But it's worth the gamble because you will have salvaged the boy.

• • •

DEAR ANN LANDERS — A middle-aged secretary in our office refuses to wear foundation garments. This is very embarrassing to the rest of us women. When she sashays over to the water cooler or to the file cabinet the men's eyes follow her every step of the way. It is disgusting. They whisper crude remarks and giggle among themselves. If this woman knew what her male colleagues were saying she'd die of humiliation.

Should we tell her in a tactful way to go home and put on the proper undergarments? — THE GIRLS.

DEAR GIRLS — There is no "tactful way" to tell a woman to go home and put on the proper undergarments. If you tell her I will have to be cold turkey.

And please don't be surprised if she doesn't take to your advice in a kindly fashion. This woman is well aware of the bulging eyes and she likes it that way.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I have been invited to a turn-about party. This means the girls are supposed to bring the boys.

I made the mistake of going steady for over a year and this dumb move really put me out of circulation. My steady and I broke up two months ago and nobody has asked me out yet.

The boy I would like to ask to the party is very casual. I have heard that he likes me but he is certainly playing it cool. What if I ask him and he says no? I would feel like a jerk. Please tell me what to do. — DOODLE-BUG.

DEAR DOODLE — Go ahead and ask him. If Mr. Casual says "no" I promise you the planet will continue to spin on its axis. If he says "yes" it may spin a little faster.

SPEAKING OF MANNERS

BY PATRICIA LEWIS

PAY ATTENTION AT INTRODUCTIONS

If you find it difficult at times to remember names — and everyone does at some point — don't settle for substitutes.

A name may escape your memory at the moment, and you might have the impulse to fill in by calling the temporarily nameless one "sweetie" or "sport," depending on gender. But as far as I'm concerned this is far more tasteless than using no name at all.

I know one woman — very charming — who can call through a whole roomful of people on "darling" alone. She'd never had the ability to hold on to names for more than a second. She admits it gives her twinges at times, but it still has not fired her to try to focus a little better when she meets people.

For that's really the secret of remembering names. You have to focus attention on a person when you are introduced, and not stare off into the distance to see who's coming in the door behind him.

If you want to be successful at remembering names — and people will remember you for the courtesy — the trick is to repeat the name as soon as you are introduced. Say "How do you do, Mrs. Smith." Then repeat the name as often as possible in any following conversation, so it will be imprinted on your memory.

MUTTERS NAME

Often the person making the introduction mutters the name and makes it impossible for you to catch anything to remember! When this happens, it's perfectly permissible for you to say, "I'm sorry, I didn't hear the name," so either the befuddled introducer or the person, himself, will repeat it. It really does not disconcert anyone, and it does show you're interested in finding out exactly to whom you're being introduced.

During the course of the evening, try to repeat the name each time you happen to talk to the person. If the name is difficult, you might try writing it down when you get to your face — so it will be fixed in your subconscious. Even if you don't master it in one evening, just think how flattered the person will be, next time you meet him, when you flawlessly call him by his correct name and don't flub a syllable when you introduce him to others.

The ability to remember names is a tremendous asset, both socially and in business. All it takes is a little concentration to develop the technique, so poor "Mrs. Smith" can finally become a real person instead of a nameless "sweetie."

Battling Dreaded 'Tulip Fire'

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

There have been reports of virus damage to tulips this spring. This may be the dreaded "tulip fire" or blight that destroyed thousands of bulbs in Holland many years ago. Its name is botrytis fungus.

The leaves are flecked with small brown spots that soon spread and the flowers are spotted with crumpled areas or the whole bud may be gray, crumpled and look wet. The spots are more noticeable in the light types.

When the bulb is infected the plant is dwarfed and the foliage is sickly yellow-green and the bloom is blasted. As the disease develops the gray areas with brown borders increase. The stems may rot off. In damp weather the infected areas may be covered with a gray mold which produces a large number of spores. These spread by air currents and insects to other plants. The spores are carried over winter on the outer scales of the bulbs.

DESTROY BY FIRE

Look over your plants and if you notice any with brown spots, gray areas or whole plants that are a pale yellow-green, dig them up. Take great care to prevent scattering the spores. Do this on a dry day if possible. Do not leave any bits of the infected bulb scales or outer layer of skin on, or in the soil. Early removal of diseased plants will prevent spread. Destroy all parts of the plant by burning.

If you dig your bulbs each year after the foliage has ripened, examine the bulbs for spots. Destroy all leaves, stems and blooms. Remove brown outer skin to examine the fleshy white bulb for spots. If black or brown spots are present destroy the bulbs.

Do not plant tulip bulbs where infected plants have been grown before. If you plan to replant in the same area replace the soil with clean new soil, steam to kill fungi, or treat with chemicals. Ferbam has been found to be effective in soil treatment for fungi diseases. In many chemical treatments great care must be used to prevent damage to surrounding plants. Follow the manufacturer's directions carefully.

GOOD PROTECTION

Frequent applications of ferbam is an effective protection for outdoor tulips. Apply every three days in damp weather. Less often in dry weather. Discontinue as soon as the flower buds begin to open. Spray residue causes spotting.

Avoid overfeeding, especially with nitrogen.

Other tulip foes are basal rot. Diseased bulbs produce leaves that turn red and usually die early. Control — dig early and store bulbs in single layer in cool well ventilated condition. Dip on a dry day.

Avoid mercury compounds. Tulips will not tolerate this chemical.

Blue mold and mites often go together in storage. Reduce humidity and treat for mites.

33 Fatalities Across Canada During Weekend

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

At least 33 fatalities were recorded in Canada during the weekend—28 in traffic, three in drownings and two in fires.

A survey by The Canadian Press from 9 p.m. Friday to midnight Sunday local times showed Quebec at the head of the list with 10 accidental deaths, all on the highways. Ontario reported eight fatalities including five traffic deaths, two drownings and one fire death.

Five persons met accidental deaths on Nova Scotia highways and three fatalities were reported in Manitoba—two in traffic and one in a drowning. Saskatchewan and British Columbia each had two traffic fatalities while Alberta reported one traffic death and one fire death. One person died in a highway accident in New Brunswick.

Newfoundland and Prince Edward Island were fatality free.

The survey does not include known suicides, slayings, natural or industrial deaths.

ters of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. The initial response was not encouraging.

Rusk conferred with Dutch Foreign Minister Joseph Luns. Dutch sources said their government felt members of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization should first provide assistance. The Netherlands is not a member of SEATO.

Rusk planned to continue his effort today in talks with Foreign Minister Gerhard Schroeder of West Germany and British Foreign Secretary Richard A. Butler. Britain is a member of SEATO.

McNamara was in West Germany Sunday prior to another visit to South Viet Nam and conferences on how to make more effective the military action against Communist Viet Cong guerrillas being waged by South Viet Nam with powerful U.S. support.

He is making the trip at a time of increasing anti-U.S. activity by Viet Cong terrorists. In recent days they have sunk the aircraft ferry Card in the Saigon River and hurled a homemade grenade into a group of strolling Americans, wounding eight. U.S. schools, commissaries, military and diplomatic installations remain under heavy security guard.

There is speculation McNamara may use his visit to announce a tougher U.S. stance in South Viet Nam, possibly entailing evacuation of American dependents.

President Johnson has been reported studying a recommendation that dependents be evacuated in the face of growing Communist terrorist attacks in Saigon.

The United States has more than 16,000 military men in South Viet Nam and an estimated 1,800 dependents in Saigon.

Military spokesmen here said they had no advance information on McNamara's plans and could not comment on the possibility that he might announce evacuation of dependents.

INSPECT HARBOR

COBOURG, Ont. (CP)—Transport Minister Pickersgill and Dr Pauline Jewett, Liberal member of Parliament for Northumberland, attended a civic luncheon Saturday and inspected this town's harbor facilities. The town council has been trying for four years to persuade Ottawa to improve the harbor, which has open water all year.

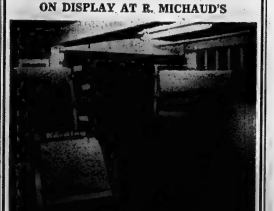
He told the students the use of guns and dynamite is immoral and these methods could be used only when no other means was available to obtain independence.



Creating "artificial Cubas and Algerias" must be avoided, he said.

"We must become conscious of our deep belonging to North America. There are no coercive violence." The fight for emancipation must be against structures and not against men.

Little Damage From High Winds in County

PICTON Staff) — Despite winds that reached almost hurricane proportions, there was apparently little, if any damage done in Prince Edward County. Some reports that limbs had been torn from trees were checked out, but little damage was reported.

The high winds kept all the boats in Picton Harbor tied to the docks over the weekend, those who wanted to test out their boats in really rough water ventured out, but about a half a mile out into the Bay of Quinte soon discouraged them, and they were happy to return to the shelter of the harbor.

A portion of the 100,000 lake trout being transplanted into the deep holes near Main Duck Islands were taken out on Saturday but one trip was enough. Officials of the tug that has been taking them out last year and this year, reported they have never been out in anything as wild as Lake Ontario last Saturday.

Police Probing Accident East Of Milford

PICTON — Although traffic was heavy through this district over the weekend, only one accident has been reported by Ontario Provincial Police here.

At 8.30 p.m. Sunday, Francis A. Farrington, 18, of Milford, was proceeding east on the new road just east of Milford and was raising a considerable amount of dust, when a vehicle being driven by Raymond Jeffrey of R.R. 1 Milford, not knowing F ington was attempting to make a left hand turn, proceeded to pass him.

The accident caused damage estimated at $250 to both vehicles.

The accident is still under investigation by Ontario Provincial Police at Picton.

Mrs. Glenore Cole, Havelock, miraculously escaped without serious injury when car pictured above, which she was driving west on the Scoharie Road, near Picton, went out of control, crossed the road, turned end for end, rolled at least once before climbing a ten-foot bank and coming to rest about 150 feet from where it left the road. A metal fence post went clear through the trunk lid. Mrs. Cole was rushed to Prince Edward Memorial Hospital where on Sunday, Dr. John Anderson, Picton, said she was suffering from abrasions to her face and body, and will likely be released on Monday.

horse sense

More than 591,000 Canadian automobile owners pay too much for gasoline.

They're people with cars designed for medium-octane gasolines. Up to now they have been buying the available top-rated premiums and, since their cars can't use all of that power, they've been wasting octane and money.

Now, BP makes better sense with horsepower by adding two new Super gasolines in the medium-octane, medium-price range. Perhaps one of them is just right for your car.

Check the recommendations at a BP station, then make the switch from top-priced gasolines and save 2¢, even 4¢ per gallon . . . enough to buy up to 900 extra miles of driving in a year.

FOUR GREAT GASOLINES

One Regular and three Supers: SUPER RED is the top-octane fuel. SUPER WHITE costs 2¢ less per gallon. SUPER BLUE costs 4¢ less...and only a penny more than REGULAR.

Your Car

Give Car Demanding Safety Check

By EUGENE B. HILMOE

This is a good time of year to check closely on your car's roadability — paying particular attention to steering, braking and riding. Road test the car and be a demanding critic. If don't be satisfied with less than peak performances. Steering responses should be quick and dependable with no excessive oversteering or harsisteering tendencies — no wandering — no great effort required for normal maneuvering — no marked loss of control during high winds. Braking action must be consistently smooth and positive. Only light pedal pressure should be necessary. Any signs of sudden grab, fade, pull toward one side or poor response should certainly be investigated promptly.

Your car is also safer when it rides smoothly. Severe vibration, jarring, bouncing, shaking, etc due to poor shocks, springs, tires, bearings, will make driving more difficult and the car harder to control, especially at higher speeds.

L. S. asks: "How high should the master cylinder brake fluid level be filled?"

About ¾ " to 1" below the actual filler opening.

From F. R.: "Right after the last change, my engine oil became black and dirty looking again in no time. You say of this is the nature of a detergent oil, but I never use anything that a regular non-detergent grade."

In that case, check the oil filter.

E. L. writes: "I understand you recently gave the reason, but I must have missed it. Why does a car burn less gas in winter...per mile, that is."

Just the opposite — gas mileage is better in summer because the choke setting isn't as rich, moving parts work easier when warm, and heat aids efficient fuel vaporization.

S. B. asks: "Do you think it's a good idea to put racing tires on my foreign sports car if I can get them to fit?"

No — the gas mileage will benefit, but poor traction, super sensitive steering and rougher riding will also result.

Can. Legion, Auxiliary Have Busy Weekend

DESERONTO — Veterans and members of the Deseronto Branch of the Canadian Legion and the Womens' Auxiliary to the Legion were more than active over last weekend as they viewed special films, celebrated Battle of the Atlantic Sunday, and initiated new members into their midst.

Friday night's activity centred around the men of the Legion who followed up their regular meeting with a film show.

Arrangements for the viewing of two excellent color films provided by Ducks Unlimited, Winnipeg, were made by Chief Melville Bill of the Tyendinaga Reserve.

Originally scheduled for the previous meeting the two films, "Each Year They Come" and "Black Duck" were of particular interest to local residents since they spoke of and showed scenes of the Ducks Unlimited conservation area in Shannonville.

PARADE TO CENOTAPH

Special remembrance was made of the Battle of the Atlantic and prayers offered by Legion chaplain the Rev. Morris Soutter of St. Mark's, Deseronto on behalf of the members.

Following the Last Post and Reveille played by Sargeant-at-Arms Earl Murphy the veterans paraded to the United Church where they were welcomed and addressed in the regular service by the incumbent, the Rev. Douglas Blair.

The Army and Navy Pipe Band from Belleville led the parade.

On Monday night the ladies of the Auxiliary welcomed the seventh new member into their midst Mona January.

Mrs. Helena Murphy was initiated by Branch president Kathleen Fraser to take her place with Doris Buchanan, Vivian Brant, Betty Brant, Ella Buchanan, Della Marcelle and Ruby Keith, all new members.

Novelist Found Dead in Field

LAC BEAUPORT, Que. (CP) An autopsy will be performed in Quebec City today on the body of Mrs. Sidney Dean, 71, a New York city novelist found dead Sunday in the Laurentian Mountains forest where she had been missing for a week.

A police dog led searchers to the body in a meadow a mile from her summer chalet, Le Roc, at Lac Beauport, 20 miles north of Quebec City.

Police said there were no signs of injury and Mrs. Dean apparently had died of a heart attack.

Mrs. Dean, who wrote romantic novels under the name Marguerite Mooers Marshall, arrived at Lac Beauport April 29 and was last seen May 3 walking into the woods.

She was deaf and bothered by a bad ankle. She also had complained to acquaintances of not feeling well.

They missed her last Wednesday and a search began.

2 Car Ferries, Bound for Kingston, Sunk

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) — Two decommissioned car ferries—the James W. Current and the J. D. MacPhail under tow for Kingston from Sault Ste. Marie, sank in 23 fathoms of water in lake Huron during the weekend. No one was aboard either ship.

The ferries were being towed by the Canadian Dredge and Dock Company tug, the G. W. Rogers, and were to be used between Wolfe Island and the mainland at Kingston.

The three vessels left Sault Ste. Marie Harbor Friday and were about 200 miles into the lake when they were caught in the tail end of a tornado that ravaged southern Michigan Friday night.

The Curran shipped water and sank almost immediately but the crew of the tug Rogers managed to keep the MacPhail afloat for 18 hours. She sank to the bottom at 2:15 p.m. Saturday.

The ferries were bought by the Ontario department of highways after the opening of the International Bridge at Port Austin, Mich. They had plied between Sault Ste. Marie and Port Austin for about 14 years.

KICK UP DUST

Gale-force winds kicked up a cloud of black dust over the vegetable - growing Holland Marsh north of Toronto and was visible for 25 miles. Red dust from the tobacco area southwest of Barrie blew over the city in huge clouds.

The winds delayed the arrival of two freighters at Toronto early Saturday. The Nordia, a Swedish vessel, and the Roland Russ from Germany, were forced to anchor off Toronto Island for several hours.

In Brantford there was an estimated $7,000 damage to tents and other equipment of a carnival.

The winds were brought about by a low-pressure area that originated in Texas and swept into Canada early Saturday. The same low-pressure area caused the Michigan tornado.

NATO Leaders Open 3-Day Spring Meeting in the Hague Amidst Signs of Disarray

Leaders of the Atlantic alliance open a three day spring meeting in The Hague Tuesday amid signs of disarray among the 15 members. An Associated Press diplomatic correspondent who has covered almost every NATO conference since it was formed in 1949, examines some of the big issues.

By ARTHUR L. GAVSHON

THE HAGUE (AP) — In the chancelleries of Europe today, from the Arctic to the Aegean, statesmen and strategists are asking:

"Is NATO beginning to break up?"

And a big debate is under way on how the alliance can be restored—or replaced.

It may be a sign of their own security that the Europeans can contemplate these possibilities. It may be they have succeeded in marshalling their resistance against the real or imagined threat of the Soviet assault.

At all events, three international developments are dominating discussions on the future of the alliance. The developments will form the main theme of the exchanges between foreign ministers and their aides now assembling for Tuesday's Atlantic alliance council meeting in this capital. They are:

1. The reduction of effective Communist military threats in Europe. With characteristic flexibility Communist pressures have been moved elsewhere, to Southeast Asia, the Middle East and Africa and Latin America, where organized Western defences are weakest.

PLAYS ON U.S. FEARS

2. The progressive defection from the alliance of President de Gaulle's France. De Gaulle is furthering his disengagement policy by seeking to split the United States from its major continental European allies. This he is doing by playing on their fears that Europe might one day be abandoned to devastation if the U.S. continues to monopolize the nuclear power of the West.

3. The gunpoint feud over Cyprus between Greece and Turkey, custodians of NATO's southeastern flank. Already Premier Ismet Inonu of Turkey has begun talk of reviewing his relations with his allies because of what he regards as their failure to back him up in Cyprus. Significantly, chances of a Soviet-Turkish rapprochement are being advertised.

Each of these developments poses its individual and immediate dangers for the alliance—besides weakening it.

Taken together they form a pattern of ever-shifting alignments, calling with increasing urgency for a reappraisal of shared NATO interests.

CITES OTHER FACTORS

On top of all this a tangle of other factors projected the alliance into a state of almost unprecedented disarray. They range from new strategic concepts and weapons development to the loosening of old loyalties in each of the world's great political systems.

Some examples:

1. Britain's chief political parties, moving toward an election, are arguing whether the nation ought to resign as a nuclear power. At the same time, the French are concentrating on building up a second generation of nuclear weapons to replace their Mirage bomber force. And the Americans, with West German backing, are still trying to sell the idea of a mixed-manned fleet of Polaris missile-carriers designed as a means of giving Europe a voice in nuclear weapons management.

2. Outside the NATO area, the British, French and Dutch empires in Asia and Africa have just about vanished, leaving vacuums the Communists and others are rushing to fill. In the Aden Peninsula, the British are fighting a desperate rearguard action to preserve their last big foothold in South West Asia the Americans are engaged in what looks like the most critical crunch with the Communists since Cuba. If the Communists were to win out, they could outflank Laos, Cambodia and Burma, undermine India and Japan and fix their gaze on Australia.

3. In the Communist world, the Chinese-Soviet split carries its own perils as well as promises. The Communist rivals already are competing for favors and influence among the new nations in Africa, the Middle East and Asia.

STRATEGY NEEDED

All these paradoxes and threats, Western statesmen are beginning to realize, are not going to be met simply by pulling handbags out of one hand to fill another. The need, they recognize, is for a coherent strategy around the globe—and this is something NATO, in its present form, is not equipped to provide. This also is true of NATO's companion alliance, the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization.

Added to the inadequacies of both NATO and SEATO lies another big difficulty.

Smaller European allies—Norway, Denmark, Belgium, the Netherlands—have no evident wish to identify themselves with the defence of British interests in the Middle East or with U.S. policies in the Caribbean or Southeast Asia.

Equally, Asian countries—such as Thailand or the Philippines—could hardly care less about helping to keep the access routes to West Berlin safe and open.

And so in London, Washington and other NATO capitals more and more talk is going on about a new concept—one based on a total strategy for defence of the whole non-Communist world.

Any such project would demand the reshaping of NATO and SEATO and would have to be based on power contributed in the first place by the United States, plus Britain, West Germany and other nations with world interests. De Gaulle's cooperation would have to be invited. Whether he would give it is another question.

The dinning room at the Sun Valley Motel on North Front Street was filled to near capacity on Saturday night when the Junior Chamber of Commerce Incorporated, held its first annual President's Ball.

Members and their wives and guests, totalling 110, met at the motel for the gala event which also included a change in the presidency. President Berry Clegg handed over the president's gavel to incoming president, Donald Dafoe, who will take over his new duties as President, in June.

In his opening remarks to the club, chairman Clegg said: "one of our primary achievements this year has been in the area of membership which has increased by 102 per cent, giving us a total of 51 members. I feel that this increase was due to the enthusiasm displayed by the older members."

Chairman Clegg outlined a number of the functions which the club had accomplished over the past year, which includes selling first aid kits, advertisement night, Man of the Year award, Past - President's night, weekend stag fishing trip, minded bowling social night, Christmas party, business management course, Vice - President's night, safe driving road-e-o, railroad week project, chartering a unit into Trenton, city animal shelter, assistance with the winter works campaign and the first annual president's ball.

The chairman added, "in the area of education we have accomplished two important things, the purchase of a substantial amount of liability insurance on our own property, Secondly, we have incorporated for the protection of personal and financial loss, and we are now known as the Belleville Junior Chamber of Commerce Incorporated.

REPRESENTED ON COMMITTEES

Mr. Clegg stated that "from the respect we have received from other organizations in the city, we have been asked to have representation on the following committees: Industrial Commission, Public Relations Committee; Tourist and Promotion Committee of the Chamber of Commerce; Railroad Week Committee and the Belleville Youth Committee."

The chairman also pointed out the fact that one of their members had been elected alderman.

In concluding Mr. Clegg said "I think you will agree with me that the Belleville Jaycees have experienced a very successful year, and this could only come about from the sincerity, desire and hard work that the majority of the members of this unit has displayed and also from the fine leadership of your Board of Directors.

Several presentations were made following the chairman's remarks at the conlusion of a delicious dinner prepared and served by the staff at Sun Valley in the Mexican atmosphere of the Madrid Room.

Multitude of Liquor Laws Probably Have Little Effect

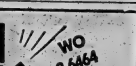
LONDON, Ont. (CP)—The "enormous amount" of legislation that everywhere surrounds drinking, probably has no effect at all on alcoholism, two American speakers at a summer course on alcohol and the problems of addiction said Friday.

Mark Keller, of Rutgers University, New Jersey, the editor of several publications on alcohol and alcoholism, and Prof. Harrison Trice, an alcoholic researcher at Cornell University, Ithaca, N.Y., both said that restrictive legislation is placed on alcohol in an attempt to limit consumption without any idea whether it will or not.

Mr. Keller suggested social scientists should make studies of "the state of affairs" now existing. On the basis of such studies experimental legislation might be passed, which would be effective for a limited period of time, after which social scientists would again study the effects of the legislation.

Church groups and others who oppose individual liquor licence applications may even make a mistake in doing so, he said.

"I think it is the business of the churches to be involved but I wish they would apply sounder principles with respect to what they wish to attack."



PROVIDE SCOOTERS

SCUNTHORPE, England (CP)—Teen-agers who lack the confidence to take a motor scooter on the open road are to be given free lessons by the police. If they don't have a machine of their own, police will lend one, tanked up with gasoline.

GET EXTRA SERVICE

LYNE, England (CP) — Villagers patronizing the local pub in this Surrey village get more than a pint—they get a haircut as well. Says landlord-cum-barber Gordon Spencer: "I get some pretty funny orders. A pig farmer once asked for a short back and cider."

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, MONDAY, MAY 11, 1964

WAITING FOR THE WORD FROM HIS WIFE, Norman Storms of the Quinte Auto Sport Club sits in his car at the start of the club's Mayday Rally, at Belleville Plaza Sunday afternoon. Mrs. Storms, as starter for the rally, tells the drivers when to leave and hands a printed sheet of instructions as they pull away. Fred Blake, of Belleville, navigated for Mr. Storms.

Quinte Auto Sport Club Stages 1810 Scouting Test

"Horsephobe," "mulesplode" and "wheel turns" replaced miles in instructions for yesterday's Mayday rally, run by the Quinte Auto Sport Club. The 70-mile rally was set up as an 1810 military scouting expedition, and instructions were given in terms of the scout's supposed means of transport—alternately horseback, wagon, canoe and foot. Navigators in each car translated the off-beat measurements into conventional miles and tenths of miles.

Robert Boyce, Milton Davison, James Jenkins and Jack Dodson, all of the QASC, organized the rally. Winning car was driven by Gordon Smith and navigated by Gordon Keary, both of Belleville, and second place went to Geo. Grimson and George Grimson, Jr., both of Belleville. Third place was taken by a team of Connor and Bell, down from Ottawa for the rally.

1,500 Outside Workers In Vancouver End Strike

VANCOUVER (CP) — The strike of Vancouver's 1,500 outside workers ended during the weekend because city and union had no other choice.

Both sides agreed that rejection of a two-year contract tendered by a government-appointed conciliation officer would have undone anything gained during the 15-day walkout.

The formula's acceptance, by the union Friday night and by city council Saturday morning, had the first workers back Saturday. Stanley Park Zoo, closed because the litter was so deep, opened within a few hours.

Street cleaning waited until today, but garbage collection started almost immediately. Greatest relief here was felt by restaurants and hotel keepers, who are dependent on daily pickups. Householders missed only two or three collections and got by with admirable initiative.

Terms of the settlement were more generous than expected by the strikers, who belong to the outside workers' division of the Independent Civic Employees Union. Their leader, Secretary Jack Phillips, told them Friday night before the 587-to-89 vote that rejection could mean arbitration and an easy out for city council.

The union settlement gives them 19 cents in four steps over two years, bringing their average wage to $2.28 an hour. Fringe benefits are included, but these were not an issue in negotiations.

City council, which through its negotiating commissioners offered seven cents in a one-year contract, will have to pay about eight cents in 1964. In 1965 the average is about seven cents, because the last increase does not take effect until late in the year.

Council unanimously approved the package Saturday after City Commissioner John Oliver advised that "neither side can refuse to accept."

Mayor Hamilton Rathie announced after council's vote that he wants to cut back services to pay the increased wage bill. He said this will mean layoffs of some of the men who had been on strike. He was going to press for more efficiency at city hall, he said.

The 1964 cost of $131,000 involved in the settlement would have to be "sweated out" of existing estimates.

BRINGS REPLY

That brought a stinging reply from Mr. Phillips. A "classic example of petty, spiteful vindictiveness," said the union secretary, who called an executive meeting for Tuesday to discuss threatened layoffs and cutbacks.

Citizens were advised to bury and burn their garbage during the strike but many were more ingenious. They threw it into freight cars, into Burrard Inlet and on to city hall steps. Some crossed picket lines at the city dump and others paid tolls at suburban dumps.

Private collectors of one kind or another sprang up to keep the garbage problem in hand. They included pig farmers and university students, the latter subject to union attack as de-grading scabbers in "bachelor of flabbery."

U.S. Will Hold Economic, Political Talks With Romania

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States, hoping to widen the cracks in the once-solid Soviet bloc, is expected to have bold economic and political discussions with Communist Romania.

Indicating the significance which U.S. strategists attach to the talks starting in Washington May 18, the state department announced that a top negotiator, undersecretary W. Averell Harriman, will head the U.S. delegation.

The Romanian team will be led by Gheorghe Gaston-Marin, vice - chairman of Romania's council of ministers and chairman of its state planning committee.

Expanding U.S. - Romanian trade is to be the main formal discussion topic. The Romanians are especially interested in getting plants to produce products from oil, such as synthetic rubber and linked to visit some U.S. plants after about a fortnight in Washington.

But U.S.-Romanian commerce is generally small, and U.S. diplomats tend to look on the Washington talks in the context of the broader scene. The once-monolithic Communist empire now is troubled by rifts and the United States wants to make the most of them.

Of the East European satellites, Romania has become the most attractive prospect for Washington wooing. State department officials see it this way.

Romania has objected to the Kremlin scheme for economic integration of the Eastern European Communist lands; it has insisted on developing its own industry; it has refused to take sides in the Sino-Soviet dispute although it favors Moscow's "peaceful co-existence" rather than Peking's militancy; and it has removed some evidence of Russian influence inside Romania by actions such as abolishing compulsory public school teaching of Russian and by changing the names of certain streets and theatres.

Also the Romanians have been showing an interest in improving relations and trade with the United States.

Canada's Bridge Team Qualifies For Semi-Finals

NEW YORK (CP)—Canada's bridge team did what the experts didn't think possible by qualifying Sunday for the semi-finals of the World Open Bridge Olympiad here.

The Canucks behind fourth-place Switzerland at the end of play Friday night, the Canadians put on a sensational finish to rush past the Swiss and qualify for the fourth berth in the semi-finals.

At the end of the 20-country round-robin, Britain was on top with 190 victory points. Italy, defending world champion, was second with 153, the United States third with 147 and Canada fourth with 145.

In the semi-final rounds today, Canada meets the United States and Britain clashes with Italy. The winners meet Tuesday in the championship round.

The Canadians took 60 victory points out of a possible 63 in the final nine rounds of the round-robin.

One point behind the Swiss at the end of play Saturday night, Canada went into fourth place in Sunday's first round — the 27th of the round-robin, by beating Poland 7-0 while Switzerland was losing to France by the same score.

The Canadians then scuttled Lebanon 7-0 in Sunday afternoon's round and in the 29th round at night defeated the United States 6-1.

The Canadian team includes Dr. R. Forbes of Parry Sound, Ont.

Escapee Held At Gunpoint In Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) —Marcel Aveline, 52, being sought after escaping from Joyceville penitentiary, near Kingston, three weeks ago, was arrested at gunpoint Saturday following a high-speed car chase.

Aveline, who had also escaped from St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary near Montreal in 1953, was arrested by several Montreal traffic police officers at a downtown intersection.

The chase began a half hour earlier when two traffic officers spotted a car speeding past an east-end intersection.

Doctor Barred From Operating In Hospital

PALMERSTON, Ont. (CP)— Dr. D. E. Climo of Harriston, head of the medical panel at Palmerston General Hospital, Sunday confirmed that the key figure at a hospital death inquest last month has been barred from operating at the hospital.

Dr. Climo said the eight-doctor panel was supported in its recommendation by the hospital's board of directors that the operating room be barred to Dr. Robert K. Graham, 38.

A coroner's jury ruled that Mrs. Ina Noer, 54, of Palmerston, died as a result of two surgical errors during a gallstone operation Feb. 28. Dr. Graham was her surgeon. The jury added, however, that there was no significant evidence of negligence.

A surgical clamp was found in Mrs. Noer's body during an autopsy March 8 but the jury found this did not contribute to her death.

The barring of Dr. Graham was said to have been effective from March 8, the day after the woman's death, but Dr. Climo said he did not know why the fact Dr. Graham was barred was not brought out at the inquest.

Girlie Magazine Taken Out Of Circulation

OTTAWA (CP)—An American magazine is advising its readers in effect, to poison themselves, a federal health officer warned Saturday.

Dr. C. A. Morrell, head of the health department's food and drug directorate, said the Canadian distributor of the magazine—Escapade—has agreed to withdraw the magazine.

But he warned that people who have already bought the magazine and follow its suggestions in hopes of producing hallucinations might cause themselves serious harm.

Dr Morrell was commenting on a report from Nelson, B.C., where the district medical officer, Dr. M. R. Smart, has ordered the removal of news stands.

Dr. Smart said the magazine claims its pages are treated with a chemical, and urges its readers to dissolve the sheets, collect methyl alcohol and drink the concoction to produce mirages and hallucinations.

CAN HARM

Dr. Smart said methyl alcohol can cause blindness, paralysis and even death.

Dr. Morrell said Toronto food and drug officials are in contact with the magazine distributor in Oakville, who had agreed to withdraw the issue.

He said the magazine's supposition "sounds like a stupid hoax."

The department had no information yet on the magazine which was supposed to be in the magazine's pages, he said, "but we believe it's not likely to be anything."

However, methyl alcohol — otherwise known as wood alcohol or wood alcohol—was a poison.

"If anybody is so silly as to do what the magazine suggests, they might get enough of the wood alcohol to do them some harm."

SAYS INK MIXED

The current issue of Escapade —a girlie magazine—says the ink used to print the issue had been mixed with "a powerful hallucinogen" and asks readers to "test their receptivity" as part of a scientific test.

It advises them to dissolve any two pages in methyl alcohol, drink the result, and then look at pictures of a nude woman in the magazine.

"Send your impressions to us immediately. Science thank you."

CALLS FOR CHANGE

TORONTO (CP)—J. B. Metivier, Ontario deputy minister of labor, Saturday called for a change of attitude by both management and labor to enable the provincial government to expand its on-the-job training. He said many construction trade employers feel they cannot afford to waste time training apprentices and trade unions have the mistaken idea they are protecting membership by balking at apprenticeship programs.

New Cardiff:

A look from the air at Canada's first community for retired living. Modern in all respects, the village of 200 homes at Cardiff has been rejuvenated instead of being dismantled and sold for scrap.

The Ghost Town That Never Was

NEW CARDIFF (Special) — Happy days are here again.

And village trustees have every reason to be gay because by the time Rededication Day ended, this townsite was firmly established as Canada's first retirement community.

Actually some 250 people are permanently settled now and as many more have expressed a desire to follow them here.

Saturday, 150 two and three-bedroom bungalows went on sale for less than 50 per cent of the cost of building them in 1956. Despite a downpour most of the afternoon, hundreds of prospective purchasers flocked to the village seeking bargains. More than half the dwellings vacated by mining families found new owners. People from as far west as Flin Flon, Man., and east to Quebec took advantage of the offerings.

Houses that cost more than a reported $11,000 to build sold for $4,500 and $4,250 respectively.

At a simple rededication service in the local United Church, former Ontario Premier Leslie Frost received a gold key to the village and was named its No. 1 honorary citizen. "I look forward to a great future for this community" Mr. Frost said explaining that his optimism was based on the results of a recent survey made into the critical situation that exists in the Bancroft area.

A few weeks ago the outlook in Cardiff was clouded with gloom. Two uranium mines had closed down and the third, employing 300 miners, had been ordered to cease multiplying operations by June 30. The worst never happened. The federal government's housing agency C.M.H.C., went along with an imaginative idea that prevented it from becoming a ghost town.

Principal trustee Miss Myrtle Bamford autographs key to New Cardiff she presented to its No. 1 honorary citizen, former Ontario premier, Leslie Frost.

Way to Increase Business With Soviet Bloc May Be Emerging in Geneva Talks

GENEVA (AP)—A way to increase business with the Soviet bloc may emerge from the current round of trade talks that the late president Kennedy inspired.

Communist Poland has come up with a proposal that won a warm welcome from the private enterprise countries, including the United States. It provides Polish participation in the Kennedy Round and Polish membership in the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade.

The current Communist party line says Poland is acting only for itself. But success or failure in the negotiations will have an important effect on the trade relations between other Communist countries and the West.

So far Czechoslovakia has been the one full member of GATT from the Communist bloc and that is only because it joined before the Communists took over its government. Its participation has been on a limited scale.

The Polish proposal introduces an entirely new idea: Instead of lowering tariffs, which have little meaning in a state-trading Communist economy, Poland will guarantee to take fixed amounts of imports from the non-Communist world.

ADVANTAGES FOR WEST

In return, the private enterprise countries would give Poland the full benefit of trade advantages they give to one another. This would include the 50-per-cent cut in tariffs envisaged by Kennedy, or whatever percentage is finally agreed on. It would also eliminate many quotas set up by the Western countries to limit their imports from Poland.

A Polish exports grow in accordance with these advantages, the Polish government would guarantee to take corresponding greater imports from the West. How much trade actually increases will depend on the negotiations.

The Polish proposal was presented only in outline form. The private-enterprise countries are waiting to see the full details and read all the fine print. Up to now they have found nothing to criticize, at least in public.

The trade negotiating committee, speaking for all the 75 nations associated with GATT, including Canada, said:

"The interest of Poland in participating actively in the trade negotiations is warmly welcomed and there is general agreement that it should be feasible to work out a practical arrangement."

Christian A. Herter, President Johnson's chief negotiator, endorsed this for the U.S.

ITS PROPOSAL

The committee went on to urge talks with Poland be pressed.

Some Western experts say if Poland or any other Communist country is to take part in the Kennedy Round at all, the Polish proposal presents a reasonable way of going about it. The swapping of tariff reductions, the standard form of negotiations in the Kennedy Round, does not give the Communist countries a meaningful bargaining counter to offer to the free-enterprise countries.

When the state controls all foreign trade, tariffs can be eliminated altogether and goods still cannot enter the country unless the Communist authorities let it through the iron Curtain and make money or goods available to pay for it. This is in effect what the Poles are offering and the offer is being well received.

The U.S. would be glad to have a similar "guaranteed access" to West European markets for its grain.

Some aspects of the Polish proposal seem astonishingly liberal to Western experts. One is that direct advertising of Western products in Poland "would not be excluded."

"If they mean what they say," one economist commented, "you could plaster American soft drink signs all over the Polish landscape."

This is not too likely to happen.

Algonquin Park Fire Still Out of Control

TORONTO (CP)—Fifteen forest fires were burning in Ontario Sunday, but the department of lands and forests said all were under control except a 4,000 - acre fire in Algonquin Park.

This fire—discovered Wednesday—now is being held within bounds established Friday. It is 50 miles west of Pembroke, near Traverse Lake.

The Algonquin Park fire was one of three burning in the Pembroke area. There were five fires in the Cochrane region and two in the Port Arthur area.

Swastika, Sudbury, North Bay, Parry Sound and Tweed districts had one fire each.

Fire fighters remained on patrol Sunday where the 4,000-acre forest fire had burned out of control for two days in Algonquin Park.

District rangers said that in another 24 hours serious danger from the blaze should be past. Heavy rain Friday night helped 130 firefighters and a number of water-bombing aircraft check the blaze.

Shooting Match Replaces Forays In Cypriot War

By THOMAS A. REEDY

NICOSIA (AP)—The fighting between the Greek- and Turkish-Cypriots appears to have settled down into a shooting match which at least is sparing lives.

Swift, sharp forays by Greek- and Turkish-Cypriots into each other's territory since the Christmas eruption of the civil conflict have been replaced by sporadic shooting, mostly at night.

Seven thousand United Nations soldiers from Britain, Canada, Ireland, Sweden and Finland, with small units of civil police from co-operating countries, are planted in the major trouble spots on the island.

Roving patrols flying the UN flag jump quickly into flareups and put out the fires before they become full-scale blazes. One result: Casualty lists, which total more than 300 dead, 500 to 600 wounded and several hundred missing, now are increased by only an occasional one dead or one or two wounded.

The UN does not pretend its activity has reduced the tension. But top officers say they are satisfied that at least the conflict is contained to fixed positions.

Greek-Cypriot security forces clamped short of spilling Turkish resistance in the Kyrenia pass north of Nicosia. So far, they have kept their hands off the 6,000 Turks in the town of Lefka.

Opposing patrols roam the Kyrenia range near medieval St. Hilarion Castle, but Canadians are all over the place in numbers that appear sufficient to dissuade both sides from major operations.

Turkish villages surrounded by Greek-Cypriots are frankly scared. Nothing like they were before the UN took a firm hand last month and the Greek - Cypriots halted their drive in the Kyrenia Mountains.

Since then, shooting in the Kyrenia pass area appears chiefly aimed at letting the other side know their adversaries are still there.

Most of the island has settled into an uneasy peace.

Nicosia's "green line" dividing the Greek and Turkish quarters remains quiet nightly with gunfire, but usually no one gets hurt. The UN has counted 4,500 shots about equally divided along 1,700 yards of the line which makes the low casualty rate of recent weeks even more phenomenal.

Outward signs are so encouraging that Archbishop Makarios, the Greek - Cypriot president, visited Turkish sectors on a two-day trip last week and talked with Turks as well as Greek-Cypriots, scolding both.

With the military situation for an apparent deep freeze, the president must try to reach a political solution with Turkish-Cypriot Vice - President Fazil Kuchuk. This is also the task of UN Mediator Sakari Tuomioja of Finland.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

The Bay of Quinte Power Squadron flew a proud, if invisible new burgee on its halyard of success at the annual dinner-dance meeting at the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club Saturday night.

It marked the tenth anniversary of the yeasty squadron which in a short decade of existence has risen to become one of the most efficient units on the 82-squadron roster of the national Canadian Power Squadron.

It came into being in 1954 with Ian Morch as the charter commender. Born healthy it came through the toddling years with flying colors and under highly competent commanders has grown into strong sturdy manhood.

Taking over the helm in successive years have been Commanders Jack Tatham, Dr. Jack Marshall, Lennox Smith, John Grant, Bob McCulloch, Dr. Art Elliott, the late Wilfred Stephenson, Ed Smith and last year Dr. John Clarke. The 1964 commander named Saturday night is Don Hickson.

The administrative qualities of squadron members rate highly in Canadian Power Squadron circles. During its brief ten years it has placed several on the roster of the parent body's representation.

National Vice Commander Bob McCulloch in a brief "anniversary" address said that in its ten years of existence the 'squadron has done tremendous things.

"It is known across Canada for its excellence of training—and it produced Canada's first woman navigator, Mrs. Kay Smith," he pointed out.

Quinte was the first squadron in Canada to form the "Sundowners," who have proven to be a common value and inspiration to the unit as a whole. In outside activities it has led in sponsoring rendezvous and water activities of many sorts. It has been inspirational in demonstrating in a practical way the many things it has learned."

"Because of its activities in the early years it became the 12th squadron to be chartered. High national officers came here to hold examinations. Since then the top brass has drawn heavily on us to fill posts in the national body," Vice Commander McCulloch said.

"Quinte Squadron" he said "is filling a uniquely tremendous field in the extension of itself. It is an enormously growing organization and has assisted in the formation of power squadrons at Prince Edward, Trenton RCAF, Presqu'ile and hopes to form another in the Napanee-Deseronto area."

"It has been a leader in all fields and has set an example which must be followed. It is up to the new people coming in to see that this is done," he said.

District Lieut. Commander Ed. Smith added his tribute. He said it was a nationally-known leading squadron which leads its district and which has helped its district to become a leader of districts. It had 183 students last year, he said, ninety percent of which were successful.

Rear Commander Lennox Smith told me that this district has been honored this year in being named the host to the International Rendezvous slated for early July at Trenton RCAF. The district rendezvous also will be held there.

Incidentally Rear Commodore Smith was recently named national District Commander whose duties cover activities from coast to coast and parts of the United States.

A distinguished guest was National Vice Commander Allan Eade of Toronto, who spoke to squadron graduates. The covering story of the highly successful function will be found elsewhere on the news pages.

B and D Softball League

Turns Down 'Interlock'

Members of the Belleville and District softball league turned thumbs down on a proposed interlocking schedule with the Trent Valley League at a special meeting held at Club Canara yesterday afternoon.

While a couple of the B. and D. clubs thought they might be able to take part in the interlocking scheme, one definite "no" and another doubtful vote settled the issue.

TVL spokesmen were not too unhappy with the refusal but went about arranging exhibition games with some of the B. and D. clubs. Marmora has joined the TVL, along with Bloomfield, Madoc, Stirling and Frankford. Marmora had asked to be left out of any inter locking play with the B. and D. group prior to the meeting.

The B. and D. League, with Trudeau Motors and Ellis Juniors from Belleville and Tweed Lombards and Trenton Commercial Printers, agreed that an interlocking schedule which caused for Friday and Saturday games would not be suitable.

All scheduled games in the B. and D. will be played the first four nights each week. Home games in Tweed will be on Mondays, Trudeaus will play home games on Tuesdays, Trenton on Wednesdays and Ellis Juniors on Thursdays.

A mixup brought about when Trenton's home night was changed from Tuesday to Wednesdays was straightened out when Tweed consented to take Mondays for home games.

The 18-game schedule will open in Tweed next Monday with Trudeau Motors the visiting club. Tweed hopes to have the lights installed at the 2.00 in the afternoon. Usual starting times there will be 8.45.

Trenton will play at Trudeaus on Tuesday, May 19, the Juniors at Trenton on Wednesday, May 20, and Tweed at Ellis Juniors on Thursday, May 21. Bellevile home games will start at 6.45, at the CNRA Park, while Trenton will play under the lights at 8.15.

A complete schedule is expected within the next few days.

Yankee Cavalry Routs Indians 4-0

By The Canadian Press

New York Yankees have quit fluffing their lines and are following the script again.

Anemic at the plate and uncertain in the field in their early performances this season, the Yankees re - established their reputation and reassured fourth-year manager Ralph Houk today as they came out of Cleveland with a four-game sweep that knocked the Indians out of first place in the American League.

While the Tribe reeled back into fourth place, the Bombers moved into a virtual tie with Chicago White Sox for the lead. But it wasn't so much what the Yankees did as the way they did it.

They hammered eight home runs in the four games, scoring 31 runs on 44 hits. They even remedied their worst early-season failing by winning one in extra innings.

That one, the second game of Sunday's doubleheader, was a non - anticlimax that saw the throwing error by losing pitcher Ted Abernathy in the 10th inning allowed Bill Stafford, the mound rival, to score the winning run. That was nothing flukey about the 15-hit assault that accompanied New York's 12-3 triumph in the first game.

STAY IN FRONT

The White Sox kept their lead intact by splitting twinbill points as Ron Hansen and J. C. Martin provided homers in a 5-3 victory over Los Angeles Angels.

Elsewhere, Baltimore Orioles took advantage of Tuesday play by two Detroit catchers to down the Tigers 2-1 and 7-1, Minnesota Twins topped Kansas City Athletics 5-3 and Washington Senators split with Boston Red Sox, winning 13-4 and losing 9-4.

The Yankees downed the Indians 6-2 Saturday while the Twins outslugged the Athletics 10-8, Baltimore shaded Detroit 7-6, the Senators edged Boston 5-4 in 10 innings and the Angels whipped Chicago 7-4.

The Yankees fielded their regular lineup for the first time this season Sunday and Roger Maris celebrated his return to action by driving in five runs with three hits, including a homer, in the first game. Joe Pepitone also homered and Bobby Richardson contributed five hits.

SETS UP RUNS

Detroit catcher Bill Freehan fielded Brooks Robinson's bunt and threw the ball all the way to the right-field bull pen for a three-base error to set up Baltimore's two runs in the fourth inning of the first game. His subordinate, Mike Roarke, tried a pickoff at third base with the bases loaded in the nightcap and let in two runs as the ball went into left field.

Don Mincher's three - run homer was the Twins' big blow in a game that cost them the services of catcher Earl Battey, stunned when he crashed into the bat boy's chair while making a spectacular catch of a foul ball.

Homers by Jim Fregosi and Dick Simpson enabled the Angels to nullify Hansen's three-run blast but Martin put the White Sox ahead to stay with his shot in the fourth inning.

Bill Skowron slammed three homers for the Yankees in their free-swinging twin bill but a two-run homer by Carl Yastrzemski and three singles by Dalton Bressoud in the nightcap helped the Red Sox earn their split.

Reds, Pirates Profit By Passes

Two Misses' Good For Two Wins

By Murray Chass

Associated Press Sports Writer

When graduation time rolls around at Mickey Owen's baseball school, Gus Triandos and Joe Torre should stand at the head of the class.

The two catchers earned their diplomas Sunday in a way that would have made Owen proud.

Triandos missed a third strike that led to the deciding run in Baltimore's 2-1 victory over Philadelphia Phillies while Torre's passed ball on the third strike paved the way for Pittsburgh Pirates' 6-5 come-from-behind triumph over Milwaukee Braves in the second game of their doubleheader.

Owen, of course, holds the distinction of missing the third strike with two out in the ninth inning of a 1941 World Series game. He's operator of a baseball school for boys eight through 18.

The Triandos passed ball put Deron Johnson on first base in the fourth inning of a runless pitching duel between Philadelphia's Chris Short and the Red's Joe Nuxhall.

Short struck out Frank Robinson for what should have been the third out, then walked Tom Harper and gave up a run-scoring single to Chico Cardenas.

TORRE LOSES THE BALL

The Pirates trailed 5-3 when Bill Mazeroski opened the ninth by striking out. The ball, however, got by Torre, and Mazeroski went to first. The Pirates proceeded to win the game on three singles mixed with a sacrifice bunt.

The victory gave the Pirates a split for the day. Milwaukee won the first game 11-3. In other National League games, Los Angeles Dodgers trubbed San Francisco Giants 9-1, Chicago Cubs nipped Houston Colts 4-3 before 1,000 fans in 11 innings and New York Mets downed St. Louis Cardinals 4-1, then lost 5-3.

On Saturday the Giants edged the Dodgers 4-3, St. Louis whipped the Mets 5-1, the Phillies nipped the Reds 5-4, Pittsburgh bombed the Braves 10-0 and the Cubs clobbered the Colts 9-1.

Cincinnati added another run off Short in the eighth Sunday on Johnson's single and Robinson's double. Nuxhall held the Phillies to four hits.

Willie Stargell's two-out single in the nightcap drove in Pat Rates after they lost the opener on the Braves' seven-run seventh inning. Hank Aaron started the rally with a home run, and Mike De La Hoz singled across the lead run. Two Pittsburgh errors helped Milwaukee.

Eddie Mathews stabbed a three-run homer in the first inning of the first game and doubled home two runs in the Braves' five-run first inning of the second.

HOMERS HELP DRYSDALE

Joe Hoerner, Hal Woodeshick and Maury Wills each drove in two runs while Frank Howard smashed his 10th home run for the Dodgers. John Roseboro also homered. Their support made it easy for Don Drysdale to win his first game in five decisions on a six-hitter.

Willie Mays had two of the hits, both doubles, and drove in the Giants' only run in the sixth. Mays' batting ash has hit safely in 17 straight games.

Walt Bond was the batting star for Houston against the Cubs. The mammoth outfielder doubled home the Colts' first run in the fourth inning of the second game, then singled to score the tie-breaking tally in the 10th.

Bond cracked a two-run homer in the opener, but Houston was overpowered by Chicago home runs. Rookie Billy Cowan, Ernie Banks and Billy Williams connected, helping Larry Jackson to his fifth victory against one loss.

The Mets' 19-year-old Jerry Hinsley retired the first eight batters he faced in his major league starting debut, but St. Louis then got to him for six hits by Ray Washburn and Curt Flood and doubles by Dick Groat, Bill White and Ken Boyer, good for four runs.

The Mets won the first game with three runs in the ninth, two coming on homers by Rod Kanehl and Frank Thomas.

Bowling Champions Crowned

Champions were crowned in the men's "B" tournament and in the "Miss (Mrs.) Bowling" tournament, a combined effort, held with a record number of entries at the Bowl-O-Drome here on the weekend.

Mary Fox, of Trenton, captured the "Miss Bowling" championship with a sparkling ten-game total of 2203. This is the ladies' counterpart of the "Mr. Bowling" tournament, held just a week ago.

Meanwhile the men's "B" tournament title, up for competition among bowlers with 210 and under averages, was won by Belleville's Ken Cannon with a ten-game score of 2221.

A record number of entries took part in each section of the tournament with six prize winners in each group.

Mary Fox built her lead in the first half when she scored 1050 in her first five games. Her high single was a fine 321 game, also the highest single rolled in the tourney. Other high scores in the women's section were a 310 game by Peg Ronsky and a 301 by Pat Kitson.

Bea Hunt, with 3188, was second and Peg Ronsky, with 2090, was third in the "Miss Bowling" tourney. Both are from Bellevile. Marlies Finish Memorial Cup Waltz

Last Dance 7-2

By GERRY GLADMAN

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Marlboros capped a highly successful junior hockey season Saturday night, winning the Memorial Cup without working up much of a sweat.

Marlboros trounced defending champion Edmonton Oil Kings 7-2 to wind up their best-of-seven series in four straight outings. It was their fourth Memorial Cup since 1953—their first in eight years.

"We never came close to pressing them at anytime," said losing coach Buster Brayshaw in the dressing room after the game.

Oil Kings' failure to press the opposition allowed Marlboros to sweep the series without really proving how good a hockey club they are.

The pattern of the final game was similar to the second, in which Oil Kings came up with two good periods then were out played in the third.

OPPORTUNITIES MISSED

Each team picked up a pair of goals in the opening session with Marlboros holding a 14-10 edge in shots. In the second, Edmonton played their best hockey missed out on several excellent scoring opportunities through erratic shooting.

The one-goal edge Marlboros carried into the third was quickly increased as Toronto snipers exploded for four goals that sent Oil Kings reeling.

Toronto marksmen were Rod Selling, Gerry Dinsen, Andy Champagne, Mike Walton, Peter Slamkovski, Grant Moore and Nick Harbaruk. Right winger Max Mestinsek fired both Edmonton goals.

Oil King goalie, Russ Kirk rapped earlier for a poor performance in the series, silenced his critics by making 13 saves in the first, 18 in the second and 12 in the final frame, for a total of 42. Toronto's Gary Smith made a number of key saves although he faced only 28 shots.

Marlboros captured the cup before a meagre crowd of 2,811, believed to be the smallest crowd to sit in on a deciding Memorial Cup game. The total for four games came to approximately 10,000.

COACH IN PROUD

"I'm happy, I'm proud and I'm tired," said Marlboros' freshman pilot Jim Gregory. "This is the greatest team I've ever seen."

"I'm sorry we couldn't offer better competition," said Bray-

Sports Club Beats Parsons By 11-1 Score

Belleville Parsons Cleaners got away to a rough start in the Kingston District Soccer League schedule on Saturday when a shorthanded Parsons team absorbed an 11-1 whipping from Kingston Sports Club.

The game was played in Kingston and only eight Belleville players turned up for the match. Several players from Belleville and all of the Picton army players on the team, failed to reach Kingston for the game. Parsons have strengthened the club with a number of the Picton Guards for this, their first season in the Kingston league.

Parsons were permitted to start the game with their eight-man lineup but lost another player by injury in the second half. Sports Club had built up a 6-0 lead by half time and outscored Parsons 5-1 in the second half.

The only Parsons goal was scored by Bob Rutherford.

Belleville's next scheduled game will be at home this Saturday against Kingston Crusaders, with the kickoff at 6.00 p.m.

Skeet-Shooting Championships

American Takes Title

ST. JANVIER, Que. (CP)—Tom J. Heffron Jr., of Groton, Conn., says "there are two kinds of skeet birds—the hard ones and the harder ones".

Heffron, 25, a fresh - faced youth with a small-town love of the outdoors, smashed enough of both birds—clay, saucer-shaped targets in hymer's language—to capture the Canadian Open Skeet Shooting Championships. The three-day meet, plagued by rains and gale-force winds that kept scores well below average, ended Sunday.

Heffron beat Thorne Donnelley, 30, a six-foot, Lake Forest, Ill., publisher, 49-48 in a 50-target shootoff. They had each smashed 467 of the regulation 500 targets to force a shoot-down. The open, over-all crown is awarded to the shooter having the best aggregate score with the meet's four guns, the .410-calibre 20, 28- and 12-.

Harry Willsie, 35 - year - old Montreal sports store owner, was the only Canadian winner, taking the tough .410 title with an opening day 96 score. He won the Ontario Open a week ago in Toronto.

Eddie Tyro, 37, a Montreal dressmaker, was the Canadian closed over-all beating Willsie 96-48 in a shoot-off after both had tied with scores of 467. Tyro also retained his 12-gauge Canadian championship.

Bill Century, Buffalo publisher, won the Quebec open 12-gauge.

Barry Boyce of Kingston won the Canadian junior open in the 12-gauge with a 186. Runner-up was J. A. Hunter of Lindsay, Ont., who had a 180.

C. H. (Cup) McCreery of Ottawa won the Canadian 28-gauge title Saturday with his score of 96.

Walter Kaczmarzyk, 21-year-old Kitchener music teacher, won the Canadian 20-gauge, title. He was involved in the five-way shoot-off for the Canadian open crown in this event.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Toronto belted the Crackers twice, 8-1 and 14-4, while Syracuse was losing 9-7 to Columbus Jets. In other games, Buffalo and Jacksonville split a doubleheader, the Bisons winning the first game 3-2 and the Suns taking the second 5-1, while Richmond Virginians defeated Rochester Red Wings 4-1.

UBC Crews Defeat Oregon U.

CORVALLIS, Ore. (AP)—The powerful University of British Columbia eight- and four-man crews defeated Oregon State University over the 2,000-metre Willamette River course Saturday.

Oregon State took some consolation by winning both JV races.

UBC's eight-man crew won by three lengths in 5:58. Oregon, using a 35-stroke, took an early lead but the Canadians—with four of the Pan American gold medal crew in the shell—overcame that and won pulling away with a stroke that varied from 35 to 36 a minute. Oregon's time was 6:18.

The British Columbia four-man crew used a slow stroke of 29 to 30 and finished four lengths ahead in 6:36.5. OSU was timed at 7:24.

Next rowing competition will be May 23 when U.S. West Coast crews and UBC will meet at San Diego.

B. C. Team New Tenpin Champions

WINNIPEG (CP)—British Columbia scored a flashy final-round victory over Quebec Sunday to capture the team championship in the first Canadian teams and doubles tenpin bowling championships.

The B.C. five bowled a 1020—the highest team score in the four-day tournament — to help beat Quebec in the round and upset Manitoba for the title.

Manitoba, leading the pack with 18 points to B.C.'s 16 going into the seventh and final round suffered a 4-1 defeat by Saskatchewan to settle for second spot with 18.

B.C. beat Quebec 4-1 to finish with 20 points of a possible 30. Saskatchewan was third with 17 followed by Ontario with 16, Quebec 15, Northern Ontario 13 and Alberta 8.

The doubles championship went to Red Glasser and Joe Most of Regina. They swept the final four games against Quebec Saturday night to finish with a total of 24 points of a possible 30.

Close competition for next spot left Al Clipsham and John Allenby of Vancouver with 6½, Quebec with 16 and Manitoba with 15½. Alberta had 13, Ontario 11 and Northern Ontario 6.

Wally Grisdale of Toronto had eight consecutive strikes in the final round but left pins standing in the 10th frame for frames for a 345. Ontario scored a 3-3 points win in the round over Northern Ontario.

Yale Crew Sets Record

NEW YORK (CP)—Yale University's varsity crew defeated Cornell and Princeton in record time Saturday at the Olympic distance of 2,000 metres.

In the race rowed on Lake Carnegie, Yale beat Cornell by a half-length in 5:53. The old mark in the Carnegie Cup competition was 5:54.4, set by Yale in 1958.

Meanwhile on the Oakland Estuary in California, University of California defeated Washington University by two boat lengths on a 2,000-metre course. The time was 6:12.

Washington's heartweight crew lowered the record for the Charles River course at Cambridge, Mass., rowing 2,000 metres in 5:56.6, to defeat Navy by three lengths and Penn by another length.

At Philadelphia at the Henley distance of 1½ miles, Georgetown University battled a strong headwind to capture the Dad Vail Regatta, emblematic of the championship of US., junior rowing colleges. The time was 7:03.8.

Guthrie Theatre Readies Premieres

By GEORGE MOSES

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Hamlet trades in his controversial black tights for the medieval dress of King Henry V in the Guthrie Repertory Theatre's second season.

The season will open with a company largely devoid of names known outside professional circles.

George Grizzard, last year's Hamlet, is back to play Henry, and the Dauphin in Saint Joan, Jillen Gear, another 1963 veteran, will play Joan.

Douglas Campbell, a Stratford, Ont., veteran who is Guthrie's associate artistic director, will play Cauchon and him-self. Tony Randall will play the title role in Volpone with Nelson, also in the cast last year, will play Mosca. The Glass Menagerie will produce its direct

"And the problem will get worse. More people are getting more leisure time every year. That means more areas of recreation will be needed and the existing areas must be preserved."

Fate steered Frank MacDougall into the bush.

"As a kid I never had much interest in it. I was gassed overseas while in the army in the First World War and decided the outdoor life might be better for my health.

Two miles south of his office, at Toronto Island Airport, stands Mr. MacDougall's Beaver aircraft ready for his next trip. He gave stimulus and initiative to the design and construction of the Beaver, now used extensively by the department because it is ideal for landing and taking off from small lakes.

Despite his busy schedule, Mr. MacDougall has time for hobbies, among them music. He not only plays violin ("I go for that old-time fiddling stuff") but builds his own instruments. A skill he learned from a book.

He has made seven violins and has given six away to friends.

When he heads into the wilderness, chances are he'll be packing his violin—plus a few knives and pliers for trading purposes ("the bartering system is very popular in the bush").

Frank MacDougall has access to some of the best hunting and fishing in the country but his friends can recall him getting a bear.

Hunting? "Oh, I hunted a bit many years ago, but I shot myself in the foot one day and haven't touched a gun since."

No. 2 Man at Lands and Forests

He Guides Fire Brigades With Wings

By JIM BARTABLE

TORONTO (CP)—The small pontoon-equipped plane droned through the sky as a bright, warm sun beat down on the Northern Ontario wilderness.

Ground station to CF-OOO," a voice barked over the aircraft's radio.

"This is OOO," the pilot replied. "Can I help you?"

"Yes, OOO, we're trying to locate a fire which can be observed from a tower but it's impossible to get the location. Will you check and report on it?"

The Beaver swung off in the general direction of the forest fire and the pilot radioed back its precise location. The blaze was soon under control.

The pilot was Frank A. MacDougall, Ontario's chief deputy minister of lands and forests, on his way back to Toronto after a business trip into the northland. The radio operator had no idea he was calling on the department's No. 2 man to help on a routine job.

But it wouldn't occur to Mr. MacDougall, a raw - boned, craggy - faced veteran of the bush, to pull rank and refuse the chore.

It helps explain why he is equally respected by Indian trapper and Queen's Park stenographer; why he is a man as much at ease at a tree stump chatting with bush workers as at the walnut desk in his office at the Ontario legislature in midtown Toronto.

WON TROPHY

Under his guidance, the air arm of the lands and forests department has become one of the world's largest and most efficient firefighting forces with a total of 45 Beaver and Otter planes.

He is a pilot of many years' experience, a 9,000-hour man who at 67 still logs 20,000 miles a year supervising his scattered 2,500-man staff.

Mr. MacDougall was awarded the McKee Aviation Trophy for 1953 in recognition of his contribution to Canadian aviation during his 40 years with the department, particularly in recognition of the role of aircraft in fighting forest fires.

The trophy was put up in 1927 by the late Dalzell McKee of Pittsburgh who a year earlier had made the first trans-Canada flight by seaplane.

"You never think of receiving such an award for doing something you love to do," says Mr. MacDougall. "But when you get it, it gives you a warm feeling."

A native of Toronto who spent his early childhood in Carleton Place, Ont., Frank MacDougall graduated in forestry from the University of Toronto in 1923 and joined the department as assistant forester in the Algonquin forest district office at Pembroke.

BECAME PARK SUPER

He later served in the Sault Ste. Marie forest district and in 1930 became superintendent of Algonquin Park, a 2,910-square-mile area that has become one of the province's favorite recreational areas.

Eleven years later he headed for Toronto and a red-carpeted second-floor office as deputy minister.

The jobs changed but Frank MacDougall didn't. He and a powerful executive aide, now [illegible] still pay a visit to the [illegible] Park.

THIS BOSS NO BUREAUCRAT — Frank MacDougall, 67-year-old Ontario deputy minister of lands and forests, logs 20,000 miles a year in his own plane supervising his scattered staff. A veteran forester, he's as much at home with bush workers as with the staff of his executive office in Toronto. Despite his busy schedule as boss of one of the world's largest firefighting groups he reserves time not only for playing the violin but also making them, a skill he learned from a book. (CP Photo)

Subtle Ads Become Common In Today's Hollywood Films

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Commercials in movies, more subtle than the kind on television, are breaking out all over Hollywood.

That's the word from a man in charge of commercial tie-ups for a major studio. Scarcely a movie with a modern background is made nowadays without an advertisement of some sort slipping across the screen.

This is a fairly recent development. When major studios controlled most filming, the producers maintain an unwritten code against showing commercial products in movies.

A branch of the code brought strong protests from theatre owners. When a bottle of Vat 69 appeared in 12 O'Clock High, 20th Century-Fox was flooded with so many complaining letters that a commercialism became strict studio policy.

Look at Fox now. In Goodbye, Charlie, Debbie Reynolds will visit a beauty salon in which a bottle of Clairol is plainly visible. In John Goldfarb, Please Come Home, football players will fly to a middle east game via Lufthansa Air Lines. In What A Way To Go, Robert Mitchum commects to Shirley MacLaine that her jewels came from Harry Winston's.

Why this burst of commercialism?

REALIZE VALUE

Insiders trace the trend from the decline of authoritarian studio rule and the rise of independent producers. Nearly all film makers now realize the value of commercial tie-ups.

The most obvious benefit is the lavish advertising space in magazines and newspapers, which film companies cannot afford. A commercial firm will take extensive ads featuring the star's photo or a scene from the movie, always with a credit line for the film.

There are other advantages, too. In the case of What A Way To Go !Winston's loaned Fox $3,000,000 worth of jewels to use in the picture.

Car firms such as Chrysler offer the free use of new autos in films and by executive Airlines provide free overseas travel in return for plugs. Some of the airlines will provide stock footage of landings, the use of aircraft in airport scenes and even cutaway cabins for interior shots.

"But nowadays the plugs don't happen because a producer wants to fill up his garage with rains of beer or because a star wants a new car," declares a studio official. "Such things can happen, but the real reason is that lovely white specs your movie can get in magazines and newspapers."

The practice seems likely to continue. In Hud, Jack Daniels whisky is featured prominently. A catalogue of products appears in Jerry Lewis's Who's Minding the Store.

The Half-Hour Action Show Now Becoming Obsolete

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—The half-hour action show, once the most popular television form, is obsolete.

It told a short story in the most uncomplicated form—the bad guys seized the truck; the good guys tracked them down; there was a shoot out; the good guys won every time.

There was no time for subplots, counter-plots or character development. They were all over the channels for years. Then they were replaced by the hour-long action shows.

CBS' Brenner, which moved into the network's lineup Sunday night, was a series of half-hour shows made five or six years ago. It tried to get away from the stereotyped cops-and-robbers show and inject some realism, develop some characters.

DIDN'T WORK OUT

It did not work out successfully—the series was short-lived—and even today, accustomed as we are to the realism and character development, it still isn't right.

In sharp contrast was ABC's return of an Arrest and Trial episode. It demonstrated that character development, well handled, can be more fascinating than a shoot out.

CBS' The Defenders Saturday also was a thoughtful character study—and a rather frightening one.

The Defenders invariably has both point and point of view and sometimes it reaches conclusions that are not as satisfying as having the good guys win. It is altogether a superior series.

Leafs Belt Crackers To Regain Lead

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Toronto Maple Leafs buried Atlanta Crackers a little deeper in the International League cellar under a barrage of 23 hits Sunday and regained first place from Syracuse Chiefs.

Toronto belted the Crackers twice, 8-1 and 14-4, while Syracuse was losing 9-7 to Columbus Jets, in other games, Buffalo and Jacksonville split a doubleheader, the Bisons winning the first game 3-2 and the Suns taking the second 8-1, while Richmond Virginians defeated Rochester Red Wings 4-1.

The Crackers upset the Leafs 4-3 Saturday while the Suns edged Buffalo by the same score, Richmond shaded Rochester 3-2 and the Jets pounded Syracuse 13-7.

Jim Bronstad, who hurled scoreless ball for 5 1-3 innings, took the first game for Toronto Sunday. Leo Tata, Jim McKnight and Bill Kern hammered homers for the Leafs in the second game, while Atlanta's only bright spot was a grand slam homer by Jay Ward.

8 Boxers Qualify For Trials

BARRIE, Ont. (CP) — Eight Ontario boxers qualified Saturday for the Canadian championships and Olympic trials scheduled later this month in Vancouver.

Four other boxers will be named to the team by the Central and Southwestern Ontario branch.

Qualifying at the branch finals held here Saturday were Walter Hall, Penetang, Ont.; Ilia Dong Scharff, welterweight, Renfrew; John Kabelik, welterweight, Kitchener; Larry McGregor, lightweight, Renfrew; Johnny Lepadula, lightweight, Toronto.

SF Giants Send Three To Tacoma

SAN FRANCISCO (CP-AP)— The San Francisco Giants announced Sunday they have optioned pitcher Ken McMullen, who had a brief stint with Gore Bay, Ont., catcher Bob Barton and infielder Gil Garrido to their Tacoma, Wash., club of the Pacific Coast League.

All are on 24-hour recall.

McMullen, 23, acquired in a trade from St. Louis after last season, hadn't seen action for the Giants. The lefthanded former Yale University star was with New York Mets before the Cards acquired him late last season. He had a composite 1963 record of three wins and one loss and a 4.91 earned-run average.

TRACK RECORDS FALL

FRESNO, Calif. (AP)—Dallas Long obliterated his own world's shot put record Saturday night with a heave of 68 feet 7¼ inches on his second effort at the West Coast Relays and Darrel Hawkins of Fresno State blazed 100 yards in 9.3 seconds, equaling the the listed world's mark. Frank Budd set the 9.2 mark recorded in 1961 and it has been equalled by Harry Jerome of Vancouver, B.C. Long set the previous world mark of 65-11½ five weeks ago.

UBC Crews Defeat Oregon U.

CORVALLIS, Ore. (AP)—The powerful University of British Columbia eight- and four-man crews defeated Oregon State University over the 2,000-metre Willamette River course Saturday.

Oregon State took some consolation by winning both JV races.

UBC's eight-man crew won by three lengths in 5:58. Oregon, using a 33-stroke, took an early lead but the Canadians—with four of the Pan American gold-medal crew in the shell—overcame that and won pulling away with a stroke that varied from 33 to 36 a minute. Oregon's time was 6:16.

The British Columbia four-man crew used a slow stroke of 29 to 30 and finished four lengths ahead in 6:36.5. OSU was timed at 7:24.

Next rowing competition will be May 23 when U.S. West Coast crews and UBC will meet at San Diego.

B.C. Team New Tenpin Champions

WINNIPEG (CP)— British Columbia scored a flashy final-round victory over Quebec Sunday to capture the team championship in the first Canadian teams and doubles tenpin bowling championships.

The B.C. five bowled a 1036—the highest team score in the four-day tournament — to help beat Quebec in the round and upset Manitoba for the title.

Manitoba, leading the pack with 18 points to B.C.'s 16 going into the seventh and final round suffered a 4-1 defeat by Saskatchewan to settle for second spot with 18.

B.C. beat Quebec 4-1 to finish with 20 points of a possible 30. Saskatchewan was third with 17 followed by Ontario with 16, Quebec 13, Northern Ontario 12 and Alberta 8.

The doubles championship went to Red Glasser and Joe Mont of Regina. They swept the final four games against Quebec Saturday night to finish with a total of 24 points of a possible 30.

Close competition for next spot left Al Clipsham and John Allenby of Vancouver with 6½, Quebec with 16 and Manitoba with 15½, Alberta had 13, Ontario 11 and Northern Ontario 9.

Walter Ozioli of Toronto had eight consecutive strikes in the final round but left pins standing on the last two frames for a 245. Ontario scored a 3-2 points win in the round over Northern Ontario.

Yale Crew Sets Record

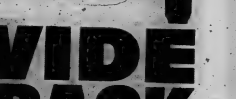
NEW YORK (CP)—Yale University's varsity crew defeated Cornell and Princeton in record time Saturday at the Olympic distance of 2,000 metres.

The Yale crew raced on Lake Carnegie, Yale beat Cornell by a half-length in 5:53. The old mark in the Carnegie Cup competition was 5:54.4, set by Yale in 1958.

Meanwhile on the Oakland Estuary in California, University of California defeated Washington University by two boat lengths on a 2,000-metre course. The time was 6:12.

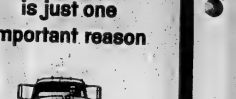
Harvard's heavyweight crew lowered the record for the Charles River course at Cambridge, Mass., rowing 2,000 metres in 5:34.8, to defeat Navy by three lengths and Penn by another two.

At Philadelphia at the Henley distance of 1 5-16 miles, George Town University battled a strong rowing collegeo. The time was 7:03.8.



Why do you see so many LOADSTARS —?

WIDE TRACK FRONT AXLE is just one important reason



40° wheel turn for more maneuverability. Turning radius is up to 14% shorter than trucks of similar size.

Exceptional stability. Plant your feet wide apart and you'll know why wide track stance reduces load sway and protects components from strain.

Improved tracking. Loadstar follows easier in ruts left by other dual wheel trucks. And wherever the wide-set front wheels can go, you know there's room for rear dual wheels too.

ling. Wide track axles, plus steering wheel and perfected gear make for effortless control and you'll agree.

You'll earn more with an INTERNATIONAL LOADSTAR —built, sold and serviced by truck men.

No. 2 Man at Lands and Forests

He Guides Fire Brigades With Wings

By JIM HASTABLE

TORONTO (CP)—The small pontoon-equipped plane droned through the sky as a bright, warm sun beat down on the Northern Ontario wilderness.

Ground station to CF-ODO," a voice barked over the air-craft's radio.

"This is ODO." the pilot replied. "Can I help you?"

"Yes, ODO, we're trying to locate a fire which can be observed from a fourth but it's impossible to get the location. Will you check and report on it?"

The Beaver swung off in the general direction of the forest fire and the pilot radioed back its precise location. The blaze was soon under control.

The pilot was Frank A. MacDougall, Ontario's chief deputy minister of lands and forests, on his way home to Toronto after a business trip into the northland. The radio operator had no idea he was calling on the department's No. 2 man to help on a routine job.

But it wouldn't occur to Mr. MacDougall, a raw - boned, craggy - faced veteran of the bush, to pull rank and refuse the chore.

It helps explain why he is equally respected by Indian trapper and Queen's Park sen-ogrophers. Why he is a man as much at home on a tree stump chatting with bush workers as at the walnut desk in his office of the Ontario legislature in midtown Toronto.

WON TROPHY

Under his guidance, the air arm of the lands and forests department has become one of the world's largest and most efficient firefighting forces with a total of 45 Beaver and Otter planes.

He is a pilot of many years' experience, a 8,000-hour man who at 57 still logs 30,000 miles a year supervising his scattered 2,500-man staff.

Mr. MacDougall was awarded the McKee Aviation Trophy for 1963 in recognition of his contribution to Canadian aviation during his 40 years with the department, particularly his recognition of the role of air-craft in fighting forest fires.

The trophy was put up in 1927 by the late Dalsell McKee of Pittsburgh when a year earlier had made the first trans-Canada flight by seaplane.

"You never think of receiving such an award for doing something you love to do," says Mr. MacDougall. "But when you get it, it gives you a nice warm feeling."

A native of Toronto who spent his early childhood in Carleton Place, Ont., Frank MacDougall graduated in forestry from the University of Toronto in 1923 and joined the department as assistant forester in the Algonquin forest district office at Huntsville.

BECAME PARK SUPER

He later served in the Sault Ste. Marie forest district and in 1936 became superintendent of Algonquin Park, a 2,910-square-mile area that has become one of the province's favorite recreational areas.

Eleven years later he headed for Toronto and a red-carpeted second-floor office as deputy minister.

The jobs changed but Frank MacDougall didn't. He has a typical executive suite but has added a few frills that give evidence of his love of the outdoors.

A hand-carved set of paddles stands in one corner; an olive-green parka hangs on a clothes tree over boots mud-caked from the bush trails into the north. A box of fishing and survival equipment sits beside the desk.

"I like to see the work?" he asked as he brought out a combination knife - flintstone from the survival kit. He rubbed the tissue into a ball and scratched the flint. As the flames curled up, the deputy's leathery palm came down to kill the fire.

"The last time I tried that I nearly burned a hole in the desk."

GREATEST CHALLENGE

Although Mr. MacDougall looks after a vast range of Ontario's forests and streams, he holds a special affection for Algonquin Park. It's a true wilderness, abounding with fish and wildlife, and he wants to keep it that way.

"This is one of our greatest challenges. Much has been done but we must do more. Logging roads and other roads have changed the area for the worse.

"It's like cutting a salami—you keep taking off a piece until there's nothing left.

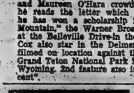
"And the problem will get worse. More people are getting more leisure time every year. That means more areas of recreation will be needed and the existing areas must be preserved.

Fate steered Frank MacDougall into the bush.

"As a kid I never had much interest in it. I was gassed overseas while in the army in the First World War and decided the outdoor life might be better for my health."

Two miles south of his office, at Toronto Island Airport, stands Mr. MacDougall's Beaver aircraft ready for his next trip. He gave stimulus and initiative to the design and construction of the Beaver, now used extensively by the department because it is ideal for landing and taking off from small lakes.

Despite his busy schedule, Mr. MacDougall has time for hobbies, among them music. He not only plays violin ("I go for that old-time fiddling stuff") but builds his own instruments. A skill he learned from a book. He has made seven violins and has given six away to friends.



When he heads into the wilderness, chances are he'll be packing his violin—plus a few knives and pliers for trading purposes ("the bartering system is very popular in the bush").

Frank MacDougall has access to some of the best hunting and fishing in the country but few friends can recall him wetting a line.

Hunting? "Oh, I hunted a bit many years ago, but I shot myself in the foot and I guess I haven't touched a gun since."

THIS BOSS NO BUREAUCRAT — Frank MacDougall, 57-year-old Ontario deputy minister of lands and forests, logs 20,000 miles a year in his own plane supervising his scattered staff. A veteran forester, he's as much at home with bush workers as with the staff of his executive office in Toronto. Despite his busy schedule as boss of one of the world's largest firefighting groups he reserves time not only for playing the violin but also making them, a skill he learned from a book. (CP Photo)

Guthrie Theatre Readies Premieres

By GEORGE MOSES

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Hamlet trades in his controversial dinner jacket for the medieval battle dress of King Henry V when the Guthrie Repertory Theatre opens its second season Monday.

Shakespeare, on the 400th anniversary of his birth, will still be the lead-off playwright, but in contrast to last year's modern-dress version of the melancholy Dane, Henry V will be traditional all the way.

Sir Tyrone Guthrie, who has given the theatre his name and his presence, will direct Henry V and Ben Johnson's Volpone, which will fill out the 22-week, four-play season with its premiere June 30.

next Tuesday (May 12) and Tennessee Williams' The Glass Menagerie will be added June 1.

Guthrie, who launched the Stratford, Ont., Shakespearean Festival in 1953, could probably have his pick of stage stars in this his second season at the ultra-modern theatre in Minneapolis. But he is tackling the season with a company largely devoid of names known outside professional circles.

George Grizzard, last year's Hamlet, is back to play Henry, and the Daughter in Saint Joan, Ellen Geer, another 1963 veteran, will play Joan.

Douglas Campbell, a Stratford, Ont., veteran who is Guthrie's associate artistic director, will direct Saint Joan and himself play the title role in Volpone. Ruth Nelson, also in the company last year, will be Amanda in The Glass Menagerie. Alan Schneider will direct The Glass Menagerie.

Widely-heralded last year as an experiment in top-drawer repertory theatre far from Broadway, the Guthrie Theatre starts its second year with an impressive batting average.

While reviews of some plays, especially Hamlet, were mixed, the over-all critical appraisal was strongly favorable. The four plays filled the thtatre to an average of 84 per cent capacity. First year's revenues put the balance sheet about $7,000 into black ink.

Subtle Ads Become Common In Today's Hollywood Films

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Commercials in movies, more subtle than the kind on television, are breaking out all over Hollywood.

That's the word from a man in charge of commercial tie-ups for a major studio. Scarcely a movie with a modern background is made nowadays without an advertisement of some sort slipping across the screen.

This is a fairly recent development. When major studios controlled most filming, the producers maintain an unwritten code against showing commercial products in movies.

A branch of the code brought strong protests from theatre owners. When a bottle of Val 69 appeared in 12 O'Clock High, 20th Century-Fox was flooded with so many complaining letters that no commercials became strict studio policy.

Today Clairol is plainly visible. In John Goldfarb, Please Come Home, football players will fly from middle east game via Lufthansa Air Liner. In What A Way To Go, Robert Mitchum counsels to skinny Maclaine that her jewels came from Harry Winston's.

Why this burst of commercialism?

REALIZE VALUE

Insiders trace the trend from the decline of authoritarian studio rule and the rise of independent producers. Nearly all film makers now realize the value of commercial tie-ups.

The most obvious benefit is the lavish advertising space in magazines and newspapers, which film companies cannot afford. A commercial tie-in will take extensive ads featuring the star's photo or a scene from the movie, always with a credit line for the film.

There are other advantages, too. In the case of What A Way To Go !Winston's loaned Fox $3,000,000 worth of jewels to use in the picture.

Car firms such as Chrysler offer the free use of new autos in films and by executives. Airlines provide free overseas travel in return for plugs. Some of the airlines will provide stock footage of landings, the use of aircraft at airports and even cutaway cabins for interior shots.

"But nowadays the plugs don't happen because a producer wants to fill up his garage with cases of beer or because a star wants a new car," declares a studio official. "Such things can happen, but the real reason is that lovely white space your movie can get in magazines and newspapers."

The practice seems likely to continue. In Hud, Jack Daniels whisky is featured prominently. A catalogue of products appears in Jerry Lewis's Who's Minding the Store.

The Half-Hour Action Show Now Becoming Obsolete

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—The half-hour action show, once the most popular television form, is obsolete.

It told a short story in the most uncomplicated form—the good guys seized the truck; the good guys tracked them down; there was a shoot out; the good guys won every time.

There was no time for subplots, counter-plots or character development. They were all over the channels for years, one. Then they were replaced by the hour-long action shows.

CBS' Brenner, which moved into the network's lineup Sunday night, was a series of half-hour shows made five or six years ago. It tried to get away from the stereotyped cops-and-robbers show and inject some realism, develop some characters.

DIDN'T WORK OUT

It did not work out successfully—the series was short-lived—and even today, accustomed as we are to the realism and character development, it still isn't right.

In sharp contrast was ABC's rerun of an Arrest and Trial episode. It demonstrated that character investment, well handled, can be more fascinating than a shoot out.

CBS' The Defenders Saturday also was a thoughtful character study—and a rather frightening one.

The Defenders invariably has both point and point of view and sometimes it reaches conclusions that are not as satisfying as having the good guys win. It is altogether a superior series.

Truman, Wallace Make Date To Eat Strawberries in 1974

WASHINGTON (AP) Harry S. Truman and Henry A. Wallace have a tentative date to eat strawberries together in the spring of 1974.

This engagement, made Friday night, hinges on a couple of conditions, however.

1. That Wallace, 75-year-old farmer-style inventor, prophet his heart's desire — to breed a great big new strawberry which he has called the "Gronstic Savior." He figures it will take him 10 years.

2. That Truman's schedule for 1974 permits the feast. "I'll have to consult my datebook when I get banished, independence, Mo., in a couple of days," Truman said.

Truman, on his 80th birthday, had a reunion Friday night with many oldtimers, including Wallace.

Wallace is a geneticist of sorts and breeder of things such as hybrid corn, chickens and now strawberries.

He was President Franklin D. Roosevelt's agriculture secretary from 1933 to 1940, and vice-president from 1941 to 1944. Roosevelt then dumped him in favor of Truman who became president on Roosevelt's death in 1945.

Wallace, meanwhile, became Commerce secretary under Roosevelt in 1945, was fired by Truman the next year for attacking the policy of "getting tough" with the Soviet Union and run against Truman in 1948 on the Progressive ticket.

Resounding defeat sent Wallace back to genetics.

King of the Hill

Ron Elliott held on his "King of the Hill" crown for at least another week when he rolled a high score in the weekly tournament's qualifying round on the weekend.

Elliott rolled games of 269, 264, 224, 256 and 193 for a five-game total of 1283. His closest challenge came from Wes Andrews who scored 1255 and from Jim Begley with 1168.

No challenge round was played, of course, when the "king" had no score in the qualifying round.

Elliott also came within one pin of taking home the "Pot of Gold." He collected seven consecutive strikes, but left a corner pin bidding for the eighth. The money goes to anyone collecting eight strikes in a row.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Get practical hint from Leo message. Be receptive. Realize some opposition is merely symbolic. If your ideas are sound . . . they will be accepted. Be cheerful. You will win.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19): You will be called upon to put forth extra effort. Don't permit others to take advantage of your good nature. Find out the why of things. Demand sensible answers, reliable facts.

Tiger Cats Sign Pair

HAMILTON (CP)—Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Eastern Football Conference Sunday announced the signing of defensive linesmen Ken Kilrea and Pete Neumann.

Kilrea, a 240-pound utility lineman, joined Hamilton from South Carolina as a fullback but was employed primarily as a defensive end last season. Neumann, the all-star defensive end from St. Catharines, has been with the team since 1961.

The Tracks

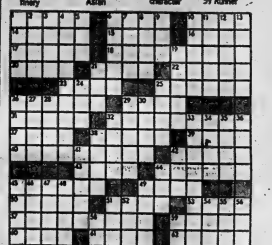
NEW YORK (AP)—Mr. Brick, who faded to sixth after setting the early pace in the Kentucky Derby, found the one mile of the $16,700 Withers more to his liking and posted an easy victory over 12 other three-year-olds at Aqueduct Saturday.

Under Bobby Usserv, Mr. Brick finished four lengths in front of National.

Alphabet was third. The winning time was 1:35 3-5, made under 126 pounds.

As the favorite to earn the winner's purse of $40,108, Mr. Brick paid $5.30, $3.80 and $2.80. National, second of an entry which included Traffic, paid $3.40 and $3. Alphabet returned $5.80.

Mr. Brick dropped into second place as Black Mountain took an early lead and Alsab, to the front and through the first half-mile.



Coming around the bend into the home stretch, Mr. Brick made a quick move and when the field straightened out for the last quarter-mile had his nose in front.

At Chicago's Sportsman's Park, Ray Amberg's Nuahka caught Gwiogy near the far turn and went on to win the $40,325 Illinois Derby by two lengths.

Nuahka paid $23.20, $15.20 and $8.40, was timed in 1:53 3-5 for the 1¼-mile and earned $26,211.

At Garden State Park, N.J., Christiana Stable's Smart got up in the final strides and scored a half - length victory over Imbalance in the $30,375 Valley Forge Handicap.

Eldon Nelson brought the winner home in 1:42 3-5 for the 1 1-16 miles to pay $6, $4.80 and $3.80.

SHOOTINGS CAUSE NEW CYPRUS CRISIS

Rusk Says NATO Must Meet More Subtle Dangers

Cohesion Not Assured By Military Threat

Defence Policy Debated

By STEWART MacLEOD

OTTAWA (CP)—The Opposition has dug in firmly across from Defence Minister Hellyer and shows no signs of letting up in the campaign to shell the minister with one of his own weapons.

Nuclear weapons, the CF-104 strike aircraft, submarines, anti-tank rifles, and a variety of other weapons have been fired back and forth across the Commons floor in the debate on defence, which today goes into its third day.

Even the Arrow interceptor aircraft, whose own development program was intercepted by the government policy in 1957, was resurrected.

The government steadily is reducing Canada's defence capability, charged former Conservative defence minister Douglas Harkness Monday as he spoke on a bill setting up a single defence chief.

"The minister has been knocking off this and slashing off that all he's put in its place is vague promises."

WASN'T DEFINITE

The white paper on defence had given no definite information on which MPs could make a judgment about the government's plans.

Mr. Hellyer was trying to sell the bill as a "10-ring circus," Mr. Harkness said.

There was absolutely no commitment which forced the government to arm or not to arm weapons, said Reg Cantelon (PC—Northumberland). "We didn't have to accept them and we shouldn't have." The previous Conservative government had the right idea on nuclear weapons, he said.

Mr. Hellyer told the Commons the present nuclear commitment will run to the end of 1966. Government plans to negotiate its role in NATO will take effect from that time.

There was no shortage of speakers to urge that Canada's role be maintained out of the nuclear business.

HAS NO PLACE

Harold Winch, (NDP—Vancouver East) said "nirvana has no place in the nuclear role." Marcel Lessard (SC—Lac St. Jean) said Canada can not a major power and shouldn't try to take on such an over her head.

But the subject also seemed to get the most attention during the day-long debate was the cash settlement that will be given to armed services personnel who are involuntarily retired because of the integration program. Five hundred RCAF personnel will be the first to get the cash payment, announced last Friday.

Gordon Fortin (PC—Pontiac-Temiscamingue) led off the criticism against the policy. It will cause a "drain" from the general should get so much more than a private when he probably saved a lot more money from a higher salary and would have no difficulty finding employment in civilian life. The private needed more money instead of less.

If the money is for rehabilitation, there should be distinction. Whether they are private or generals, they have given their all."

Mr. Winch suggested that the department consider establishing a training program to help the servicemen get qualified for jobs in civilian life. This would be in addition to money offered to veterans after the Second World War, he said.

SAYS ITS PRACTICAL

Associate Defence Minister Cardin, who has been answering all questions in connection with the white paper, said the arrangement was "practical, adequate and it does what it is meant to do—help the servicemen rehabilitate himself." He would look into Mr. Winch's suggestion.

Mr. Cardin also said only a relatively small number of servicemen would face premature retirement through the eventual 10,000 man reduction in the armed forces. Attrition would handle most of the reduction, he said.

Whoopers Get Assist In Breeding

By BEN WARD

OTTAWA (CP)—The stately whooping crane, obviously unable to pull itself from the brink of extinction, is going to get an assist from Canadian and United States wildlife scientists.

An international plan to hatch a breeding flock of whooping cranes with eggs gathered from the birds' summer nesting area in the Northwest Territories was announced today by Resources Minister Laing.

If all goes well, 100 new whooping cranes will eventually be added to the wild population every year—more than three times the total number of wild birds now known to exist in the world.

The latest whooper count is 40—32 wild, six at the New Orleans Zoo, one at the San Antonio Zoo in Texas and a fledgling hatched at a U.S. wildlife station early this month from a New Orleans zoo egg. A one-pound bantam hen "mothered" the half-pound egg.

The total number of wild birds "hasn't varied much in the last 20 years. Every time it starts to rise something happens to knock it down again. One wild bird died last winter at the whooping' Texas refuge.

SEEK METHOD

Since 1966 a Canada-U.S. committee has been trying to determine the best method of preserving the species, which is native only to North America. Various ideas have been discussed, including artificial means to capture all the wild birds and protect them in zoos.

Although the committee kept hoping the whooper would increase naturally, it now has decided the situation cannot be resolved without some human intervention.

Egg collection, it found, was the best method.

Dr. David Munro, chief of the Canadian Wildlife Service and a noted ornithologist who has worked on the whooper problem for eight years, believes the project has every chance of success.

The whooper is one of North America's most beautiful wading birds, standing five feet high at maturity with a six-foot wingspread. It is white with black wingtips and a red crown.

Current "Defeatist Talk" Nonsense Says Prime Minister

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson said Monday that current "defeatist talk" about the future of Canada and its parliamentary institutions is nonsense.

Speaking to a group of 245 high school students from across Canada who are taking part in the Rotary Club's annual Adventure in Citizenship, the prime minister said:

"There is a great deal of negative criticism in Canada today about the decline of our parliamentary institutions. We are also subjected to defeatist talk that, our citizenship will not stand up to the problems that are before us.

"This is nonsense. Our young Canadians will be equal to the test, just as they were equal to the problems of founding Confederation."

Calling Canada "a great adventure in nationhood," the prime minister told the students that its future depends on them.

"Take a personal part in making this country a better place," he urged them. "Be interested in public affairs both in Canada and in the world."

Dutch Justice Ministry Refuses Entry to Women

THE HAGUE (Reuters)—An official of the Women Strike for Peace Committee announced Monday that an anti-nuclear demonstration is planned for today during the NATO ministerial council conference has been called off.

The decision followed orders from the Dutch justice ministry to airport and border police to refuse admission to a number of the women coming here from Canada, the United States, Britain, West Germany, France and other NATO countries.

First to be turned away was Mrs. Linus Pauling, 60, wife of the Nobel prize - winning United States physicist. When police at Amsterdam's Schiphol Airport refused to allow her to pass through immigration, Mrs. Pauling flew on to Copenhagen, Denmark.

"I hope some women are there and can carry on," Mrs. Pauling said in Copenhagen. "I still hope to be able to go back to Holland."

In London, the British liaison committee for women's peace groups said Mrs. C. B. Macpherson, national president of Canada's Voice of Women, and Lilly Douglas, a British woman, also were turned back when they flew to Holland from Britain.

The British committee issued a statement expressing "astonishment and regret" at the refusal of entry permits to participants in the Hague women's conference.

A spokesman for the Dutch justice ministry said between 500 and 1,000 women planned to march today past the Juliana Barracks where the NATO ministerial will meet, carrying paper flowers and to present their foreign ministers with petitions expressing their concern over the proposed NATO multilateral nuclear force.

But after trying in vain to call on the U.S. ambassador to The Netherlands, John S. Rice, a spokesman for the Women Strike for Peace Committee said the planned demonstration was being called off.

Instead, she said, the women who are allowed to enter Holland will take part in a conference here today and Wednesday concurrently with the NATO ministerial meeting.

The committee sent a telegram to Dutch Justice Minister Ymz Scholten saying the committee planned to break no laws and that newspaper reports of a planned "sit-down" were "completely untrue".

Mr. James Endicott, member of the executive of the Canadian Peace Congress which sent five delegates to The Hague, said it is unfortunate that people representing such a large segment of world opinion favoring abolition of nuclear weapons should lose the opportunity of expressing their opinion. Her husband is chairman of the CPC.

Women in the Canadian delegation were Mrs. Mary Bingham and Mrs. A. F. Searle of Vancouver, Mrs. Eunice Young of Regina, Mrs. Dora Rosenbaum of Winnipeg and Mrs. Jacqueline Dineen of Toronto.

The Canadian delegation was to travel later to the Soviet Union as guests of the Soviet Peace Committee.

Police Dragging Lake Baptiste For Missing Man

BANCROFT, Ont. (CP)—Police have dragged Lake Baptiste, 10 miles north of here, for the body of Philip Clark, a 20-year-old from Niagara Falls, Ont., who was believed to have been drowned Monday.

Clark borrowed a boat early Monday against the advice of friends who warned him of 60-mile-an-hour winds across the lake. But he appeared intent on crossing to his rented cottage, friends said.

He had been in the area repairing cottages. The boat was found a mile down the lake.

Cities Attract Dentists

TORONTO (CP) — Many of Ontario's dentists are attracted to big cities, leaving rural areas and small towns without adequate dental care, a dental health official said Monday.

Dr. Glenn Milton of Toronto, field secretary of the Ontario Dental Association's public health council, said in an interview at the association's annual convention that dentists are attracted by big city life and the mistaken idea that city dentists make more money.

Unless the trend is reversed, he said, the problem could become acute in many rural areas within five or 10 years. He cited one Ontario community that has 10 dentists, eight of whom have been practising 40 years or more.

"Those fellows won't be around much longer," Dr. Milton said, "and there's no one coming along to replace them."

Meanwhile, some 650 dentists attending the convention unanimously approved re-organization of the profession in Ontario, as recommended by a firm of management consultants.

The report recommends that the college concern itself only with matters related to protection of the public, would direct training and education of dentists, examine, license and regulate the profession and investigate and discipline dentists for violation of the Dentistry Act.

On the dentist shortage, Dr. Milton also noted that any "denticare" plan would have to come to Ontario in stages because of it.

He said a prepaid dental care plan would have to start with school children and work up gradually until everyone is covered.

He estimated that of about 120 graduates last year from the University of Toronto's faculty of dentistry, fewer than 12 could be expected to settle permanently in rural areas. The rest will establish themselves in one of the province's five or six large urban areas.

2 Greek Army Officers Killed, One Wounded

Drive Into Turkish Lines In Civilian Clothes

By THOMAS A. REEDY

NICOSIA (AP)—Irish troops of the UN peace force sealed off the old walled Turkish area of Famagusta today to prevent Greek Cypriot revenge for the slaying of two Greek Army officers and a Greek - Cypriot youth leader.

A UN spokesman said 10 Turkish-Cypriots were reported missing in the Famagusta area. Most of them were known to have been taken hostage by Greeks after Monday's shooting in which a third Greek officer was wounded and a Turkish-Cypriot killed in the cross-fire.

Outside the Turkish sector, Famagusta, largest and busiest port on Cyprus, virtually was shut down as a result of the shooting which the Greek government denounced as "cold-blooded Turkish murder."

Most Greek - Cypriot dock workers, fearing they might come to fire from the nearby Turkish quarter, stayed away from the waterfront. Turkish-Cypriot dock workers all stayed off the job.

Fearful of an influx of armed men, the UN set up roadblocks on all approaches to both Greek and Turkish sectors of Famagusta.

All roads between the modern Greek sector and the Turkish quarter were blocked by massive walls 20 feet high, were reserved except for patrolling UN troops armed with machine-guns.

DETAILS OF ATTACK

The wounded survivor of Monday's shooting said he and his three companions drove into the Turkish quarter by mistake in civilian clothes but in a Greek Army Car.

"We came in the way out when armed Turks (Cypriots) stopped us and ordered us out of the car," said Capt. Panayiotis Tarsoulis, 33. "Three Turks surrounded us and civilian -all armed with submachine-guns opened fire at us without giving us a chance."

Tarsoulis said he was not armed.

BELIEVE ALL FIRED

However, UN headquarters said it believed all four men were armed and that everybody gathered by Irish troops indicated all had fired weapons, although it was not clear who had started the shooting.

Turkish sources said that during the shooting an angry Turk drinking coffee in a shop near the gate was shot dead.

It was the first time the Greek Army garrison on the island has suffered casualties in the communal strife that Cyprus has caused the death of hundreds of Greek and Turkish-Cypriots.

A Turkish Army contingent can also under fire once but no one was hit.

The incident touched off a wave of sniping fire in Famagusta.

Final Ballot Count Starts In Sask.

REGINA (CP)—The make-up of Saskatchewan's next government may stay up in the air even when the official count of votes in the April 22 general election is completed some time this week.

The Liberals won 33 seats on the basis of an election night count of 940,000 ballots while the CCF government won 25 and the Progressive Conservative one. However, eight seats were decided by less than 100 votes.

Premier Woodrow Lloyd, who has been staying in office, will have two alternatives when the final count, which began Wednesday, is completed.

If, after an estimated 25,000 rejected, absentee and advance votes are counted for the first time, he believes he has enough seats to continue to lead the government or because he believes the outcome is still doubtful, he may stay in office.

Alternately, he may advise Lieutenant - Governor R. L. Hanbidge that he believes he no longer has the confidence of the legislature and Liberal Leader Ross Thatcher should be asked to form a government.

COULD BE UNCLEAR

The outcome could remain unclear after the final count because of the possibility of recounts or court action under the Controverted Election Act.

Recounts and controverted election actions may be launched after the final count where it is believed there have been irregularities.

If the court decides there have been irregularities it may declare a seat vacant, necessitating a byelection, or declare the winning candidate must step down in favor of one of his opponents.

In most constituencies the final count will be completed Wednesday, but in others it could extend into Thursday or Friday.

The returning officer in each constituency decides the time and place where he will make the final count.

The final count is made only if at least one candidate or one candidate's agent is present, in which case a recount on candidates or agents showed up for the final count in the Saskatoon constituencies.

Bayonets Flash in Race Riot When Alabama Governor Speaks

CAMBRIDGE, Md. (AP)—An outburst of violence in the wake of a presidential election campaign speech by Governor George C. Wallace of Alabama left this centre of racial strife in the grip of new tensions today.

Two demonstrators and five national guardsmen were injured in a battle touched off Monday night when about 200 singing, hand-clapping integrationists tried to march on the area where Wallace had spoken.

They met a cordon of some of the 400 national guardsmen hurried into this sensitive spot just to prevent such an act.

RED GUERRILLAS CAPTURED IN VIET NAM — These are some of the 42 Communist Viet Cong guerrillas after their capture by South Viet Nam government troops before they could slip into neighboring Cambodia from Klen Phong Mekong Delta. Their capture took place last week after government soldiers landed by helicopters and moved in by night to operate along a river that leads from Viet Nam into Cambodia. A blocking force had cut off the border while aircraft flew overhead as observers to prevent the guerrillas escaping by open paddies.

Have Yet to Select Site For $175,000 New City Barn

Labor Council Still Seeking Traffic Light

Belleville and District Labor Council thinks it is getting "the run around" from city hall, and doesn't like it. Last year, during Mayor Hugh Administrative, the Labor Council wrote city hall asking that a traffic light be installed at Coleman and West Moira Streets. Labor Council members consider the intersection dangerous. City hall officials answered the letter promptly, courteously and noncommittally. The Labor Council considered it a brush-off and said so.

More letters have followed. The latest, from city engineer W. G. Purcell, was read to the Labor Council last night. Mr. Purcell's letter said the city traffic committee has no money for traffic lights. The letter implied the matter is closed.

But the matter is not closed, as far as Labor Council is concerned. Another letter will be sent, asking for a meeting between the traffic committee and a committee composed of Labor Council (Gerald Cunningham, vice-president Leo Lacelcia and Goron Hutchinson. If the traffic committee will not agree to a meeting, other action will be taken.

"A light at that intersection is not a matter of money," commented Mr. Lacelcia, "if they don't install a light soon, someone's going to be killed."

Belleville city council has Municipal Board authority to spend up to $175,000 for a new city barn, but it still has to decide when and where to build the barn.

Wednesday afternoon a special meeting of council will be held in an effort to decide on a site for the building.

A number of city council members think that city-owned property on Victoria Road immediately to the east of the city water pollution control plant, is right site for the proposed barn.

But others are not so sure, pointing out that the water-front site would require costly preparation work. They feel there are other more suitable sites in the city and would like city owned property on Coleman Flats to be considered.

The by-law authorizing expenditure of up to $175,000 on the new barn was up for third reading in council yesterday on a motion from Alderman Enos David it was tabled until the special meeting on Wednesday.

Alderman David argued the city should decide on a site before authorizing expenditure of the money.

Early Rolls Will Be Museum Items

Early assessment rolls of the city of Belleville are going to be museum items.

Yesterday council gave approval to a Hastings county historical society request for assessment rolls prior to the year 1900 to be transferred to the local museum.

Council complied with the request providing that the rolls be given proper storage and protection, that city officials have access to the records at any time and that the city have the right to ask for their return at any time.

Moira Secondary School Winner In Mathematics

KINGSTON (CP)—Area winners of a provincial mathematics contest conducted by the Ontario Secondary School Teachers Federation were to attend a one-day seminar at the Royal Military College here today.

The two top entrants from each of 23 schools in districts 33 and 34—including secondary schools from Belleville to Brockville—were to hear a lecture by Dr. H. A. Elliot, head of the mathematics department at the college.

Winning school in District 23 was Moira Secondary School. First prize goes to Beth Johnston of Albert College, Belleville and second to Marlene Jenkinson, Quinte Secondary School, Belleville.

In District 34, Loyalist Collegiate and Vocational School, Kingston, has been awarded top honors and Arthur Shaw, Brockville Collegiate and Vocational Institute, was first in the situation. Kenneth Kennedy of Loyalist Collegiate was second.

Results of the contest were based on tests given by the Federation to Grades 10 and 11 students in the districts during the current school year.

'Walk' Signals Will Be Placed At Main Corner

City council yesterday authorized installation of pedestrian "walk" signals at the intersection of Front and Bridge Streets.

Cost of the installation is estimated between $3,200 and $3,300.

Although the installation did not receive the unanimous support of council, it was felt that the "walk" signals would help to speed up traffic on Front Street.

Also the recommendation drew criticism from one council member who felt that traffic lights at the corner of West Moira and Coleman Streets should have priority.

As a follow-up of a previous council recommendation cited lowing left turns from Front Bridge Street south onto Coleman during rush hours council voted for a no-parking restriction on the north side of Bridge from Coleman to Front St. from 4.00 to 6.00 in the afternoon.

Evans St. will be made a through street from Geddes to North Front St.

Council, however, turned down a recommendation to impose a two-hour parking limit on the east side of Albert St. Ave. from Dundas Street to a point 300 feet north.

It seems all hospital employees leave their cars parked all day on Dufferin and a businessman objected to council.

Council approved of a parking board request to grant permission to the Quinte Hydroplane Club to use Conway's Island on June 27th for hydroplane races.

Compensation Regulations Undergo Change

Changes in provincial workmen's compensation regulations were outlined to Belleville and District Labor Council last night in a letter from the Ontario Federation of Labor.

Effective April first, procedure for reporting of accidents has changed, the letter said. Instead of filing a form "Form 94," the injured employee is given a "treatment memorandum" which is supposed to be given to the doctor. The doctor and the employer then send reports to the Board. Under the new system the injured employee, enclosing a form which he must fill out and return to get compensation. Union locals were asked, in the letter, to report to the board any cases which happen after this date so they can be sure to get reports. The new procedure is expected to speed the processing of claims.

Other changes in the act are effective July 1. Common law wives will be eligible for widow's pension if they have lived with the same man for five years or more or after two years if the couple have children. Children's allowances will be payable past the age of 18, if the children are still attending school. A dement system will be introduced, designed to allow the board to increase assessment of firms which have been unusually high accident rate.

Labor Feels Slighted in Welfare Report

The Ontario Intelligencer was criticized last night, for its report last Thursday on Wednesday night's meeting to discuss formation of a Belleville Welfare Council. Labor Council president Gerald Cunningham and delegate Gordon Hutchinson, both of whom were present at the meeting, said the paper made no mention of labor representation in the welfare. Mr. Cunningham who told the Labor Council he was selected to serve on the welfare council the Ontario Intelligencer had attributed the thanks to the wrong man.

"Not that I mind for myself", he said, "but I think labor should get the credit when labor is there". Mr. Cunningham told the council he also sits on the welfare special committee on welfare.

In labor discussion, the Labor Council decided to invite Henry Wealback, welfare director of the Ontario Federation of Labor, to a Labor Council meeting, to ask for advice in setting up a welfare organization within the Labor Council. The Labor Council's efforts, the council emphasized, would be in co-operation with the work of the municipal welfare organization.

Oshawa Board Bans Minister Who Spoke Here

OSHAWA (CP)—Members of the Oshawa Board of Education Monday night voted unanimously to cancel the contract of a Quebec evangelical minister scheduled to appear in a local high school auditorium tonight.

Board members agreed that Dr. Harold Martin of Vaudreuil, Que., should not be allowed to use facilities at Oshawa Central Collegiate after they learned that the type of meeting expected differed from the topic published in newspaper advertisements here Monday.

Trustee Robert Nicol, the separate school representative on the board, said Monday night: "It has been brought to my attention that Dr. Martin will be preaching against the Roman Catholic Church and many Catholic taxpayers would object."

Mr. Nicol said it has been learned Dr. Martin's topic would be "Trouble in Quebec—Its care and cure."

Dr. Martin, reached by telephone in Belleville, where he addressed a small group in the B.C.I. auditorium last week said he intends to come to Oshawa tonight even if he has to speak in a field.

NICOSIA (AP) — The United Nations decided Monday to leave the full weight of the United Nations force to fall any further Greek attacks between Greek- and Turkish - held areas nightly contesting the rugged mountain pass in rifle-spitting patrol actions.

The Kyrenia force of 180 Canadians has served fill now to cement Greek-Cypriots into their positions challenging St. Hilarion Castle, atop the mountain range. But the villages of Krini, Dhikomo, Bellapais and Aghirka have been sore spots inviting nightly exchanges of hundreds of shots.

The UN announced the Canadian force would be increased starting today to 360 officers and men with a dozen armored scout cars for mobility.

Canadians on duty on the outskirts and inside Kyrenia will be relieved for Kyrenia duty and once and for all be taken over by Finns who now are here in battalion strength and fully organized.

UN sources estimate Greek-Cypriots have upwards of 1,000 men, including the crazy hills in their penetration to the stronghold Turks regard as essential to their northern Cyprus villages.

Against them the Turks have piled artillery and armor recently deployed in such a manner they all could retire to the last ditch, St. Hilarion Castle, if need be.

Hearing Just Waste of Time Says Alderman

Absence of any solid objection to last week's municipal board hearing at which city hall was given authority to spend up to $175,000 on the construction of a new city barn, made the inquiry but a waste of time.

That was the claim last evening at city council by Ald. Ben Corke, who said that city hall staff had spent considerable time in preparing for the hearing and then saw their work go for nothing when no solid objection was presented.

The result was an unhappy hour of wasted time, he said.

He said it was only reasonable to expect that if there were objectors they should have been present some kind of a written argument to support their case.

"If there were objections certainly they were not presented to the proper form", he said.

Alderman Enos David said the reason there was no formal objection to the city barn proposal at the hearing was that possible objectors may have felt the matter was already cut and dried and there would be little use in objecting.

Alderman Donald Joss said he did make a written objection which was on file with the city public works department.

Council Opposes Education Tax Based on Income

Five resolution from outside centres were considered by Belleville city council yesterday, with two of them being turned down and the others tabled for further consideration.

One of the resolutions not voted on was from the city of Toronto, which requested the provincial government to consider the abolition of the present form of levying education tax against real property and instead levy such taxes against earned income.

The other was from Woodstock calling for a revision of the present assessment act structure to provide some form of relief to owners of property finding it necessary to make improvements or renovations.

While admitting education tax on property was high, Alderman Ben Corke pointed out that steadily increasing provincial grants were at least making it possible to hold the local tax line for education costs.

Speaking on the Woodstock resolution he said he was not in opinion not to assess property improvements would open up a great many problems.

Council tabled a resolution from the town of Newmarket which asked that old age pensions be used for longer periods of time.

A resolution from New Toronto asking that the Ontario Hospital Services Commission cover payments to nursing homes was also tabled as was another from Woodstock calling for consideration of tax legislation having the effect of assuming the educational portion of municipal tax assessments, leaving the property tax to be used by municipalities for local municipal services.

The three latter resolutions will be referred to the local school boards and to the hospital board.

Seeks Funds To Attend Labor College

President of the Belleville and District Labor Council, Gerald Cunningham last night appealed to the council for funds to attend an eight-week labor college in Montreal this summer.

It will cost about $1,000, he told the council, to attend the Laval (Catholic) University to study economics, sociology, history, political science and trade unionism. The course is arranged by the Canadian Labor Congress.

Mr. Cunningham had qualified for a $1,000 scholarship for the course, he said, but there were not enough scholarships to go around. With permission of the labor council executive, he has written union locals in the area to ask for funds. Several locals have promised $500 in contributions.

Gordon Hutchinson last night moved that the labor council donate $100 toward Mr. Cunningham's expenses. The motion was seconded by Maxwell Conney, and passed by the council.

Bill Deline, Firestone Tire Dealer, Has Sold Business

After 35 years in the tire business, Bill Deline of Bill-Deline Ltd. has sold out. New dealer for Firestone tires is Lennox Tire Sales, operated by Stanley Lennox. Mrs. Deline opened his first shop in Trenton, about 35 years ago.

In 1945 he sold out and moved to an old building on Coleman St. in Belleville and in 1946, he built the new addition now used as a tire-service area. The original building burned in — it was one of the most sensational fires in Belleville history when stored propane tanks exploded — in 1958 and the present main store was built in 1959. From the premises, Mr. Deline sold furniture, appliances and tires until last year.

Sniper Chases Don Mills Man Into His Home

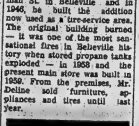
TORONTO (CP)—Police continued their search today for a man in connection with the shooting of a suburban Don Mills contractor and an eight-year-old girl in a wild incident late Monday.

Leo Hardoon was struck by what are believed to be fragments from a 30 - 30 bullet. Emily McLaughlin, who lives next door to Hardoon, was grazed across the back of her leg. Neither were seriously injured.

Police found an abandoned truck used by the sniper, but no arrest had been made by early today.

The sniper fired a shot through the window of his van into a group of people on a street Don Mills street. He then leaped from the truck and chased Hardoon into his home.

He followed Hardoon upstairs, threatened to shoot the three Hardoon children, then treated to his truck and drove off.



Police said the shooting was a result of a business disagreement with Hardoon.

The incident occurred while Hardoon was watching several children playing on the lawn.

Norman Rothschild, 14, said: "The man was screaming and swearing before he ran into the house. He went inside and came out about 10 seconds later."

Simma Godfrey was in the front bedroom of the Hardoon home, looking after their baby boy.

She saw Hardoon come upstairs and heard his pursuer threaten: "Come down or I'll shoot the children."

STANLEY LENNOX

R. Michaud moved in last year, leased the north end of the building and took over the furniture end of the business. About the same time, Mr. Deline took over a house across the street and turned it into an annex to his main store.

Mar. 25th, Stanley Lennox, a former toolmaker with Stewart Warner, took over the tire business and leased the tire service shop and the south end of the main building. His son Albert, now working for International Hardware, will soon join him in operating the business. A new line of Firestone tires — is being sold from the same site. For the time being, Mr. Deline retains his appliance and hi-fi business in the centre section of the main building and has used furniture and used appliances for sale in the annex on the north end. He has no definite plans, according to company president B. A. Gill, but he intends "looking around," for other business opportunities.

Four Military Plane Crashes Take 92 Lives

MANILA (AP) — Ninety-two persons are dead or missing following four military plane crashes around the world. Most of the victims were American military personnel.

A fifth plane, a U.S. Air Force supersonic fighter, crashed in the Philippines today but the pilot parachuted to safety.

The four fatal crashes occurred Monday in the Philippines, off Spain, in southern England and in Alabama.

At Clark Air Base north of Manila, a U.S. military air transport jetliner with 82 persons aboard crashed short of the runway and burst into flames. Seventy-three persons died in the wreckage and another two died in hospital.

The other victim was an American serviceman riding in a taxi which the plane struck as it headed for the runway, the air force said.

The eight persons on board who survived the crash were in hospital. The Filipino cab driver and another American passenger in the taxi also were hospitalized.

In the other fatal crashes:

A 24-hour air and sea search for the lone U.S. Navy crew members of a U.S. Navy long-range patrol plane that crashed at sea 20 miles off Cadiz, Spain. The plane, based at Jacksonville, Fla., was taking part in manoeuvres with the Spanish submarine base at Rota, Spain.

Four men were killed in the crash in southern England of a British Vulcan bomber, one of a pair that can carry Britain's H-bombs. Two others parachuted and were injured. Another British bomber, a Valiant, crashed last Thursday in England and five men were killed.

A U.S. Air Force F-111B carrying 43 student paratroopers in a jump zone made a crash landing in a field near Searle, Ala. Two men were killed.

Mind Makes up Mind On What to Remember

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Memory has no boss.

You can't tell your mind what to retain as worthwhile and what to forget as worthless. It decides for yourself.

No one can really ever has control over the grabbag quality of his history, no matter how compulsively neat and orderly he may be in his daily life. The older he grows, the more his memories rule him.

You've been through life's mill yourself, if you can look back and remember when—

You could be the life of any party by imitating Charlie Chaplin's duck-footed waddle.

Ladies were so delicate and fainted so often that every well-run household kept a bottle of smelling salts handy.

A wife who held a job outside the home tried to keep that fact from her relatives—as if it were a kind of disgrace.

You were a real movie fan if you knew that the last name of Theda Bara, the vamp, was Arab spelled backward.

It was widely believed that business depressions were caused by sun spots and that, anyway, there wasn't much that man could do to prevent them or keep them for running their course.

HOW ABOUT CORSETS?

One of the things married men wondered about was how in tarnation single girls ever managed to lace themselves into their corsets without help.

A boy's dream of getting rich started by trying to sell home-made lemonade from an orange crate stand in front of his home at a cent a glass.

If your best girl held a spring buttercup under your chin and it reflected a yellow tint, this proved you were fond of butter—and she was fond of you.

The richest man in the community lived in the house that had the widest front porch.

If you couldn't afford to pay spot cash for it, you didn't buy it.

Those were the days! Remember?

Board Sees No Merit in Resolution

TRENTON — The members of the Trenton Board of Education, meeting last night, could see no merit in a resolution by the town council of Newmarket, that the Ontario government be asked to devise some way of "making more use of schools," as a means of cutting down education costs in the province.

For one thing, the board couldn't understand, who was supposed to "make more use of schools."

Separate school appointee to the board, W. J. Wilkinson, said that if the students were expected to attend more classes the consequent shortage of teachers would be "worse instead of better," and that salary costs were as great, if not greater, than construction costs for school additions.

It seemed redundant to make any suggestions to the provincial government regarding cutting their educational costs, was E. M. Parker Jr.'s comment, "I'm sure the government is exploring every avenue of economy along these lines."

Town council, which approved of the Newmarket resolution and sent it along to the school board for comment, will be advised that the board will not back the resolution.

"But we might go along with it if someone works out the details," said the board chairman, T. S. Ketcheson.

"Fine," agreed Douglas Whitley, "don't want another Elm Tree on our hands, Mr. Chairman."

Measles Cut Swath in H. S. Attendance

TRENTON — Measles, generally considered a menace to elementary school attendance, has cut swaths into high school attendance this year, the members of the Trenton Board of Education were told by high school principal John Garrett last night.

"They're supposed to be too old to get 'em," said Mr. Garrett, "but they did."

Mr. Garrett said that 49 students at the high school had either dropped out or been transferred to other schools this year. He said, however, that the 20 students who had left Grade 9 had left for the most part because their parents had moved away from town.

There were five dropouts from Grade 10; 14 from Grade 11; seven from Grade 12 and three from Grade 13, and some of these left the school because their fathers had been transferred out of town.

TOURNEY ENDS

Thursday night, May 14, the end-of-season dart tournament for Trenton Dart League will be held in the Trenton Armory starting at 8.00 p.m. A smoker will be held, following the tournament. Presently re-elected league president is William Smith.

"AULD LANG SYNE." — William House, charter president of the Trenton Rotary Club, expressed the heartfelt thanks of the club to their hostesses at weekly meetings for the past 32 years, Miss Mary Kerr and Mrs. James Kerr at a testimonial dinner for the Kerrs in the Gilbert Hotel last night. The Kerrs recently sold their interests in the hotel and will retire. To the right of Mary Kerr is Rotarian Jack Goldberg.

Chief Justice Gives View On Novel

TORONTO (CP)—Chief Justice Dana Porter said Monday corruption of children is not a test in books obscenity.

He was speaking on an appeal filed by Coles' booksitores following an obscenity ruling of the novel Fanny Hill by County Court Judge E. L. Weaver earlier this year.

A full bench of the Ontario Court of Appeal is hearing the case against the fictional account of an 18th century prostitute.

Chief Justice Porter's remark agreed with defence argument that it would not be possible for anyone to determine the effect of a book on children or those of immature mind.

"No one knows. Otherwise everyone would be confined to reading children's books, the judge said.

The case, regarded as a key one in the field of censorship, continues today.

COURT AGREES

The court agreed that the question of obscenity centred on whether the novel was undue exploitation of sex.

George Finlayson, counsel for Coles, said that Lady Chatterley's Lover, a D. H. Lawrence novel ruled not obscene by the Supreme Court of Canada in March, 1962, is more explicit than Fanny Hill.

He said there are no four-letter obscenities in Fanny Hill, but Lawrence found it necessaries to use them in his book.

Because Fanny Hill is about a prostitute, the lawyer said, the description of 28 sex acts in the ladies' calling should be the manner in which the story is presented, adding there is no evidence that the novel offends existing standards of decency and morality in the community.

China Betters Food Situation

By ADAM KELLETT-LONG

PEKING (Reuters) — China's food situation continues to improve and now is almost comparable to the best periods since the Communists came to power in 1949, according to non-Communist Chinese sources.

The rationing system still is in force for most basic foodstuffs but, with the notable exception of pork supplies, nearly all are available off the ration at slightly higher prices.

Particularly fat increases are evident in pork, fish and eggs. The last two items now are being sold competitively ration-free in most cities.

In Peking, Shanghai and Canton, vegetables have been in plentiful supply and unrationed for more than a year.

Official reports said that 2½ times as much pork was sold in China during the first three months of this year as during the corresponding period last year while egg consumption rose more than 40 per cent.

If this is accurate, the percentage increases over 1962 must be staggering.

MONEY LACKING

Many Chinese sources said lack of purchasing power was the main factor inhibiting fuller and more varied meals.

Despite some wage increases last year, the amount of cash in people's pockets is not keeping up with the increase in food supplies or, for that matter, consumer goods.

With the food situation under control, at least for the moment, the government is paying more attention to the other big problem—clothing.

Plans for expansion of both the scope and output of the textile industry were announced recently.

Cotton cloth still is strictly rationed but synthetic shirts and materials are becoming more prevalent in Peking shops at fairly-stiff prices.

China's synthetic fibre industry still is in its infancy but many foreign observers here believe it will be the eventual answer to the country's clothing problem. China's own cotton production, they said, will never be adequate to provide more than 700,000,000 people with plentiful ration-free clothing.

Rotarians Get Greeting Cards From Chile

TRENTON — Trenton Rotarians have received greetings from a Rotary Club in Chile, South America. A number of postcards, some written in English and some in Spanish, were sent out to Robert Patrick, 1963-64 president of the Trenton club from Chile some weeks ago. Because the address was rather misleading, the cards have trav-elled a circuitous route before at one point were sent to Scarborough, but post office officials finally ferreted out their destination and sent them along to Trenton. The goodwill messages on the cards were read out to the club last night by Karel Vytopil, International relations' chairman and replies will be sent.

GLAD TO BE BACK

Percy McDonald, local manager of the Couch and Newton store, and a Rotarian, attended his first Rotary meeting since his recent illness last night and thanked the members for their thoughtfulness during his stay in a Florida hospital. Mr. McDonald was stricken with a heart attack while holidaying in the south.

Rotary Club Bids Adieu To Hosts for 32 Years

TRENTON — The members of the Trenton Rotary Club gathered in the Gilbert Hotel last night to pay honor to their hosts of 32 years' standing, Mrs. James Kerr and Miss Mary Kerr. On May 1, the Kerr family signed the official papers turning over the ownership of the hotel to Fred and David Lewis of Toronto.

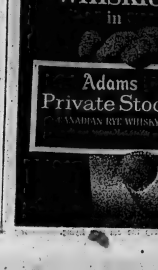
Rotarian Jack Goldberg echoed the sentiment of his fellow Rotarians when he referred to the relationship between the club and the Kerrs as a "homelike intimacy." Rotary members have known James Kerr Sr., "Jimmy" Kerr, who gave his life for his country after a short but distinguished career with the RCAF in World War II, and have watched the Kerr girls, Mary, Barbara and Helen grow up in Trenton.

"We have a wealth of memories," said Mr. Goldberg, "some sad, some pleasant, but we have always enjoyed a mutual sense of well-being in our relationship with the Kerrs."

Charter president of the club, William House, presented Mrs. Kerr with a sheaf of red roses, and the two guests of honor were given a standing ovation by the club members.

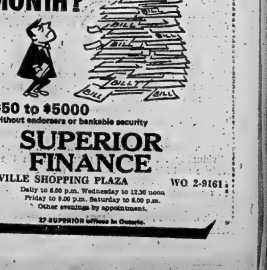
"This is the nicest thing that's happened to me for ages and ages," said Mrs. Kerr, "I've enjoyed our friendship just as much as you have. I feel I've had a special part in Rotary. I'm going to miss you."

Mrs. Kerr (who admitted she had a lump in her throat) and Mary should long remember the gusto and genuine affection the club members put into the song, "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows," with which the Rotarians ended the special testimonial dinner last night.



New School Will Be Needed By Sept. 1965

TRENTON — V. P. Carswell, supervising principal of public schools advised the members of the Trenton School Board last night that a new school for northeast Trenton would be necessary by September, 1965. Mr. Carswell said that with 80 kindergarten pupils entering Queen Elizabeth School and 100 being taken in at College St. school, annually, another year would see serious overcrowding in these schools. Recently, the board acquired land for a school in the North Byron St. area.



WILL DEDICATE LIBRARY

Saturday morning, May 23, will see the dedication of the Elsie M. Fowler Memorial Library at College St. school. Dedication ceremonies, scheduled for 10 a.m., will be conducted by Rev. G. A. Puttenham, a former member of the Board of Education and the late Miss Fowler's pastor at Grace Church. Miss Fowler taught at College St. from September, 1924, to her death in July, 1961. Many of Miss Fowler's former students and fellow teachers are expected to attend the ceremonies. The library has been compiled through the combined efforts of the school principal, K. M. Hamilton, teachers in the school, the College St Home and School Club, and the Board of Education.

Are Thousands Murdered?

If Dr. H. B. Cotnam is right, the gangsters who run Murder Incorporated were pikers. They should have taken lessons from Ontario mothers and fathers.

Dr. Cotnam, Ontario's supervising coroner, says that he has in his files reports of 20 proven child killings, by parents or older children. For every such case that is brought to his attention, he says, there are 100 unreported cases.

If he is correct, that means that 2,000 Ontario children have been murdered, over an undefined period of time.

Even if we consider mere numbers, and not the circumstances of their deaths, this means that parents are a much greater menace to the lives of children than are automobiles, or enticing swimming holes or discarded refrigerators or any of the other hazards about which the public gets so worked up from time to time.

Fortunately, there seems some reason to question the accuracy of Dr. Cotnam's statistics. We do not doubt for one moment that more children are killed by parents or other children than the number reported to the authorities. By the same token, though, we do not comprehend how Dr. Cotnam can possibly estimate what the ratio of actual deaths to reported deaths is. On what basis does he place this ratio at a hundred to one? Is this just a guess, a figure pulled out of thin air in an effort to arouse public concern—an admirable objective but surely one which should be approached with a sense of public responsibility which would forbid the use of questionable statistics?

We agree with Dr. Cotnam that "the problem of the battered child deserves immediate and special attention." We hesitate to believe, though, that hundreds of Ontario children are being beaten to death without authorities knowing anything about it.

Whether Dr. Cotnam's estimate—or is it just a guess?—is right or wrong, his proposal that doctors should be required to report beating and neglect cases to police and Children's Aid Societies seems sound. There is nothing in such a requirement which infringes on legitimate privacy between doctor and patient. Some consideration, though, might have to be given about the possibility that such a regulation would result in patients refraining from taking an injured child to a doctor. Possibly such a tendency might be offset by vigorous prosecution of those cases in which parents' failure to provide necessary medical attention can be proven.

Pearson the Pragmatist

The latest issue of Maclean's Magazine has an article in which the diplomacy of Lester Pearson is contrasted with that of John Foster Dulles, former U.S. Secretary of State. Dulles is depicted as a man who was always governed by principles, while Pearson's chief concern was with what was practical, rather than what was ideal.

It is interesting to consider this article in connection with a Canadian Press report of a lecture given by Pearson to a university audience Thursday night. He told how one of his embarrassing moments was the discovery that Ottawa was prepared to send the Queen's Own Rifles to Suez as part of the UN emergency force in 1956.

"I just wondered how that name would appeal to the Egyptians who had been busy trying to get the Queen's forces out of Egypt," he said. "I asked whether we didn't have something like the East Kootenay Anti-Imperialist Regiment."

This is Pearson at his best—the quick appreciation of the other person's viewpoint and the touch of humor, or attempt thereat.

"I was trying to be funny," Pearson told his audience. "But Ottawa didn't think so. They told me if I was trying to change the name of some of Canada's most historic old regiments, I could call the whole thing off."

More men of principle! Whether one considers them the salt of the earth or salt in the wounds the world inflicts on the practical man depends on the viewpoint.

One may live as a conqueror, a king, or a magistrate; but he must die a man. The bed of death brings every human being to his pure individuality . . . the relation between the creature and his Creator.—Daniel Webster.

I have learned a great truth—that people are pretty much the same the world over and that it does not much matter what is their race, creed or color.—Louis Bromfield.

Ottawa Offbeat
Red Ensign Petitions Have Way of Getting Lost

By RICHARD JACKSON
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — It begins to seem that all the Queen's horses and all the Queen's men are not going to get the Canadian Red Ensign stopoled again.

Not officially anyway, as Canada's national flag.

It was adopted once, by Order-in-Council, at the direction of former Prime Minister Mackenzie King, back around 1946.

And in the 18 years since, it has flown over Parliament, the Fighting Forces at home and abroad, and Federal Government establishments around the world.

But now, in the name of national unity, Prime Minister Pearson not only is not going to reconfirm the still official choice of the Red Ensign — if reconfirmation is even necessary at all — but is obviously getting set to discard it.

There is growing suspicion that the prime minister is as determined, as he apparently and so unshakably is, to erase any trace of the Union Jack from the flag and so please Quebec simply because he has little conception of how overwhelmingly strong popular support for the Red Ensign.

And why is he only grading the Red Ensign and under-rating the power of the very depth of the great sentimental attachment of what must surely be the vast majority for it?

THE COUNT COOKED?

Because, it has been blatantly suggested, the returns are rigged, the petitions faked. Accidentally or deliberately, letters, telegrams, resolutions etc. are being lost in the shuffle, or somebody can't do kindergarten addition.

At least some measure of documentary evidence of this strange state of affairs has been produced by Robert Carman Coulter, the young, crusading Conservative from Nova Scotia's Cumberland constituency, to rally 'round the flag.

The only official flag there is at the moment is the Red Ensign, that is.

He first became suspicious that in flag - counting, anyway, two and two weren't four, when Slate Secretary Maurice La montagne, in answer to his questions told him that 96,798 signatures had been submitted on letters and petitions favoring the Red Ensign.

This was odd, he though, particularly in view of some of the letters he had been getting, among them one from Montreal which said: "What's all this about 96,798 signatures? Why we in this family prepared a petition with 3,000 names on it."

And there were other letters, telling of the preparation and mailing to Ottawa, to the prime minister and the state secretary of other petitions with hundreds of names.

Troubled, Mr. Coates went again to the Commons to ask the Secretary Lamontage had given him.

That 96,798 figure was the total of three separate tabulations, at different times, of signatures endorsing the Red Ensign as the flag.

DOESN'T ADD UP

Here is matter of simple arithmetic.

Between September 8 of 1945 and April 8 of 1963, there had been 738 signatures counted.

Then, from April 8 of '63 to February 19 of '64, the total rocketed by a staggering 93,312.

Then from February 19 of '64 and April 1 of '64, another 4,748 had come in.

That was the State Secretary's story.

But the thing that baffles Mr. Coates is that he knows that from one organization alone, 3,000 signatures were sent in between February 20 and April 8 of 1963, the five closing weeks of the long 18-year period in which the State Secretary had assured him only 738 names had been counted.

The 16,000 names were filed in 16 successive petitions despatched to State Secretary by the Canadian Patriotic Association of Ontario, with head offices in Toronto.

There were 1,000 signatures on each of 12 petitions sent on 12 different days, and 2,000 names each on two others filed on March 4 and March 20.

All 16 petitions couldn't have been lost by those five weeks—or could they — for hadn't the State Secretary, in formal answer to a question, said that, in all the nearly 900 weeks from 1946 through to April 8 of 1963, only 738 signatures had been tabulated.

Odd, what?

Perhaps, after this mysterious miscalculation by somebody deep in the Bureaucracy, the counting will be more careful.

So mail in your Red Ensign letters and petitions.

Mail them to State Secretary Lamontagne, or if you prefer, to Prime Minister Pearson, Parliament Hill, Ottawa.

All the Queen's men may not keep the old flag flying.

Life Is Crude Raw Material For Artists

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Over the years, I have received many manuscripts from would-be authors with the misguided notion that I could assist them in the publication of their works. Ninety-nine per cent. of course, are utterly worthless; and the remaining one percent needs no help from me or anyone else.

But in their covering letters, these authors almost invariably sing the same refrain: "This story is true," they say: "this novel actually happened," they insist; "it is taken from real life."

Somehow they seem to feel that their literary work is authenticated by such statements, that its truth and sincerity are verified by life itself. But life is only the crude raw material for art as Hunter Miller observed: "Experience is not what happens to us — it is what we do with what happens to us."

There are stories, of a sort, in everybody and everything. Odd and poignant and mysterious and startling events are a part of every life. Truth, indeed, is so much stranger than fiction that good fiction needs to plane down the edges, to reshape and reduce the almost vulgar coincidences and gross astonishments that mere living brings to all of us.

This is why, in the long run, the fiction of even so gifted a storyteller as John O'Hara will be considered as the social history of a period, rather than as literature. On a realistic plane, he captures the life of the age, its speech, its mores, its customs, its surface beliefs.

But, on a deeper level, it is O'Hara's very accurate reportage with the trueness to life ("this is how it was") is his credo that so flattens out his life in the stories and novels; and in the end, makes them so unsatisfactory and unilluminating because the real "trueness" in a work of art has a metaphysical essence that alone gives it immortality.

The "real life" of a person is hidden both from the camera and from the tape-recorder — just as the "real nature" of a table is hidden from the eye. We see only the appearance, the secondary characteristics — not the thing-in-itself. And the primary task of art is to strip down the appearance, to isolate the accidental, and to disclose the essential. It is a difficult task, which is why great art is so rare.

"What happens" in Hamlet or the narrative — to know only the story is to understand nothing at all about the play or the chief character. A story can be pure took a "true" Danish story and transformed it into a universal experience — not by saying "This is how it was," but by fashioning, to the trained sensibility, "This is what it means."

Britain's general strike of 1926 ended 28 years ago today—19 days after it had started. At issue were wages and working conditions, especially in the coal industry. The strike involved about 2,000,000 of the 5,000,000 unions members in the total wage-earning population of 15,000,000. The chancellor of the exchequer put the total loss resulting from the strike at $750,000,000 and he had to borrow $80 per an actual deficit of $36,000,000.

Letter to the Editor
Thurlow Resident Complains of Dump

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer:

About a month ago, I wrote a letter to the Medical Officer of Health for Thurlow township. I telephoned Mr. E. Dafoe, municipal clerk, I telephoned our sanitary inspector Mr. J. Szurka, who some to see me, relative to my complaint that a filthy garbage dump was being built up on the road leading to my house, and on the main road, commonly known as the Moira Lane. I have to pass within a few feet of this dump going to and from my house, also my tenants. It is conspicuous from the road and I am wondering why people have to be subjected to this sort of filth contrary to the Thurlow township by-laws, and why Mr. Szurka has no authority to clean up this mess.

I understand from him, he cannot do anything unless the council OK's it, and he has put this situation before the council and the board for sanction. This is a breeding ground for flies and rats, and I feel a hazard to the general health of this small community.

I have spoken to one person who I know is putting garbage on this dump and was prompted by me, would not get it there on permission from their landlord.

Why pass by-laws? It's a waste of time and taxpayers' money employing people to enforce them when they are not allowed to do so.

Smith,
R. J. Thurlow.

Believes in Giving Hormones To Women Who Need Them

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is there any harm in continuing to take hormone pills for my horrible "hot flashes." When I stop, I am miserable. (I am 52.)

My druggist told me I'd have to get another prescription before I can buy any more. So I wondered. Could they be dangerous? — Mrs. C. W.

I believe in giving hormones to women who need them, or will be substantially helped by them, in menopause.

But I do not believe they should be:

1 — Given to all women in menopause. Some don't need them.

2 — Given indefinitely. A course of several months of hormones, possibly repeated for another few months is reasonable. This will help some women over a difficult period. If it is not something they will need, or get any benefit from, over an extended period, it means something beyond a year or so — more or less, to suit individual cases.

3 — The reason the prescription can't be refilled indefinitely without a new one from your doctor is based on federal law, which I consider to be wise and sensible.

Some prescriptions should not be refilled at all without the doctors explicit permission. Narcotics are an extreme example of this.

Others may be refilled a few times; still others many times.

But none — if a prescription is necessary at all — should be refillable indefinitely. In fact, in a few categories I'd make it by laws a shade stricter than they are.

In general, hormones for hot flashes are not dangerous. Yet under certain circumstances they might be. They do not cause cancer. But if certain types of cancer develop, the hormones could make them grow faster than usual; hence it's best to play safe.

While hormones are in use, watch for any sign of cancer. If one happened to develop, your doctor would stop the hormones at once. (And, of course, treat the cancer without delay, and try to cure it.)

Dear Dr. Molner: I am troubled with varicose veins and also cramps in my legs and right foot. What should I do about this? — Mrs. M. H. L.

The varicose veins (which means impaired circulation) could have something to do with the cramps. Rather than try to give you only a bit of advice here, I suggest that you send for a copy of "How To Live With Varicose Veins," a booklet I wrote because so many people didn't really understand varicose veins or know what to do to prevent them. (Any reader may have a copy of this booklet by enclosing 25 cents in coin and a long, unstamped, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Molner in care of The Chicago Sunshine Syndicate, P. O. Box 158, Dundee, Ill.)

Dear Dr. Molner: I just celebrated my 60th birthday and find that for the past few months I've left hand quivers and my thumb keeps constantly. Is there anything that can be done to overcome this by medicine or diet? — J. M.

Diet? No. Medicine? Perhaps a few, but it will require medical examination to find out what is causing the trembling before medicine or other treatment can be intelligently advised.

Odd Group Of Robbers

St. Thomas Times - Journal

Most of the men involved in the great English mail train robbery last August are start. ing now to pay the price for their rash adventure. Seven have been convicted and sentenced to a staggering total of 307 years in prison for the part they played in the robbery that netted nearly $8,000,000 in the greatest cash haul of modern times.

Seven others, including three women, are awaiting trial on charges of having received part of the loot. However, despite the fact the work of police in tracking down so many of the criminals, only about $900,000 has so far been recovered. It leaves a tremendous sum of money unaccounted for and police suspect it is cached away by three or four men who probably made a getaway with the job.

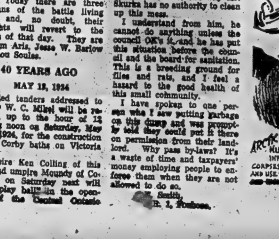
The size and scope of the robbery, carried out with precision and magnitude, excited the attention of people in every corner of the world; attention that, for some, drew both awe and admiration. To those people, no doubt it looked like the successful one-shot raid for stakes high enough to make the risks worthwhile.

But it wasn't worthwhile for the twelve sentenced by Judge Reginald Davies. And for those still at large who may know where the money is, it is nothing but a nightmare. They are hunted men, and they can't spend a cent of their ill - gotten gains.

In the end, as the judge noted, it was nothing less than a sordid crime of violence, motivated by greed.

One cannot help wonder how such an odd collection of men, with such widely differing social and economic backgrounds, ever got together to plot such a robbery in the first place, to wit:

Two London bookies; a night club proprietor; a carpenter and a painter; an automobile racing driver; a hairdresser; a law clerk; a merchant seaman; a lawyer and a florist — all among those convicted. Surely here are all the ingredients for the making of a good book or a movie.



Advertising Exaggerates

Peterborough Examiner

Ontario is advertising itself in American magazines. Advertising is very big," says an advertisement by the Department of Travel and Publicity. "Big, even Texas, sweat" Up to this point, there has been slavish devotion to the truth and a reasonable attitude towards exaggeration. Consider the inducement offered to those who live inclined towards city life?" The province of Ontario begins to take a very rakish angle.

"Well, we've got a good many of 'em (cities) and by with population over 50,000 and one pushing two million. And they've got big industries and historic sites, museums, art galleries and luxurious hotels and motels. There's plenty of night life under the bright (or intimately subdued) lights, too."

All we can say about this fanciful description of life in an Ontario city of 50,000 is that you might be able to fool a few tourists with it, but those of us who live here are having a hard sweat with the art galleries and museums.

Other senior base metals were only fractionally lower. Speculative issues were generally two or three cents easier.

In the industrial list, Bank of Montreal paced a mild sparing with a gain of ¼ to 65¾. CPR, Consolidated Paper and Steel of Canada made gains of as much as ¾. Massey - Ferguson and Aluminium also ahead ¼ to 24 and 33¾ respectively.

Wives' Visits To Prisons Opposed

KINGSTON (CP) — Allan MacLeod, federal commissioner of penitentiaries, said Monday he would rather see prisoners sent home for varying periods than have them visited by wives in prison.

Speaking to the annual meeting of the Kingston Elizabeth Fry Society, an organization that helps women prisoners, Mr. MacLeod dismissed the idea of women visiting men in prison as "missing the point."

"We don't want wives or mistresses coming up to the prison gate every Saturday," Mr. MacLeod said. "We would rather have the inmate go home for varying periods so he will have something to think about about when he returns besides sex."

Rusk at the Hague Seeking Aid for South Viet Nam

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

State Secretary Dean Rusk is reported to be taken a long shopping list with him to The Hague where he is seeking aid for South Viet Nam. But the reaction would indicate he'll have trouble finding many European supporters ready to do business with him.

What the U.S. says it wants is not tanks and troops but beef back the Viet Cong, but a display of support from the North Atlantic allies through donations of medical supplies and doctors, police advisers and industrial technicians, teachers and economists and other skilled personnel to help the Vietnamese government.

This aid would seem to be easy enough for the North Atlantic partners to supply. But many of the U.S. partners realize much of this proposed aid is available in the U.S. Then why is Rusk shopping in Europe?

It would appear the U.S. has found the Vietnamese war an unhealthy quagmire, with each succeeding Vietnamese administration showing no more ability to cope with the situation than the previous one. And faced with growing criticism at home and abroad, the U.S. wants friends to demonstrate their support, at least through token involvement.

Rusk got a quick brush-off from The Netherlands which suggested those countries with primary responsibility in the area take on the job of providing aid. Not lost on Rusk was the fact the Dutch government is still smarting from the loss of Dutch New Guinea which, the Dutch maintain, was turned over to Indonesia's Sukarno with U.S. assistance.

The French government has already made clear it doesn't want any part of the Vietnamese war, arguing the answer for that area is neutralization. The French are vague, however, about indicating how such neutralization would work.

The Italians, officials say, Britain can't do much to help since Britain is deeply involved in the defence of Malaysia. As a member of the three-country Viet Nam Truce team, Canada also cannot afford to take sides, though American authorities suggest there would be nothing illegal if Canadian doctors privately recruited a medical corps to help the Vietnamese wounded.

Little can be expected from Greece and Turkey which are watching each other fearfully over Cyprus. And while there is some American hope Italy may be persuaded to provide some aid, there doesn't seem to be much enthusiasm in Rome.

In contrast is the clear response from Bonn. The West German administration indicated it will increase its assistance. But it doesn't say what it will provide. As for its current assistance, this consists mainly of some economic loans.

Y's Activites

Last week was a busy one, especially in the realm of elections for the So-Ed Club and the Girls' Hi-Y Club.

So-Ed's new executive is as follows: president, Colin Allan; vice-president, Judy Truscott; secretary, Ellen Hauser, and treasurer, Garth Haggerty. The summer program for So-Ed will soon be underway with the new executive in charge.

The new executive for the Girls' Hi-Y Club is as follows: president, Susan Craig; vice-president, Linda Magahay; secretary, Lyn Watson, and treasurer, Vera Provina. For the first time, the club elected directors whose job it will be, to oversee important committees. They are Betty Smith, Joan Marner and Joanne McNevin.

The girls recently sold number of cookies and cakes during a bake sale held in the Market Square. The sale helped offset expenses incurred by the Mr. and Miss R.C.I. contest and the cost of decorations of the Spring Fling Semi-Formal Dance at R.C.I.

Worse Sins Than Sexual Wrongdoing

-- Bishop

VANCOUVER (CP) — A bishop of the Church of England says he believes there are circumstances where sexual intercourse outside marriage is not immoral.

Such a circumstance could occur with a couple seriously contemplating marriage, said Rt Rev. Wilfred A. Westall, bishop of Crediton, Devon, England.

He said he would not condone promiscuity.

"I don't think that just because a boy and girl have had pre - marital intercourse they are unfit for marriage," he said in an interview Saturday.

"They have not committed an unforgivable sin. . . .

DOESN'T BELIEVE IT

"There is an old saying that the first onset of sins are gin, gambling and girls. I don't believe it. There are worse sins than sexual wrongdoing."

Bishop Westall was here to address a gathering of Canadian and American Anglicans.

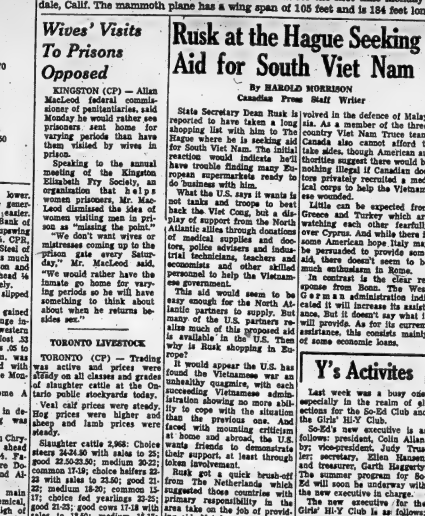
He said a new morality is being established and it often an impossible opportunity for the church.

"We must give reasons for sexual morality instead of the old puritanical taboos. You can't just say to teenagers: 'You'll go to hell if you do wrong.'

"We must base morality on reason."

Bishop Westall is president of the Church Union in Great Britain and the Commonwealth.

$90,000 Forgery Operation Halted



TORONTO (CP)—Judge F. J. MacNae concluded Monday that a $90,000 forgery ring run by four Montreal men was halted before it really got going.

Marcel Hebert, 31, pleaded guilty to a charge of conspiracy to forge and utter and was sentenced to four years in penitentiary.

Det. Charles Angus of the Metropolitan Toronto police said Hebert told him he had bought a large number of blank insurance company cheques for $300 from an unidentified man in a Montreal tavern.

A few days later, Hebert and three others were in Toronto cashing the cheques at supermarkets and presenting bogus documents for identification. They had collected $600 when a store manager put police on their trail.

Donna Lawrenson in Top Bracket of Badges Earned

Being adept with a sewing and hammer as with a needle Donna has played a 10-year-old Belleville Brownie in the top ranks of badges earned.

It is not definite if Donna, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Lawrenson, 58 Southview, has broken the city's record by acquiring 19 badges, but according to the Northeast District badge secretary, Mrs. Matthews, it is the highest number in her records dating back 18 years, at which time she was secretary for the whole of Belleville.

Of the 22 tests listed for Brownie's to try it is easier to name the badges that were out of Donna's reach: skier, dancer, swimmer and music. Each test was passed by qualified testers and when Donna's name re-appeared for badges so often Mrs. Matthews became interested and tested the Brownie personality. The average girl achieves eight or nine badges while in Brownies.

Mrs. Lawrenson attributes much of Donna's keen interest to the encouragement she received from Brown Owl Mrs. W. Lewis of Park 17, Sir. Winston Churchill School.

Among her accomplishments Donna has a doll house, completely furnished, even to a mirror in the dresser, fine examples of needlework, knitting and weaving, and wooden work with which she won prizes at the Hobby Fair.

On Thursday Donna will fly into Quebec.

Argyll Chapter Hears Report On Convention

The regular monthly meeting of the Argyll Chapter of the I.O.D.E. was held in the armories on Wednesday. As the Officers' Mess is undergoing a face-lifting, the use of the Sergeants' Mess was appreciated.

Regent Mrs. Smith was attending a welfare dinner meeting and was delayed. Mrs. K. Willcocks opened the meeting with the prayer of the Order and the flag being brought forward, the meeting was open for business.

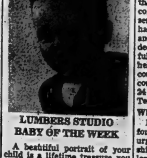
Reports were heard from the different conveners. The citizenship convener announced the court will be held June 23 Judge Anderson would like all members of the IODE to attend. An invitation from St Julien Chapter to help fill a bus for a house and garden tour in Ottawa, May 21st, was received, which is sponsored by the IODE in Ottawa.

Interesting reports were given by the two delegates to the provincial convention in Hamilton. Mrs F. Spragge, standard bearer, gave a detailed report of the impressions. Her first was the parade of standards. This is a most impressive and colorful opening to the convention. Ensigns were borne by bearers in dark dresses and standing white gloves. The parade divided and entered the two sides of the room where the flags are placed for the duration.

Mrs. Riordan reported there were 900 delegates with three life members in attendance. An interesting experiment was introduced this year in having a buffet supper in the hotel. This is much appreciated especially after having expected looking for some place to eat in a downpour of rain.

At the dinner, which takes place the last evening of the convention, Mr. John Fisher was guest speaker. His topic was "The Centennial", and gave the listeners much food for thought.

...The regent carried on with the business and noted that the articles have been shipped and magazines and small pocket books are being sent to the Armed Forces in Germany. The date for the annual dinner to be held in Marmora will be announced later. Forms are being distributed for signatures in the Red Ensign to be sent to the M.P.



The national convention will be held in Fredericton — the birthplace of the IODE. A communication was read re the duty of members to serve on jury duty when required.

The balance of the evening was spent in finalizing plans for the tea to be held in the armories May 27th. The June meeting will take the form of a potluck supper to be held at the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Smith.

Refreshments were served.

CWL Members Hold Panel Discussion of Foreign Culture

The monthly meeting of St. Michael's Catholic Women's League was held on Monday, May 11th and was opened with the league prayer led by Rt. Rev. J. L. Sullivan, director.

The reports presented pointed out to the members present that summer months will see congratulatory cards had been sent to parishioners, Mass cards had been purchased and passing and rosaries had been said for deceased members. A successful rummage sale had been held on April 29. A garden tea convened by the hospitality committee will be held on June 24 at the home of Mrs. J. Thompson, 283 Dundas St. W.

WELFARE SERVICES

May is membership month for the C.W.L. and ladies are urged to renew their membership and subscribe to the league magazine, also to acquaint ladies newly arrived in the parish with the council projects. Members of the social action convenorship were present at the dinner meeting recently organized by Mayor Jack Ellis whose aim it is to coordinate the municipal welfare services after the pattern set in Brantford, Ont., which is outstanding in its organization. The members felt that greater organization of welfare is necessary to prevent duplication of services to some individuals and the consequent inattention to others of need.

The council was urged to invited a panel discussion of C.W.L. badge which would be worn by league members during visiting dinner and social action work and readily identify them as C.W.L. members. Thanks went to the ladies who baked for it and assisted with the Kingston Women's Prize tea held on Sunday, May 3 and the candy booth of the V.O.N. tea held on May 7.

Suggestions were submitted to the provincial council regarding a fitting contribution to celebrate Canada's Centennial year from this Catholic Women's League of Canada.

The remarks of a recent speaker from the CBC network were reiterated by Mrs. S. Acherman in the suggestion that the public, particularly parents of young TV viewers become enlightened viewing audience and hold discussions on the various programs, forwarding any suggestions to the network. This would provide members to the producers to give the audience the programs they most enjoy and find beneficial.

PANEL DISCUSSION

To signify May as Citizenship and Immigration Month, the committee convener, Mrs. H. Brown presented a delightful and informative panel discussion consisting of questions and answers involving herself and five ladies of foreign culture, some in their native costume. The visiting ladies were: Mrs. R. Kapr of India, Mrs. V. Mazer of Italy, Miss Ila Cecil of the Philippines, Mrs. A. Vogt and Miss D. Vogt of Holland. The general impression of these ladies was that Canada is a land of opportunity and adventure, here people are friendly and helpful and becoming a member of the organization is an asset toward integration. Most of the ladies expect to become active citizens in the near future. Thanks were expressed to each of the ladies for their participation of a small flowering plant.

A masquerade dance is being planned for the parish on Saturday, October 25th, in St. Michael's auditorium.

The entertainment which followed was a comprehensive cosmetic demonstration provided by Kellys Drug Store. Refreshments were enjoyed by the members and guests.

The Voice of Women Sticks Neck Out Against A-Bombs

VICTORIA (CP) — The Voice of Women is like a turtle—"it sticks its neck out," says its president.

"Sometimes we have to stick our necks out in order to rouse public opinion to the threat of allout nuclear war and that is an ever-present threat so long as we continue manufacturing nuclear weapons," says Kathleen Macpherson of Toronto.

VoW's public demonstrations against nuclear weapons are sometimes regarded as "too radical" by its more conservative members, she admits. "But there is no point in being a voice if it is too quiet to be heard. What we need is a scream of protest against the use, spread and testing of nuclear weapons in Canada and everywhere else."

Mrs. Macpherson, a psychotherapist by profession, made her comments during a Victoria stopover on a Western tour. She later travelled to The Hague for meetings with women from the 15 North Atlantic Treaty Organization countries.

She will report at the VoW's annual meeting in Banff, Alta., June 30-31 on efforts at The Hague to build a new women's movement.

Moore Bread

BY MARY MOORE

My tall nephew Paul stood over me while I made this bread and came in handy when I needed a kneader.

This bread is so nutritious-packed that it would indeed be the staff of life in a big family.

It calls for ½ cup skim milk powder and, in a variation which I give below, some cheese is included. My brother says the cheese-flavored one is unbeatable. This time I used 2 packages of yeast to speed up the whole process.

MOORE BREAD (makes 3 loaves):

2 packages granular yeast, 2 tablespoons sugar, 3 cups lukewarm water, 2 tablespoons soft margarine or butter or shortening, 4 cups sifted all-purpose or bread flour, ½ cup skim milk powder, 4 teaspoons salt, 1 cup quick-cooking rolled oats, 3 cups stirred but not sifted pumpkin wheat flour (reserve 1 cup for flouring kneading board), 1/3 cup soft, bright orange, rich cream cheese, cut up (optional).

TUESDAY

Dinner Menus

Oxtail Soup; Asparagus Supper Dish (see Monday); Rosebud Beets; Cole Slaw; Pineapple Upside Down Cake; Top Milk; Tea.

In large mixing bowl soak the yeast in the lukewarm water with the sugar for 5 minutes. Add the margarine or butter or shortening. Sift together the sifted all-purpose or bread flour, skim milk powder and salt and beat them into the yeast liquid, then beat in the quick-cooking rolled oats well. Now stir in 2 cups of the whole wheat flour as well as you can. Turn out on board sprinkled with ½ cup of the remaining flour and knead for 5 minutes or 200 pushes. Return to scrubbed-down bowl and let rise until doubled (or higher) in warm place. Mine rose for 1½ hours.

Turn out of bowl onto board sprinkled with remaining ½ cup whole wheat flour and knead for 5 minutes or 200 punches. (Nearly all flour on board will be incorporated at end of kneading time.) Divide dough into 3 equal portions. If desired knead 1/3 cup rich orange cream cheese into 1 portion until perfectly blended and smooth. (You may need to sprinkle board with a little the cheese into 1 loaf.) Shape more wheat flour as you knead the three portions into loaves and place in 3 buttered loaf pans. Let rise in warm place until above rims of pans. Bake at 350 degs. Fahr. for 50 to 60 minutes until brown and when tapped with fingertips loaves sound hollow.

NOTE:

Loaf with cheese in will be a little larger than other 2 loaves because it contains more ingredients.

This bread is different and a treat and one loaf should be served as soon as reasonable after it comes from the oven.

Hopeless Housewife Being Exploited by Homewrecker

DEAR DORIS — I had a very rough childhood, very unhappy, and I married my husband at 16 to get clear of my home life. I have grown very fond of him and we are, or I should say were, very happy.

I took a job and fell in love with a man there who was married. He is parted from his wife and I don't know if he is free or not. But we have had relations together. I feel so guilty about this, as I have a family and he wants me to marry him. We have been sneaking to see each other, but I tried to break away from him.

What should I do? I'm beside myself with worry and so ashamed of myself. — J.S.

DORIS CLARK

DEAR J.S. — Break off with this unscrupulous homewrecker and never see him again. Just because he is separated from his wife does not give him the right to separate another wife and husband. He is making a fool of you.

Give serious thought and study to improving relations between yourself and that good husband of yours.

DEAR DORIS — If a person made up a funny song, where could he send it if he wanted to get money or even to publish it? — WONDERING.

DEAR WONDERING — Hopeful composers have lost their shirts trying to promote an original "funny song." For any hope of success it usually has to be featured by a popular singer.

But there are song publishers who will give you a judgment on your particular composition. Send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope for names and addresses.

MAIL CALL

Question: We've received an invitation to a wedding addressed to "Mr. and Mrs. John Doe and Family." We have no children, but my husband's mother lives with us. Does the "and family" mean that she is included in the invitation? How should I reply to let the bride's mother know that my mother-in-law will accompany us? — Mrs. C. B., Paterson, N.J.

Answer: The "and Family" most likely does mean your mother - in - law. Correctly, though, she should have been sent a separate invitation as an adult member of your family. When replying, answer in the third person, following the form of the invitation, and include your mother-in-law by name in the response.

Question: My husband travels a great deal, so my social life is very limited. However, a good friend is having an anniversary party soon and, although my husband will be on the road, I'm considering accepting the invitation. My husband says I should go, but would it be considered good taste for me to attend a party unescorted? Most of the people who will be there are old friends, so I'm sure it will be a pleasant evening. What is your opinion? — Mrs. H. W., Philadelphia, Pa.

Answer: Since the party is being given by close friends and will be attended by people you know quite well, there's really no reason why you shouldn't attend and you certainly shouldn't feel that it might be considered poor taste for you to do so.

MAY MILLINERY

Because the customer writes the script for this season's fashion scene, we can be sure that chiffon head scarves will continue to replace hats. This is especially true now that the summer season is here. Some smart milliners have admitted defeat and, working on the theory, "if you can't beat them — join them," have designed some attractive head scarves. The prettiest creation, from a small line of silk chiffon, completely covered with small flat daisies except at the tie ends. Another one that stood out, looked like a blanket of yellow violets. Of course the secret of success here is the use of small flat flowers. Roses and poppies, although beautiful, just will not work when given this treatment.

Some of the daisy and violet kerchiefs have a fold-back of plain, double chiffon to frame the face. Looking at this type of "millinery" from the customer's point of view, I asked where such beautiful, advanced creations were to be worn. I was told that the idea originated in Paris — as part of the planning for summer garden weddings. The Paris originals use fresh flowers and some have copied the idea in silk flowers. I wonder if it will catch on here in Canada where our weddings tend to be a little more conservative. After all, even a flower-trimmed head scarf is still a babushka!

PARISIAN SNOOD

Another practical, yet charming idea is the Parisian snood of organdy, or stiffened silk. This cowl is usually banded and puffed out to hold the hair. On the right type, it looks fragile and quite beautiful. Granted that it is not everyone's hat, I was rather disappointed that it is still on the Canadian market. There are no rumors of its existence, so I think we must assume that the only way Canadians can buy it is to have it custom-made.

There is a particularly cheerful note on the Canadian millinery scene this season. Milliners are beginning to adapt the European idea of fabric hats to match coats. This theme has been big news in Paris for at least two years, but it has taken a long time to reach us. It is starting in co-ordinated raincoats and hats of fine poplin in an array of colors. From a practical viewpoint, they should sell well because the raincoats this season are so attractive These matching hat collections include all the new silhouettes — widened brims and squared pillboxes.

The whole millinery industry has a wonderful opportunity for added sales this year because of the new, hard - to - control, shorter hair styles.

Three Classes Of Deaf Persons Says Official

WINNIPEG (CP)—Deaf children get little of the pity or understanding offered to children handicapped in other ways, says W. F. Kent.

The reason for this is that deafness is not immediately apparent and often is misunderstood. Thus a deaf child may be thought to be merely stubborn or retarded, says Mr. Kent, a Winnipeg resident recently presented with a life membership in the Western Canada Association of the Deaf.

Mr. Kent says there are three classes of deaf persons: (The profoundly deaf — those born deaf or who become so shortly after birth; the hard of hearing—those with many degrees of deafness which can be helped by hearing aids; and the deafened — those who become deaf when mature enough to have formed a vocabulary.

The profoundly deaf have a language problem. They have to memorize the rules of grammar, rather than depend on how a sentence sounds.

Sign language is the general means of communication for a profoundly deaf person. Lip reading is not successful because only about a third of the words spoken show on the lips.

There are two types of sign language, one consisting of signs for letters of the alphabet, the other signs for individual words.

Mrs. Kent says a deaf person has to be twice as good as any other applicant to get a job. It is much easier for women, who may go into the sewing trades, than for men to find employment.

A part-time staff member of the Society for Crippled Children and Adults, she formerly taught at the Manitoba School for the Deaf. She has served as interpreter for the deaf before doctors, lawyers, at court proceedings, weddings, christenings and funerals.

Nova Scotia Birthplace of First Quints

LITTLE EGYPT, N.S. (CP)—The distinction of being the birthplace of Canada's first quintuplets falls to this tiny settlement on the Glenfalloch Road four miles from New Glasgow.

The event occurred Feb. 15, 1880, 54 years before the birth of the Dionne quintuplets at Callander, Ont. But three of the quints born to Mr. and Mrs. Adam Murray died on the day they were born, a Sunday, another died on Monday and the fifth on Wednesday.

The birth of the three girls and two boys was related in the Eastern Chronicle, a long-defunct Nova Scotia weekly, which said Dr. William Fraser was summoned to a "case of midwifery" at the Murray home on Sunday morning.

"Mr. Murray's family at the time of the doctor's arrival consisted of seven children. Within an hour afterward, Mrs. Murray presented her husband with five children, perfectly formed but very miniature specimens of humanity. . . .

"Three of the children were reported dead on the evening of the first day and on Monday a fourth died. A large number of people went to see this wonderful progeny. On Monday the four dead babies were laid side by side in neat rosewood cases, part of a series of gifts from many of the townspeople."

The infants ranged in weight from two pounds, eight ounces to three pounds, six ounces.

The mother was described as a "strong, healthy woman" little over 30 who had 17 brothers and sisters, and the father was rated "an ordinary looking sample of physical development —in fact below the average in stature and proportion."

Ann Landers

Accident-Prone Husband May Have Mixed Ideas

DEAR ANN LANDERS: — I had a good laugh reading that letter from the woman whose husband used to hit her during her sleep. After a while it got me to thinking, and now I'm wondering about my old man. He hits me when he is awake.

It is always "accidental" — or so he says. And I really can't prove it isn't. A few weeks ago he was hanging a picture and dropped it on my head. I thought he had fractured my skull. He has burned me with cigars and hit me with the garden rake. Last year he almost ran me over with the car. (He was backing out of the driveway and didn't see me trimming the hedges.)

Please tell me if you think these accidents mean anything. — D.F.

* * *

DEAR D.F. — Yes, they mean something. They mean your husband is careless, awkward and accident prone. They might also mean that he has mixed emotions about you.

My advice is to keep alert when your husband is in the vicinity and signal your position frequently. If anything else the car incident occurs again insist that he get some professional help.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I am a very good card player and enjoy almost any kind of game. I usually win.

These last several months I have not been invited to many card games. My husband commented on this last night and said it was because I win too often. He said it would be a good idea if I let others win once in a while.

This seems wrong. I would not want to play cards with anyone who would let me win. I feel every person should play his best. Letting someone win is a form of cheating. When I expressed this view he said I was wrong. Am I? Or is he? — NO FAKER.

DEAR NO — Your husband is wrong on two counts.

First, I don't believe you are being invited less often because you win too frequently. I suspect you are not a gracious winner, which is something quite different. People like to compete against good players because it helps improve their own game.

Second, playing less than your best is dishonest. Everyone should play to win.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — We have four children under 12 years of age. Since February at least one of my brood has been home with a cold, the mumps, the flue, measles, or chicken pox. Yesterday when I went to school on parent's visiting day, I learned why my kids were always sick.

I counted a dozen children who should have been at home. Four boys were coughing violently, five others were sneezing and blowing their noses and could not breathe with their mouths closed. Two 7-year-olds had their heads down on their desks and looked feverish. One little girl had spots which I am sure were measles.

I am furious that some mothers are so anxious to get rid of their children that they push them out the door when they should be at home in bed. They do not care if their sick children infect others. What can be done about this? — WET HEN.

DEAR WET — Almost every school has a nurse. The teacher is supposed to send the children who are ill to the nurse. The nurse decided if the child should be sent home. Since this procedure is obviously not being practiced in the school your children attend you should discuss it with the principal.

Whenever you get 25 kids together at least four are going to have running noses. If your children get plenty of rest and proper nourishment you are protecting them to the best of your ability.

Relaxation of State Ban Against Abortions Asked

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—Abortion is an ugly word to most people, synonymous with an illegal operation performed by an incompetent in a back room.

But to many Californians, it means hope for women doomed by disease or drugs to bear deformed children. And it's a method, they say, of ending an unwanted pregnancy caused by rape or incest.

The California Medical Association and the public health department have asked for a relaxation of the state ban against abortions.

More recently, the 70,000-member California Democratic Council, the party's powerful volunteer arm, gave its support to the movement.

Throughout the state, women's clubs, church groups and other organizations are discussing the proposed Human Abortion Act, now under study by a legislative committee.

Debate was intensified by the story of Mrs. Sherry Finkbine, the Phoenix, Ariz., woman who had taken a tranquilizer which was blamed for deformities in unborn children. She flew to Sweden for an operation after hospitals in the U.S. refused.

The proposed California legislation, introduced by Assemblyman Anthony C. Beilenson, a Beverly Hills lawyer, would allow physicians to perform therapeutic abortions where continuation of the pregnancy "involves substantial risk that mother or child will suffer grave impairment of physical or mental health."

Pregnancies resulting from rape or incest also could be terminated—if a court decides such a crime has been committed.

APPROVAL NEEDED

Any abortion would have to be approved by a hospital's therapeutic abortion committee, composed of obstetricians, pediatricians, internists and psychiatrists.

But the legislature has shown no sign of changing the present law, which prohibits abortions unless they are needed to save the life of the mother.

Leading the opposition is the Roman Catholic Church.

Rev. Timothy O'Brien, director of the Catholic Conference of Catholic Hospitals, warned legislators against passing laws "which are contrary to the laws of nature."

The state public health department says the bill is needed to cut down the death and injury toll from illegal abortions. Last year, such operations killed about 30 women in the state.

Dr. Leslie Corsa of the public health department says there's no way of telling how many illegal abortions are performed in California each year.

Beilenson estimated the number at about 100,000 and said "virtually every single one is a criminal abortion for the simple fact that an abortion is never necessary any more in order to preserve a woman's life."

Alabama, Colorado, New Mexico and Oregon have laws similar to the one proposed by Beilenson.

U.C.W. Meeting

UNITED CHURCH WOMEN

WELLINGTON — The April meeting of Unit 2 of the Wellington United Church Women was opened in an unusual fashion.

At the beginning of the meeting, members enjoyed a cup of tea and a chat, hearing surprising bits of "gossip" about fellow members. All this "news" was found to be proved to be fictitious, though amusing. A skit followed showing four women attempting to chat and exchange gossip. These two episodes showed clearly how gossip can spread untruths or be unkind and led to a discussion of the subject, "Why Do People Gossip?" What Could a Christian Woman do to Discourage Gossip?"

Mrs. J. Dert led the Bible study, which was based on the intermediate section of the new curriculum in the Sunday School. Mrs. R. Pierson opened the devotional and the messages was based on the question "Who Are You?"

Fourteen members and one visitor were present. Mrs. H. Dick reported on citizenship speaking on the subject "Temperance".

Mrs. C. Burr, unit leader spoke on the encouragement of new members. "Let us visit newcomers and remember those who are unable to attend the meetings but who nevertheless are interested in the work of the United Church Women".

The next meeting will be May 21st.

Canada's Crucial Interest In Cyprus Emphasized by Paul Martin in Interview

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

THE HAGUE (CP) — External Affairs Minister Paul Martin emphasized Canada's crucial interest in Cyprus in a talk with reporters on the eve of today's NATO ministerial council meeting.

He said NATO already is empowered by its charter to use its "good offices on request" in Cyprus.

Although Cyprus is not a member of the alliance, the two countries mostly deeply embroiled in the struggle between Cypriots—Turkey and Greece—are members and the charter makes provision for procedures to be followed in settling interalliance differences, Martin said.

"The secretary-general is empowered to use his good offices on request," Martin declared.

Martin was asked about the possibility that a Canadian will be considered for the post of deputy secretary - general of NATO.

IT'S POSSIBLE

Martin replies it is "quite possible."

However he had not heard reports that Arnold Heeney, chairman of the Canadian section of the International Joint Commission, or Gen. E. L. M. Burns are possibilities.

Martin wedged in a press conference between private and separate talks with Turkish Foreign Minister Feridun Erkin and Greek Foreign Minister Stavros Kostopoulos.

The "on request" stipulation is the stumbling block to NATO intervention and Martin would not say whether he had received any indication Greece and Turkey would ask for NATO action.

Any NATO role in the dispute would not interfere with the responsibility of the United Nations mediator in Cyprus to facilitate a political solution, Martin declared.

NATO's role would be concerned strictly with bridging the differences between Greece and Turkey.

Martin arrived here Saturday and held discussions Sunday with U.S. State Secretary Dean Rusk and Dutch Foreign Minister Luns.

He met with French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville Monday and the two issued a communique hailing the growing bonds between Canada and France, particularly in cultural matters.

SHOP PLANE

PALMDALE, Calif. (AP)—The U.S. Air Force rolled out its largest and biggest member Monday, the 2,000-mile-an-hour XB-70A. Technical problems for awhile time to come will keep it from carrying enough fuel to span the Pacific, but officials do not consider this a handicap. It's primarily a research plane, despite its designation as a bomber, and it doesn't have a seat for a bombardier.

Douglas Fisher Accused of Being Gossip-Monger

OTTAWA (CP)—John Munro, parliamentary secretary to Health Minister LaMarsh, Monday night accused a fellow-MP —Douglas Fisher—of being a gossip - monger in his newspaper column and being apparently dedicated to destroying Parliament.

Mr. Munro, addressing a service club here, said Mr. Fisher, New Democratic Party MP for Port Arthur and a syndicated newspaper columnist, has helped make MPs' breaches of loyalty and integrity an everyday thing.

"I regard him as one of those members apparently dedicated to destroy the very institution of which he is a member—an institution that he pledged to uphold."

Mr. Munro, a lawyer who represents Hamilton East, said Mr. Fisher has progressively lost the respect of his colleagues and respect "unfortunately has been replaced by a little fear."

In Mr. Fisher's dual capacity as deputy leader of the NDP and columnist, the NDP member had hurt his party and his leader. That was a matter for the NDP.

HURTS PARLIAMENT

"But when he hurts the institution of Parliament itself and when by the promotion of malicious gossip, aided every so often by the power to instil honest fear amongst his colleagues, then he undermines and repudiates those qualities of integrity and loyalty.

When he undermines parliamentary institutions such as the caucus then he richly deserves to be treated with the disdain of his colleagues."

Mr. Munro said Canadians have little respect "for a disseminator of gossip—no respect for such a man as a man or as a legislator; even more so, when his columns are motivated by hatred, ill-disguised—aimed to destroy and lacking in fundamental decency."

Referring apparently to a recent column in which Mr. Fisher asked for replacement of Prime Minister Pearson by External Affairs Minister Martin or Trade Minister Sharp, Mr. Munro asked: "Why the calculated and indecent attempt to destroy?"

"I think it is because the prime minister has shown that he abundantly possesses that quality that enables him to earn the personal respect of political friend and critic alike.

"Could it be that Mr. Fisher's recent articles are nothing but the bitter infuriation of a man who has so wantonly, foolishly and deliberately disregarded dispatched the very talents upon which that type of respect depends?"

WELL ARMED — Major Archie McCorquodale, centre, came to speak to the Rotary Club on Monday well armed. Actually he is describing the weapons taken from boys admitted to the House of Concord at Concord, Ont., to Magistrate T. Y. Wills, left and Judge J. C. Anderson, right. He said that boys are equipped with such weapons as guns and knives, seen on table in foreground, and usually left with a different weapon, 'faith'.

said. There was no estimate on the number of civilians who would lose their jobs.

Prime Minister Pearson said he has received no complaints from members of the armed forces at having to pay income tax in one year on long-term payments made for early retirement.

He told Opposition Leader Diefenbaker that if there are complaints, consideration will be given to Mr. Diefenbaker's suggestion that the tax be paid over a period of years or that the lump - sum payments be made over a period of years.

Speaking later in the Commons, former defence minister Harkness said it is grossly unfair to charge income tax on these payments; it shouldn't be charged at all or, if it was, should be spread over three or four years.

SHOULD COLLECT SAME

He said the defence department also should permit servicemen who want to retire early voluntarily to collect the same pension payments as they would have collected if they had served their full terms.

One of the strongest attacks on the dust government defence policies—past and present —came from Mr. Winch. "I think it is . . . absolutely, positively ridiculous and asinine to have a government policy whereby France has its air force to some extent in Germany so that we have nuclear warheads while we maintain squadrons in France that cannot be similarly equipped."

He also referred to the "stupidity" of the previous Conservative government in ordering the CF-104 interceptors "that could carry only nuclear weapons.

The defence debate also brought out a series of suggestions that the cost of Canada's peace-keeping roles should be clarified. "We don't want to be a milch cow for every conflict in the world," said Louis-Joseph Pigeon (PC — Joliette - L'Assomption - Montcalm) as he talked about Canada's contribution to Cyprus.

HOPES FOR FIRM STAND

He hoped External Affairs Minister Martin would take a firm stand at the United Nations to make sure that all countries pull their weight.

Mr. Pigeon also asked that the military college at St. Jean, Que., offer a full four-year course so it would be the same as the Royal Military College at Kingston. This would enable exchange programs to be carried out—"an important contribution to Canadian unity."

Associate Defence Minister Cardin said he expects a report by the end of June from a special committee that has been inquiring into the roles and manpower of the militia.

He said the government decided to cut militia ranks to 20,000 from 50,000 last winter to adjust to reduced dependence on the reserve units and to effect savings.

Meanwhile, Mr. Cardin replied to an earlier statement by Mr. Pigeon that French-Canadians occupy only two per cent of military positions that pay more than $7,000 a year. The associate minister said he was sure the proportion was much higher than that, and he said there was no discrimination against French-Canadians when it came to promotions.

WILL FIND IT

If there is any, he said, it will be turned up by the royal commission on bilingualism and biculturalism.

Mr. Cardin denied recent charges that the armed forces discriminate against French-Canadians in promotions.

It was possible that French-speaking servicemen, especially those stationed outside Quebec, faced "difficulties" but there was no deliberate discrimination he said.

The main difficulty seemed to be that French-speaking servicemen outside Quebec "do not feel at home."

The defence department would give the royal commission every assistance possible to help it carry out its inquiry. The department fully intended to stamp out discrimination if real instances were found.

EXPECTS REPORT

The minister said he expects a report in about 30 days on the possibility of extending the course of study at College Militaire Royal de St. Jean, Que., to four from three years. The college is bilingual.

At present, pupils from St. Jean and Royal Roads Military College in British Columbia take their final year at Royal Military College, Kingston.

Mr. Cardin said this "integration" in the fourth year is a distinct advantage for the cadets. French-speaking cadets had not met at Kingston were very happy with the experience, but the practice had disadvantages too.

Rusk

eph Luns stressed the importance for NATO of integrated defence and common political concepts.

"Without broad agreement on the objective and the policies of the Western world our necessary solidarity would weaken," he said.

Today's meeting, which began in the hall where The Netherlands Parliament stages its formal opening, was preceded by two days of hectic diplomatic activity.

The private talks between foreign ministers started Sunday night and culminated Monday night with a 24-hour dinner attended by the United States, France, Britain and West Germany.

The four governments reaffirmed their conviction that a fair solution based on self-determination would be found to be the problem of Germany.

Salvation Army Training School Is Described

Increased and wide-spread interest has been given in recent years to the serious problem of juvenile delinquency and crime.

The Salvation Army since its inception has been concerned about the youthful offender. In all countries in which it serves, this problem is given major attention, Major Archie McCorquodale of the Salvation Army and superintendent of the House of Concord at Concord, Ontario, told the members of the local Rotary Club, Monday noon.

Major McCorquodale went on to say the Home's chief interest is the delinquent as a "person." Whatever the general causes of delinquency and crime, there is basic agreement today that the needs of the individual must be assessed in order to effectively treat the offender.

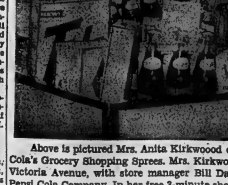
The Salvation Army when asked to assist felt it would be a field in which the "human touch and the understanding heart" theapy might function in a promising way.

Accordingly, the Salvation Army, aided by the city of Toronto and Provincial Government authorities, established a probation home at Concord, Ont. in February 9th, 1959, the House of Concord — the first such institution in Canada — was opened.

The property formerly used as a women's prison, is now completely renovated, splendidly furnished and fully equipped.

COMPLETE PROGRAM

A complete recreation and work program is provided for the boys, who range in ages from 16 to 20. They also receive spiritual guidance and vocational training as well as employment and rehabilitation aid.



The speaker said the House of Concord was more than a hostel or boys' home. It is a centre for research and training, a place where a lad can develop a rich faith in God and be prepared and equipped to go out and take his place in society as a useful citizen.

Major McCorquodale, in closing, explained some of his experiences at the school. Some boys come to the school figure they have to protect themselves, so they come well equipped. The Major unloaded from his brief case a display of armaments taken from the boys on their arrival. They included guns (several), knives (several), and a gun belt with bullets, to mention a few.

The guest speaker was introduced by Brigadier A. Simmester and thanked on behalf of the club by Rev. Harry M. Davis.

Officers for Newly-Formed Kiwanis Club Installed

The officers and directors of the newly - formed Quinte Kiwanis Club were duly installed by the District Governor, Carl Reid of Picton at the Kiwanis Centre on Monday evening. George Brown was installed as president, Robert Carleton as vice - president, Anthony Nagy as secretary, William O'Brien as treasurer and Robert Baker, Sid Martin, Barry Mason, Leroy McBrien, Leslie Minion, Welland Nelson and Robert Norris, (Bulletin Editor) as directors. Charter night of the new club will be held next month when the Governor of Kiwanis will be the official guest. This meeting will take the form of a Ladies' Night and many members of district clubs will be in attendance to start the club off on the right foot.

Mr. Brown presided at the first meeting with Leslie Minion as song leader and Linton Reid as pianist for the sing song. Dr. Dockerill of Picton was the collector of fines and a goodly sum was donated from various offences. The guests were welcomed by the president and Bill Nelson reporting on the Peanut Drive stated that $926 net was returned with only about half the city covered due to the lack of helpers.

The president introduced the speaker of the evening, District Governor, Carl Reid of Picton, who was the charter president of the Picton Club in 1953. At present he is the administrator of Public Schools in Picton and a man much interested in the work of Kiwanis. Mr. Reid congratulated the club on their efforts in starting a new club of members, who could not attend day meetings and was sure their efforts would be a decided success in the community.

OFFICERS CONGRATULATED

He congratulated the officers on the smoothness of the operation since the formation of three weeks and claimed that the bulletin editor was the one to keep up the enthusiasm of the members by publishing the work of the club in an entertaining manner. "You have formed a new association and the fellowships that will be formed during the years will last a lifetime" said the speaker. Mr. Reid outlined what makes a successful club and enumerated active membership as one of the basic principles. "As a member you must not neglect your other duties but bring new ideas and a new viewpoint to your club" said the speaker. He explained the real work of a club is in the function of the committees formed and showed how the committees operate with the Board doing the general business.

The installation of the officers was the next order of business and the program being closing read the objectives of Kiwanis and stated if they were closely followed a member would be a better citizen in every respect. He was thanked for his address by Bob Carleton, vice president of the new club. It was a most enjoyable and relaxed meeting and the new club is on its way to being a force for good in the community. The club meets every Monday evening at 6.15 at the Kiwanis Centre.

Social Insurance Registration Going Smoothly

By ROBERT RICE

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canada-wide campaign to sign up more than 6,000,000 working Canadians for their social insurance numbers is rolling ahead smoothly.

Officials of the Unemployment Insurance Commission report that 2,619,223 applications for the nine-digit social insurance number were received up to Friday night.

That puts the numbering drive past the 40 per cent mark—and about 119,000 applications ahead of the expected total at this point.

"Compliance and co-operation of both employers and employees has been exceedingly good," said Laval Fortier, chief unemployment insurance commissioner.

The applications have been flooding into the regional UIC offices at a heavy rate. There have been 870,358 in Ontario.

CARDS SENT OUT

He said that 2,161,178 social insurance cards have been produced so far—and are being distributed to employers to be passed out to their employees.

The nine - digit number will allow the Unemployment Insurance Commission to use the latest electronic data processing equipment for its massive record-keeping job.

All persons insured for unemployment benefits are required to make applications for the new number—under threat of court action that could result in a six-month jail sentence or a $500 fine.

Because the government hopes to use the same nine-digit number for its Canada Pension Plan, the numbering system is being extended—on a voluntary basis—to all other employees, including those who are not insured against unemployment.

Fortier said the voluntary co-operation of employers has been "very encouraging" although some employers have been teaching profession—are refusing to apply for their SI numbers.

This refusal is their right—although both the UIC and Labor Minister Macdonald have appealed to all employees to get their number.

LONG SERVICE — Workers at Belleville General Hospital were guests of the hospital board last night as long service pins were presented to about 50 employees. Seated above are workers Miss A. Cousins, Mr. Bruce Hogle and Mrs. Doris Enright being served by Board member Mrs. Bessie Marsh and Mrs. Fred Beeby, president of the Women's Auxiliary. Board chairman J. N. Yanover looks on.

Police Seeking Driver After Body Found

PEMBROKE (CP) — Police are seeking the driver of a red-painted car or truck following the discovery early today of the body of Elmer Pappin, 53-year-old camp cook from Pembroke, beside the highway across the nearby Interprovincial Bridge.

Pappin's body was found on the roadside by an Ottawa truck driver near the Quebec end of the bridge across the Ottawa River between here and Allumette Island, Que. Particles of red paint were found on his clothing and on the car door.

In another accident at the Ontario end of the bridge, a Petawawa motorist, 32-year-old Donald Chalmers, was pinned all night in his wrecked car after it plunged down a 40-foot embankment.

Police freed him early today after his car was spotted by a taxi driver. Chalmers was conscious and was taken to hospital here for observation. He was pinned in the car for 10 hours.

Long-Service Employees Of Hospital Are Honored

Long service employees at Belleville General Hospital were honored by the hospital Board of Governors last night with approximately fifty employees with a total of 765 years' service receiving long service pins.

Employees with 10, 15 and 20 years continuous service at the hospital received pins from Hospital Board chairman J. N. Yanover.

A reception and buffet supper was held for the long service employees in Education Hall, while prior to the presentation of pins, hospital workers and board members were entertained by the students' nurses' choir.

Congratulating the workers on their long service, Board chairman Yanover said a hospital could not function without such service.

"We are deeply cognizant of your dedicated service to the hospital over the years," he said. "Without your dedicated service Belleville General Hospital would not be recognized as the first class hospital it is."

FIRST FOR YEARS

Last night's presentation of long service pins was the first held by the hospital in several years. Workers who had previously received long service pins were not included in last night's function.

The Belleville General Hospital has more than 500 employees and is in the words of board chairman Yanover is one of the biggest "industries" in the city with a payroll of over one and a half million dollars.

One hospital employee, who some years ago received his long service pin, now has 35 years' continuous service at the hospital.

A reception and buffet supper was held for the long service employees in Education Hall, while prior to the presentation of pins, hospital workers and board members were entertained by the students' nurses' choir.

Mother Leaves Seven Children At North Bay

SARNIA (CP)—A Children's Aid Society spokesman said Monday a mother who left North Bay Thursday, carrying two babies but leaving seven other children behind, has been in touch with local society officials.

The woman applied to the society for help and was referred to the city welfare department, the spokesman said.

The seven children left behind now are in foster homes, pending their appearance in juvenile and family court at North Bay Friday.

Although North Bay police said they have not been asked to locate the mother, CAS officials at North Bay said earlier in the day the woman would be charged with desertion.

The seven children, aged 4 to 15, walked into a North Bay police station Friday and told police their mother had left by train the night before.

They said their mother had told them to go to the police.

TIDES RISE HIGH

The tides at Inchon on the central west coast of South Korea are the second highest in the world, exceeded only by those of the Bay of Fundy in eastern Canada.

District Motorists Conscious Of Safety Aspect of Cars

Belleville district motorists are conscious of the safety aspects of their cars.

At least that is indicated by the long lineups of motorists waiting to have their vehicles safety-checked by the Ontario Department of Transport vehicle safety check service set up this week on the market square.

Put into operation yesterday afternoon, the safety check service had waiting lineups for the balance of the afternoon and the same again this morning.

The safety check service will be in the city until Friday, May 22nd but will be closed on Victoria Day, Monday.

It takes about ten minutes for a motorists' car to be checked for brakes, loose steering mechanism, front wheel toe-in, and lights.

On completion of the check-up the motorist is given a report on his car's condition and if his car fails to measure up to standard he can go to the garage of his choice to have the defect corrected.

The safety check is being operated with the co-operation of the Belleville police department and local garage operators who assist in certain aspects of the checks.

A car going through the check first passes over a brake checking mechanism which gives instant readings on the condition of all four brakes.

Then the front end is jacked up and the steering mechanism checked for tightness.

A headlight testing machine then checks lights for intensity and for proper aiming of high and low beams.

INSTANT READINGS

Then finally the car is driven over a machine which checks front wheels for proper toe-in and camber, giving instant readings on a dial.

The safety checks are free. They are not compulsory but motorists across the province are taking full advantage of having their cars tested.

Two Department safety check units are now operating in Eastern Ontario and are booked solid in different parts of the province until late this fall.

Search for Boy Switches to Lancaster Area

HAWKESBURY, Ont. (CP)—The search for a seven-year-old boy missing since Friday switched today from this Ottawa River community to Lancaster, 30 miles south of here.

Police were investigating a report that a boy fitting Louis Parent's description had been seen Saturday night at the home of [illegible] owner and [illegible] ...ests at a restaurant on Highway 34 near Lancaster.

The boy's father, liquor-store clerk Roger Parent, discovered the new clue to his son's possible whereabouts while delivering circulars with the lad's photograph.

A German shepherd dog used in the Hawkesbury area will be used again in an attempt to establish whether the boy can be traced from the restaurant.

The persons who claimed seeing a lad answering Luc's description said they did not know whether he was alone or accompanied.

Canadian and U. S. Papers Come Under Heavy Fire of S. A. Press Commission

CAPE TOWN (Reuters)—Canadian and American newspapers and their foreign correspondents came under heavy fire Monday as the South African Press Commission published a report.

The seven - man commission under Supreme Court Judge J. W. Van Zyl studied the overseas reporting of South African developments during the years 1950-55 and three months of early 1960.

Included in the commission's study were reports sent to three Canadian newspapers—the Toronto Star, the Toronto Telegram and the Montreal Star.

It recounted how the foreign editor of The Star was detained under South Africa's 1960 emergency regulations and deported.

The report said the foreign editor had been instructed from Toronto to provide "blood and guts news of the South African situation" and that a notebook had been found among his possessions containing a point-by-point analysis of most of whom were listed as or known to be Communists.

The commission said this correspondent was "rabidly partisan" in his reporting and had given "sympathetic and at times almost heroic treatment" to "leftists and subversive elements."

WAS DETAINED

(Norman Phillips, now in the Toronto Star Ottawa Bureau, was detained for three days at Durban in April, 1960, after the South Africa post office stopped one of his stories and handed it to the justice ministry. He was subsequently released and expelled from the country.)

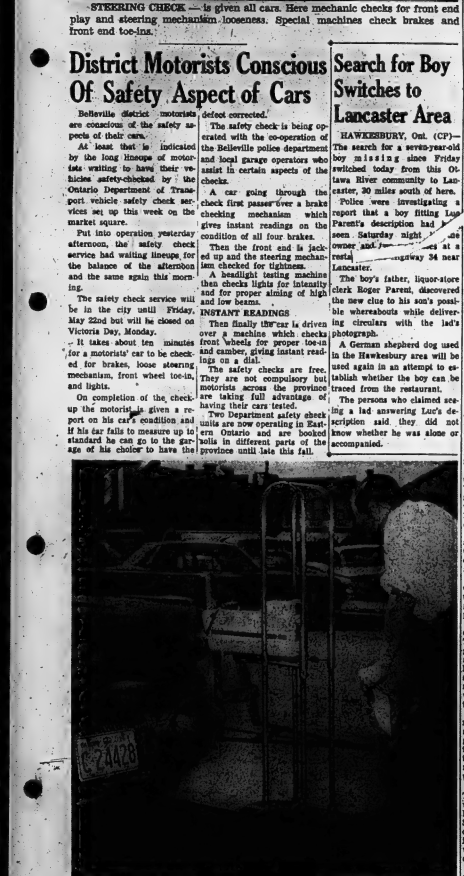
The Toronto Telegram had received all its news from a correspondent whose cables were "consistently hostile to South Africa, his attacks upon and criticisms of the government generally being such as might be expected from leftists and Communist sympathizers."

The commission found the reporting to the Montreal Star's correspondent to be "unscrupulously tendentious."

The American press was accused of distortion" and prejudiced reporting.

But other American newspapers—in common with the world news distributing agencies, and the newspapers of Britain, Australia, India and Europe—presented an untrue and hostile picture, the report said.

CLASSES NEWS



The commission classified all the news dispatched in the period 1950-55 to the Chicago Tribune as "good" and all the news dispatched to the New York Herald-Tribune as "very bad."

It said that more than 90 per cent of the news to New York Times was "very bad" and nearly 100 per cent of news to Time Incorporated as "very bad."

In commenting on the reporting of the New York Times and Time magazine the commission said it resembled "very closely" the news gathered for The Associated Press and United Press International.

At the outset, the commission said its assessment of news dispatched by Reuters news agency was "in fact mainly an assessment of the news dispatched by the South African Press Association, which is Reuters principal source of news from South Africa."

A spokesman for Reuters pointed out that Reuter has a full-time staff correspondent in Johannesburg. He has the main responsibility for supplying news of South Africa to Reuters.

Social Insurance Registration Going Smoothly

By ROBERT RICE

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canada-wide campaign to sign up more than 6,300,000 working Canadians for their social insurance numbers is rolling ahead smoothly, officials say.

Officials of the Unemployment Insurance Commission report that 2,619,235 applications for the nine-digit social insurance number were received up to Friday night.

That puts the numbering drive past the 40 per cent mark—and about 119,000 applications ahead of the expected total at this point.

"Compliance and co-operation of both employers and employees has been exceedingly good," said Laval Fortier, chief unemployment insurance commissioner.

The applications have been flooding into the regional UIC offices at a heavy rate. There have been 870,358 in Ontario.

CARDS SENT OUT

He said that 2,161,178 social insurance cards have been produced so far—and are being distributed to employers to be passed out to their employees.

The nine - digit number will allow the Unemployment Insurance Commission to use the latest electronic data processing equipment for its massive record-keeping job.

All persons insured for unemployment benefits are required to file applications for the new number (there is talk of court action that could result in a six-month jail sentence or a $500 fine.

Because the government hopes to use the same nine-digit number for its Canada Pension Plan, the numbering system is being extended—on a voluntary basis—to all other employees, including those who are not insured against unemployment.

Mr. Fortier said the voluntary response of employees has been "very encouraging" although "people are not the teaching profession—are refusing to apply for their SI number.

This refusal is their right—although both the UIC and Labor Minister MacEachen have appealed to all employees to get their number.

District Motorists Conscious Of Safety Aspect of Cars

Belleville district motorists are conscious of the safety aspects of their cars.

At least that is indicated by the long lineups of motorists waiting to have their vehicles safety-checked by the Ontario Department of Transport vehicle safety check services set up this week on the market square.

Put into operation yesterday afternoon, the safety check service had waiting lineups for the balance of the afternoon and the same again this morning.

The safety check service will be in the city until Friday, May 22nd but will be closed on Victoria Day, Monday.

It takes about ten minutes for a motorists' car to be checked for brakes, loose steering mechanism, front wheel toe-in, and lights.

On completion of the check up the motorist is given a report on his car's condition and if his car fails to measure up to standard he can go to the garage of his choice to have the defect corrected.

The safety check is being operated with the co-operation of the Belleville police department and local garage operators who assist in certain aspects of the checks.

A car going through the check first passes over a brake checking mechanism which gives instant readings on the condition of all four brakes.

Then the front end is jacked up and the steering mechanism checked for tightness.

A headlight testing machine then checks lights for intensity and for proper aiming of high and low beams.

INSTANT READINGS

Then finally the car is driven over a machine which checks front wheels for proper toe-in and camber, giving instant readings on a dial.

The safety checks are free. They are not compulsory but motorists across the province are taking full advantage of having their cars tested.

Two Department safety check units are now operating in Eastern Ontario and are booked solid in different parts of the province until late this fall.

Search for Boy Switches to Lancaster Area

HAWKESBURY, Ont. (CP)—The search for a seven-year-old boy missing since Friday switched today from this Ottawa River community to Lancaster, 30 miles south of here.

Police were investigating a report that a boy fitting Luc Parent's description had been seen Saturday night by the owner and two waitresses at a restaurant on Highway 34 near Lancaster.

The boy's father, liquor store clerk Roger Parent, discovered the new clue in his son's possible whereabouts while delivering circulars with the lad's photograph.

A German shepherd dog used in the Hawkesbury area will be used again in an attempt to establish whether the boy can be traced from the restaurant.

The persons who claimed seeing a lad answering Luc's description said they did not know whether he was alone or accompanied.

Police Seeking Driver After Body Found

PEMBROKE (CP) — Police are seeking the driver of a red-painted car or truck following the discovery early today of the body of Elmer Pappin, 53-year-old camp cook from Pembroke, beside the highway across the nearby Interprovincial Bridge.

Pappin's body was found on the roadside by an Ottawa truck driver near the Quebec end of the bridge across the Ottawa River between here and Allumette Island, Que. Particles of red paint were found on his clothing and on the road.

In another accident at the Ontario end of the bridge, a Petawawa motorist, 22-year-old Donald Chalmers, was pinned all night in his wrecked car after it plunged down a 40-foot embankment.

Police freed him early today after his car was spotted by a taxi driver. Chalmers was conscious and was taken to hospital here for observation. He was pinned in the car for 10 hours.

Long-Service Employees Of Hospital Are Honored

Long service employees at Belleville General Hospital were honored by the hospital Board of Governors last night, with approximately fifty employees with a total of 700 years' service receiving long service pins.

Employees with 10, 15 and 20 years continuous service at the hospital received pins from Hospital Board chairman J. N. Yanover.

A reception and buffet supper was held for the long service employees in Education Hall, while prior to the presentation of pins, hospital workers and board members were entertained by the student nurses' choir.

Congratulating the workers on their long service, Board chairman Yanover said a hospital could not function without such service.

"We are deeply cognizant of your dedicated service to the hospital over the years," he said. "Without your dedicated service Belleville General Hospital would not be recognized as the first class hospital it is."

FIRST FOR YEARS

Last night's presentation of long service pins was the first held by the hospital in several years. Workers who had previously received long service pins were not included in last night's function.

The Belleville General Hospital has more than 500 employees and in the words of board chairman Yanover is one of the biggest "industries" in the city with a payroll of over one and a half million dollars.

One hospital employee, who some years ago received his long service pin, now has 35 years' continuous service at the hospital.

Mother Leaves Seven Children At North Bay

SARNIA (CP)—A Children's Aid Society spokesman said Monday a mother who left North Bay Thursday, carrying two babies but leaving seven other children behind, has been in touch with local society officials.

The woman applied to the society for help and was referred to the city welfare department, the spokesman said.

The seven children left behind now are in foster homes, pending their appearance in juvenile and family court at North Bay Friday.

Although North Bay police said they have not been asked to locate the mother, CAS officials at North Bay said earlier in the day the woman would be charged with desertion.

The seven children, aged 4 to 15, walked into a North Bay police station Friday and told police their mother had left by train the night before.

They said their mother had told them to go to the police.

Canadian and U. S. Papers Come Under Heavy Fire of S. A. Press Commission

CAPE TOWN (Reuters)—Canadian and American newspapers and their foreign correspondents came under heavy fire Monday as the South African Press Commission published a report.

The seven - man commission under Supreme Court Judge J. W. Van Zyl studied the overseas reporting of South African developments during the years 1950-55 and three months of early 1960.

Included in the commission's study were reports sent to three Canadian newspapers—the Toronto Star, the Toronto Telegram and the Montreal Star.

It recounted how the foreign editor of The Star was detained under South Africa's 1960 emergency regulations and deported.

The report said the foreign editor had been instructed from Toronto to provide "blood and guts news of the South African situation" and that a notebook had been found among his possessions containing a list of events with people most of whom were listed as or known to be Communists.

The commission said this correspondent was "rabidly partisan" in his reporting and had given "sympathetic and at times almost heroic treatment" to "leftists and subversive elements."

WAS DETAINED

(Norman Phillips, now in the Toronto Star Ottawa Bureau, was detained for three days in Durban in April, 1960, after the South Africa post office stopped one of his stories and handed it to the justice ministry. He was subsequently released and expelled from the country.)

The Toronto Telegram had received all its news from a correspondent whose cables were "consistently hostile to South Africa, his attacks upon and criticisms of the government generally being such as might be expected from leftists and Communist sympathizers."

The commission found the reporting to the Montreal Star's correspondent to be "unscrupulously tendentious."

The American press was accused of "distortion" and prejudiced reporting.

But other American newspapers—in common with the world news distributing agencies, and the newspapers of Britain, Australia, India and Europe—presented an untrue and hostile picture, the report said.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. R. CARTER, Sports Editor

I have been requested by a member of the reading faithful to turn in my Crystal Gazers' Licence. Apparently they have lost all faith in my owsai-yogi-prediction abilities—and have paid in the losing.

So what are they squealing about? There were more bags wearing my shirts at the Fair Grounds last summer than you'll find at a rodeo.

This taught me that the only way you can beat the horses is with a whip and I'm not going to give those fickle goats another rumble until opening day.

Every misfit that I backed must have been television-commercial conscious. It always dropped back to see what other drivers were on the back of their sulky ensembles. They had no trouble losing while I was always hard put to raise a dance.

And who, I ask you, would have thought the Bard of Beak-Bashing, one Cassius Clay, would have made Sonny Liston say uncle without benefit of getting off his brittle-ice, outside of the graduates of the Al Capone School of high finance.

Liston had more mortgages riding with him than a loan ranch and mine with many others went down the drain as Clay proved it takes two to tango but only one to do it sitting down.

Last fall that glass-eyed monster persuaded me to forget my luscious loyalty to the Los Angeles Dodgers, pawn everything hockable and bet the bundle on Commissioner Houk's battery of heavy artillery based in New York.

It was with heavy hand and bleeding heart that I followed the glass-eyed predictions. You know what happened. Those hopped-up graduates of Ebbet's field clobbered, crushed and clouted the prides of the Bronx causing finance companies' business to zoom like a hungry hawk spotting a lazy rabbit.

I thought I had a grand chance to balance the budget on November 30th when that globular misfit pictured a Lion stalking a Tiger, crushing it and ambling off into the football jungle with the Grey Cup clenched in his jaws.

A sporting "buddy" offered 9-5 odds that the British Columbia Lions would declaw the Tabbies from Hamilton in no uncertain manner and I fit into that one with both feet. It was another misinformant told me, like finding money in the street. It was—but it was my money that went down the drain.

"Listen, wise guy," murmured a voice over the telephone during the first week of December, "who do you think will win the hassle between Glenn Giardello and Dick Tiger, the current middleweight champions?"

I consulted the glass-eyed monster, and that trifle-crown numbwit showed me a husky champion standing triumphantly over the prostrate body of a beaten Italian fireman. I plastered a chattel mortgage on the furniture and laid the funds on the Nigerian Tiger.

But I found out that spaghetti, macaroni, and a general pasta diet is the dinner of champions. It looked to me that Richard the Great was leading all the way until they collected those snipe from the referee and judges after the fifteenth round. There must have been a mistake somewhere for they gave the decision to Joey much to my favorite furniture salesman's delight.

But what caused the final demise of that globular liar was the Stanley Cup series. It pictured a flock of birds swooping, diving, darting then seeming again. This could mean only one thing—the Black Hawks or that the crystal was showing a re-run of "The Birds."

It was strictly for the birds all right—and now I'm hard put to get my second best suit out of hock. That snicker you hear comes from Maple Leafs "associates."

All was not lost, however... I did win a couple of quid betting a six-year-old relation that Santa Claus was a fake and just his old man crouching behind a cotton set of phoney haberdashery.

P.S. to the former faithful. The licence has been returned.

Announce New Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch

Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids... and repair damaged tissue.

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissues.

One hemorrhoidal case reports after another reported "very striking improvement." Pain was promptly and greatly relieved. . . actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

Among these case histories were a variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. Relief even occurred in cases of long standing, and most important of all, results were so thorough that this improvement was maintained over a period of many months.

This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.

In addition to soundly shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a principal cause of hemorrhoids.

Ask at your drug counter for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator).

Holds Mays To 1 For 4

Colts' Dick Farrell Stops Giants 4-1

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Anytime a pitcher comes up with a 4-1 record for Houston Colts, he has to have something going for him. Dick Farrell, however, has an even more impressive statistic: He limited Willie Mays to 1 for 4.

The Colt right hander, a hulking, 230-pounder, won his fourth game Monday night, pitching his eighth place mates to a 4-1 triumph over the National League-leading San Francisco Giants.

He lowered his earned - run average to a respectable 2.14, which is even more respectable when it is considered that all his decisions have been against the league's tougher clubs: two victories over St. Louis Cardinals including a four-hitter, and a win and loss to Los Angeles Dodgers.

And against the Giants, he allowed streaking Willie a single in the first time up, then retired him three times on a strikeout and a pop fly before striking him out once with two men on base.

Most hitters wouldn't be completely disappointed with 1 for 4. And the single did keep Mays' hitting streak alive at 18 games. But for Willie—off on one of the greatest starts in the game's history—it lopped 10 points off his average, reducing it to .471.

Farrell, who was 14-13 with the ninth-place club last season, scattered 10 hits about as effectively as possible and got the benefit of some strange Giant base running.

Jesus Alou, leading off the first, singled, but was thrown out trying to make third on brother Matty's single. Mays struck out and Matty broke for second. The throw went to second and Matty stopped. But Nellie Fox made a quick throw to third and Jesus was picked off for a veiled double play.

St. Louis edged Philadelphia Phillies 3-2 and Cincinnati Reds rallied for a 7-6 victory over Pittsburgh Pirates in the only other games on the short National League schedule.

Bill O'Dell held Houston to one hit for five innings before the Colts broke through. Eddie Kasko singled and took second on an error. Mike White's single scored Kasko with the run that broke a 1-1 tie and Jim Wynn's single brought Bob Shaw in to replace O'Dell.

Singles by Rusty Staub and Al Spangler drove in two more runs, and the Colts had all they needed.

Pete Rose's three-run homer in the eighth inning provided the Reds with their victory at Pittsburgh, even though the Pirates rallied for two in their half of the inning.

Julian Javier's seventh - inning homer drove in all the Cardinal runs and gave lefty Ray Sadecki just enough working room to make his six-hitter stand up.

Senior Baseball

Battling For Survival

The Belleville Senior Baseball Club continues its fight for survival in what could be the "make or break" period this week.

Team representative Murray "Moe" Hunter said this morning that two more open practices have been scheduled, tonight and Thursday, that the club will be represented at a league meeting on Wednesday and that plans are for season tickets to be ready for sale by the end of the week.

A letter of application has also been forwarded from the team to the Belleville Parks and Recreation Committee regarding playing dates at the Fairgrounds. Hunter says he expects word within the next day or two on this matter "but we don't expect any difficulty in obtaining the nights we want."

Player-wise, the picture had brightened with a good number of players turning out and many others promising to do so this week.

"We are still in urgent need of help on an executive level," Hunter said. "Several persons have promised to help out but no one has accepted a coaching or managing job yet. So far we have Gene Hogan who is helping us greatly with uniforms, and Ken Soden to serve as club directors," he continued.

"Surely there must be a couple of the older, experienced baseball men in the city who will help us keep senior baseball alive here by serving as a manager and a coach," Hunter said.

Hunter expects to officially enter the team in the Eastern Ontario Baseball Association's senior grouping at a meeting in Trenton, Wednesday night. Entries are expected from Kingston, Brockville, Belleville and Cannifton in one section, Ajax, Oshawa, Little Britain and the Port Hope-Peterborough Combines in the other section. The two divisions would play an interlocking schedule.

Meanwhile, all positions on the Belleville club are wide open and Hunter looks for some new faces at workouts slated for the Fairgrounds tonight and Thursday at six o'clock.

To date, players either out to some of the workouts or promising to be there this week include Larry Mawby, Bobby Moon, Pete Weston, Pat Asselstine, Mike Chatland, Dick Hurst, Gordie St. Louis, Moe Hunter, Duffy Follwell, Rick Locke, Larry Soule, Stu Muir head, Danny Leitner, Court Brisley, John McKibbon, plus pitchers Bill Latchford, John Barberstock, Dick Lewis and Brian Beatty.

"Some of the fellows look real sharp, such as Soule who has been really pounding the ball all over the lot, and I'm sure we can come up with a contending group pleasing team once we get all the organizational matters settled away," Hunter said.

A coach and a manager turning out for tonight's practices would just about put the icing on the cake and insure Belleville of senior baseball.

In Critical Condition

Steve Owen Fights Grim Battle

ONEIDA, N.Y. (AP)—Steve Owen, former New York Giants' football coach and veteran of many a gridiron battle, is fighting a serious illness in a hospital oxygen tent.

"Steve's there, as he was known during his 23-year coaching career with the Giants, was admitted to Oneida City Hospital Saturday.

A hospital spokesman said today the 66-year-old Enid, Okla., native was in critical condition and in an oxygen tent.

The nature of his illness was not disclosed.

Owen, who retired as the Giants' coach in 1953 and later coached three Canadian teams, suffered a heart attack two years ago but was said to have made a complete recovery.

His most recent football job was with the now defunct Kansas City Stormers of the United Football League. Owen resigned that post midway through the 1963 season. The reason he left was not explained.

He went to Syracuse when Saskatchewan Roughriders decided not to rehire him although he was named Coach-of-the-Year in 1963 for guiding the club from last place to the Western Football Conference playoffs in two seasons. His other Canadian coaching jobs were with Toronto Argonauts and Calgary Stampeders.

Owen, a big ruddy-faced man with a solid manner that stood out in his violent trade, joined the Giants in 1926 as a tackle. He was elected team captain in 1927 and led his mates to the league title the same year.

He was an all - league tackle selection for four straight years and took over as head coach in 1931, winning eight eastern division titles and capturing league championships in 1933 and 1938.

Owen moved to an armchair job with a five-year contract and was replaced by Jim Lee Howell at the close of the 1953 season. A year later for the Giants that was climaxed by a 52 - 14 licking by Cleveland Browns.

Owen, criticized at times for lack of a colorful offence, nevertheless fostered several new wrinkles, including the A offense pattern and the umbrella pass defence.

And he was one of the first to put basketball sneakers on his players when they were working on a frozen field. He sent his measured charges out for a second-half comeback 30-12 victory over Chicago Bears in 1934.

MOSS COMING

TORONTO (CP) — Stirling Moss will appear as a team manager at Monport Track in the International 200 - mile sports - car race June 6, the Canadian Racing Drivers Association announced Monday. Moss, who won the first international race at Monport with a Lotus 19 in 1961, ended his racing career after he was injured in a crash in 1962. His driver is expected to be Hugh Dudley, London airline pilot who has won some renown as a formula junior driver in Britain. The car will be a Porsche 904.

City Peewee Puck Stars Honored

A free swim, plenty of good food and a meeting with a potential NHL star helped MacCormack's Peewee All-Star hockey team ring down the curtain on a most successful season at the Tops Motor Hotel last night.

The Belleville youngsters, their coaches, team executives and wives and guests attended the dinner following a splash party and good time enjoyed by the boys in the hotel pool.

Guest speaker for the affair was Dennis Hull of the OHA Junior "A" St. Catharines Black Hawk team.

Hull spoke briefly to the boys concerning hockey and the importance of obtaining a good education, followed by the usual question and answer period. The ash - friendly junior star, who will bid for a spot on the NHL Chicago Black Hawk roster next fall, proved most popular with the peewee players who mobbed him for autographs following the dinner.

The young brother of Chicago's Bobby Hull, was introduced by MacCormack team coach Lionel Boddy and thanked by team manager Clare Paxman who doubled as master of the ceremonies last night.

Paul Wall, who shared coaching duties with Boddy, addressed the boys and thanked them for "a wonderful season in which you made us all very proud of you". He also presented each member of the team with a colored team picture.

A special presentation was made to team sponsor Walter MacCormack and Mrs. MacCormack in the form of a large, beautifully framed, colored and with special inscription, team picture. Mr. MacCormack said he had received many fine gifts from teams he had been connected with but "none that I will treasure more than this one".

Members of the Belleville Minor Hockey Association and other guests spoke briefly and special thanks was offered to the ladies' committee which helped with team arrangements, lunches, etc., especially during the annual peewee tournament here.

Weird Plays

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Stu Miller has been hypnotizing batters for years but now he may have put a couple of bases runners to sleep.

It happened Monday night at Washington where Baltimore and Orioles lost to the Senators 6-4 despite Miller's performance and an extra second baseman.

Miller, who seems to lull batters into submission with his slow stuff, got the call from the Oriole bullpen in the seventh inning with the score tied 3-3 and two Senators on base—Don Lock at third and Ken Hunt at first.

Miller proceeded to left four of his pitches wide of the plate, intentionally walking Don Blasingame to load the bases. That forced Hunt over to second base where he apparently figured he could catch a few winks while Miller faced pitcher Bennie Daniels.

STAYED ON BASE

At any rate, when Daniels blooped one of Miller's pitches into shallow center and it fell in front of outfielder Jackie Brandt, Hunt never left second base.

Brant quickly turned nimself into a first baseman, stepped on the bag and recorded a rare putout for an outfielder by forcing Blasingame, who had become a man without a base.

Lock, however, hadn't been caught napping and raced home with the tie-breaking run. Don Zimmer, who previously had collected three singles, followed with a two-run triple and Hunt was left somewhat less redfaced.

Elsewhere in the American League, Albie Pearson slammed a two-run homer and a pair of doubles while leading Los Angeles Angels to a 6-3 victory over Kansas City Athletics and Fred Whitefield hit a grand-slam homer and Larry Brown a three-run shot in Cleveland Indians' 11-7 walloping of Boston Red Sox.

ONE RAINED OUT

The Chicago White Sox-Minnesota game was rained out. New York Yankees and Detroit Tigers were not scheduled.

Look got the Senators off to a 3-0 lead in the first inning, hitting a homer after Zimmer and John Kennedy had singled. Boog Powell hit a two-run homer for Baltimore in the third.

Pearson homered in the second, doubled in the fifth and scored on a sacrifice fly by Jim Fregosi, then came across with what turned out to be the decisive run when he doubled and scored on Billy Moran's single in the seventh. The Athletics, who lost their sixth in seven games, struck for three runs in the eighth before reliever Barry Latman cut off the rally.

Whitfield hit his grand slam in the fifth and Brown hit his three-run homer in a four-run eighth-inning uprising that sent the Indians and rookie Tommy John into the ninth with an 11-1 lead. The Red Sox, however, battled back, jamming in all the runs after two were out in the ninth before Ted Abernathy put out the fire.

After Wind-Blown Four Hours

Horsemen Declare Truce

Government officialdom created an uneasy truce between the opposing factions of the city harness racing civil-tyrway at an open meeting here last night.

Mr. Sidney Pratt, Chief of Part-Mutuel Betting, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa and assistant Brian Middleton were here in an effort to settle the question of a one-city organization.

It was a long drawn-out four-hour affair that developed into a verbal merry-go-round with both sides going at top speed and getting nowhere.

The battle lines were drawn on two sides of the lower auditorium of the Club Canara.

After three hours of argument with the factions deadlocked, Mr. Bill Prest, named president of the Quinte Driving Club at a March 2nd meeting, stomed more or less of a bombshell into the meeting by stating that his organization had applied for a provincial charter of incorporation.

This was taken by surprise said this placed a different light on the matter. It was revealed, however that the provincial charter of incorporation had not yet been received by the Driving Club and was either in the hands of its lawyer or the provincial secretary.

Previously Mr. Pratt had closely studied the minutes of all previous meetings held by both the Driving Club and the Belleville Raceway. He ruled out the "closed meetings" and recognized the March 2 meeting and the executive named by the Driving Club.

This consists of Bill Prest, president; Bob Barlow, vice-president; Bert Zebedee, treasurer and secretary, Miss Ritchie.

A proposed motion that the name be reverted back to "Quinte Riding and Driving Club" from Belleville Raceway was declared another storm of argument.

Director members of the Belleville Raceway asked for a five-minute caucus which was granted by a neutral chairman who took over from Raceway president Ron Isaacs.

On their return spokesman Leonard Reid said that they proposed an amendment to the effect that they were willing to the change of name if the eleven directors named by Raceway ing that this organization had applied for a provincial charter of incorporation.

Mr. Pratt said that since an executive named March 4th had been placed in office for a two-year months term, it no longer existed since the date had expired.

He said that an executive could be named, not eleven directors. Mr. Reid promptly named Ron Isaacs president, Doug Hedger vice president, Mrs. Cagel Young secretary, Don Thomas treasurer with directors Jack Bush, Mr. Kearns, Norm Hickson, Mr. Kemp, Herman Lucas, Leonard Reid and Gerald Vance.

Mr. Pratt told the meeting that the move to secure incorporation was a good one. He suggested a vote be taken on the slate of officers headed by Mr. Prest, a term of office set and be replaced by vote if necessary.

In the meantime the motion to change the name from "Belleville Raceway operated by the Quinte Driving Club" be changed to "Quinte Driving Club" was carried by a 25-4 vote.

Mr. Middleton told the meeting that if the incorporation was in the hands of a lawyer or the provincial secretary, a list of executive as of March 2nd should be obtained, All notified of a meeting and the slate of officers headed by Prest changed if necessary so that racing could start May 23.

Objection to this came from the floor in the statement, "This thing must be settled tonight if we are to have racing."

Mr. Pratt finally arrived at some sort of a solution when he suggested a motion to the effect that inside the slate of officers named by Mr. Reid, be included in the corporation. If this is impossible the slate of officers on the corporation to remain in office for one day after the corporation charter has been received and be replaced by the Reid slate. As pro-tem president Mr. Prest would not have cheque-signing privileges.

The motion carried unanimously.

Meanwhile Mr. Pratt said he would get in touch with the Driving Club lawyer with regard to the corporation charter.

Former "Raceway" directors expressed consternation over the date of arrival of the corporation charter.

Study New US National Hockey Team

NEW YORK (AP) — A team of American players representing Boston in the Eastern Hockey League and Toronto Uhlers Eastern in the Olympics and world amateur championships is being considered for next season.

Tom Lockhart, president of the league, said Monday: "We would like to have a 12-club league and this kind of club would serve two purposes," said Lockhart. "They would be playing together in the league and would enable us to develop better team against the other countries every year."

The players would come from the New England, Minnesota and Michigan areas.

At Least, Officially Says Campbell

N.H.L. Not Approached For Expansion

MONTREAL (CP)—Clarence Campbell, president of the National Hockey League, said Monday night that the NHL has not been approached officially regarding expansion of the West Coast.

He was commenting on the expansion proposals advanced by Stafford Smythe and Harold Ballard, director and vice-president respectively of Toronto Maple Leafs of the NHL.

Campbell made it clear he doesn't doubt any of the talk but he was emphatic that nothing has been submitted to the NHL for approval.

He said in a telephone interview: "One thing, if it doesn't make any sense economically it isn't going to happen."

An expanded NHL, stretching from coast to coast is envisaged in plans announced last Friday in Seattle by Smythe at the Western Hockey League's annual meeting. Smythe offered to build an $8,000,000 coliseum seating 20,000 in Vancouver provided the city donated the land. Ballard confirmed the plan and both men said the proposal pre-supposed a NHL franchise for Vancouver under an expanded league.

BURNABY, B.C. (CP)—This municipality will ask the Burnaby policy committees endorsed a direct approach to Smythe.

Vancouver council has expressed great interest and Burnaby and Vancouver have been invited to come to the coast to explain his plan.

DANES TAKE LEAD

COPENHAGEN (AP)—Joergen Ulrich and Jan Leschly put Denmark into an unexpected 2-1 lead in the second round of the Davis Cup Monday with a 6-3, 4-6, 6-4 doubles victory over Mexicans Antonio and Jose Luis Arilla. The Danes and the Spaniards split the opening singles.

Form New Softball Association

A new softball organization covering Thurlow and Sidney townships has been formed and will begin its initial season of operation next week.

The new body will be officially known as the "Tri-Twp. Softball Association" and consists of four teams. The entries are Foxboro, Wallbridge-Centenary and Glen Miller.

The association's first executive consists of Dale Green, of Belleville, as president, and Ron Denyes of Halloway, as secretary. The rest of the executive will consist of team representatives.

Team rosters must be made up mainly from players residing in either Thurlow or Sidney townships. Each team will be allowed two imports.

The league will play a 18-game schedule. Playing nights are Tuesdays and Saturdays and games will start at 7.00 p.m.

The schedule will open on Tuesday, May 19, with Centenary at Wallbridge, and Glen Miller at Foxboro. Playoffs will follow the completion of the schedule, about August 1.

Minor Softball Results

The Belleville Minor Softball Association opened it's 1964 season last night with five games being played in the Tyke divisions.

The Peewee group starts play tonight, with the squirts playing on Wednesday and the bantams on Thursday. The same night will be used for league play each week.

Last night in the Tyke's Eastern division, Red Sox whipped the Hawks 27-1, Canadiens topped the Leafs 7-2 and Bruins downed the Barons 13-4.

On the west hill, Bobcats took a 39-13 victory over the Bears and Rangers outscored the Wings 32-9.

THE Arnold Palmer METHOD

WHEN YOUR PUTTING GOES SOUR

Perhaps no part of golf is more of a "team" jockey, goes the theory, than its putting. Therefore, I think it is important that every golfer have one particular stance and action to follow when his or her putting starts to sour.

When this happens to me, I like to forget about the many putting fundamentals, to quit worrying about wrists, arms, and merely to concentrate on hitting the ball squarely and keeping my body from swaying. I find that if I think only about this, the other things that go into good putting will take place automatically.

If I think about hitting the ball squarely, I will naturally keep my eye on the ball and my head steady (#1) throughout the stroke. I will naturally take the proper backswing and follow-through, low and along the target line (#2), until the putt is well on its way.

Net Star Blasts Sex In Tennis

LONDON (AP) — British star Bobby Wilson took several sharp cuts Monday at morals encountered in the world of championship tennis.

In a preview copy of his book My Side of the Net, to be published May 19, he cited these incidents:

In New York one night an American woman telephoned him and suggested she spend the night with him.

A hard-up but well-known tennis starlet who needed money so badly she gave striptease performances.

A tournament dance at a swank New York country club where they lined up a collection of dabs and invited players to take their pick for the evening.

He summed up the off-court sex by saying:

"To be quite honest, I would say that the moral standards in the world of first-class tennis are not good. But then I suppose this is only to be expected when players are out of their country.

"After all, a more liberal code of behavior when abroad is certainly not something peculiar to tennis players."

Serving up some advice to the parents of tennis daughters, Wilson said: "In the circumstances, however, I would definite not allow a teen-age daughter of mine to tour abroad without a chaperone. There are too many temptations."

SETS RECORD

ROME (AP) — Margaret Smith, a 21-year-old Australian, made tennis history Monday by winning the women's singles title in the Rome International tennis tournament for the third straight year. She defeated Australian Lesley Turner 6-1, 6-1.

It was the first time since the tournament was started in 1930 that a player had won three singles titles in a row.

Horton Not Close Second
Pilote Top Defenceman

MONTREAL (CP) — Pierre Pilote of Chicago Black Hawks has been named the top defenceman in the National Hockey League for the third consecutive year.

The 32-year-old Chicago captain got almost twice as many votes in balloting for the James Norris Memorial Trophy as his nearest rival—Tim Horton of Toronto Maple Leafs. Pilote received 138 points and Horton 70 in the voting among sports writers and broad-casters in the six NHL cities.

Pilote, born in Kenocami, Que., and now making his off-season home at Fort Erie, Ont., gets $1,500 for winning the trophy, including $500 for leading the balloting in both the first and second halves of the season. Horton will get $500.

WORTH ONE-THIRD

Goods in 1963 worth nearly $4 500,000,000 or about a third of total imports, were imported by Britain from developing countries.

Boating Clinic

BY STAN DAVIES

Getting a boat ready for the water in this day of fibre glass and aluminum, often means just a wash job. But sometimes even that can suffer complications as a few of the following questions from letters indicate.

My aluminum boat was out all winter in the snow, and it's covered with dirty stains. How do I get them off?

ANSWER: If household cleaners won't touch them. . and I know sometimes they won't. . try pot scouring pads, the kind with the soap already in. Try fine steel wool, try fruit acids like citric and tartaric (you know how stewed rhubarb cleans an aluminum pot) but don't use lye or cleaning products containing lye. It will eat holes in aluminum.

The shine has gone off my fibre glass boat, it's pitted and etched around the water line. What can I do?

ANSWER: Try the rubbing compound they use on car bodies. It's a paste which carries an abrasive. . but it's special. The abrasive cuts quickly at first, but it's soft, and soon breaks down into a powder which polishes. Follow the rubbing compound with a coat of wax.

You once told how to build a stand for spring tune-up of an outboard motor. Can you repeat the details?

ANSWER: A stand for an outboard will vary with size of motor. Accompanying sketch shows the one I'm using at present for an 18 hp. It would need a little extra bracing for a 100 hp.

I'm buying a plywood boat. In a couple of places the wood is spongy, as though the plywood has separated. Is this bad?

ANSWER: No, it's not bad, it's terrible. Make sure the price is low enough so that you have money left to replace this "spongy" plywood — something you'll have to do very soon. This problem is called de-lamination. It's something you look for in buying a second hand plywood boat.

Can I paint a fibre glass boat, which I'm buying?

ANSWER: Yes. Any good marine paint will do, but it's best to get a resin base paint of the same material as the plastic material in the boat. A dealer will advise. But why paint? First try rubbing compound as suggested in question two.

Leafs Zero Crackers, Up Lead

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

As far as Jim McKnight is concerned, Atlanta Crackers could have stayed in Toronto all summer.

The Maple Leafs' right fielder, who leads the International League in runs batted in, bade the Crackers a reluctant farewell Monday night after clubbing a three-run homer and a triple to lead Toronto to a 6-0 victory.

In Atlanta's four-game visit, McKnight picked up eight hits in 15 plate appearances for a cool .533 average, scoring eight runs, driving in seven and connecting for two homers, a triple and a double.

The Leafs, winning three of the four games, emerged with a 2½-game lead while Atlanta dug in deeper in the cellar.

In other games Monday night, Columbus Jets jolted Syracuse in a second - place tie with a 1-0 victory over the Chiefs, Rochester Red Wings whipped Richmond Virginians 4-2 and Jacksonville Suns defeated Buffalo Bisons 7-5.

Suggested For Centennial
NHL Club Versus Russia

OTTAWA (CP) — Can Russia ice a hockey team capable of beating a National League club? Or are the experts right in saying that Toronto Maple Leafs and Montreal Canadiens are at least five goals better than the Soviets or any other of the European world amateur hockey powers?

Putting the Leafs on the same rink as the world's amateur champions is one suggestion for the centennial year that is getting consideration at the national centennial commission, the government agency planning Canada's 100th birthday.

It might come off, says Arnold Charbonneau, head of the sports branch of the commission.

There is already a move by the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association to have the world's amateur title decided in Canada in 1967. And the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto already has indicated interest in providing a rink if the Leafs could be persuaded into playing such a game.

In the long run, Charbonneau said Monday in an interview, the decision on what sports spectacles will be run off in 1967 rests squarely with the sports governing bodies in Canada.

There's talk of a marathon race between Marathon, Ont., and Ottawa.

Ted Harris AHL Top Defenceman

CLEVELAND (AP)—Ted Harris who polled the most votes on the American Hockey League's all - star team, was named winner Monday of the 1963-64 Eddie Shore Plaque, which goes to the league's outstanding defenceman.

This adds another $300 bonus to one he picked up for his all-star laurels. The 27-year-old Harris, a steady performer for Calder Cup - champion Cleveland, received 31 votes to 22 for Al Arbour of Rochester from press, radio and television representatives in the league cities.

Harris, a strong checker, scored six goals and had 23 assists.

'Referees Were Capitalists' World Bodies Say Ramos Still Champion

ACCRA (AP) — The world's two biggest boxing bodies said today Ramon Velasquez, head of the Mexico boxing commission.

It also attacked Ohono Djan, Ghana's sports director, for "summing up Ghana's greatest sporting opportunity."

The Daily Graphic, a government - owned newspaper, called the British referee and the WBA to give the title to Robinson. "Bad decisions are now in boxing," the newspaper said, "but surely this one by the two imperialist exploiters is something that hurts Africa."

CALLED CORRUPT

Other newspapers called the two judges "corrupt capitalists."

Lassman and Velasquez voted 68-66 for the Puerto Rican-born champion in the 15-round bout Saturday night. British referee Jack Sant voted for Robertson. Lassman, who flew to London Monday, said he would give the same verdict again. So did Velasquez.

"My card was an honest evaluation of the fight," Lassman said. "Robertson finished big in the late rounds and fans who were convicted he would win had this strong impression."

Veteran Peter Wilson of the London Daily Mirror, one of most respected boxing writers in the business, said: "I have seen some 70 title fights in all eight divisions. This was the worst decision I have ever seen. Robertson was the winner, eight rounds to five with two even, on my card. It wasn't even close."

Minor Baseball Body Plans Special Clinic

The Belleville Minor Baseball Association has announced plans for a special "baseball clinic" to be held at the Parkdale Community Centre, at 1.30 p.m., on Sunday, May 24.

A B.M.B.A. spokesman said the clinic will deal chiefly with "the basics of baseball," rather than anything too complicated. "After all this is for the minors and with a lot of new kids and new coaches coming out this year, we just want to give them the fundamentals and get everybody started on the right foot," he said.

Films will be used to give batting, pitching and fielding tips while several local men connected with baseball will be on hand to offer advice and instructions. Umpiring, scoring, coaching, managing, etc., will all be on the agenda.

The B.M.B.A. hopes to enlist all team coaches in the organization to attend the clinic.

Gale Kerwin Looks Back Jim McLarnin Was His Hero

By STUART LAKE

OTTAWA (CP)—Some saw in him the makings of a second Jimmy McLarnin and Gale Kerwin admits he tried to model his ring career on that of the Vancouver-born boy who held welterweight champion in the 1930s.

But the Ottawa fighter didn't make the splash in the boxing world that McLarnin did. Kerwin is the first to admit that, too.

"I would have done a lot better," he said with apparent regret in a recent interview. His professional fights and dress as reigning Canadian welterweight champion, Kerwin has been training regularly since a 1962 in the family real estate business here. He lives with his wife and two children in a spacious home in one of Ottawa's better residential districts and is a senior member of a senior bowling team in winter.

He says he works and plays hard to keep his thoughts away from boxing, a sport he has loved since childhood.

MADE COMEBACKS

He has already made two comebacks and at 29 doesn't rule out the idea of a third. But his father discourages that thought and his pretty wife, Joyce, would be the last to applaud such a move.

A fair junior hockey player, Kerwin didn't have to think twice about turning his full attention to boxing.

"Maybe I could have been a good senior hockey player, so much so that I never seriously I wanted to know how good I was at it."

Fighting out of New York in the late 1950s, with Al Lang as his manager, he won 38 of his 1962 amateur fights and drew twice. In his heyday he ranked ninth in his division.

His pet punch was a left hook and it lay out 12 of his opponents. He is proud that he was never the victim of a knockout although several of his fights were stopped when he suffered bad cuts.

He was a favorite of boxing writers because he would not hesitate to give them good copy with his predictions of victory. He became well known to millions of fans who watched Friday night fights on U.S. television.

Late in his career he began performing some stunts and cartwheels in the ring after each win, a stunt borrowed from McLarnin.

A blood disorder and some resulting shabby performances led to his first retirement. He quit a second time when the Ontario Real Estate Board told him he couldn't combine boxing and selling.

Kerwin says boxing has helped him in his second career by giving him confidence and a name most sport fans know. Brown was one of the wonders of the boxing game then and Kerwin feels he could have won that fight for the cut. Victory would have meant a sure crack at the title.

Though he likes that era he cuses Kerwin tries to erase from his mind. "But it's tough," he says.

'Dancer' Trainer Satisfied

BALTIMORE (AP) — Northern Dancer, Kentucky Derby winner, stepped through his final exercise before Saturday's preparation for Saturday's $150,000-added Preakness, and trainer Horatio Luro expressed satisfaction over the condition of the little hard-hitting Canadian-owned colt.

"I would have preferred he went a little faster," said Luro after Northern Dancer breezed one mile in 1:33 3-5. "But I was satisfied. We'll now take it easy until post time."

Northern Dancer, owned by Toronto industrialist E. P. Taylor won the Kentucky Derby in record time last week.

The Dancer is likely to be a short-priced favorite over Hill Rise in the mile and one - quarter thoroughbred classic.

The 58th running of the 1 3-16-mile second leg of the triple crown for three-year-olds lost a possible starter when Knighty Manner, winner of the Chesapeake and Preakness Prep, was shipped back to New York.

Scheduled post time for the Preakness is 5:45 p.m. EDT. It will be carried on the CBC-TV network.

Scottish Rugby Team Runs Wild

TORONTO (CP) — Scotland's international overseas rugby combined Ontario universities rugger side 75-0 Monday night, their absolute supremacy turning the match into a one-sided and visual display of text-book rugger.

With virtually no opposition, Scotland effortlessly scored 16 tries, converted 12 tries and added a penalty goal to earn one point for almost every minute they were on the field.

Fly - half Brian Simmers and lock Keith Bearne each scored two tries, while Alexander Hinshelwood and George Stevenson and wing forward James Fisher each scored two tries, and second row William Hunter and fullback Ken Scotland got one try each. Scotland converted eight tries and kicked a penalty goal while Chris Elliot converted four tries.

The Scottish team, currently on a Canadian tour, plays Britain Columbia at Victoria Wednesday, Western Canada at Vancouver Saturday and Quebec at Montreal May 19.

Short Field Proving Long For Yankees

NEW YORK (CP) — You know that short right field in Yankee Stadium that Kansas City owner Charles Finley has been complaining about?

Well, it develops he and the rest of the American League are lucky the Yankees are so afflicted.

Finley recently charged that the right-field stands at Yankee Stadium, only 296 feet from home plate, were largely responsible for the Yankees' domination of the league in the last six years.

Maybe so. But the figures belie that charge this year.

In eight games at Yankee Stadium, the American League champions have hit only two home runs. In contrast, they have 14 in 13 road games.

Eight of those home runs were smashed in the Yankees' own game sweep over the Indians in Cleveland last weekend. Before that Mickey Mantle and company hammered five home runs off the Senators' pitching in three games in Washington.

Mantle has hit four home runs, none at Yankee Stadium. Both of Roger Maris' home runs have been hit on the road.

In fact, only one Yankee, Tom Tresh, has been able to find the home run range at Yankee Stadium so far this season.

Unofficial Lap Record Equalled

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Defending 500-mile race champion Parnelli Jones equalled his unofficial one - lap speed record of 156.223 miles an hour in practice at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway Monday.

His lap came during the afternoon run after both he and Bobby Marshman had turned 156.1 in the morning before rain temporarily halted the practice.

Chuck Rodee escaped injury when his American rubber and plastic special ran over an exhaust pipe bracket from another car, spun, slid 1,146 feet and hit both walls on the main straightaway. The car was badly damaged.

The sizzling speeds pointed to at least a six-way battle for the pole position in the race and almost certain record in Saturday's opening of the qualifications.

Jones drove the same conventional roadster he piloted to victory last year.

Miss Saint Still Star Despite Little Work

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Stars who think they must keep grinding out product to maintain their status might take a lesson from Eva Marie Saint.

Ten years ago she won an Oscar as supporting actress in her first movie. On The Waterfront. She's now making her eighth film, 36 Hours, and she still gets top money and star billing (with James Garner and Rod Taylor.)

This is her first movie since All Fall Down, two years ago, and the relaxed honey-blonde admitted she welcomed the return to work.

"I don't mind the lapse between pictures," she said, "but two years is a little too long."

Why has she done only eight films in a decade?

"Because I've always considered that family matters come first," she explained. "Many of the pictures I was offered were to be filmed in Europe, and that meant separating the family, which I don't believe in.

TOOK CHILDREN

"We all went over to Cyprus and Israel for Exodus, and it was too much. My husband (director Jeffrey Hayden) was able to get away, and we took our two small children. My parents went along to take care of them, since my housekeeper wouldn't fly over the ocean.

"It got to be quite a production—and it was potentially dangerous, too. Cyprus was just having the beginnings of trouble, and there were shootings almost every day in Israel.

"Now, I'm happy to say, there seems to be much more production in Hollywood again. And now that both my children are in school all day, I expect I'll be working more than I have in the past."

Eva's devotion to her family has probably cost her in excess of $2,000,000. One deal alone—for El Cid—would have brought her $350,000.

"But the fortunate-thing about having a working husband is that you don't have to worry about such matters," she added.

Colonnade Theatre Is Sort Of Miniature Showplace

By DAVE PIKE

TORONTO (CP)—The Colonnade Theatre is a $100,000 afterthought — a sort of miniature showplace in a miniature city.

It gets its name from the Colonnade, a new residential and shopping complex on Bloor Street west of the heart of Toronto'r most fashionable shopping district.

A few weeks after the Colonnade was opened last December, construction began on the theatre, a shell-shaped structure o seating 199 persons on the second floor of the $10,000,000, 14-storey building.

It has been described as a theatre in the market place. It is surrounded by boutique specialty shops.

The theatre was originally included in the Colonnade design, then dropped because there appeared to be little demand for it from Toronto's theatrical community. But last summer interest in smaller theatres began growing and the Colonnade decided to build.

To do this it was necessary to erect four concrete pillars that reach down through the building to a concrete foundation 22 feet below street level.

The theatre, supported by the pillars, rests about two inches above the second floor so that it is actually a separate structure.

IN GREEK STYLE

A stage house containing a balcony rises from the back of the open, circular stage. The seats, upholstered in dark green velvet, form continuous rows, sweeping around three-quarters of the stage. No seat is more than 18 feet from the actors. They are steeply tiered to give a sense of enclosure after the ancient Greek theatres.

Above the top row of seats, the theatre is open to the sounds of Colonnade shoppers and promenaders. This presents a sound problem. During a performance the swish and swirl of people and the sound of scraping chairs in a nearby coffee shop can be heard by actors and audience. However, a drape of nylon-backed vinyl impregnated with sea-s material used to isolate the noise of jet plane engines — should eliminate this irritation when installed.

The theatre, which can be easily adapted for concerts, meetings, children's programs or fashion shows, offers exceptional viewing and playing conditions. The actors find backstage facilities cramped, especially the two tiny dressing rooms.

ATTENDANCE POOR

Reaction of people unaware of the theatre's existence is often amusing. Hearing voices from somewhere, they'll prowl about until they find the source. Many at first think it's a movie. A smile of delight often accompanies the discovery that it's a live theatre.

Attendance wasn't overwhelming, either. First production, which opened April 3 for a month's run, but sponsors are optimistic. Theatre manager Anna Palo Heimo has several projects in mind for summer and early fall, including the possibility of bringing in the all-Negro cast of Genet's The Blacks, which has been playing off-Broadway for three years.

The theatre's chief is "something like a living organism," says architect Gerald Robinson, who began designing the building five years ago, discarding 13 schemes before construction began on the 24th try back.

"It's the sort of thing that will go on being altered throughout its life, mutating it won't become a sort of monument."

HUGE LIVING ROOMS

Supported by 80 pillars, it contains eight floors of 170 luxury suites ranging from $125 bachelor apartments to $1,400-a-month penthouses. Each of the two penthouses is complete with a garden, swimming pool and 60-foot living room.

The floor below contains 12 penthouse - apartments at $500 to $600 a month.

The Colonnade has 72 boutiques and small shops on the first two floors. They specialize in everything from gourmet foods to perfume. Three restaurants operate on different time cycles, out of them 24 hours a day.

Offices take up about five per cent of available space. The third floor has space for a few small offices, the fourth has club and studio facilities (rehearsal to be held there) and the fifth offers professional suites.

A large ground - floor space has been set aside for a farmers' market, and there are two basement levels providing parking space for 350 cars.

Scotch Cooking School Students in Great Demand

By ROD CURRIE

GLASGOW (CP) — Mountain hare pate—a culinary delight to make the taste buds stand up and scream for more. . . .

Followed by River Spey salmon, roast saddle of Cheviot lamb, Blairgowrie raspberry flummery, Scottish cheeses and oatcake.

It's enough to turn waitres d'hotel of Paris, Brussels and Manhattan green with envy. In fact, it does.

"One of the slightly upsetting aspects of our success," says John Fuller, director of the Scottish Hotel School, "is that many of our best graduates end up in foreign cities instead of staying here to build Scotland's reputation as a country of good food.

"Still, it is flattering, I suppose, that our students are in demand in some of the world's greatest hotels."

Although it's the school's excellent cuisine that creates its public reputation, it is the comprehensive, three - year course in all aspects of hotel administration that makes it famous within the industry.

TWO CANADIANS

The school, largest of its kind in Europe, is housed in a century-old turreted stone mansion with attached modern glass and - aluminum training block and residence with bedrooms for 80 students.

Among them are the first two Canadians ever to enrol, John Armstrong, 22, and Rick Keene, 20, both of London, Ont.

Keene, a handsome six-footer and former star in Ontario junior skiing, is editor of the school magazine and also picks up a little spending money coaching weekend skiers at some of the winter resorts in the north.

The course covers just about every possible phase of the hotel business from bookkeeping to butchery, from detergents to diplomacy in handling irate guests. Students spend a certain period at every job gaining practical experience in addition to book learning and also must take a hotel job during the summer vacation.

Keene hopes to get a job this year in Europe while Armstrong probably will take a job in a big Toronto hotel, as he did last summer.

Both agree the hardest subject is French — "The international language of the kitchen and the menu and a 'must' for every student," as Fuller puts it.

Other courses include work in the laboratory, where they study hygiene, nutrition, the chemistry of various cleaning products, and textile technology. Then there is a bit of cellar, pantry, plumbing and other trades so the young hotel manager will know what he's talking about when he calls in a contractor.

Drinks are a massive study in themselves and graduates are required to be experts in purchase, storage, chilling, mixing and serving.

"The easiest way for a hotel to lose money is through a dishonest bartender," says Fuller. "A manager has to be an expert to keep track—within reason—of every bottle."

Fuller's idea of an ideal hotel staff is a Swiss manager, an Italian maitre d'hotel, a French chef and a Scottish housekeeper. But at the rate his school is turning out experts, the Scottish element probably will soon be due for promotion.

Release Water To Maintain Montreal Level

Major Problem Remains In the Great Lakes

MONTREAL (CP)—The, annual move to maintain the water level in Montreal harbor has been completed, but authorities feel a major problem remains in the Great Lakes.

Lake Ontario water, backed up for the last six weeks by the dam at Cornwall, was released to its normal flow down the St. Lawrence River Monday when Montreal harbor levels dropped three inches.

The move by the International Joint Commission, which controls water supplies common to Canada and the United States, permitted Montreal harbor levels to rise to 35 feet, four inches.

However, the key to the problem is in the Great Lakes where levels are as much as two feet below normal, the worst since officials started keeping records in 1860.

"We have no visible reserves left," Capt. F. C. Oppens, assistant Montreal port manager, said. "The lack of snow means the normal spring runoff didn't help much."

MAINTAIN LEVEL

The St. Lawrence Seaway and Welland Canal level of 23 feet, six inches, has been maintained.

However, shipping spokesmen said low levels in the water system linking Lake Huron and Erie, as well as the Sault locks linking Lake Huron to Lake Superior, mean they can't bring fully loaded ships to Montreal.

A Canada Steamships Line spokesman said that forced underloading of one inch in some of its bigger carriers represents a cargo loss of 133 tons and that underloading of more than a foot in draught is not unusual in some places.

The CSL spokesman said the cargo loss caused by this underloading is substantial. The water level meant only two grain elevator docks at the Lakehead could handle full loading of ships, he added.

The lack of water in the Great Lakes system hasn't impeded the schedule for moving Canadian grain to Russia, a spokesman for Marsh Shipping Limited, agents for ships carrying the wheat, said.

ISN'T SLOWED

"It hasn't been no slowdown at all," B. W. Corbett, in charge of the operation. "The 25-foot ship channel in Montreal is normal for most types of vessels but precludes the monsters from coming to Montreal."

Jagan's Power Slipping

By ROBERT BERRELLEZ

GEORGETOWN (AP)— THE OLD DAYS, "Apsan Jhat" was a sort of open sesame for Prime Minister Cheddi Jagan of British Guiana.

A phrase roughly meaning "What's your race?" It was the rallying cry of darkly handsome Jagan as he wooed—and won—East Indian voters on his way to the top of the British colony's political heap. Jagan is an East Indian.

But that was in 1953. Today's British Guianese don't seem to be reacting any longer to the vacant magic of "Apsan jhat."

Ten years ago when Jagan summoned sugar workers to a strike, the response was total. The call to another strike last January, however, drew results variously estimated at less than 50 per cent effective.

The partial effectiveness of this walkout is regarded as solid evidence that the controversial Marxist prime minister has reached a low point of popularity in his stormy political career.

BE LEADERSHIP THREAT

His leadership is threatened by a new formula that will determine effective assembly representation in direct proportion to votes obtained in the forthcoming November elections.

Although his People's Progressive Party won only 42.7 per cent of the 1961 election votes, it was given a clear majority of the 35 assembly seats under the old system. It was felt this did not fairly reflect the fact that Jagan's opposition won 57.3 per cent of the vote and should therefore have received a majority of the seats.

The colonial office devised the new formula, hopeful it would neutralize Jagan and create politically stable conditions regarded as a requisite to future independence.

Anxious for the colony's freedom, but not at the price of losing leadership, Jagan's party is attempting to block the November election.

'Lazy Heart' Trouble Could Stop Men on Long Space Flights

NEW YORK (AP) — Soviet space doctors are suggesting that "lazy heart" trouble could prevent men from ever going on long space flights.

The heart doesn't have to work as hard in the weightlessness of space as it does under gravity on earth. The blood has no weight in space, for one thing.

Such a semi-holiday or laziness for the heart "should lead to a weakening of the heart muscle that isn't used atrophies or grows weaker, rather

Defence Bill Passed

By RONALD LEBEL

OTTAWA (CP) —The Commons law-making mill sputtered into action Tuesday after stalling repeatedly in the 63 sitting days since the session opened.

In a 90-minute spurt at the evening sitting, MPs passed the fourth government bill cleared since Feb. 18. The Commons took these steps:

1. Gave second reading—approval in principle—over Conservative opposition to a bill creating a single defence staff chief, signalling the eventual complete reorganization of the defence department.

2. Passed with little debate a budget measure exempting the provinces a larger slice of estate taxes; the provinces' share goes up to 75 from 50 per cent.

3. Gave first reading to a bill authorizing federal Crown corporations to pay up to $2,500,000 annually in provincial sales taxes and automobile licence fees.

4. Gave first reading to a measure providing for a fourth bridge at the Rainbower Court of Canada, who will specialize in divorce cases from Quebec and Newfoundland, the only provinces without divorce courts.

DEFENCE DIVORCE

Today, debate continues on the divorce bill. The same measure was whipped through the Commons last year but was killed in the Senate on the last day of the session.

Most of the Tuesday sitting was devoted to a repetitious defence debate. Attendance at one point dropped to 21 MPs, one more than the quorum.

Second reading was given to a bill creating the post of chief of the defence staff—already earmarked for Air Chief Marshal Frank Miller—and abolishing separate chiefs for each service.

The bill now goes to the special committee on defence for study. Grattan O'Leary MP (C) shouted "on division" to register their opposition, but the three other opposition groups supported the bill.

Defence Minister Hellyer closed the three-day defence debate by flatly denying Conservative charges that he has weakened Canada's military capability with several spending cutbacks.

"This suggestion is simply not true. One by one, our defence systems which were not operational are becoming operational. Our air defence system is far more effective than it was a year ago."

Free Vote On National Flag Urged

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson and Opposition MPs will vote as their conscience dictate when the government brings in its design for a national flag.

He also said in the Commons he expects that when the flag issue would not carry with it any question of a non-confidence vote in the minority Liberal government.

The government is committed to presenting before Parliament a design for a national flag within a year.

Replying to Robert C. Coates (PC—Cumberland), who asked if there would be a "free vote" —not along party lines—on the government choice, Mr. Pearson said:

"When the time comes to submit the decision of the government to the House of Commons I would hope that every member of the House would vote as his conscience dictates and that there would be no question of confidence or non-confidence in any sense."

Another retreat," said Opposition Leader Diefenbaker.

All Scandinavians and Dutch Will Join Canada to Plan Permanent UN Peace Force

THE HAGUE (AP)—Five European states have agreed informally to join Canada to prepare international talks on building up a permanent United Nations peace-keeping force.

External Affairs Minister Martin of Canada, who announced the Canadian initiative to NATO foreign ministers Tuesday, identified the countries as Finland, Sweden, Norway, Denmark and Holland. Neutral Sweden and Finland are the only non - NATO countries among them.

Martin explained that Canada's plan is for these smaller powers to meet in Ottawa shortly for intensive full-scale preparatory conference with the aim of arranging wider discussions on the buildup of a world peace force.

The Canadian minister said invitations had gone to the five European governments a few days ago. Other Canadian officials reported, however, that each of the countries had indicated privately in advance they would attend the talks.

For years UN efforts to set up what would amount to a world "police force" have foundered on the rocks of East-West disagreements.

But the experience of trouble areas like the Middle East, The Congo and Cyprus in recent years now appears to have convinced the powers of the need for a more ambitious and more permanement world peace force.

Canada, which has sent contingents to the Middle East, The Congo and Cyprus, hopes that the smaller countries of the United Nations will provide the bulk of the men and material needed to organize the force. But costs would have to be shared by all UN members-nations.

Mr. K Gets His First Look At Nile Dam Kremlin Builds

ASWAN (AP) — Soviet Premier Khrushchev set eyes today for the first time on the giant Aswan Dam project, the Soviet Union's biggest aid program on the African continent.

Khrushchev and his President Gamal Abdel Nasser flew from Cairo to take a five-mile boat trip up the Nile to the site for the United Arab Republic where 1,900 Soviet engineers put final touches on the first stage of the $1,300,000,000 project that will harness the river.

Khrushchev waved happily as he boarded the Nile steamer Kamses II to the cheers of crowds lining the bank.

The crowd held large portraits of Khrushchev and Nasser aloft and shouted welcoming cheers.

As Khrushchev and Nasser sailed triumphantly to the dam site, their party of cabinet ministers, generals and other officials dined in five-star style along the road paralleling the river.

The Ramses, steamed slowly through a shallow, 270-foot gap in the rock-filled foundation for the high dam. Khrushchev, Nasser and Soviet President Abdullah Sallal each dropped a symbolic stone into the Nile as accompanying craft again set off their sirens.

The engineers had left the shallow passage open for this ceremony. As soon as the Ramses sailed on, huge dump trucks started filling the gap.

For the next four days Khrushchev will participate in ceremonies at the dam site 550 miles south of Cairo emphasizing to underdeveloped countries the progress made in a stage of what Soviet aid can do.

The Aswan High Dam will provide the basis for power development, flood control and increased irrigation. A start already has been made on the irrigation projects which will add 1,000,000 or more acres to crop land now used by Egypt's 27,000,000 people.

The United States pledged nearly $55,000,000 in grant funds and Britain nearly $16,000,000 to the dam. But in 1956, after Nasser bought arms from the Soviet bloc, the two Western allies withdrew their offers. Nasser nationalized the Suez Canal and later the Soviet Union agreed to lend him money and technical assistance for the dam.

Unemployment at Mid-April Is One Seventh Under '63

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian unemployment in mid-April stood at 460,000 persons, 6.4 per cent of the labor force, the bureau of statistics estimated today.

This was a decline from April 1963 when the jobless total was estimated at 462,000 or seven per cent of the labor force. It also was a drop from a month earlier when 456,000 were jobless—a 6.8-per-cent jobless rate.

The seasonally - adjusted unemployment rate for mid-April rose slightly to 4.7 per cent from 4.5 per cent in mid-March. In April last year it was 5.5 per cent.

The job picture in brief with estimates in thousands:

	April	Mar.	April
	1964	1964	1963
Labor Force	6,763	6,729	6,559
Employed	6,300	6,273	6,097
Unemployed	463	456	462

Non - farm employment increased over the winter by 37,000 or about five per cent. The gain from March to April this year was 87,000 compared to a smaller than usual for the period.

The monthly report, prepared jointly by DBS and the labor department, is based on a survey of 35,000 households the week ended April 18. Since the figures are based on a sample cross-section of the population they are estimates and not precise totals.

The 59,000 reduction in the jobless totals from a year earlier was reflected in all regions except the Prairies.

In the Atlantic provinces the year-to-year drop was 10,000 to 72,000 in mid-April. This brought their unemployment rate down to 12.5 per cent from 14.1 per cent in April, 1963.

Quebec with 156,000 jobless—down 22,000 a year earlier—had a decline in its unemployment rate to 8.2 per cent from 9.9.

In Ontario there were an estimated 89,000 unemployed in mid-April compared with 108,000 in April last year. The equivalent drop in the jobless rate was to 3.6 per cent from 4.5 per cent.

The all - Canada unemployment of 403,000 in mid April with 343,000 men and 58,000 women.

Almost all the year-to-year improvement was among men, the figure declining 58,000. The decline among women was 1,000.

Of the total unemployed, some 218,000—about 55 per cent —had been seeking work for three months or less. An estimated 122,000 had been seeking work from four to six months, and 62,000 for seven months or more.

After an unusually large gain in employment between February and March, the increase between March and April was 37,000 to an estimated total of 6,300,000 — was somewhat below average for the month.

Almost half the increase was in agriculture.

The spring advance in construction employment was not as marked as in previous years but a rise was expected and already at a relatively high level as a result of government winter house - building incentives.

DANISH AUTHOR DIES

COPENHAGEN (AP)—Harold Nielsen, 80, Danish author who supported the Nazis and quit writing after their defeat, died Monday in obscurity. He manifested his dislike of democracy long before the Nazi occupation. In the 1920's he wrote the libretto—an attack on the parliamentary system of government—

More Wheat May Go To Russia

OTTAWA (CP)—A broad hint that Russia is ready to become a steady customer for Canadian wheat has been dropped in Moscow by Anastas Mikoyan, the Soviet first deputy premier.

The Russian embassy here released Tuesday a Novosti press agency dispatch reporting that Mikoyan told a group of 40 touring Canadian businessmen his country is ready to buy in Canada every year wheat for far eastern districts.

It is more economic to ship Canadian wheat across the Pacific to these eastern areas of the Soviet Union than to haul it from the Russian grain-growing belt in Europe.

Novosti also quoted Mikoyan as suggesting to the touring Canadians that Canada ought to buy more goods from Russia. He mentioned watches as an example and said if his own wristwatch to show to his audience.

URNGES EXCHANGE

Among other things, he was reported to have urged a Canada-Soviet agreement on cultural exchanges similar to the agreement now existing between the U.S. and Russia.

The Canadians arrived in Russia April 30 and have been touring most of the major centres in European Russia. They have discussed trade deals with Martin Gives NATO Hint Canada Likely Next Year To Recognize Peking Govt.

Sees Danger Chance to Provide Solution for Formosa May Vanish

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

THE HAGUE (CP) — Canada's Paul Martin reviewed world problems at the NATO spring council Tuesday and indicated that Canada's position on one of them — recognition of Communist China — may change early next year.

Canada doesn't recognize Red China, but the external affairs minister told the opening session of the three-day ministerial meeting that the Peking government could not be excluded indefinitely from world councils and world acceptance.

Canada opposes any solution of the Chinese problem at the expense of the Nationalist government of Chiang Kai-shek on the island of Formosa.

But Martin said "a grave danger exists that chances for a solution that would make provision for Formosa and its inhabitants might disappear if we do not move soon from the present static position."

The implication was that Red China may be admitted to the UN. The 1963 General Assembly voted 57 to 41 against seating Red China with a dozen abstentions. Since then France has recognized the Communist regime.

WON'T HURT FRIENDS

Martin declared "while we have no intention of doing anything which would add to the difficulties of our friends, the realities of the situation may require some modification of our position following the 19th session of the UN assembly." The 19th session ends in mid-December.

A Canadian spokesman declined to expand on Martin's statement and said there was no immediate reaction to it at the meeting.

Sessions of the council, made up of the foreign ministers of the 15 NATO countries, are secret and summaries of speeches are made available to the press.

On the Cyprus situation, Martin said it is nonsense to main-

MARTIN AT NATO CONFERENCE — External Affairs Minister Paul Martin indicated to the NATO Council meeting at The Hague yesterday that Canada might alter its policy of non-recognition of the Chinese Communist Government. Spaak Plans to Challenge De Gaulle NATO Attitude

THE HAGUE (AP) — NATO foreign ministers met today in a closed session after which Belgium's Paul Henri - Spaak predicted the alliance will defend De Gaulle's campaign to revamp the Atlantic Alliance.

Spaak told colleagues of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization he would call on the French to "spell out just what you think is wrong with NATO —and how it should be righted. Otherwise quit rocking the boat."

U.S. State Secretary Dean Rusk averted a public clash between Spaak and French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville Tuesday at the opening of the ministers' annual spring meeting.

Rusk stopped in Brussels en route to The Hague and was reported to have persuaded Spaak by his aside a speech attacking Gaullist and all it means for the alliance.

Today the 15 ministers met with only two aides present from each of them. The aim was to limit the risk that divisive exchanges would be heated.

Hanging over the alliance are such basic questions as:

How is NATO to be reshaped to accommodate the growing strength of Europe without spreading or weakening confidence over nuclear weapons?

How will Britain—he linked with her continental allies in developing industrial, social and military institutions?

How are the Allies going to work together to close the gap between here and Moscow?

Other questions: Will new peace, reorganize trading patterns and cope with the Communist world.

Are Europe and the U.S. to move closer together in defence or will Communist world of drift apart?

De Gaulle contends NATO's system of integrated commands should be dismantled.

He wants Europeans, preferably under French leadership, to recast their defence on the basis of a planning staff which would ordinate national forces.

De Gaulle also still would like some sort of American-French-British high command to chart allied strategy on a global scale. But he has warned that in a crisis, the United States might abandon Europe rather than risk nuclear devastation.

Would End Juvenile Offenders' Protection From All Publicity

REGINA (CP)—The Western Chiefs of Police Association Tuesday recommended that news media be allowed to publish the names of juveniles who commit criminal offences and traffic violations.

The association, meeting here, also called for some amendments to the federal Juvenile Delinquents Act which would make it illegal to publish a picture or ceased to be classed as a juvenile. In some provinces it is 16.

(MONTREAL (CP) — Municipal Court Judge Lucien Lachapelle says the "impenetrable legal curtain" surrounding juvenile offenders should be torn away in some cases as a means of curbing delinquency.

"Today's juvenile is no fool," the judge said in court.

"He knows the law as now constituted protects him from all publicity; that if he gets into trouble, no matter how serious, he'll appear in private before a social welfare court judge. And if he is convicted he'll be sentenced without any knowledge of the affair reaching his friends and neighbors.

"I believe the impenetrable legal curtain that at present shields the juvenile offender from the public should be torn away and the juvenile treated in the same legal if somewhat modified for such offences as hit-and-run, theft and assault."

Judge Lachapelle said some areas of the United States had stopped protecting juveniles from publicity and the results had led to a drop in offences.

If the youngster knows his name will be published in newspapers he "will think twice" about stealing cars for joy riding or committing assault. And if he didn't, the parent would know they weren't used with the family name in the papers.

Rains Mean More Bus Riders Says Commission Chairman

Public Works Employees Get 2-Year Contract

City public works employees numbering about 45 workers are now covered by a two-year work contract with the city.

Monday afternoon city council authorized signing of the agreement between the city and the Canadian Union of Public Employees and its Local No. 807 representing the city works employees.

The agreement calls for an hourly wage rate of $1.55 for labourers and $1.71 for equipment operators Grade 1. Grade 2 equipment operators (graders) receive $1.97 per hour this year.

The work contract calls for a five cents per hour wage increase for laborers in 1965 and a seven cent increase for equipment operators next year.

This is the first year that there has been classification of the various jobs within the public works department.

Council authorized the mayor and the clerk to sign the agreement with the public works employees' union and at the same time set comparative wage rates for city works employees not coming within the scope of any union agreement.

vessels, would not comment on the water level problem.

Capt. Oppens said much rain is needed over a period of months to replenish the Great Lakes waters and the Ottawa River. The recent cold weather was taken specifically because of the low Ottawa River water levels which also affect Montreal harbor levels.

"The situation may be very bad for a good many years," he said. "We're doing the best we can with the supply left."

"Rain, rain, come again.

That might not be a very popular saying for most people but rain means money in the bank for the Belleville Transit Commission.

With revenues affected by too few riders and rising bus line costs, Transit Commission members more or less welcomed the frequent rains during April. The reason—rains mean more bus riders.

There is no doubt about it, weather is the whole answer. Loney weather means good transportation," stated Transit Commission chairman Kenneth Pinder this morning as he noted that bus receipts during the past two months have been ahead of last year.

At the same time Mr. Pinder pointed out that fine summer weather was just ahead and said the Transit Commission was doing everything possible to attract more riders.

Catchy slogans appearing on the city buses are aimed at encouraging motorists to leave their cars at home and ride the bus.

DON'T DO ANY HARM

One of these slogans, "Ride the Bus, No Parking Fuss," reminds motorists of a difficult parking problem.

Another slogan "You Pay For This Bus, Why Not Ride With Us," goes on to remind riders that they are assisting to pay for buses through taxation so they may as well leave their car at home and ride.

Mr. Pinder could not say if the slogans were actually encouraging more bus riders, "but they don't do any harm", he says.

Referring to the expected 1964 Transit Commission deficit of approximately $50,000 Mr. Pinder said he anticipated the annual cost to taxpayers would level off at this figure.

He said the annual deficit during recent years should not go over this figure as the original bus lines purchase price of $46,000, plus interest, would be paid off in another year. The annual debt charges (to run for five years at the rate of purchase) make up approximately $10,000 of the annual bus lines deficit.

Lingham Lake Now Highest In Three Years

Although there was considerable apprehension that because of reduced snowfall spring run-off may not be sufficient to fill the Lingham Lake reservoir, the Grimsthorpe township mud-hard lake in the upper reaches of the Moira River watershed, is now the fullest it has been in the past three years.

Water level at the lake reservoir on May 9th was given at 18.30 feet, nearly six feet higher than it was last Nov. 10th. Usable acre-feet of water in the reservoir is given as 13,600 feet as compared with just under 2000 last November.

Moira Authority officials noted that stored water should be of considerable help to owners of water powered grist mills, to water using industries and to help maintain downstream water levels during the critical low water period this coming summer.

Belli Takes On Defence of Waldo Demara

MADERA, Calif. (AP)—Melvin Belli, chief defense lawyer in the Jack Ruby murder trial, said Tuesday he will defend Ferdinand Waldo Demara known as The Great Impostor, who is in jail on charges of grand theft, child molesting and contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

Belli made his announcement in San Francisco only a day after Demara said he would act as his own lawyer.

"He's been a client and a friend for a long time," said Belli.

Demara, 42, was re-arraigned Tuesday on amended charges of child molesting and contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

Judge Alec Brown of Justice Court in one of the substituted charge concerned Demara's activities with a 15-year-old boy at the Conway Ranch School for Boys, where Demara had been employed as director. The school is for wards of state juvenile courts.

Demara surrendered Friday in Los Angeles on charges that he took a station wagon from the school. Demara said he still was employed by the school and was authorized to have the vehicle.

A movie, The Great Impostor, depicted Demara's real-life impersonations of a Royal Canadian Navy surgeon, Trappist monk and other personalities.

Witness Warned To Keep Wife Quiet in Trial

CHATHAM (CP) — The husband of a principal witness against three youths charged with armed robbery testified Tuesday that one of the teenagers had warned him that if he ever beat his wife he would see to it that she was quiet.

Harold Morrison told a preliminary hearing the threat was made Monday when Geoffrey Menard, 18, and Robert Cook, 19, both of Tilbury, visited him at a Chatham service station where he is a part-time employee.

Crown attorney Blake Ward said the present address of Menard and his 22-year-old wife, Shirley Ann, is not being disclosed for her protection.

Mrs. Morrison was one of the crown's leading witnesses at the hearing.

Menard and Cook have been free on bail since shortly after their arrest in connection with the March 24 armed robbery of $130 from Tilbury service station operator Henry Meunier, 60.

Says Quebec Problem Is Religious One

OSHAWA (CP)—An evangelist from Quebec, refused permission by the Oshawa board of education to speak in a local high school on problems in Quebec, Tuesday addressed about 40 persons at the Coronation Orange Temple Hall.

Board members voted unanimously Monday to cancel Harold Martin's contract to appear in the school auditorium when trustee Robert Nicol, the separate school representative to the board, said he understood the speaker would be preaching against the Roman Catholic Church.

Mr. Martin, whose topic was "Trouble in Quebec—its cure and cure," told his rally Tuesday the board "may have been under a misapprehension."

"I'm not trying to tear down any church," he stated. "The problem in Quebec is not bilingualism or biculturalism but is a religious one."

He told his audience that if the problem is not solved within three years, there will be a bloody revolution in Canada or perhaps Quebec will establish a dictatorship and run the country.

Before the meeting, Mr. Martin carried a sign in front of the collegiate in which he was to have spoken, reading: "Protestant meeting banned in collegiate institute."

Want Subsidy For Ambulance Highway Calls

OAKVILLE (CP) — The Ontario Ambulance Operators' Association has asked the provincial government to allow ambulance attendants to work a 48-hour week until proper labor standards are established for operators, Murray MacBeth, association president, said Tuesday.

Mr. MacBeth said in a statement: "Under the existing labor standards set down a week or so ago by my own company here we, as operators, find it impossible to carry on under these standards."

He said the labor board requires ambulance attendants to work only 40 hours a week at $1 an hour. The reduced work week made it impossible to find sufficient men, properly trained to operate satisfactorily an ambulance service."

The association would like government action "as quickly as possible" on an extended work week, he said.

Mr. MacBeth also said the association plans to ask the government today for legislation to ensure "proper training at medical level" for all ambulance operators and attendants and that ambulance companies be subsidized for highway calls.

Air Surveillance Over Cuba to Be Maintained

-- Rusk

THE HAGUE (Reuters)—U.S. State Secretary Dean Rusk Tuesday reiterated United States intentions to continue air surveillance of Cuba and warned NATO ministers that interference could present serious problems both to the U.S. and the other side.

Rusk made his statement to the 15-nation NATO ministerial council opening a three-day session here behind closed doors.

Informed sources said Rusk also urged more moral and material support from the world for the U.S.-backed anti-Communist war in South Viet Nam.

He said the West must assist the South Vietnamese to win their struggle because the consequences of any failure would be serious.

Rusk said was exporting subversion, money, arms, trained agents and propaganda to at least six Latin American countries.

AIMS ARE SAME

British Foreign Secretary R. A. Butler told the council he knew the U.S. and Britain had differences of view over trade with Cuba but this did not alter the fact that their arms were the same.

Butler told the NATO ministers Britain would not allow the U.S. to "put the burden alone in South America."

Outlining NATO Secretary-General Dirk Stikker of The Netherlands told the ministers not to take comfort in the Sino-Russian dispute.

He said they are "arguing about the best way to bury us . . . never forget that the Soviet dispute is an argument about ends but about means."

Find Cousins Asphyxiated In Stolen Car

It was not known today if an inquest would be held into the deaths of two 17-year-old cousins—one a married girl—found dead in a car west of Trenton yesterday.

Dale Biggers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Biggers, 141 Charles Street, Belleville, and his first cousin, Mrs. Donna Copping, of Toronto, were asphyxiated in a stolen station wagon in a country lane.

The youth was staying at the home of his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Phillips, 39 Catherine Street, where his cousin arrived last weekend.

Police say Biggers did not attend school Monday at BCIVS.

Tuesday morning the pair were found slumped in the front seat of a station wagon on a lane off the York Road, about five miles west of Trenton off Highway 2. The wagon was owned by Donald Evans whose farm at R.R. 4, Trenton, was nearby.

Police say the pair had driven to the Evans farm in a car owned by Biggers' brother, Morris, parked the car and stole the station wagon.

When discovered about 8 a.m. the motor of the wagon was still running.

Police said Mrs. Copping was married about two years ago.

The Biggers youth was born in Ottawa, had lived at Downsview and moved to Belleville with his family last fall.

Judgment Reserved On Fanny Hill

TORONTO (CP) — Judgment was reserved Tuesday in an Ontario Court of Appeal hearing on whether Fanny Hill, an 18th Century novel about a young London prostitute, is obscene under the Criminal Code.

Five judges heard an appeal against Yorl county court Judge Everett L. Weaver's decision last February that the book was obscene.

It was introduced on behalf of C. Coles and Company Limited, Toronto publishers which had 2,000 copies of Fanny Hill confiscated by Toronto police.

George S. Finlayson, counsel for Coles, suggested the court adopt an earlier ruling of Mr. Justice Samuel Freedman of the Manitoba Court of Appeal, unanimously supported by the Supreme Court of Canada.

He said the Manitoba judge, hearing an appeal dealing with two magazines, ruled this borderline cases of obscenity should be supported and that there is always an onus on the Crown to prove that a book is obscene beyond reasonable doubt.

Proposed New Parks' Bd. Building Finally Located

TRENTON — The Trenton Parks' Board last night shifted the proposed location of their proposed new Parks' Board building yet another time—and the members hope this time they won't run into any snags—or step on anyone's toes.

The building will be of brick construction, and designed to "do credit to the board," and will now be located on the southeast corner of Bayshore Park extension, just past the bridgewalk to the east of the Legion hall. And on parks' property.

For the past few months the board has endeavored to locate the building, only to find each time that it had inadvertently been placed in a spot where someone might object to its presence. Town council refused to co-operate, when the board suggested building it on a piece of town-owned land, south of the Cold Storage and near the bay. Shifting the building to the west of the Legion hall didn't get the board anywhere, because the only site available to the board was on a projected extension of the town-owned Wharf St.

Of course, the board could have put the building on the Bayshore Park bell diamond, but this would have met with very little, if any, enthusiasm from the Recreation Committee, if the building was placed closer to the Legion hall, the ornamental horseshoe pit would have had to be re-located.

Switching parks, and locating the building in Hanna Park in west Trenton wouldn't have done the board much good. The equipment which will be stored in the new building is more central to the town sheds in east Trenton and fairly inaccessible to the downtown area for park gardener Bart Bowers. Hanna Park would have been inaccessible too, only on a different side of the river.

WILL SPEND $3,000

Now that the location has been settled, board member Clyde Mason has been given the go-ahead to spend approximately $3,000 and will contact the contractor immediately.

The new building, says Mr. Mason, must not be referred to as a "tool shed," or even "an equipment building." The official name is to be "a parks' board building."

In other business at the board meeting last night, it was decided to buy 150 Crimson King maple trees and 50 mountain ash from the Hollandale Nurseries, the lowest tenderer.

The mountain ash is a small, ornamental tree, suitable for newer grass where the boxes are smaller, and the 50 purchased have been earmarked for Elmwood Acres boulevards.

On Dufferin Ave., presently undergoing widening and re-construction 200 trees will be planted on a 2,000-foot swath of boulevard, both sides of the street, from Dundas St. W. to the Quaker Oats plant. Some sort of ornamental tree, possibly a flowering crab, will replace the fine old trees sacrificed in the wake of reconstruction activity.

Town engineer Eric Aldersey, appearing before the board last night, said that "we will, as well as tangible evidence that it "likes trees," had allocated $1,000 in the budget for the replacement of trees on town streets, as the parks' board budget for trees matches this figure, the town will get $2,000 worth of trees this year.

Special attention will be given to the Gilmour Hill area once reconstruction there has been completed.

Present at the meeting last night were: William Ireland, chairman; Miss Marion Baker, secretary; John Saylor, treasurer; Clyde Mason, Mrs. McPherson, Norm Armstrong and Bart Boers.

OIL LASTS 34 YEARS

Found Guilty On Charge of Impairment

TRENTON — Robert Ronald Hughes of R.R. 5, Trenton, charged with drunk driving in Trenton court yesterday, was found guilty on a lesser charge of driving while his ability was impaired and ordered to pay a fine of $100 and court costs of $11.50 by Magistrate T. Y. Willis.

Court evidence revealed that an analysis of Hughes' blood following his arrest, had shown a .18 alcohol content.

R. E. Nourse of Picton, attorney for the accused, argued that impairment could not be judged by alcohol content alone. He said that other actions of the accused would have to be considered in judging this particular case.

Magistrate Willis said that he was basing his judgment on just such actions, and that the facts surrounding an accident in which the accused had been involved prior to his arrest, led him to believe that it was a case of impairment. However, the magistrate invited Mr. Nourse to produce evidence to the contrary.

Mr. Nourse bowed to the magistrate's decision on the issue.

A second charge against Hughes, that of driving without a 1964 operator's licence, was stayed for two weeks, when Hughes told the court he had been caught up in the "changeover" system of mailing out licences, instigated by the Ontario Department of Transport this year, and had not received his by April 4, the day he was involved in the accident—in fact, he said, he had yet to receive his licence.

On April 4 accident, on Division Street, in Trenton, Hughes' car was in collision with a car driven by a friend, William Tennier of R.R. 3, Trenton. Hughes, Mrs. Tennier and Gail Elliott, a passenger in Tennier's car, were treated at Trenton hospital following the accident. Hughes' car was said to be on the wrong side of the street when the collision occurred.

$700 Collected For Auxiliary Of Hospital

TRENTON — Proceeds from the Trenton Memorial Hospital Women's Auxiliary Rose Tag Days, held in the Trenton area last weekend total more than $700, Mrs. L. H. Bearne, auxiliary president said today.

Mrs. Bearne said the auxiliary had been favored by excellent weather this year, and attributed the outstanding success of the tagging to this fact.

Last year, cold weather and driving rain met the taggers and potential tag buyers were kept away from the downtown area.

EXPENSIVE BEER

If the buyer serves the beverage to minors, Richardson was fined $200 and ordered to pay 33 court costs when he pleaded guilty to the offence.

"May I have that the weekend to pay it?" queried Richardson.

Well, I hardly expect you to pull it out of a hat," replied Magistrate T. Y. Willis, Richardson was given two weeks to pay.

Trenton Chamber of Commerce secretary-manager Nostrand Sprague designed the newest town brochure and is busy mailing it out to points across Canada and in the United States.

Time for a Divorce?

Hon. Rene Levesque, Quebec's Minister of Natural Resources, is a brilliant man.

What he is besides that is more difficult for the average English-speaking Canadian to judge. Mr. Levesque, who is fluently bilingual, says that he has made his last public speech in English, because these speeches have been misinterpreted. It will strike most people that if, this be true, there is still greater danger that his speeches in French will be misinterpreted when they are translated—by somebody else—into English.

Having said that, let us add at once that if we understand Mr. Levesque's latest speech aright, and if the speech represents the opinion of the majority of so-called moderate French-Canadians, we think consideration ought to be turned at once to the mechanics of governing Canada after Quebec withdraws.

For what Mr. Levesque said when he addressed students of College Ste. Marie in Montreal—what he said according to the English translation—was that there is only one thing that would suit Quebec within Canada is that of an "associate state." "Co-operative federalism," he said, would only lead to a greater mess. In other words, all this toadying by the Federal Government to the rights of the provinces, which many but not all English-speaking Canadians find so difficult to stomach, does not begin to meet Quebec's demands.

"We are not living in a Confederation," he said, "but in a federal system where the provinces are nothing more than partial states." We are not qualified to debate with Mr. Levesque the differences between a Confederation and a federal system. But we know that, for our part and we think for the part of the majority of English-speaking Canadians, any further weakening of the federal power would be intolerable.

It would be intolerable because most English-speaking Canadians today feel a stronger loyalty to Canada than they do to their provinces. We have always understood that French-speaking Canadians felt that they alone had acquired a truly Canadian feeling, having had their ties with the Old Country severed by the intellectual and moral upheaval stemming from the Revolution in the old land. Now, though, if Mr. Levesque interpreted the feeling of his fellow-French-Canadians correctly, we find their loyalty is not to Canada, but merely to Quebec, not to a new nation making its own standards and establishing its own objectives, but to some second-rate homogeny of blood or tongue or church or customs.

We want none of this nonsense pushing us into a family quarrel which will sap our strength through decades to come. That would lead a happier, cleaner life if we accept a divorce.

There is, however, the question of the division of community property. We cannot let the Maritimes dangle at the end of a purely theoretical lifeline with the remainder of Canada. There has to be preserved a real physical link. Minorities have their rights, but so do majorities—and they have the power to enforce them. Let the French-Canadians vacate the Eastern Townships, leaving to Canada the land south of the St. Lawrence. Those French-Canadians who found they had closer ties with their homes than with Mr. Levesque's dreams could remain there, secure in the knowledge that their rights, of language and of culture, would be respected—in a nation in which the provinces were not, and never expected to become, even partial states.

That is what French-Canadians could expect of separatism, unless we who are the majority permit them to rob the rest of Canada of nationhood.

Let Mr. Levesque and those of his way of thinking—and those, too, who regard him as far too moderate in his aspirations for French-Canada—consider that picture. It may not represent what they want, but it ought to be all they can hope to get, if the rest of those who now call themselves Canadians have any pride in their country.

I think it is a mistake for novelists to get too self-conscious about being contemporary. We have wonderful reportage, we have pamphlets, we have articles. For heaven's sake, let us novelists describe our sensations and get our story across and let the modern world take care of itself. If we are creatures of our own world and our own time, as we should be, I think that should reflect itself all right.—Novelist Elizabeth Bowen.

One ought to carry with one to the grave the possibility of being taken by surprise.—Peter Ustinov.

Car Driving Hard on Heart

Sherbrooke Record

Extended research into the reactions of the human body to the driving of an automobile have convinced a group of German scientists that contemporary cars are not adapted to man and are not biologically suitable to such a task.

According to their experiments, the moment a car driver sits behind the wheel his pulse begins to race and his blood pressure rises. There is a considerable difference between the blood pressure of a man as he walks from his home to the nearby restaurant and when he sits behind the wheel to travel the same distance.

More recording instruments, which checked driver blood pressure, pulse frequency and recorded their electrocardiogram, showed that the moment the ignition key is turned on, all kinds of circulatory irregularities arise.

Drivers with less than 10,000 miles of driving experience are more affected by stress than drivers with a record of 150,000 miles or more. But even the most experienced drivers are subject to these irregularities.

According to the German research team, the main decision to overtake another car registers a strong increase in pulse beat and this happens before the manoeuvre has been initiated. Sighting of a traffic officer also has a strong stressful pulse reaction with an increase in heart beat registered at 90 a minute. The greatest stress was on special strain on the driver's heart.

The results of this German research effort may explain some unusual accidents in which, for no apparent reason, drivers may do unaccountable things. Probably some sudden increase in heart strain, pressure or heart action may have caused temporary blackouts.

Ireland's Pied Piper

Dublin Evening Herald

Ireland's "Pied Piper," 56-year-old Leo Vaughan, has just celebrated 30 years in the business of caring for animals. Known the length and breadth of Ireland popularly as "Pat," he says the name was hished on to him by mistake.

Leo learned his trade in London, where he spent many years and in those days, he says he was known as a rat-catcher. Today these vermin are considered above a neg ative status, known now as Rodent Operators.

"There are about two rats to every human being in Ireland," says Leo. "There were many more when I first worked around the country, but the numbers are up at a pretty steady figure year in and year out."

Rats multiply at such a fantastic rate that a female mak ing one female can produce up to 1,200 a year. Leo reckons the damage done by rats in Ireland up to 5,000,000 pounds a year

"It works out that one rat causes about £4 worth of damage a year . . . and that's plenty!"

In Ireland the brown rat is the number one destroyer. It lives in New York City, also in length and is far more destructive than the water rat.

The rat's appetite is even invades cold stores, and spreads disease. No place is safe from its depredations, says Leo, and it means constant watch from expert rodent officers to keep the brown rat at bay.

Leo's work has taken him into schools and college, hospitals, farms, factories, granaries, warehouses, factories and shops.

Leo says he has no fear of rats, and the repeated myth that a rat will jump a person's throat is untrue, he says. "Rats will only attack if they are hungry and are cornered. A single rat will scurry for cover at the slightest sound." He has only once been bitten, and then only a slight scratch.

Today, the most common method of extermination is by poison and the dead rats are usually burned or buried. Leo's work is a constant struggle against infestation, and the child trouble spots are in towns on a river . . . Dublin, Limerick, Cork, Waterford, etc.

Suggestion Endorsed

Windsor Star

As way to be expected objections have already been voiced to a recommendation by the Royal Commission on Banking and Finance that borrowers be told the true interest rate on consumer loans.

Little attention, except perhaps on purely technical grounds, need be paid to the objections already known to the objections, indeed, can be expected only from those who would like to keep hiding the rate charged on a loan.

On technical grounds, there is no reason why these objections that it is mathematically impossible to work out the exact interest rate on many transactions. This may be true, but it should be a simple matter to find a yardstick by which all such transactions can be measured and the cost of borrowing arrived at.

For many people, the need to obtain credit often eclipses the instinct for self-preservation from exorbitant borrowing charges. It is up to protecting such persons, and all borrowers, that the royal commission's recommendation is directed.

Contrast Air, Road Tolls

By WILSON HIRSCHFIELD
In The Cleveland Plain Dealer

Let's crash jet airliners, each carrying 118 precious men, women and children.

We'll crash one a day, killing all aboard.

After seven days — seven jet disasters — Congress could well drop all other business to probe the crashes.

Yet only 526 men, women and children would have died in those seven jet tragedies.

Let's crash jet airliners for the rest of a month. A jet crash a day for 30 days.

By the time the jet toll would be 3,540 lives.

The civilized world would be aghast, and a summit conference likely.

And so and on. A jet liner crashing every day, month in, month out, for 365 days, a full year.

Three hundred and sixty-five jet crashes! One hundred and eighteen men, women and children dead in accidents.

A year later, the death toll would be 236.

That would be fewer than the 43,400 men, women and children who died in U.S. highway accidents last year, according to National Safety Council figures.

In two years the war against communism in Viet Nam has cost the lives of some 122 U.S. soldiers — just about the number of Americans who die . . . or are executed . . . on our highways, each week.

Mr. President, how about a war against traffic slaughter?

Girl Exports Are Taxed

Montreal Star

"The Italian scene," consistently the brightest of government handouts, apprises us of the existence of a source of civic revenue which we draw with some reluctance to Mr. Drapeau's attention. It is a tax on the export of girls, and the little town of Oriolo has been levying it for at least 500 years.

The tax is collected from outsiders who marry Oriolese girls, reputedly outstandingly pretty. It apparently had its origin in the fact that many outside suitors were discouraged if Oriolo would be feminitely dowered. This is now usually in two parts. One, now purely nominal, goes to the civic treasurer; the other, which is kept pace with the cost of yesterday, is paid to Oriolo's own bachelors who want to do it throw themselves a party.

Now, Montreal's girls have a unique Gallic charm, and we export them to such alien places as Chateauguay, Saratoguay (but not to Hongkong now) and even Westmount.

There is only one snag, though. It involves defaulters. "In recent years," says The Italian Scene, "only one bachelor suitor—a Tuscan—has refused to pay. He was serenaded all night with a kettle-drum, two whistles and never slept a wink."

The trouble is that in these parts the suitor, conditioned by centuries of ambulance sirens and rending fenders, wouldn't even notice.

Big Winners Are Unhappy

Memphis Commercial-Appeal

In London, a 46 - year - old bachelor clerk who had wagered the equivalent of 2 cents on the weekly soccer pools came up the winner of the equivalent of $630,378.

"It must be the unhappiest man in Britain," he wailed two days later. "I don't want all this money. I'm not happy. I . . . feel depressed and really unhappy. . . ."

In Milwaukee, last week, a 39-year-old grandmother came home from her job as an embroiderer of religious garments to discover she had won $56,000 on a Irish Sweepstakes ticket her crippled husband had bought in her name.

"I'm not a bit excited," she said, ". . . in fact, I'm unhappy. I was happy the way I lived before. . . ."

Perhaps these unfortunate people will learn to live with their wealth which came to them because someone "invited their arm" to buy a ticket. But just think of all the unhappiness that will be spread around the nation in cars to come if that Sweepstakes bill legalized a lottery.

'Pep Pills' Habit Like Smoking - Not Addiction

By JOSEPH C. HOLMER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have been taking a stay-awake drug for about five years, 8 to 12 tablets a day.

I want very much to stop the habit but when I try, I get bad headaches and become so tired I can hardly move.

I thought maybe if you told me how bad they are for me, I would stop. I can't afford a doctor, and I don't know where else to go for help. — Mrs. J. M.

Scare you into saving your health? I don't think it would work. But if you'll concentrate carefully, perhaps I can help you rescue yourself before you collapse from this "forced draft" sort of existence you have been following.

You aren't the only person who has fallen into this habit. Obviously you have developed a notion that you can't get along without the drugs (and I mean the amphetamines are the usual drugs in these pills).

You can stop if you will. It's a habit — like smoking — and not an addiction, like morphine or opiates.

But the first question is why you started taking them True, they'll keep you awake and alert. It's like leaving the draft open on the furnace. It makes the fire burn faster, but it doesn't supply us all the fuel, and perhaps ruin the furnace in a month.

Did you start the pills because of chronic fatigue? That's by far the commonest reason. There are various causes of it — the weariness or lack of pep. A very common one is sheer boredom. Examine your life and attitudes. If that's what ails you, the best cure is simply to do the best you can with your life.

Anemia is another cause. So is faulty diet. Also, taking them fast is a frequent cause. So is chronic infection.

Part of your problem is to correct or discard whatever reason or excuse you may have had for the pill crutch.

Second, what about your headaches and weariness when you try to go without the pills? If you correct the basic cause, this secondary trouble will stop. (I'm surprised that you didn't mention nervousness and sleeplessness, too.)

It may be that you need a doctor to help you brace, and correct, your real troubles.

You say you can't afford one. If you really can't, most hospitals have clinics. Ask. cities have physicians to help those who really can't afford care, otherwise.

But they may be a mile suspicious about you, because these pills cost 2 cents or more each retail, and you are spending $3.75 to $7.50 a month on them.

You've swallowed, at your rate, from $45 to $90 a year. Only a really good check-up can do for himself, like eating and drinking certain things!—C. B.

Enlarged prostate is one cause of frequent urination, because the enlarged gland does not permit complete emptying of the bladder. It is not, however, the only cause. Kidney trouble, failing to look much fluid, diabetes, and use of certain drugs can cause it.

In any event, diet will have no effect except in diabetics.

Accident-Prone Common Word Into Recent Years

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

"Accident-prone" is a word that has become quite common in the last decade or two. It is now know that certain personalities tend to become involved in an unusually high percentage of accidents — and that they aren't really "accidents" in the original sense of the word.

What we need, to follow this valuable concept, is a serious study of "genetic proneness." In the current cigaret-cancer controversy, for instance, we don't really know why some persons seem to develop lung cancer from excessive smoking, while many others don't.

As Sir Julian Huxley pointed out a few years ago, in the Journal of Neurosurgery, the different individuals inherit different types of mental and bodily constitution, and these differences in temperament: and these, in turn, result in different reactions to stress and disease.

In regard to cancer, even different inbred strains of mice have different degrees of proneness for different types of cancer — sometimes 5 percent, sometimes 80 percent, and sometimes 100 percent. One strain will be relatively unaffected by a cancer type that will kill off another strain.

Prof. Roger Williams of Texas has coined the word, "propetiology," to describe this genetic proneness. We can see it plainly in such famous cases as the Hapsburg lip, the bleeding of the Spanish royal family, and in the allergic reactions that afflict whole groups of people who are related.

While heredity alone does not determine whether a specific person will fall victim to a disease, it may make him prone to the ailment if other factors are present. When tuberculosis was a plague, it used to run in families; not so much because it was "catching" as because the close relatives shared the same biological strain and presumably had the same proneness to the germ.

If cigaret smoking were cancer - producing per se, then everyone who smoked a sufficient number of cigarets over a sufficient period of time would develop cancer — which is plainly not at all the case. The best argument for not smoking is that nobody knows until he gets it) if he is genetically prone to lung cancer.

My own unscientific theory is that we are born with the dice we die of: that is, everyone has one constitutional weak point, and this is the point most easily attacked when we are older. The diseases we get are in some way like us; just as the things that happen to our emotional life are like us; and the "fate" lies in the past, not the future.

Toronto Stocks

TORONTO (CP)—Industrials moved to a new index high in light morning trading on the stock market today.

Leading the advance were papers, with Consolidated ahead ¼ to 41⅛ while Great Lakes was up ¼ to 25¾. Imperial Flo-Glaze Paints, which has received an offer for certain major assets from Du Pont of Canada, climbed ½ to 37½.

Banks reached the trend with small losses.

Algoma Steel eased ¼ to 68⅜. Golds were stronger apart from a ⅛ gain to Hollinger at 30½. Selkirk climbed up a 13 cent gain at $2.65.

Base metals were quiet with one or two losses. However, Consolidated Mining and Smelting, Campbell Chibougamau, International Nickel and Opemiska were higher.

Among specialities, Coniagus climbed to 81.00 while Belleterre lost two cents to 38 cents.

Volume at 11 a.m. was 1,008,000 shares compared with 898,000 shares at the same time Tuesday.

Gains in the main list went to a wide range of issues with particular strength showing in the beverage stocks. Canadian Breweries gained ⅛ to 10⅜, Labatts ¼ to 18½ and Walkers ¼ to 34¼.

Bank of Montreal, a recent victim of profit takers, recouped some of its losses with a ⅛ gain to 65⅝. Canada Iron and CPR were both ahead ¼ to 34¼ and 44¾ respectively. Other outstanding gainers were CIL, up ⅛ to 20¼, Canadian Industrial Gas, up ⅛ to 10⅝, and Harding Carpets, up ⅛ to 17. Ford of Canada tacked on $3 at 191.

Algoma Central and Hudson Bay Railway was prominent in the losing column, dipping $1 to 20.

Golds were hit by selling. Preston, a pivotal issue, lost 35 cents to $6.50, Kerr-Addison 15 cents to $7.50 and Dome ⅛ to 27⅛.

Base metals closed with a minus sign on index, but a rally was underway. Noranda had cut an earlier $2 loss to ⅛ at 69¼ while International Nickel was ahead $1 at 86¼ and Falconbridge ⅛ at 74.

Speculative issues generated some interest with Magnet, Zenapa, McWatters, Silvermaque, Opemiska and Magnet turning over good volume and all gaining a few cents.

On index, industrials gained .54 to 154.44, the exchange index .48 to 144.49 and western oils .62 to 164.39. Base metals were down .06 to 66.36 and golds 1.43 to 133.06. Volume for the day was 4,094,000 shares compared with 4,033,000 shares Monday.

Committee Adjourns Because No Stenographers Are Available

OTTAWA (CP)—For lack of a nail the shoe was lost, for lack of a shoe the horse was lost, for lack of a horse the kingdom was lost—all was lost for lack of a nail.

That about sums up the position of the Commons privileges committee Tuesday.

It adjourned indefinitely because French-language shorthand reporters couldn't be obtained to provide verbatim reports of the committee inquiry.

With many bitter words about inadequate facilities, the MPs were forced to put aside their investigation into the allegation of Gerard Girouard (PC—Labelle) that he was invited to join the Liberal party with the benefit of a fat election campaign fund.

The committee was instructed by the Commons to investigate after Stanley Knowles (NDP—Winnipeg North Centre) said Mr. Girouard's allegation amounts to a charge of attempted bribery and, if true, violates Commons rules and the criminal code.

Two sittings of the committee — Tuesday morning and afternoon—became stalled over lack of qualified French-language shorthand reporters.

REMEDY REJECTED

One proposed remedy—use of four qualified French - language stenographers recruited by Gilles Gregoire (SC—Lapointe)—was put aside.

A formal protest to the Commons proposed by Progressive Conservatives was rejected. So was their suggestion that English-speaking witnesses be proceeded with, pending location of French-language shorthand reporters.

It was left to chairman Larry Pennell (L — Brant-Haldimand) to reconvene the committee when adequate staff is found. Mr. Pennell said he'll try to have recommendations before the committee today or Thursday on how to proceed.

Most of the committee's three hours in session was spent in bitter words over the lack of shorthand reporters.

"Why we're a joke in this country," charged Eldon Woolliams (PC—Bow River) noting the committee had sat twice Tuesday without really accomplishing anything.

Mr. Pennell reported that efforts had been made to get French stenographers from the Commons Hansard staff but all four were required in the Commons for debates there. The Supreme Court of Canada used Senate French-language reporters and negotiations were under way to try to get them for the committee.

Most English-speaking MPs—the committee is composed of 29 MPs for whom 13 use French as their mother tongue—agreed it would be unfair to Mr. Girouard to give testimony under oath in English.

Shrine Club Plans Public Auction

Want to help a crippled kiddie?

Sure you do — and you can without the outlay of a single nickel.

Look around the house and see if you have anything dispensable — that you can do without — which has some value.

No clothing, please.

The Belleville Shrine Club will appreciate it. For they are holding an outdoor auction sale at the club on Saturday, May 30th starting 10 a.m.

All you have to do is select the article or articles you want to donate them call Bill Stewart, Shell at WO 8-5853, or Quincey at Quinte Roofing, WO 8-7566 or Tom Lewis Tobacco Store at WO 8-7265.

A few minutes after you call someone will be at your house to pick up the donated article.

Look around now — and see what you can do to help the Crippled Children Fund of the Shrine Club.

The auction is being held in lieu of the annual Shrine Club men hockey game which did not get played last season.

Every cent derived from the auction will go to the crippled kiddies in this vicinity who have a large "class" of these unfortunate youngsters.

Almost everyone has something "kicking" around the premises that is excess baggage but which can be used by other people.

So help a less fortunate child, look around the house and you can give — and call any of the above numbers.

The auction is being held under the auspices of the Camel Herders Unit of the Shrine Club.

In passing it is noted that seventeen magnificent Shrine Hospitals stand as monumental tribute to the work of the "Gentlemen of the Fez." Thirteen of them are in the United States, two in Canada, one in Honolulu and one in Mexico.

Equipped with every modern medical device these hospitals are unique in their own right. They are maintained solely for the crippled children in the areas they serve. To help maintain these edifices, 750,000 Shriners pay five dollars a year.

These hospitals are maintained solely by the Shrine, their friends and contributions. They receive no government grants. Many outstanding cures.

And here is an important point, if the parents of a crippled child can afford to pay for its treatment, the child is not admitted to a Shrine Hospital. They are reserved exclusively for those children whose parents are not in a financial position to give their child the care, treatment and equipment necessary to its future well-being. And 10,000 of these kiddies pass through Shrine Hospitals each year.

You, too, can help by donating an article or articles to the Belleville Shrine Auction Sale. Look around — then phone.

White River Inquiry Opens Under Judge

WHITE RIVER, Ont. (CP)—An inquiry into the affairs of the White River Improvement District opened its sittings here Monday.

Judge Fred Caccia, Walsh Bracci, opens today in this railway community 145 miles north of Sault Ste. Marie.

Mr. Bracci has been accused of using his political influence to gain virtual complete control of this town of 920 persons.

The accusations were made by former Liberal leader John Wintermeyer at Sudbury during the campaign for the provincial election last Sept. 22, followed by a petition for an inquiry by 122 of 190 eligible ratepayers.

Municipal Affairs Minister Spooner appointed Judge James Ross of Sudbury to head an inquiry after further requests from the district's three trustees, including Mr. Bracci.

Judge Ross conducted a preliminary hearing Feb. 10 to establish the terms for the main hearing. Since then, Judge Ross has received a brief from John Ryan of Sudbury, counsel for the ratepayers, demanding that Mr. Bracci be removed from office.

MADE CHARGE

Mr. Wintermeyer charged that Mr. Bracci, appointed by the provincial government, had been given inside information on the proposed route for the Trans-Canada Highway and had used this information to buy land alongside the highway route.

He also said that Mr. Bracci owned the only licensed hotel in the community, a motel, the post office building, the telephone exchange building, the liquor store building and the lands and forests district building.

Mr. Bracci, who called for the inquiry so he could clear his name, said earlier this week that press reports have made it appear that White River has been governed by a corrupt and inept administration.

"I feel that White River and myself were turned into political footballs during the heat of an election campaign and both our reputations, the community's and mine, were kicked around," he said.

In his brief to Judge Ross, Mr. Ryan also requested that the judge include in his findings a recommendation for the election of improvement trustees with a remuneration.

Improvement trustees are appointed without pay by the municipal affairs department.

Ottawa Kiwanis Club Guests of Local Members

Tuesday was inter-club day at Kiwanis when a club from south Ottawa met with Belleville Kiwanians at noon hour and who conducted the day's program and provided the speaker.

About 26 in all attended from Ottawa bringing with them Navy Recruiting Officer Gerry Heatley, who kept his audience in stitches with his Bob Hope style comedy.

The speaker was introduced by the Ottawa members in chorus fashion and also presented a song to the Belleville Club.

Earlier in the program co-chairman of last Wednesday's peanut blitz reported that it was a tremendous success and presented president Robert Freestone with a cheque in the amount of $926.96. The cheque was of unusual size, but has since been framed for display.

Presentations were made to the two team captains of each team.

It was also annual auction day for the Kiwanis Club of B.C.I. and V.S. Nine members from the club were auctioned off with a minimum of four dollars by auctioneer Lawrence Kelly. Those sold were Peter Hatfield, Kenneth Prindle, David Boyce, Jim Beatty, Bruce Downing, Gerry Pringle, Bill Arthurs, Al Hallam and Garry Chapman, president of the Key Club, who will work for their buyers for four hours after school.

Unscrupulous Girl Has No Legal Hold on Boy

DEAR DORIS — Before Joe and I met he used to go with a girl called Jane. He hoped to marry her and gave her a diamond ring. Then they broke up. When he asked for his ring she refused to give it to him.

He said to me that if we got married she could have our marriage annulled because she has the ring and can prove that he gave it to her telling her that he would marry her.

Can she do this to us after she finds out we are married? We have postponed the wedding three times because she has been telling us. He does not love her after he found out she was and where she came from. I have never met her but I have had many threatening phone calls — LOVE AND IN LOVE.

DORIS CLARE

DEAR LOVE — No she can't. She shows her make-up by keeping the ring, by telling you, by threats. Next time postpone nothing. Tie the knot real tight. It'll stay tied.

* * *

DEAR DORIS — I am bowlegged. Would you have some suggestions about exercise? — SLIM SEVENTEEN.

DEAR SLIM — Here are two:

Sit down and cross your legs; bend toes back and under to make a "fist" of the toes and the forepart of the foot; bend the foot up on the leg, at the same time turning the sole inward as if trying to look at it.

Exercise also the muscles of the back and sides of the leg by alternately pointing the toes down as in ballet, and then bending the foot up on the front of the leg. As the toes go up you can see the muscles contract and the legs get more shapely.

DEAR DORIS — This is a letter to Money Problem, and I hope I am of some help.

I receive $60. a week. From this I pay all bills — rent, insurance, food, clothing, plus gifts for all occasions.

Now from the $16. I receive from my baby bonus I clothe two growing girls and am told how lovely they look. Bargains can be purchased if looked for.

My money even helps with car gas and provides some entertainment. So you see with some figuring one can do a great many miracles — A GOOD BUDGETER.

DEAR GOOD BUDGETER — Well, cheers for you! But you see, Money Problem has no money to work miracles with. Her husband buys the groceries and most of the children's clothing, and pockets the rest. The only cash she holds in her hand is the Family Allowance and the small amount she gets for the sale of her eggs.

And here's a question for you: Would you be inspired to work miracles if your husband was constantly showing he didn't trust you with money?

come operational in Canada and West Germany later this year. Two reconnaissance squadrons would be stationed in France. The army's new M-113 armored personnel carrier and extra Hercules transport aircraft would begin to arrive by the end of the year and would do much to increase the mobility of Canadian forces.

Mr. Hellyer said the unification of the three services will eliminate costly duplication and overlapping, and enable more efficient use of manpower. Civilian control over military programs would be increased.

For example, the information services of the air force, army and navy would be merged into one, allowing a manpower cut and attendant savings.

"Once the high command has been unified and once the armed forces of Canada are organized on a functional basis rather than along traditional service lines, the complete integration of the armed services will follow as a natural evolution from this change in organization.

SOLDIERS WILL STAY

"There will, of course, always be soldiers, sailors and airmen. We may also, some day in the future, have spacemen."

He said an artillery officer could not command a ship, but he might find himself at home with a naval gun after a brief familiarization. Many of the basic skills in the three services were similar.

Earlier Tuesday, several Conservative speakers continued to criticize the government for acquiring nuclear arms and for making some defence cutbacks.

Donald MacInnis (P.C.—Cape Breton South) suggested Associate Defence Minister Cardin is "far more qualified" than Mr. Hellyer—"this hasty boy." It would be better if Mr. Cardin had sole responsibility for the defence department. The ministers did not comment.

several Soviet groups.

The trip was organized privately by Edgar T. Alberts, Toronto insurance man.

MOSCOW (CP)—Soviet Foreign Trade Minister Nikolai Patolichev told a group of Canadian businessmen Tuesday he was dissatisfied with existing conditions of Canadian - Soviet trade, the Soviet news agency Tass said.

Tass quoted Patolichev as saying: "There have been no big deals between us, except the wheat purchases."

The reason for this, Patolichev said, was that Canadian legislation still allows high customs duties on Soviet goods. However, "some progress was apparent in this respect during talks in Canada in September last year."

Stirling

STIRLING — On Tuesday evening several relatives and friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Tucker and tendered Mrs. Tucker a birthday party.

Mrs. Bert Jones was a recent guest of Mrs. Thomas Burnside, Madoc, wife of the warden of Hastings County. She entertained the wives of the county councillors to afternoon tea.

Earl Johnson, local baker, is a patient in the Belleville General Hospital, where he underwent surgery.

The top ten girls in the recent cross country race, sponsored by the Rawdon-Stirling District High School were: Delores Desmarest, Janet Murray, Randelle Redcliffe, Jayne Doan, Betty Oosting, Linda Johnston, Sue West, Jennie Visser, Annalee Cheslik and Lois Dan-ford. A special Hastings track and field meet will be held in the village next Saturday.

Messrs. Harry Philp, Donald Scott and Charles Barnard are patients in the Belleville General Hospital.

Friends in the village received word of the death of a former pastor, the Rev A. E. Baker, who has been stationed at Barrie United Church since September. The funeral was held Tuesday at the Elliott Funeral Home, Toronto. Mr. Baker served St. Paul's-Carmel United charge.

Mrs. Thomas Tanner is a patient in the Campbellford Memorial Hospital.

Relatives received word of the death of Mrs. Olive E. Wise of Mobile, Alabama. She was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Marshall W. Westcott. She is survived by two sons, nine grandchildren and a sister who resides in Lloydminster, Saskatchewan.

David Bell of Eganville spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Bell.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Duff and son of Blenheim were recent guests of the Misses Gena and Iona Spry.

Mrs. Arthur Morrison spent a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Russell Andrews at Bonarlaw.

Mrs. Annie Searles of Oak Lake spent a day last week with Mrs. Janet Utman, Front Street.

At a recent meeting of the 1st Stirling Brownie Pack, Mrs. Douglas Patterson presented Golden Bar badges to four Brownies, Judy Cook, Ann Werner, and Mary Potter, while Golden Hand badges were awarded to Janet Duffin, Kathryn Morton, Judith Merrill and Kathryn Valchar. Brown Owl Wagner emailed June Preston as a Brownie.

A former high school student here, Ray T. Hermiston of Dorchester, has been awarded a $2000 fellowship to pursue his degree of Doctor of Philosophy. Ray is attending Michigan University at Ann Arbor and hopes to complete his master's degree. He is the son of Mrs. Ross Hermiston of Dorchester and the late Mr. Hermiston. The family resided in the village for several years.

No Evidence Of Brutality in Nursing Homes

HAMILTON (CP) — Mayor Victor Copps said Tuesday there has been no evidence of brutality to inmates of private nursing homes in Hamilton.

Excerpt for some minor irregularities in handling drugs, provincial authorities have given city nursing homes a clean bill of health, the mayor said during a city council meeting.

Controller James Campbell said in an interview Monday that a former attendant at a nursing home had told him she had seen an elderly woman knocked down by a man who operated a home.

He said at city council Tuesday that provincial inspectors found substandard food, fire hazards and improper handling of drugs during an investigation of the homes.

Deputy City Clerk Edward Simpson said the charges apparently stemmed from complaints of two disgruntled former employees of a home.

Mayor Copps said the city welfare board will meet provincial inspectors May 25 to decide if any further investigations are necessary.

OUTLINE AGENDA

OTTAWA (CP) — A heavy agenda was outlined Tuesday by the joint parliamentary committee on consumer credit. The first meeting will be held Tuesday, May 19, and meetings will continue every Tuesday, it was announced by the joint chairmen, senator David Croll (L—Ontario) and J. J. Greene (L—Renfrew South).

Marco Robles President-Elect Of Panama

PANAMA CITY (AP) — Government candidate Marco A. Robles is Panama's new president-elect, on the basis of nearly complete returns. The pro-election favorite, former president Arnulfo Arias, denounced the outcome as a "most scandalous fraud."

Returns from 1,039 of the 1,144 voting districts gave Robles an 11,066 vote margin over Arias—124,530 to 113,764. With seven candidates in the field, Robles got about 40 per cent of the total vote.

Arias claimed official figures released by the election tribunal were "spurious" and the people would not tolerate a violation of their will. But he gave no indication of personal action to challenge the results of Sunday's voting.

Col. Bolivar Vallarino, commander of the 3,000 - man National Guard, was expected to take decisive action against any violent protests by Arias supporters. Vallarino generally is considered an opponent of Arias and is blamed by the former president for his ouster from office in 1941 and again in 1951.

Van Doos Move Main Camp Of Battalion Into Strategic Area of the Kyrenia Pass

NICOSIA (CP)—The 1st Battalion of Quebec's Royal 22nd Regiment pulled up stakes Tuesday and moved its headquarters from a suburb of Nicosia into the strategic Kyrenia Pass area, 13 miles north of here.

The 130 officers and men attached to Battalion headquarters are the first to move northwards in a transfer of Canadian troops that will eventually increase the strength of the United Nations peace-keeping force around the pass by nearly 300 men and 40 vehicles.

Another company of the Royal 22nd is still to be moved into the mountains from Nicosia.

Battalion headquarters tents were pitched on the slopes of the Kyrenia range in a site formerly occupied by C Company of the Royal 22nd, commanded by Maj. Patrick Tremblay of Chicoutimi, Que.

C Company moved its tents to a new position little more than a mile away. The entire transfer was carried out smoothly and was completed by noon.

While the moving operation went on, feuding Greek and Turkish Cypriots on surrounding mountain peaks maintained their cease-fire.

"Their shooting is the kind of music we can do without," one soldier commented as he banged before a tent peg. "It woke us up often enough in the mornings."

The main object of moving more Canadians into the area is to prevent the warring factions from resuming hostilities around the Kyrenia Pass through which runs the main road between Nicosia and the northern seaport of Kyrenia.

This area has been relatively quiet in recent days, except for occasional and unexplained bursts of gunfire from one side or the other.

The throne of Japan was wrestled for in 858, with the victor, Korehito, succeeding his father, Emperor Buntoku, under the name of Seiwa.

The United States, Britain and several other European nations want closer integration of their forces and policies. Only then, they contend, can the peoples and institutions of the new world and the old co-operate effectively.

The United States has stressed its readiness to give the European allies a voice in nuclear weapon management through the project for a fleet of Polaris surface ships manned by crews of mixed nationalities.

This would keep the U.S. finger on the nuclear trigger and still insure against the rise of a German nuclear armory.

SHOULD OWN A DOG

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Earnest Marples, British minister of transport, says too many people ride when they should walk. Marples, here to study the city's transportation system, says perhaps one way to solve this problem is for everyone to own a dog. "Then the people will have to walk their dogs, and in so doing, will walk themselves."

Speaking Personally

SENIORS AND JUNIORS

As we grow older we like to think that we have gained wisdom with the years, and often take for granted that the younger generation will acknowledge this. But, Thoreau had a different idea. He said that he had never learned one thing of value from his elders, and the fact that they had had experiences had nothing to do with him. To quote Thoreau, "Age is no better, hardly so well, qualified as youth, for it has not profited so much as it has lost. One may almost doubt if the wisest man has learned anything of absolute value by living. Practically, the old have no very important advice to give the young, their own experience has been so partial, and their lives have been such miserable failures, for private reasons, as they may believe; and it may be that they have some faith left which belies that experience, and they are only less young than they were."

At thirty years of age Thoreau said, "I have yet to hear one syllable of valuable or even earnest advice from my seniors. They have told me nothing, and probably cannot tell me anything to any purpose. Here is life, an experiment to a great extent untried by me; but it does not avail me that they have tried it.

"What old people say you cannot do, you try and find that you can . . . but man's capacities have never been measured; nor are we to judge of what he can do by any precedents, so little has been tried."

Ah, me. The pearls of wisdom I was so eager to communicate to the younger generation will have to remain unspoken.

THE OPEN CHURCH

Last week I attended the annual meetings of the W.A. of the Anglican communion at St. Thomas' Church, and admired anew this lovely historic church. There it stands proudly on the hill as solid and unchangeable as the faith it represents. One can picture the storms, winds, lightning and nature at her fiercest beating against it without disturbing it in any way. But what impressed me most was the church notice board on the front lawn. Usually I am driving past that corner and had never stopped to read it. At the bottom of the board it said, "The church is open daily. Come in and pray." What a warm, appealing invitation that was to anyone heartsick or overburdened, or just in need of communication when the storms of life have beaten too heavily upon its steps.

A little girl who used to visit me would sometimes ask if we could go "roaring" on the bay. This was a delightful combination of two words, rowing and oaring, and meant taking the boat out for a row. So together we would go "roaring" around the bay, at such a speed that a wounded turtle could very outdistanced us in one minute, swimming backwards.

SPEAKING OF MANNERS — BY PATRICIA LEWIS

COURTESY SHOULD ACCOMPANY YOUR CONSTITUTIONAL

There's nothing more invigorating than a brisk stroll down the Avenue on a nice spring day.

Unfortunately, except on weekends, said stroll has to be confined to the lunch hour, and thousands of others have exactly the same idea. But, despite the excess of company, a midday walk can still be enjoyable if everyone remembers his side walk manners.

Even a touch of spring fever is no excuse for falling to:

Keep to the right as you take your constitutional, to avoid colliding head-on with the ranks coming in the other direction.

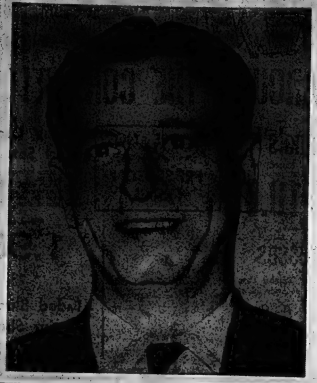
Adopt a moderate rate of speed on crowded thoroughfares. Racing along endangers the looking of others, so it's more courteous to gear yourself to the pace of the crowd for the safety of everyone.

Pull out of the mainstream if you want to take a breather or simply ogle the buildings or store fronts. Standing in the centre of the street, either to sight-see or stop to talk to a friend, is a discourtesy to other pedestrians who have to circle around you and perhaps bump into others in an effort to do so.

Wait your turn to cross the street, especially when there's a crowd at the corner. Obey traffic signals and don't try hustling your way up front. Aside from annoying others with flying elbows, there's always a chance your carelessness may send an innocent bystander sailing off the sidewalk and into the path of an oncoming car. Be patient and the crossing will be made with ease.

HANDLING UMBRELLAS

Even on a rainy day, a walk can be stimulating, but extra care should be taken in the way you handle your umbrella.



Try to keep it straight over your head, so you have plenty of visibility and won't plow into the person in front of you. If the day is windy, why not just forget the umbrella completely and settle for a rain hat or a waterproof head covering. When the weather is gusty, the umbrella usually is held close down in front and the point becomes a dangerous weapon for unwary souls. It doesn't give much protection under these weather conditions, so we're in favor of abandoning the whole thing and let the rain hit where it may.

If the weather clears and the umbrella is carried closed, be sure to keep the point safely pointed down and to carry it close to your side so you won't trip or jab others as you scurry along.

Rain or shine, a stroll can be healthy and relaxing as long as courtesy goes along as a sidekick.

Horticultural Society Guests Of Stirling Rebekah Lodge

STIRLING — On Monday evening, May 4th the past Noble Grands of Laurel Rebekah Lodge No. 211 entertained the members of Stirling Horticultural Society at the I.O.O.F. hall with approximately 45 in attendance.

P.N.G. Hilda Rose, president of the hostess group was in charge of business. P.N.G. Ethel Duffin gave her report and read the correspondence.

Recently the ladies sponsored a rummage sale in Campbellford for six days and realized almost $225 for their efforts. At the close of the sale the balance was forwarded to the Scott Mission in Toronto. The president invited the Past Grands to her home for the next regular meeting. She then introduced Mrs. Floyd Armstrong, president of the Horticultural Society and welcomed the members of that organization.

The three special pictures of roses were shown and one will be chosen for Centennial year. At the present time they each have a number and a color. Each member cast her vote on the special ballot provided and these will be forwarded to the secretary to Toronto.

BUS TRIP

The bus tour will be on Monday, July 27th and will include a four hour boat cruise through the Thousand Islands. The total mileage will be 142 and the cost will be $5.50. The bus will leave St. Paul's United Church in Stirling at 9 a.m. Each individual will take his own noon lunch, and supper will be purchased at Gananoque. Those wishing to attend should contact the president or secretary at an early date. There will also be a trip to the Ottawa Exhibition in August.

A plant sale will be held on May 23rd at Memorial Park in the village. The book on flower arrangements has been ordered for the village public library.

A letter regarding a trip to Britain was read by the secretary. Several books and periodicals were displayed and a special leaflet prepared by the president entitled, "Treatment of cut flowers to prolong life" was given to each member.

The program opened with an article of interest and a poem on gardens by the president. This gave a descriptive account of the word garden which appears 40 times in the Bible. Mrs. Percy MacMullen contributed a poem picturing ponds and streams. Mrs. Kenneth Ray read an interesting article on flower lures. Miss Gena Spry gave a descriptive account of Coral Bells and displayed a slice-steel plant which was passed around for all to view. Mrs. William Ashby read an appropriate poem pertaining to spring. Mrs. Ivan Caldwell read an article filled with ideas and information on how to plant cuttings and sterilize the soil.

The president interspersed the program with bits of poems and she gave a descriptive account of feeding and care of lilacs. The secretary read an article regarding the value of plastic sheeting and this idea had been tried out in 1963 and proved successful. She also outlined the culture of daffodils.

ITEMS OF INTEREST

From all this garden lore at few items of special interest to the reading public have been chosen: radish seeds should be sown with carrot seeds in the same row. The radishes will be harvested and removed from the row prior to the carrots coming into maturity; the best mulching materials are pine needles, buckwheat hulls, ground cornsobs, grass clippings, straw, peat moss and sawdust.

Occasionally lily of the valley should be dug up and separated. Small clumps of six pips each well planted will give good results.

An asparagus crop should be cut for six weeks and then let grow into tall green plumes to insure a good crop next year, and the beds should be spread with fertilizer. String beans should not be picked with dew on them or their foliage touched when wet with rain lest a rust spread over the plants.

The stems of Oriental poppies should be seared as soon as picked and then placed in hot water ten inches deep. With this treatment poppies can be picked when the flower has first opened and they will last several days.

The president conducted a contest on the floral emblems of the provinces and the winners were Mrs. Ray Rose and Mr. J. R. Belshaw. At the April meeting Mrs. Belshaw displayed a lovely applique of these emblems which was handsome and quilted and was a lovely picture of artistry. The second flower contest was won by Mrs. Kenneth Weaver, Mrs. Oscar Merrick, Mrs. Percy Craighead and Harry White.

PRIZES GIVEN

The various prizes were awarded as follows: oldest person, Mrs. Clara Wright; birthday prize, Mrs. Raymond McConnell; lucky rose card, Mrs. Reg. McKee and Mrs. Ashley Brooks; cup and saucer prizes, Mrs. Percy MacMullen and Harry Wales.

An invitation was extended to the Past Noble Grands to join the Horticultural Society and that is also applicable to any person in the surrounding area. The membership is one dollar a year and that gives a premium of one box of plants of the member's choice.

A group of P.N.G.'s served refreshments and all enjoyed a social half hour of fellowship as they were seated at long tables. Mrs. Harry Wale voiced appreciative thanks on behalf of the Horticultural members for their kind invitation.

PLAN PROJECT

LETHBRIDGE, Alta. (CP) — A seven - member committee has been established here to organize plans to construct a Dutch windmill and a tulip garden as a second major project for centennial year celebrations. The city already has agreed to construct a Japanese garden as a project.

Ann Landers

Mother Fell for Spoiled Boy's Well-Planned Ruse

DEAR ANN LANDERS — Two weeks ago our 13-year-old had to stay after school because he talked in class. Since Mr. Clinton's second offence my husband insisted that he walk home. (I usually drive him.)

I didn't say anything even though it suddenly turned cold and windy. About five-thirty I began to worry. Clinton should have been home by five. I got in the car and began to look for him. I found the boy halfway between school and home. (We live a mile and a half from school.) He was cold and exhausted.

When my husband saw us get out of the car he was furious. He insisted it should not have gone to get the boy and that he should have taken his punishment. Please tell me if I was wrong to go after him. — CONFUSED.

DEAR CONFUSED — Do you honestly believe that your son would have suffered if he had walked all the way home? I do not.

Clinton out-foxed you, mom. He knew it he poked along you would worry. He was getting even with you for making him walk and he also figured you'd come looking for him. He was right.

It's too darned bad that a mile and a half walk is considered punishment these days. Clinton would be better off if he walked it every day. Why don't you let him?

DEAR ANN LANDERS — My husband and I moved to this city about six years ago. We have made some fine friends. One woman, a widow of whom I am especially fond, confided in me several weeks ago that she has offered to help her step-brother who has had a lot of hard luck. He moved into her lovely home and assumes that her friends are automatically his friends.

He calls himself a poet and refuses to take a steady job because it might interfere with his "creative genius." His clothes are disreputable and he doesn't know what a comb is. He uses terrible language and if anyone shows signs of annoyance he says, "If you've never heard that word before it's time you did."

We don't want this man in our home and we have told his step-sister how we feel. She says she cannot leave him when she goes out socially. What shall we do? — KITCHENER.

DEAR KITCH — Tell her you'll miss her, and to let you know when Longfellow moves out.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — A boy I will call Frank is awfully nice but he is deadly dull. I had two dates with him and both nights I was so worn out from trying to keep the conversation going that I felt as if I had worked a double shift in a hand laundry.

Frank has asked me out three times since that last miserable date and I've told him that I am busy. (Twice I really was busy and once I lied.) I've made up my mind that I will not go out with him again but I don't know how to tell him to stop calling. I hate to be cruel but he just won't give up. Can you help me? — POLITE AN DPAYING.

DEAR POLITE — You can't tell a boy that he is deadly dull and to please stop calling you.

The next time Frank phones, offer to fix him up with a friend of yours whom he doesn't know. Think of a not-very-popular a girl who would be happy to have a date. (The woods are full of 'em.) Frank will then not feel totally rejected and who knows, they may even like each other.

Ann Landers' frank and informative new book, "Teen-Agers and Sex" ($2.95) is now available at your book store.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Write them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Chief Cook On Lakers Quits Job

MONTREAL (CP) — Mrs. John Dormer is becoming a landlubber after working on the Great Lakes for 15 years.

Giving up her job as chief cook on lakers, she is thinking of opening a restaurant, providing the hire of shipboard life doesn't grow too strong.

"There's an excitement that comes when the harbor starts stirring," she says. "After you've been on a ship for a few years this feeling gets right into your blood."

Mrs. Dormer, whose mother was a cook for 10 years on a tugboat in Montreal Harbor, says there have been many changes since she took her first job.

The food was always good, she says, but conditions under which it is prepared have changed radically.

"When I started, I cooked on a big coal stove. The galley often became intolerably hot. Now all ships are equipped with propane gas cowell stoves."

As chief cook, Mrs. Dormer made up the shopping lists and they're long enough to make a housewife's hair turn grey. If the ship is for eight days, it is the custom to have food stocked for 12 in case of changes in course, bad weather or other delays.

PORTER ADDED

When Mrs. Dormer started there were usually two cooks in the galley. Now a porter usually works with them.

Cooking for seamen can be a satisfying experience. "There are usually about 20 men and working in the fresh air gives healthy appetites."

Mrs. Dormer, who was known to the crew as La Petite Mere, encouraged them to ask for special dishes.

One engineer from the West Indies longed for curry dishes. I tried them according to my cookbook but they didn't turn out. He showed me how to cook them and for years after, the boys marvelled at my curried chicken."

Most of the time it was smooth sailing on the lakes but Mrs. Dormer remembers one incident vividly.

The worst storm she ever encountered was on Lake Superior at the close of one shipping season. She was on a small laker sailing with a sister ship both travelling with only water in the holds.

"The wind was terrific. We had to lay at anchor for 36 hours. Watching the other ship beside us, I thought it was like a paper boat bobbing on the mountainous waves. Our captain, who had also been on the deep sea ships, said he had never seen anything worse on the ocean."

OBTAINS RIGHTS

LONDON (CP) — Lady Hoare, chairman for the fund for the Hindomide children, flew from London to Moscow with a £10,000 cheque which was given by an anonymous donor. The money is to be used to pay the Soviets for the right to manufacture in Britain a special electronic artificial limb.

Key Lime Pie From Florida

by Mary Moore

My sister-in-law reconnoiters for me when she is in Florida. This year she brought home the recipe for Key Lime Pie. I was glad, for nearly every year I receive requests from readers for recipes for dishes that have been featured in Florida during the current tourist season. Wrn says they were serving Key (West) Lime Pie at two or three places where they visited.

Yesterday I made it and it is a dandy — sort of easy to make too.

WEDNESDAY

Dinner Menus

Barbecued Chicken Wings; Oven French Fries; Creamed Diced Carrots and Parsnips; Relish Tray: Radishes, Gherkins, Cucumber Sticks; Citrus Fruit Cup; Assorted Crackers and Cheese; Coffee.

KEY LIME PIE (from Florida):

Pastry: 1¼ cups stirred but not sifted pastry flour, ¼ cup hard best-quality colored margarine, ¼ teaspoon salt, 2½ tablespoons ice cold water.

(NOTE: My brother says that this different yellow-shaded pastry is one of the major virtues of this pie in his opinion. So be sure to try colored margarine in yours as I did.)

With pastry blender cut margarine into flour and salt until size of split peas. Drizzle in water slowly, tossing with fork until all flour is dampened. Press into ball. Roll out on lightly colored board to fit 9" pie plate that is 1" deep. Make a high fluted edge and prick pastry with fork. Bake at 450 deg. Fahr. about 10 minutes, or until it just begins to be tinged with gold. Do not overbake. Cool.

Filling: 4 eggs, 1 can sweetened condensed milk, 2/3 cup lime juice (fresh or bottled), 4 teaspoons ice or cold tap water, shake of salt, 4 tablespoons sugar.

Separate yolks from whites of eggs and beat whites with the salt and water until very stiff, gradually adding sugar as you beat. Transfer unwashed beater to bowl containing yolks, condensed (not evaporated) milk, and lime juice and beat until thick and opaque — about 1 or 2 minutes.

Pour into prepared baked pie shell, spread meringue evenly and attractively over top, pushing it to edges of crust to seal. Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. about 10 or 12 minutes or until meringue is rich gold. Cool, then chill in refrigerator at least 2 hours.

Excellent and different and serves 8.

Bringing Up Baby

HINTS COLLECTED BY MRS. DAN GEORGE, MOTHER OF 5

Most baby sitters today know the fundamentals but baby care has even the most competent ones are only as good as mothers help them to be. Suggestions for successful sitting:

- Sitter should be acquainted with your household—location of light switches, supplies, possible hazards, etc.
- Duties should be made clear from the start, with emphasis on baby care, not household chores.
- Written instructions on special baby duties, feeding, etc. are more reliable than oral ones.
- Snacks and soft drinks for your part-time parent sweeten sitting time.

Fell-fine parents can sweeten ceiling time by offering a goodly variety of good-tasting foods. Gerber offers over 50 pleasing, appetizing strained foods for your baby... all prepared with the Gerber flair for preserving true colours and flavours.

- Everything from fruits to vegetables, meats to dinners, juices to desserts. And every one is individually processed by specialists with special know-how in preserving the utmost in precious food values.

Weaning secretes. A plastic measuring cup with a pouring lip will help you measure those first cup tries more successfully. Spillage will be reduced if you start with just a splash of milk.

Mess magic starring some Gerber cereals. Strained or Junior versions.

Mrs. Garland Seeking Nomination

NORTH BAY (CP) — Mrs. Margaret Garland, who is seeking the Liberal nomination in Nipissing riding, said Tuesday the role of a member of Parliament's wife is rapidly changing.

Her husband, Revenue Minister Garland, held the federal riding for 18 years until his death last March 13. A by-election will be held June 22 to fill the vacancy.

Mrs. Garland told a meeting in nearby Bondfield that there is a growing tendency for women whose husbands die while in active politics to try to fill their places.

"It's obvious that an MP's wife gets an outlook on politics and government that very few other people can," she said. "She is part of all his activities so she understands the problems more clearly and the opportunities more realistically."

Church Groups

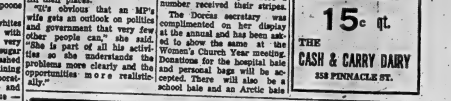
ST. THOMAS' W.A.

The regular monthly meeting of St. Thomas' W.A. was held in the Parish House. The Rector opened the meeting with prayers. Mrs. F. Leach read the Scripture lesson.

The Rector congratulated the ladies on the success of the annual meetings held last week. He reminded them of the special World Mission Service being held in the Cathedral Sunday evening to which all are invited.

The Red Cross convener reported most of the knitted articles had been turned in. The Junior Auxiliary held their closing meeting last Friday and the girls attended the family service on Sunday where a number received their stripes.

The Dorcas secretary was complimented on her display at the annual and has been asked to show the same at the Women's Church Year meeting. Donations for the hospital bale and parcel bags will be accepted. There will also be a school bale and an Arctic bale to be packed. Donations for a rummage sale next week will be appreciated.



The flower convener reported cards had been sent to several members.

The members all expressed their pleasure in our president, Mrs. Harry Smith being made a life member. A letter was read from Miss Curry, Diocesan Life Members' Secretary extending her greetings.

The corresponding secretary was requested to write a number of thank you notes in connection with the Annual.

The meeting was adjourned and tea was served.

ards of red and white divided diagonally and carrying a green maple leaf—decorated each of the Creditiste desks in the Commons.

Nicholas Mandziuk (PC—Marquette) drew official notice to them when he asked Mr. Pearson if he could identify the for sign symbols or flags displayed on the desks of some honourable members."

Mr. Mandziuk added that until Parliament abolishes the Red Ensign, no one had the right "to display any other rag in here."

"Monstrosity," cried another Conservative MP.

Mr. Caouette said MPs shouldn't insult each other.

SPEAKER COMMENTS

Speaker Alan Macnaughton said it wasn't general practice in the Commons to display flags, apples or tins of honey in the chamber.

He said it didn't behoove the Speaker of the House to act as a schoolmaster on all occasions. It was up to members "to act in accordance with their consciences as members who have taken the oath of allegiance."

In the Senate, Senator Jean-Francois Pouliot called for a distinctive Canadian flag featuring a single green maple leaf.

The background color didn't matter as long as it served to make the maple leaf stand out.

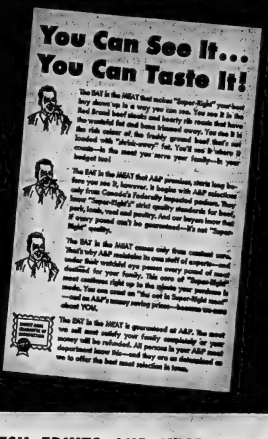
fain that Cyprus is not a NATO problem when it involves two NATO members—Greece and Turkey.

"The primary responsibility rests with the two Cypriot communities (Greek and Turkish) but what is needed now is that all possible pressure be brought to bear on them and their representatives to reach a peaceful settlement.

"This influence can especially be exerted by the two members of the alliance (Turkey and Greece) which have special relationships and responsibility for the two communities."

In urging the Greeks and Turks to compose their differences peacefully, Martin proposed that the NATO secretary general should be authorized to act as conciliator in the peace-making process.



Italy's Manlio Brosio replaces Dirk U. Stikker of the Netherlands as secretary-general. Stikker will retire in July.

Martin dealt with these other subjects:

Berlin—"The West needs to be active in advancing proposals on Berlin and not wait for something to happen."

East-West Trade—"If by encouraging conditions of trade with Eastern Europe we can contribute in even a small way to the development of new regimes more tolerant to the individual, less subservient to Moscow, then we surely are contributing to what should be a NATO objective in that area." Canada intends to develop such trade in non-strategic goods.

Moderates Become Concerned Goldwater Will Be Candidate

By HARRIE MARTLAND
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Moderate Republicans are becoming increasingly concerned that Senator Barry Goldwater, despite his arch - conservative politics, will be the Republican party's candidate for the U.S. presidency.

The handsome senator from Arizona seems to have, like young Lochinvar, ridden in from the west and got away with the goods.

The goods in this case being more real and potential votes from delegates to the national convention in San Francisco this July than any other candidate now in the field.

The latest Associated Press survey shows that of 701 delegates now chosen 386 will vote for Goldwater in the first ballot. Other surveys more than double the AP figures but include probable votes. To win he needs 653 of the possible 1,308.

Goldwater, whose political philosophy puts him in opposition to U.S. participation in the United Nations, the partial nuclear-test ban treaty and social security, failed his votes through state conventions and primaries.

Since announcing his intentions earlier this year he has criss-crossed the country piling up votes while more moderate Republicans, unable to unite behind a challenger have done little but stand in the wings and jeer.

They now seem to have awakened to the threat but it may be too late.

Like Goldwater, who according to public opinion polls has little popular support, potential moderate candidates have their disadvantages. But Goldwater has the votes, the others only disadvantages. They include:

New York Governor Nelson Rockefeller (divorced and remarried); Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge (in South Viet Nam and a late starter); former Minnesota governor Harold Stassen (an habitual loser);

Former vice-president Richard Nixon (he lost once before and this time has his mouth but not his hat in the ring); Maine Senator Margaret Chase Smith (a woman), and Pennsylvania Governor William Scranton (awaiting a call from "the people").

Goldwater's crucial test will come June 2 when California Republicans will indicate in their primary how they want their 86 delegates to vote. A win could swing him up to the magical 653 mark, a loss could wither his potential strength away.

LODGE TOO LATE

It is generally conceded Goldwater will not get Oregon's 18 delegates this Friday. Political observers believe these will go to Lodge, but they may come too late to do him much good.

Lodge is not entered in the California primary and a Goldwater win against Rockefeller, who, is, could induce the holdouts in other states to capitulate and flock to the Goldwater camp.

Even if he fails to get the nomination Goldwater would have considerable strength at the convention and could use it to dictate the nominee of his choice.

In that case he would probably back Nixon or Scranton which, while not a case of apostolic succession, would block those so-called liberals, as Goldwater calls them, Lodge and Rockefeller.

ENDORSE EFFORTS

SARNIA (CP)—Efforts to aid blind persons get into the teaching profession were endorsed by delegates attending the Canadian Council of the Blind, Ontario division conference Tuesday. Delegates supported a resolution which urges that qualified registered blind persons be employed as academic course teachers at the Ontario School for the Blind and that registered blind persons be allowed to attend teachers' colleges.

THREE OCTAVE CHIMES are one of the rarest musical instruments in the world. A Chicago firm brought them out about the turn of the century, but they were a commercial failure and few were made. Evangelist Frank R. Wellington of Toronto found these in New York State, and has incorporated them into a variety show he presents as part of a crusade for children. He plays them, in the picture, at Parkdale Baptist Church.

Opposition Attacks Findings Of Press Board's Report As 'Fatuous' and 'Verbiage'

CAPE TOWN (Reuters) — South Africa's press commission, which condemned most of the world press in a mammoth report Monday, raised a storm in Parliament Tuesday night.

Opposition members attacked its findings as "fatuous" and "verbiage" and demanded to know why the report was withheld from the cabinet prior to publication.

Mrs. Helen Suzman, Progressive member of Parliament, declared she had "seldom read anything more fatuous and more completely wasteful of time" than the commission's report.

It contained a "mountainous amount of verbiage" and she alleged that the original reason for the establishment of the commission was that the government of Premier Hendrik Verwoerd was "against the concept of freedom of expression."

It was "part and parcel of the cold war being waged in South Africa against the English-language press."

The commission had indulged in a "puerile task of sifting of thousands of words of cables with the object of classifying them as very bad, bad, faulty and good."

She declared: "There is nothing more calculated than this to make us the laughing stock of the civilized world."

Reading a list of "famous name" foreign correspondents condemned by the commission for bad reporting of South Africa, she referred to the "terrible spectre of the commission handing out conduct marks on these people."

Mrs. Suzman referred to British journalist and author Rebecca West, "one of the world's greatest writers," scene of "the top men from Reuters," top men from the London Daily Express, all of whom had been scrutinized by the commission as sending "bad" reports.

"These names," she declared, "will remain long after the names of the members of the press commission have been forgotten."

Nationalist member Blaar Coetzee shouted "downright liars."

Mrs. Suzman said Reuters was criticized for failing to report there was no desire among Bantu people for non - white groups to be admitted into white society.

She asked why it was then the government had been at pains to bring in legislation such as the group areas and riotous assembly acts—legislation designed for the specific purpose of keeping the races apart?"

Reuters, she said, again was criticized for selecting news that gave the impression Indians were discriminated against in South Africa.

"Are not Indians oppressed and discriminated against and has not this government brought this about?" she asked.

"Is it not false reporting to say that Indians are not discriminated against?

"Is this Reuters picture less accurate in any way than the glossy pamphlets given out overseas by our department of information depicting Indians living a happy life in this country?"

What was the "false reporting"—the reporting of Reuters or the government picture of the alleged happy life of the Indians? she asked.

Earlier Tuesday it was learned a watchdog committee proposed to promote "self-control and discipline" in South African newspapers was unlikely to be set up before next year, even if it gets government approval.

The proposal for a press council for "self-control and discipline" of press in South Africa was made Monday in a mammoth report handed Parliament by the commission.

The report also suggested that foreign correspondents in South Africa be made to file their cables through the head post office in Pretoria.

Father and Son Team Stages Professional-Quality Show In Interests of Evangelism

More than 600 children per night have been coming to Parkdale Baptist Church this week to see a variety show by a man who has no particular interest in the theatre. Rev. Frank R. Wellington plays an improbable collection of musical instruments, works a ventriloquism act with four dummies, tells stories with and without music, uses a flannelboard with such "magic effects" as coloured and ultra violet lights and uses movie and slide projectors all for one purpose — as part of evangelism. He has no interest in the theatre as such, he says, but he thinks that if theatrical methods are to be used to gain interest in religion, they should be of professional quality. For his children's crusade, Mr. Wellington has put together a one-hour act that would do credit to a vaudeville team.

Keith Wellington, 18, has no interest in the theatre as such but he has a minor passion for projection and special effects equipment. He travels with his father, handling the mechanical end of the show from a control panel he designed himself. At the back of the auditorium, Keith watches over two professional-quality movie projectors, (each has a selection of lenses and can use are lighting in big halls), a slide projector, a tape recorder and lighting for special effects. Now taking grade 13 by correspondence, he has been working with his father for a year and a half.

Mr. Wellington, a Baptist minister, began his crusade during 1948, working with films, filmstrips, simple musical instruments and one ventriloquist's dummy. As response to the act grew, the act grew to match it. Now it includes effects to beat music from a musical saw, musical glasses with colored lighting for special effects and a three-octave chimes.

Chimes, which the Wellingtons believe to be the only set in Canada, are the latest addition to the act. Built in Chicago about the turn of the century, the instrument never did catch on, and only a few were made. Their special feature is that each individual chime includes three notes, an octave apart. The Musical Bells, another evangelical team gave the set to the Wellingtons in New York State last August.

Travelling by car, the father and son team work out of a home in Toronto to cover the continent about once a year. A single trip may take up to three months, but the team may spend a month at home rehearsing and repairing equipment. In most centres, as in Belleville, the show goes on for one week. While they are on the road, father and son usually stay with members of the sponsoring churches . . . in Belleville, Harold Reddick is staying with Earl Nalsmith.

The quality and variety of the act implies a long-term devotion to the arts of the theatre, and the sixteen years Frank Wellington has spent with his show, bears out the implication. He insists, however, that the theatre is to him only a means to an end. The end, he says, is his crusade for children.

Worker Falls 145 Feet to His Death

TORONTO (CP)—A construction worker was killed and his partner left dangling at the end of a safety line when their scaffold tipped while they were working on the 13th floor of a building under construction in downtown Toronto.

Carlos Teles, 32, a native of Portugal, fell 145 feet to his death. Police said his safety rope was severed either by rubbing or being pinched.

His brother - in - law, Jose Horta, 25, another Portuguese immigrant, was hauled to safety by a man who smashed a window from inside the building to haul him to safety.

Women Will Obey All Police Orders Promptly

THE HAGUE — Mrs. C. B. Macpherson of Toronto and Mrs. Juliette Shapiro of Regina arrived at Amsterdam's Schiphol Airport Tuesday night to take part in a two-day women's anti-nuclear conference.

A spokesman for the Women Strike For Peace Committee said Tuesday night the women were admitted by the Dutch police. Both women had been put aboard a plane for London Monday following their arrival at Schiphol Airport, and immediately re-scheduled a return trip.

The spokesman said both Mrs. Macpherson and Mrs. Shapiro signed a declaration at Schiphol Airport at the request of the Dutch police in which they promised to obey promptly all police orders.

Tests Fail To Determine Cause of Death

TORONTO (CP)—Dr. Morton Shulman, metropolitan Toronto's chief coroner, said Tuesday night tests conducted in the attorney - general's laboratory have failed to determine the cause of death of a University of Toronto student found dead in his room last week.

Dr. Shulman said cause of the death of Wayne Bruce MacKenzie would have to be determined at inquest June 18, since laboratory tests were negative.

The 23-year-old student from Burlington, Ont., died last Thursday in his Victoria College residence following three weeks of studying and writing final examinations. At the time, Dr. Shulman and police said Mr. MacKenzie died of an overdose of drugs he had taken in an attempt to stay alert for extended periods of studying.

Dr. Shulman said it was known that Mr. MacKenzie had used pep pills containing meprobamate sulphate until a week before he died and chemists had been asked to look for the drug in their laboratory tests.

Man Charged With Wounding

TORONTO (CP)—Police Tuesday charged Gregory Szerwebko, 32, of nearby Markham with wounding after a man and an eight-year-old girl were injured by a rifle bullet Monday in Toronto.

Szerwesko turned himself in to police in Oshawa, 30 miles east, earlier in the day and was brought back to Toronto and charged.

Police said a contractor, was wounded in the [illegible] in front of his suburban Don Mills home. The bullet ricocheted and grazed the leg of Emily McLaughlin, who lives next door.

Police said the shooting followed a business disagreement.

B and B Commission Told Religion Major Cause of French-English Friction

Even if Quebec province decides to adopt French as its only language, Quebec Province Lawyers will still have to learn English because it is the business language of the entire North American continent, the royal commission on bilingualism and biculturalism was told Tuesday night.

This view, and others like it, were expressed in Rimouski—a centre of the lower St. Lawrence region 170 miles northeast of Quebec City where 98 per cent of the population of 20,000 is French origin.

Meanwhile in Moncton, N.B., a French-speaking Protestant minister told another session that religion is a major cause of French-English friction in Canada.

About 300 community leaders attended the evening session in Rimouski of five commission members when Co-Commissioner Andre Laurendeau, drew an estimated 300 participants in Moncton.

Optometrist Jean-Louis Desrosiers of Montreal, Que., told the Rimouski meeting that Quebec should consider becoming a unilingual province.

Quebecers have no objection to learning English on cultural grounds, he said, but are frustrating to have to learn it for economic survival.

Guy D'Aoust of Mont-Joli said Quebec might well become unilingual but this would not eliminate the need to learn English, North America's business language.

The Moncton protestant minister, Rev. Maurice Boillat, expressed concern over the close relationship between language and religion in Canada.

He said people object to learning English because of the history of the French-English relations with that of the Roman Catholic Church.

Mr. Boillat was challenged by Gerard Marcoux, chairman of the Rimouski group, who said there is strong resistance to Confederation in Quebec and "there is no love for the rest of Quebec than in any other part of Canada."

Dr. Leo Allanach, a member of the Moncton school board, said bilingualism in Canada is possible.

Prof. Charles Humphrey of Mount Allison University at Sackville, N.B., said "bilingualism in New Brunswick means the French can speak English."

In Rimouski, the commission touched on bilingualism in the federal civil service when engineer Benjamin Bonneau said there is discrimination against French-speaking workers.

Advancement in the armed forces hinges on knowledge of English, he said, and because all examinations are written in English.

Russell Keays, former Progressive Conservative member of Parliament for the Magdalen Islands, suggested that the three other provinces will begin to study their French-speaking minorities as well as Quebec treats its English-speaking minority.

Mr. Keays, the only participant to express an opinion in English, said Canadians must practise moderation if Canada is to celebrate its Confederation centennial in peace and harmony.

Wide Variety of Hospital Careers Open to Young Folk

This week is National Hospital Week and today, May 13, is National Hospital Day, a date chosen to coincide with the anniversary of the birth of Florence Nightingale who years ago laid the foundation of nursing service as it is known today.

But hospitals have come a long way since Florence Nightingale's time and in addition to nursing care, today provide a wide list of technical services aimed at speeding the recovery of the patient.

Nurses are still in short supply, but the modern day hospital operation has opened up a wide field of special career opportunities that beckon the ambitious person with a desire to help others in a position that provides "job satisfaction" which cannot be measured in terms of the weekly pay packet.

NEARLY PAR

In the past hospital salaries have been notoriously low. But that is now all in the past since World War II hospital salaries have climbed at a faster rate than in industry. In many instances hospital salaries are already on a part with industry.

The fact is that modern medicine demands highly skilled people and if hospitals are to provide the type of care demanded they have to compete in the labor market for the therapists, the technologists and other specialty qualified personnel.

One of the first hospital careers coming to mind is that of the registered nurse. No matter what her interests, a girl may find a satisfying and richly rewarding career in nursing. The profession offers a wide and varied field of opportunity.

MANY RANGES

Nursing opportunities within the hospital range from actual bedside care to teaching, administration and supervision.

Two of the prime requisites for a successful career in nursing are a spirit of service and a genuine interest in people. The student entering this profession must also be self reliant, dependable, patient, self-controlled, kind and resourceful.

The minimum educational requirement to enter training is the secondary school graduation diploma with grade XII, standing in chemistry and either grade XII physics or grade XIII botany or zoology or equivalent qualifications.

SOCIAL WORK

Another hospital career opportunity is that of the social worker, this profession being one of the most recent services to become established in hospitals and clinics. The social workers in a hospital is skilled in helping a patient and his family handle personal problems resulting from illness or disability. He or she works directly with the patient and his family and helps overcome the social, emotional or economic difficulties connected with the patient's illness.

MUST HAVE DEGREE

Qualifications for a skilled social worker call for a university degree in the liberal arts, while practically two years of post-graduate study in an accredited school of social work.

Another hospital career with wide opportunity is that of the laboratory technologist.

The medical laboratory technologist in a hospital aids the doctor in the diagnosis and treatment of diseases by performing the tests and experiments requested by the doctor and by working with materials which will be of use in the treatment and care of the patient.

As the use of the medical laboratory continues to increase, so also do the opportunities for the laboratory technologist on the supervisory and teaching level for the technologist with a sound background in the university sciences.

The minimum academic requirement for registration in this field is Grade XIII or its equivalent, including the completion of subjects of chemistry, either physics or biology (botany or zoology) and two mathematics.

RIVERS, Man. (CP)—Aid in instructor and a student were killed Tuesday when an RCAF Expediter aircraft crashed while practising two years of post-graduate study in an accredited school of social work.

Armed Forces Recruiting Drops Sharply

OTTAWA (CP) — Recruiting for the armed forces has dropped off alarmingly since the publication of the government's white Paper on defence in March, informed sources said Tuesday.

Figures for April recruiting will not be officially available until later this month but informants said there were extremely few applications in comparison with the 698 persons recruited in March.

Sources said the situation already has the defence department so worried that it prompted Defence Minister Hellyer to appeal for recruits in a Commons speech Friday.

Main reason for the big drop-off is the government's announcement that it is compulsorily retiring some 10,000 servicemen from jobs that will become superfluous with integration of the armed forces' command structure.

Navy recruiting had already fallen off after cancellation of the frigate program in November.

Over-all forces total strength at the end of March was 120,781

DISCONTENT INCREASING

Meanwhile, discontent is reported increasing in the ranks of forces over the amount of cash benefits the government will pay to those being compulsorily retired before normal retirement age.

Another reason for this discontent is that none of the 10,000 men will be let out apart from 300 RCAF aircrew officers, has yet been notified.

The benefits—the maximum is 10 months' pay for at least 15½ years' service—are subject to immediate income tax.

Informants said the average cash benefit for Canadians being retired will be about three months' pay according to rank.

An RCAF aircrew officer on short-term commission will receive a maximum of about $4,500 in cash benefits before taxes.

One informant said that a major being compulsorily retired with still seven years to serve will save the government $115,000, assuming he received full pension and lived until age 70.

SUSPEND AID

PARIS (AP) — France suspended aid in Tunisia Tuesday in reprisal for the North African country's nationalization of all foreign-owned land, most of it held by French citizens. The French said Tunisia violated an accord of March 2, 1963, under which most of the foreign owners were to be allowed possession until 1968.

Two other Expediters collided in mid-air during a training flight from the RCAF base at Portage La Prairie, Man., 30 miles away. Both pilots escaped with minor injuries.

Calgary Celebration

A Pan of Eggs Sparked 50 Years of Gasoline

By ED TREFIAK

CALGARY (CP)—Stacks of biscuit barrels overflowing with money, the pink glow of natural gas flares in the night sky and the imagination of a handful of pioneers will be retold May 22 when the Alberta petroleum industry celebrates its 50th birthday.

Size of the 2,000-guest dinner planned for the Stampede Corral is an indication of the growth of the industry since famed Dingman No. 1 well blew in at Turner Valley, 45 miles southwest of the city, May 14, 1914.

The anniversary celebration promises greater glamor and formality but less ingenuity than a legendary lunch said to have been prepared one bright afternoon in 1911 by rancher William Stewart Herron over the flame of a natural gas seepage on his Turner Valley property.

As a panful of eggs sizzled over the gas, Bill Herron expounded a theory that oil might be found beneath seepages on the banks of the Sheep River.

His argument caught the fancy of pioneer oilmen William Elder and A. W. Dingman, whose company already supplied Calgary with natural gas from a few wells near the city. The following year the three men joined to form Calgary Petroleum Products.

BACKED BY BENNETT

Backers included such Calgary notables as R. B. Bennett, later prime minister of Canada, Sir James Lougheed and rancher - businessman A. E. Cross.

Mr. Herron's part in Turner Valley development seemed about to evaporate one day in 1911 when Mayor J. W. Mitchell and an alderman drove down from Calgary into the acreage where seepage was most pronounced, hammered a wooden stake into the range land and declared all natural gas thereunder the property of the city.

Fortunately for Mr. Herron, the mayor neglected to follow up his expedition by purchasing mineral rights.

HISTORIC OIL WELL — Alberta's oil industry this month celebrates its 50th birthday. Start of the oil boom in the province came when this well, Dingman No. 1, blew in at Turner Valley, 45 miles from Calgary, May 14, 1914.—(CP Photo)

Mr. Herron sold part of his ranch and bought mineral rights on 7,000 acres for his family and Michael Stoos, a friend and neighboring farmer on whose property Dingman No. 1 was drilled.

In 1912, Calgary Petroleum Products hauled wood, pipe and tools to the bank of the river a few hundred yards downstream from the seepage where Mr. Herron had held his egg fry.

A wood derrick was built, and Mr. Elder took charge of cable tool drilling.

In steel bit chinked down into the limestone structure, reaching a depth of 2,700 feet at the beginning of May, 1914. Then the well blew.

CALGARY GOES WILD

About 4,000,000 cubic feet of "wet" natural gas a day gushed from the well, accompanied by light-gravity crude oil.

Drilling stopped. The high-grade crude was loaded into barrels and taken to Calgary. The city became a festive bedlam. Speculative companies multiplied until there were about 500. Drug stores, grocery shops, doctors' waiting rooms and auctioneers' halls were impromptu brokerage offices where money was tossed casually into biscuit barrels and cardboard boxes in exchange for stocks.

The financial muddle soon unscrambled sufficiently for laborers and clerks who had poured their life savings into shares to realize gold would not flow for everyone.

One oil historian says only about 50 of the companies ever drilled for oil.

Speculation began to taper off, and Calgary Petroleum Products decided to pound No. 1 to greater depths. A new, 1,000,000-cubic-feet-a-day flow of wet gas was encountered at the 3,-000 foot level. Passed through a separator, the gas produced medium-gravity crude oil.

Raw gas from the well was used by Mr. Dingman and his crew in their cars. Mrs. Philip E. Berkovich, who came to Turner Valley with her first husband Marty Hovis, driller of Dingman No. 1, said the raw gas imparted new vigor to the local tin lizzies and runabouts.

OVERPOWERING ODOR

"But there was one trouble," she said. "If we were away from town and gas station people opened the tank there would be a stink they'd step back. 'Oh, you're from Turner Valley,' they'd say. We were used to the smell and didn't notice it."

Sulphur - tinged atmosphere wasn't the only thing to which Mrs. Berkovich and other housewives of Turner Valley had to adjust.

There were the tourists, the blast - furnace roar of flares burning gas left over from the crude oil separation process, and the vagaries of unpredictable gas stoves that drew their fuel directly from the wellhead.

"Sometimes the gas came on a little too fast when I was boiling and sometimes it wasn't there at all when I needed it," Mrs. Berkovich says. The stove-top flame would change without warning from a low simmer to the proportions of a bonfire.

Tourists caused almost as much trouble as stoves. They descended on the valley in droves with their children and picnic baskets, attracted by the romance and promise of the discovery and the flow of flares that illuminated night skies as far away as Calgary.

VISITED BY DUKE

Most famous tourist to visit the valley in 1914 was undoubtedly the governor - general of Canada, the Duke of Connaught, who came with his family and pitched a huge tent across the road from the Hovis house.

Like other sightseers, the Duke and his entourage filled small bottles with oil samples from the well.

"They all washed their gloves in the naphtha gas coming from the well, too," said Mrs. Berkovich. "But I doubt that they kept those gloves for very long."

Visitors sometimes would ask brilliant fan.

If it was permissible to get close to a gas flare, nobody ever stopped them, but with heat like that they didn't get too close.

In calm weather gas flares would zip about 300 feet straight up into the air, with the flame about the diameter of a car tire. Under windy conditions, the fire would spread into a

MR. TWEEDY by Ned Riddle

"Something tells me I should have bought exterior plywood."

The most famous flare was dubbed Hell's Hf-Acre.

Now overgrown with brush and almost forgotten, the flare site still shows effects of its man - directed holocaust on wasted gas. Rock behind the site is still seared red, and solidified puddles of rock melted by the intense heat still line small depressions in the ground.

DERRICK IS GONE

The flare pit is not the only item of Alberta's oil heritage that has slipped into limbo. Dingman No. 1 is a pipe and three valves sticking bleakly up from an aging wood platform behind a sulphur bagging machine at the Royalite Oil Company Limited refinery in Turner Valley. A small sign identifies it as Royalite well No. 1.

Bill Herron's natural stove still seeps gas back of the refinery along the Sheep River bank. But the fissure is unimpressive and unmarked; just a small patch of bare, greasy ground bounded by a rusty wire fence with signs that warn: "Danger. Keep Out."

Dingman No. 1 derrick is long since gone, but a replica is to be built in Calgary's Heritage Park. It will be the only impressive and easily accessible reminder of a discovery which, while it was insignificant in the light of later finds, began shaping the history and the economy of Alberta.

BRIEFTLE REPORTS

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Havana radio made its first mention Tuesday of current Cuban scandle reports that some sort of action against Premier Fidel Castro is brewing, and belittled the accounts. The broadcast, monitored here, gave this editorial from the Cuban Communist organ, Hoy: "In Miami, the North American wire agencies persist in their reports that the counter-revolutionaries are getting ready for new attacks. They waste mountains of paper in wire reports . . ."

3 Well Known Men of County, Town Die

PICTON (Staff) — Three well known men of the county and Picton have passed away during the past week. Herbert H. Rose, of R.R. 4 Picton passed away April 25th in his 85th year. He had been ill for six weeks.

Mr. Rose served for two years, back in 1926-27 as Reeve of North Marysburg Township. He was secretary-treasurer of S.S. 5 North Marysburg for 25 years.

Also on April 28th, Donald Alexander Baxter, well-known plumber of Picton passed away. He had lived all of his 50 years in Prince Edward County.

Following an illness of only ten days, Eugene Gibson passed away in the Prince Edward County Memorial Hospital on May 1.

He was widely known as manager of the United Canners canning factory at Consecon. His home was in Bloomfield. in earlier years he worked at the Picton Gazette office, with Canadian Canners, Benson Canning Co., Metcalfe Foods in Deseronto and the Sun-Joy Foods of Bloomfield.

Outlet Park Open to Public On Friday

PICTON (Staff)—The Outlet Provincial Park officially opens for the 1964 season on Friday, May 15.

Park Superintendent, Robert Davison, reports that all fees will remain the same as last year. In other words, if you plan on visiting any provincial park you would be well advised to pay the annual fee of $3 which allows entrance to any of the many parks throughout Ontario. The daily entrance fee is 50c, so the seventh trip, and all succeeding ones are "on the house" if you purchase the annual pass.

The park's third big camping area has been completed according to Mr. Davidson. This third area is situated near the entrance to the park and adds 135 sites to the camping areas, making an impressive total of 400 sites available. Camping fee remains at one dollar per day.

The refreshment booth, run by Ken Harwood of Toronto, will be open for the weekend trade only, until the middle of June, when it will be operated on a daily basis.

SENTENCE SUSPENDED

HAMILTON (CP) — George Reid Flemming, 33, of Sherman North, who abducted a policeman at gunpoint last June, was given a suspended sentence Tuesday. Flemming was put on two years probation with an 11 p.m. curfew and warned not to drink. Flemming was charged with "forcible confinement" after he used a toy gun to force police constable Ernest Kennish to turn over his service revolver and to drive him to a lonely spot.

Two Special Services in Anglican Church

PICTON (Staff) — There will be two special services at the Church of St. Mary Magdalene on Sunday at 8 a.m. and 11 a.m. Both will be services of Holy Communion to permit members to make their Communion on the Feast of Pentecost, Whit-Sunday, which is the birthday of the Christian Church. This is a day of obligation, like Christmas and Easter for Anglicans.

TREES IN BLOOM

Cherry orchards on the Scotchbarts Road and Highway 14 at Mount Pleasant are in full bloom — a mass of fragrant white. This is well worth a drive to see the blossoms.

Park Entry, Camping Fees Are Unchanged

PICTON (Staff) — Preliminary remarks by Hon. Kelso Roberts, Minister of Lands and Forests for Ontario, before presentation of estimates for that department on May 6 contained the following:

"Travel with me for a moment down to Prince Edward County, near Wellington in the East, and I will show you a great length of sand banks owned by the Crown and now about to be developed into a vast day use bathing area.

"Highway 401 makes this area readily accessible from places as far away as Metro Toronto for a day's outing or more.

"The scenic beauty of Prince Edward County will come to be appreciated more and more as this development proceeds.

"These are but a few of the wonders that will be for future generations in this Province.

"Despite heavy current commitments for property acquisition, I am glad to be able to say that there will be no change in park entry and camping fees in Provincial Parks in 1964. Our revenues from these sources now take care of some 70 per cent of operating costs. Ultimately, these parks should be self-sustaining for operation."

Casual Labor To Get Work on New Projects

PICTON (Staff) — Figures released by the National Employment Office here, show that the level of unemployment as of the end of April was almost the same as the same date in 1963.

The end of the month saw 236 male and 127 female workers a total of 363 unemployed registered for work at the local office on the second floor of the Post Office.

April 30th 1963 figures show 246 males and 118 females for a total of 363 unemployed.

This marks the first time in several months that the two sets of figures have been so close. The 1964 figures have been running a good margin below those of 1963.

It is expected that with spring really here and the hospital and the new church being erected that some casual labor will be taken up by these projects.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Don't look now but this city may have a representative at the Olympic Games in Tokyo in October.

That is providing there is not a last-minute change of heart on the part of the powers-that-be as happened when this athlete was supposed to represent Canada at the world games in Stockholm not so long ago.

He is John Lewis, Belleville's national middleheavyweight weight-lifting champion who not too long ago was named Canada's outstanding Indian athlete.

And providing, of course, that John wins the spot at the Olympic trials and Canadian championships scheduled for Ottawa on June 20.

The modest twenty-one-year-old champion has set his sights on a place on Canada's Olympic team—and if he fails to make it, it will not be because of lack of desire and training. It is his big chance and John realizes it.

And in view of this corner's reputation as a "picker of winners" I'm not going to jinx John and predict he will realize his trials ambitions.

I understand that Coach Ken Carr-Brant of the Belleville Apollo Club has John in tip-top condition and undergoing a rigid training schedule.

This was proven recently when Carr-Brant took two of his best lifters (both Canadian champions) to an invitational contest in Ottawa recently.

The two city champions were included in ten of the best "lifters" in Ontario who competed for a handsome trophy.

You guessed it. John Lewis came back with the award and was not extended to win it. With him was youthful Price Morris, who, it was recently announced, is the new Canadian junior champion with record lifts of 390-255-330 for a titular total of 870 pounds.

Lewis won the invitational competition trophy with a 395 press, 255 snatch and 355 clean and jerk for a total of 935. This is well below his Canadian record mark of 985.

Both boys, I understand, will go to Ottawa for the Olympic trials. Canada's weightlifting team will consist of three members and Carr-Brant has high hopes that Lewis will make the team. Even as you, I and Belleville.

Lewis' competition should stand him in good stead. Even at 21 years he has competed in outstanding tournaments, such as the Pan American Games at Sao Paulo, Brazil, where he won a bronze medal for his country and at the North American Tournament held in Trenton last year, where he retained his Canadian championship.

Lewis was a keenly disappointed young man when after he was picked for Canada's team to compete at Stockholm, the trip was cancelled at the last minute, because the "brass" said, there was no money allotted for the expenses of the weightlifting team.

More power to his muscles!

OMISSION, SO SORRY!

Due to an oversight, or something, the name of Mr. Thomas M. Somers, was omitted from the list of pilot graduates in the story of the graduation exercises of the Bay of Quinte Power Squadron. Newspapermen are human, and as such, are liable to err, especially after tucking away a generous supply of delicious turkey and the trimmings.

GET WELL CARDS

Heart disease, that satellite of the Dark Destroyer, has been bestowing its attention on the realm of sport of late.

It struck at the Ontario Hockey Association when it took the life of Bob Watts, an executive member and late word has it that Jim Crombie, newly-elected executive member and well known here as a hockey referee is in Bowmanville Hospital suffering with a seizure.

Jack Elliott, senior, has been hospitalized following an attack a few weeks ago and late reports have it that Jack is recovering and will be able to sit up soon.

Jack has been a well known figure in sports here for a number of years and was always popular with teammates and foes alike. Sportsmen here wish both Jack and Jim a speedy return to health.

Mays, Marichal Top Killers ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Giants' Pair 'Double M-For-Murder'

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

It's rough enough to cope with either Willie Mays or Juan Marichal by himself. But when San Francisco starts toting around two-some get together it's downright impossible.

Mays and Marichal persecuted Houston Colts Tuesday night as the Giants breezed to a 5-0 victory. It was Marichal's sixth victory in as many decisions, trimming his earned-run average to 1.76, and his second straight shutout.

Mays, who leads the National League in practically everything offensively, ran his average to an astronomical .676 with his 12th and 13th homers and a single in five trips, driving in four runs.

In the seven games Marichal has started, Mays had 18 hits in 28 at bats with seven home runs, 16 runs batted in and a .643 average.

It is also a fact that Mays would have to go hitless in his next 35 at bats for his average to drop to a respectable .301. And by the time Mays gets 53 more swings, how many National Leaguers will still be hitting .301?

As for Marichal, the veteran right-hander who won 25 games last year is 12 days ahead of the pace he set in 1963 when he didn't get his sixth game until May 24. And the seasons started a week later this year.

DEAN LAZY WITH 24

For the record the last .400 hitter was Ted Williams in 1941 with .406. The last 30-game winner was Dizzy Dean in 1934 with 30-7. Modern baseball has never had a .400 hitter and 30-game winner on the same club.

In other NL games Tuesday, Milwaukee Braves blanked New York Mets 2-0 behind Frank Fischer's three - hitter; Pittsburgh Pirates nipped Cincinnati Reds 3-2 in a four hour, rain-interrupted marathon; St. Louis Cardinals topped Philadelphia Phillies 4-2 behind Curt Simmons; and Chicago Cubs nipped Los Angeles Dodgers 3-2 as Dick Tracewski's ninth-inning error.

Mays' three hits extended his batting streak to 19 games. After flying out in the first inning he battered Houston starter Skinny Brown for a double number in the third and a two-run shot in the fifth. His seventh-inning single also drove in a run.

Marichal allowed just five hits and retired 16 in a row over one stretch while winning his 12th straight over a two - season stretch.

Milwaukee's Fischer faced just 29 batters and got all the runs he needed when rookie Rico Carty cracked his first major league homer against Met starter Al Jackson.

THOMAS HIT DOUBLE

The Braves' right hander retired the first 12 batters he faced before Frank Thomas' fifth-inning double broke the spell. That was as far as any Met got all night.

Cincinnati's Jim Maloney pitched four perfect innings before rain interrupted the Pirates-Reds game at Pittsburgh. After a 1½-hour wait, play was resumed, and Maloney quickly lost his no-hitter and shutout when Smoky Burgess singled and ex-Red Gene Freese homered to tie it 2-2.

After the 25-minute delay, the Pirates won it without a hit in the eighth on an error, a fielder's choice and two walks off Maloney.

Curt Simmons beat the Phillies for the 12th time in 16 decisions since they released him four years ago but needed eighth-inning help from Roger Craig to do it.

Leading 4-1, Simmons gave up a single to Tony Gonzales and Danny Carter with one out in the eighth. Craig came on and after Gus Triandos' double delivered one run, the lanky Cardinal retired the side and blanked the Phils in the ninth to save it.

Tracewski fumbled pinch-hitter Joey Amalfitano's grounder with two out and the bases loaded in the bottom of the ninth to give Chicago its victory over the stumbling Dodgers.

Twins Head For New Homer Mark

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)—Minnesota Twins of 1964 may be the most home run happy team in the history of baseball.

At their current pace the Twins would hit 306 this season to shatter easily the major league record of 240 set by the 1961 New York Yankees.

Minnesota has belted 42 out of the park in 23 games, and every regular except shortstop Zoilo Versalles has hit at least three.

An amazing part of the early spurt is that American League home runs king Harmon Killebrew is suffering through probably the worst slump of his career. He has hit four homers but is batting only .167.

Jimmie Hall, who last year broke Ted Williams' record for homers by a Major League rookie with 33, is setting the pace for the Twins this spring. He's already got eight.

Close behind are sensational rookie Tony Oliva—the league's top batter at .441—and Bob Allison with seven each.

Four more Twins who have hit four apiece are Rich Rollins, Don Mincher, Earl Battey and Killebrew. Bernie Allen has three.

Batting—Willie Mays, Giants, hit 12th and 13th homers, added single and drove in four runs, extending his hitting streak to 19 games and lifting his batting average to .676 in San Francisco's 5-0 victory over Houston Colts.

Pitching—Dave McNally, Orioles, checked Washington on two hits for third victory against one loss as Baltimore whipped Senators 5-0.

Horsemen Think So "Hill Rise" Preakness Favorite ?

BALTIMORE (AP)—Hill Rise, who lost the Kentucky Derby by a neck in the sole of the favorite, probably will be the public's choice again Saturday when he hooks up with Derby winner Northern Dancer and four other three-year-olds in the 89th running of the Preakness at Pimlico.

Horsemen expressed opinion on the probably favorite Tuesday after watching the long striding colt from the El Peco Ranch put in his final prep with a 1:40 1-5 clocking for a mile. He galloped out the 1¼ miles in 1:54 1-5.

The workout compared with the relatively slow 1:42 3-5 performance of Northern Dancer in his final work Monday and the brisk 1:38 3-5 by The Scoundrel on Sunday.

Hill Rise's workout completed the serious preparations for the Preakness field. Roman Brother and Quadrangle will be the other Derby starters in the field, which starts from second, fifth, respectively, in the classic at Louisville.

The probable field was increased by one when trainer Bernie Bond announced Tuesday that Harry T. Ballo's Big Pete would be entered in the 1 3-16-mile Preakness.

With six starters, the second leg of the Triple Crown, which also includes the Derby and Belmont Stakes, will be worth $176,700 with $134,300 going to the winner.

Softball Opens Tonight!

Two exhibition games will help pry the lid off the softball season here tonight, one in the Belleville and District league and another between Commercial league clubs.

Trudeau Motors and Elks Juniors, of the E. and D. loop will clash in a 6.30 tilt at the CNRA Park. Both clubs will be working most of their players into the lineups in preparation of the schedule's opening games next week.

Monzwville, in Point Anne, the Cementmen, back in the Commercial loop after a year's absence, will play host to Berridge Landscapers in another 7.30 game. These clubs will also open schedule play next week.

Bisons Nip Richmond, Suns Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Last season Duke Carmel got into 104 games in the National League without exactly setting it on fire. New York Mets, who had acquired him from St. Louis Cardinals in mid - season, decided he wasn't ready.

Now he may be worth another look. The 27-year-old first baseman, who hit only four homers all last year, has five in 19 games for Buffalo Bisons. That's just one short of the International League lead.

Carmel unloaded a two run blast against Richmond Virginians Tuesday night that proved to be the difference in the Bisons' 5-4 victory. It was his second in two nights and only the third Buffalo fans have seen their heroics hit this season.

Jacksonville Suns handed Syracuse Chiefs their fourth straight setback in a 2 - 1 squeaker and Rochester Red Wings downed the tail-end Atlanta Crackers 6-4 in the other games played. Toronto Maple Leafs and Columbus Jets had the night off.

BOXING UNION URGED

ACCRA, Ghana (AP) — The Ghanian Times, organ of the government party, Tuesday called for an African boxing union as an aftermath to the controversial Floyd Robertson-Sugar Ramos featherweight championship fight here Saturday. Ring officials awarded Ramos a split decision after the 15 round bout Saturday but the Ghana boxing authority later reversed the decision and declared Robertson the new champion.

Wondrous Willie Sights New Marks

Blazing Start

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP)—The odds against Willie Mays hitting .400 this year are about 400 to 1 but it is surprising how many knowledgeable baseball people think San Francisco Giants' superb center fielder may accomplish the seemingly impossible.

Ted Williams, the last major leaguer to reach that magic pinnacle, has always maintained the .400 figure will be reached again. In a recent interview he picked Mays, Henry Aaron, Al Kaline and Mickey Mantle as those capable of doing it.

"The fellow who hits .400 must get off to a blazing start," said Williams, who batted .406 with Boston's Red Sox in 1941. "Then he must avoid a long batting slump.

"He must get the breaks and he must have speed afoot. You've got to get your share of infield hits to keep that average up.

"The year I batted .388, (1957) I didn't get a single leg hit, if I had been able to beat out six infield hits, I would have hit .400 again."

NONE STARTED AS WELL

Not even Williams in his .406 season got off to such a flying start as Mays this season. After his first 20 games in 1941, Williams was hitting .375. Willie, for the same period, was more than 100 points higher.

Stan Musial, perhaps the greatest of all National League hitters, thinks Mays has a chance.

"Common sense tells you that nobody, no matter how great a hitter he is, will hit .400 in this day and age," said Musial, whose highest average was .376 in 1948. "But if anybody can do it, Mays is the man.

"Willie is an extraordinary streak hitter and, who knows, he might just streak right through the season."

One of the least surprised by Mays' remarkable early season hitting is Jackie Robinson, a National League batting champ with .342 in 1949.

"A fellow asked me last winter about Mays and I told him that, in my opinion, Willie hadn't yet reached his peak," said the former Brooklyn Dodger star. "I've always felt that Mays had the qualifications to be the next .400 hitter."

Mays' bat literally has been aflame since opening day. Through the first month of the campaign Handsome Willie hit a scorching .481. He has hit safely in all but one of his 22 games and through Tuesday's game he had connected safely at least once in 19 consecutive games.

Mays has had good starts before but never like this. Two years ago he had four home runs in his first seven games. But this year 13 of his first 42 hits were home runs.

When Roger Maris of New York Yankees hit his record 61 home runs in 1961, he did not get No. 13 until his club's 62nd game. Babe Ruth hit his 13th homer in his 30th game when he set the record of 60 in a 154-game season in 1927.

McNally, 21, Second To Toss Shutout

Orioles' "Chuckin Chicks" Picks Of Nest

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Are the chuckin' chicks—Dave McNally and Wally Bunker—ready to replace the kiddie corps as the meat of Baltimore's pitching staff?

McNally, at 21 the senior of the Orioles' fledgling threesome, joined Bunker in the shutout circle Tuesday night by limiting Washington Senators to two hits in a 5-0 Baltimore victory.

It was McNally's third victory against a single loss and his first shutout since he made his major league debut with a two-hit job, Sept. 26, 1962. Bunker made his big league bow a week ago and pitched a one-hit shutout.

McNally, a left hander, and Bunker, 19, a right hander, now have accounted for five of the Orioles 14 victories while the three remaining members of the kiddie korps — Steve Barber, Chuck Estrada and Milt Pappas —have one victory among them.

McNally, who was 7-8 last year in his first full season, allowed the Senators only a first-inning double by Chuck Hinton and a scratch single by pinch-hitter Fred Valentine in the sixth. McNally walked three and struck out one.

In other sharp pitching performances, Detroit's Mickey Lolich set down New York Yankees with three hits for a 7-2 Tiger victory, Jim Kaat allowed only four hits while Minnesota Twins pounded 15 in an 11-1 walloping of Chicago White Sox and John O'Donoghue and John Wyatt collaborated on a two-hitter as Kansas City Athletics defeated Los Angeles Angels 2-1. Cleveland Indians edged Boston Red Sox 6-5 in the other games on the full American League program.

The Orioles used two of their five stolen bases to advantage in a two-run first against Washington starter Dave Stenhouse before Boog Powell took care of the rest of the scoring with a three-run homer in the third.

Luis Aparicio stole three bases and Willie Kirkland two. Each pilfered second base in the first inning and wound up scoring.

Lolich, now 3-1, gave up a two-run homer to Hector Lopez in the first inning, then set the Yankees down without difficulty, snapping New York's five-game winning streak and ending the Tigers' five-game losing string.

Willie Horton drove in two runs for Detroit with a pair of triples and Don Wert collected three hits, including a two-run double as the Tigers moved ahead to stay in the eighth inning.

Kaat, 3-1, did not allow the White Sox a hit after the third inning and retired 13 men in order at one stretch. Dave Nicholson's second-inning home run accounted for the Chicago run.

HITS NINTH HOMER

The Twins' offensive included Jimmie Hall's ninth homer and four hits each by Don Mincher and Zoilo Versalles. Mincher, playing first with Harmon Killebrew benched, hit his fifth home run and collected three singles. Versalles drove in three runs with two doubles and two singles.

O'Donoghue weathered four Kansas City errors—three by Wayne Causey — but needed Wyatt's relief help in the eighth inning. Wayatt finished up without allowing the Angels a hit.

The Athletics broke a 2-2 tie in the seventh when Causey redeemed himself by driving in a run with a single.

That tagged Ken McBride with the loss, his sixth since an opening-day triumph.

The Indians blew a 4-0 lead. Ilet it 5-5 on Woodie Held's homer in the sixth, then moved ahead to stay in the eighth on Larry Brown's sacrifice fly with the bases loaded off ace Red Sox reliever Dick Radatz.

Boston had climbed back from the 4-0 deficit on homers by pitcher Bob Heffner, Eddie Bressoud and Dalton Jones.

Ont. Curling Body Ups Fees

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario curlers will have to dig deeper into their pockets next season.

Delegates to the annual meeting of the Ontario Curling Association decided Tuesday to increase the annual fee of its 33,791 members to $1 from 50 cents.

Leon Sykes, secretary-treasurer of the association, reported an overall surplus of $53,000—a deficit of $2,400.

Gordon Jones, chairman of the finance committee, who proposed the increase in membership dues, said it would put the association "on a healthy financial basis." He predicted a $35,000 expenditure for the coming seven-month curling season.

Delegates voted unanimously to allow each rink entering OCA competitions next season to name one substitute prior to each contests. In case of mixed competitions, each rink will be allowed to name both a male and female substitute.

H. Aylmer Elliot of Galt was named president of the association for the 1964-65 season, succeeding Brainard Carlyle of Toronto.

Other members of the executive are Dr. L. W. C. Sturgeon, Welland, first vice-president; Ross Tarlton, Hamilton, second vice-president; Carl E. Leishman Kingston third vice-president; W. J. R. Bennett, Woodstock, fourth vice - president; Leon Sykes, Toronto, secretary-treasurer.

Oshawa will be the site of the 1965 Ontario schoolboy championship, starting Jan. 16. The provincial will be played next February in Coburg.

FAST PRACTICE DRIVE

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Bobby Marshman drove his Hopkins Lotus-Ford around the Indianapolis Speedway Tuesday to an unofficial record of 157.178 miles an hour. The Speedway accepts only records made in the 500-mile race and in the qualifying trials. Parnelli Jones set the record in trials last year before he won the 500.

BC Premier Happy Over Coliseum

VANCOUVER (CP) — Mayor William Rathie said Tuesday an even Premier Bennett of British Columbia is enthusiastic about a proposal to build an $8,000,000 downtown coliseum here.

Stafford Smythe, president of the Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League, offered to build a 20,000-seat coliseum if the city will donate the land.

Mayor Rathie said he discussed the offer by telephone with Smythe Tuesday. The offer seemed to be a real business-like deal," and Smythe will fly west for further discussions in two weeks, he said.

Earlier Tuesday, Smythe reiterated an offer of a free tract of land in suburban Burnaby for the coliseum.

"Arenas depend on 10 per cent of their support from transients living in hotels, and a $6 taxi ride is no good to them," he said.

ST. LAMBERT, Que. (CP)—Two years ago, St. Lambert's track and field promoters began wrestling with a perplexing problem.

It arose after the city and Royal Canadian Legion branch 88 decided to build a track and field park incorporating every modern technique.

The question was whether to build an asphalt track, knowing that any world records set on it wouldn't be recognized, or to put down a traditional cinder track that would be harder to maintain but would qualify for international recognition.

The promoters went to various persons for advice, including Lt.-Col. Jack Davies, an engineer and also Canada's representative on the International Amateur Athletic Federation, governing body of world track and field.

Told that the group had been approached about using a commercial asphalt mixture for the running track, Davies said:

"I'm warning you now; world or national records set on anything but a conventional cinder track won't be recognized by the world governing body."

"This bit of advice really shook us," says Ed Ruthven, a Legion member of the track committee. "We spent a lot of days and nights discussing this. There was a great deal of controversy and some frayed temperers."

Presently, the committee decided to install the commercial mixture. The asphalt track is much like an ordinary road surface but more resilient. Athletes wear the short pin spikes used on boards at indoor meets rather than the customary ½-inch outdoor spikes.

Deciding on the asphalt track was "a decision not taken lightly," Ruthven says.

When Davies heard about it he was strongly critical. "This is foolish. It's silly. I can't understand what they're doing."

He said the IAAF stand won't change in the forseeable future because all European track powers "are 100 per cent against it."

About the same time the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada released the result of a poll of its provincial branches showing the majority in favor of the IAAF refusal to recognize records set outdoors on any but cinder tracks.

The Quebec Track and Field Association, an AAU member, backed St. Lambert, announcing it would recognize any records set on the asphalt track. But this was feeble support.

SITE OF TRIALS

Before the controversy blew up, St. Lambert had been awarded the 1964 Canadian Olympic trials. There was some fear that the fuss might result in a change of venue.

However, N. A. Beach of Toronto, national AAU chairman, assured St. Lambert that it would get the trials. They'll be held Aug. 7-8, the official opening of the $100,000 park.

James K. Stewart, the alderman representing the city on the track building committee, wondered what all the controversy was about anyway. He said only three world outdoor records have been set in Canada in 20 years, all by Vancouver sprinter Harry Jerome.

"There is a trend toward non-traditional type tracks," he said. "We are constructing this track as a municipal facility to help train youngsters in track and field."

Stewart noted that there are about 160 non-traditional tracks in the United States, 53 of which are made of the same material as St. Lambert's.

EASY TO MAINTAIN

Construction of St. Lambert's Seaway Park Track and Field Centre is due to be completed in mid-June. The Legion is paying $55,000 of the cost. There will be seating for 3,500 with room for additional seats. Track maintenance cost will be nil as compared with the $1,000 to $2,000 needed to keep a cinder track in shape each year.

Hugh McMillan, a Toronto architect and former track athlete recommended by Davies as a consultant, examined the proposed site—land reclaimed from the St. Lawrence River — and approved it.

Soil tests were carried out on the rock and rubble fill and, Stewart said, they showed a serious drainage problem, one that could be solved most easily with an asphalt-type surface. It would be waterproof and usable eight months of the year.

"But there was more to it than just that," says Ian Hume, chairman of the St. Lambert Community Sports Association. "Our idea was to give athletes the best possible track on which to run. There was no feeling that we were going to deprive athletes of any records."

"There's a safety angle, too," says Stewart. "Youngsters using rubber-soled shoes have a tendency to slip and fall on a cinder track but they will have more footing on asphalt. "Also athletes using spikes, while they don't slip on cinder, will have surer and more uniform footing on this surface."

THE Arnold Palmer METHOD

DRIVE AWAY FROM TROUBLE

Most golfers cannot count on a straight tee shot most of the time. Yet, these same players fail to take heed to an important golf maxim when they drive on holes guarded by trouble. This means be "Always drive away from trouble."

In other words, tee up on the side of the tee that is closest to the trouble. If you see rough or out-of-bounds on the right, drive from the right side of the tee. However, aim for the center of the fairway, rather than down the right side. That, a sliced shot will have to bend or a much sharper angle to reach the trouble than it would have to if you had hit straight down the fairway from the middle of the tee.

The opposite holds true when there is trouble on the left. Drive from the left side of the tee and aim for the middle, rather than down the left side.

Remember: Always shoot away from trouble.

Yankee Outfield

Just "Interchangeable Parts"

DETROIT (CP)—There is no such thing as an infielder or an outfielder on the New York Yankees' roster any more—just a clubhouse full of interchangeable parts.

The roster says there are five outfielders on the club. So far, manager Yogi Berra has used nine different men in the outfield. Joe Pepitone is supposed to be the only first baseman. Three have played the bag so far.

Of course, Berra doesn't platoon just for the fun of it or to prove his cerebral capacity. As long as they are healthy, Mickey Mantle stays in centre, Roger Maris in right, Tom Tresh in left, Tony Kubek at short and Pepitone at first.

The trouble is they haven't been healthy. Only Bobby Richardson at second base and Clete Boyer at third have played every day.

"These guys are really something," said Berra before Tuesday night's game with Detroit. "I'm lucky I've got them with all the injuries we've had.

"I thought last year's team was the most versatile I ever saw but this one is even more so. Maybe it's because it is more important to me now because I am the manager.

The Yanks' regular line up has started only once all season. It lasted less than three innings before injuries struck Sunday.

Last year the regulars started only nine times, including one game after the pennant was clinched. Yet the Yanks breezed home by 10½ games.

Ontario Open

OGA Exempts 85 Golfers

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Golf Association announced Tuesday it has exempted 85 professionals and amateurs from the qualifying round of the Ontario Open golf championship at suburban Islington June 25-27.

There is $3,000 in prize money to be won, including top prize of $1,200 and the top three professionals in the tournament will win starting place in the first world tournament at Detroit's Oakland Hills Course Aug. 27-30.

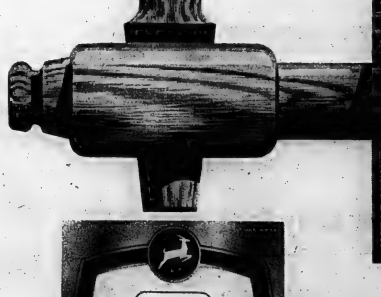
The remaining 65 in a starting field of 150 will be selected in an 18-hole qualifying round at Islington June 23.

In another announcement Tuesday, the association said that every amateur must present at the first tee a handicap certified within 30 days of any sanctioned tournament. The card must be attested by either a club secretary, a club captain or the chairman of the handicap committee.

D. J. Donovan, OGA public relations director, said the new rule will be strictly enforced.

Leafs Get Two Players

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Maple Leafs of the International League Tuesday acquired an option on catcher Ken Retzer and purchased pitcher Howie Koplitz from Washington Senators of the American League.



The Senators had acquired Koplitz, 26, from Detroit Tigers. He was with Syracuse of the International League in 1963 and had a record of seven wins and eight losses.

Retzer, who has been with Washington since 1962, had been 1-10 this season. He hit .243 in 95 games with the Senators last year.
